

GREETINGS FROM THE PRESIDENT

Each new college year is a beginning. For our freshman students, it represents the start of a college career which can be most satisfying and rewarding. To our returning students, the new college year offers a recurring challenge, a challenge to build higher upon educational foundations already laid. And to our faculty—new teachers and veteran staff members alike—each new year is unique in the opportunities it brings for service to students and for professional growth.

A college education, especially for students just embarking upon such an endeavor, can well be compared to a baseball game, a very serious baseball game. Most baseball games are won, not by some last minute spurt or "lucky break," but by constant, intensive effort from the first inning to the last. So, also, is a college education successfully won. The student who starts pitching early and then plays his best during every inning is the one who will win success.

Our students will find that the new Stout Institute library is designed and equipped to assist them toward academic success. Plans will soon be complete for a new residence hall accommodating 134 girls. It is expected that construction on that residence hall will start this autumn.

So we begin a new college year. Set your goals high. Get off to a good start and do your very best in every "inning." That is the only sure way to win.

NEW FACULTY MEMBERS HAVE BEEN APPOINTED

Dr. Fryklund Announces Several New Additions To The Faculty Staff

Appointment of a number of new staff members at Stout Institute has been announced by Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of the college. Registration of students began on Tuesday and will continue until the opening of classes Friday morning.

Named as assistant professor of industrial education is Dr. Theodore E. Wiehe, replacing H. C. Milnes who recently retired after 38 years on the Stout faculty. Dr. Wiehe has been awarded his doctorate by the University of Missouri, after he had previously earned his master's and bachelor's degrees at Oklahoma A and M college. He has served on the faculties of Northeastern Oklahoma A and M college, Oklahoma A and M, and the University of Missouri. Dr. Wiehe has also had experience as a junior engineer in the laboratory of the jet engine division of a General Motors assembly plant. In World War II he served three years with the amphibious forces of the U. S. Navy.

Norman Adams has been appointed professor in the Department of English. He will shortly be granted a Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin, having earned a master's of arts at Northwestern university and a bachelor's of arts at Randolph-Macon college. At Randolph-Macon he was named to Phi Beta Kappa, scholastic honors society.

Professor Adams has taught previously at Randolph-Macon, Emory and Henry college, and the University of Wisconsin. He served more than four years with the U. S. Navy in World War II, receiving his discharge as a full lieutenant after duty in Europe, Africa and the Pacific. He has also held responsible positions in business.

Stout Institute's new librarian is Phyllis D. Bentley, recently the assistant librarian in charge of circulation at Beloit college. She was also invited, during the past summer, to act as guest librarian of the St. Cloud State Teachers college library. Miss Bentley received her library training at the Library School of the University of Wisconsin and at the School of Library Service of Columbia university, receiving her master's degree in library science from the latter institution. In addition to her work at Beloit and St. Cloud, she has been employed at the Free Public Library of Burlington, Iowa, and had extensive experience in all phases of the operation of the library at Mankato State Teachers college. Miss Bentley is a member of numerous national and regional library associations.

Appointed to the sociology department of Stout Institute is Marian MacNeil Deiningger, a doctoral candidate in the sociology department of the University of Minnesota. Miss Deiningger holds her bachelor's degree, magna cum laude, from the University of Minnesota and also her master's degree from that institution.

She has had both teaching and research experience in the department of sociology at Minnesota. Prior to be-

HAVE YOU BOUGHT A KISS FOR "LOVER"?

Have you bought a kiss? We mean a candy kiss. If you have, you may win "Lover" at the Sweetheart Dance to be held Saturday night, September 25 following the football game between the Stout Blue Devils and the Superior State Yellow-Jackets. This traditional dance, which highlights Dad's Day will be co-sponsored by Sigma Sigma Sigma Sorority and Phi Sigma Epsilon Fraternity. The music will be furnished by George Soderberg and his orchestra, "The Royal Blackhawk" and the Stout gym will be decorated with large cartoons depicting America's favorite sweetheart. Let's everyone come to the dance on Saturday night and see "Lover" find its owner.

BEGIN TRYOUTS FOR MAP FALL PRODUCTION

The annual Fall production of the Manual Arts Players will be Rose Frank's two-act Broadway success Claudia, a poignant dramatic comedy in three acts. The M.A.P. production will be under the direction of Mr. John J. Kirby, of the speech department. Tryouts are open to all students and will begin Monday, September 27, at 7:30 P.M. Freshmen are especially encouraged to try out for the play and to seek membership in the Manual Arts Players. Play books are now on reserve at the library.

NEW LIBRARY RECEIVES NATIONAL PUBLICITY

The new library of the Stout Institute has received national publicity through an article in the September issue of Industrial Arts and Vocational Education, a school teachers' professional magazine published in Milwaukee. The article, prepared by Dr. Thomas F. Fleming of the Stout Enrollment Department, describes the $600,000 library building which was occupied early in March.

The library, built with an eye to Stout's steady expansion, provides stack space for 107,000 volumes. According to Dr. Fleming, two tiers of shelving will handle 40,000 books each with space for 27,000 additional volumes in separate textbook facilities. The author describes the interior of the library calling attention to the especially striking 128 x 47 ft. reading room, capable of seating 250 students comfortably.

According to Dr. Fleming, ten miles of all line fluorescent fixtures provide 60 candle-power illumination per square foot in the main reading room. The article is illustrated with interior shots of the structure.

THE "INSIDE DOPE" ON THE CHEER LEADERS

At 4:15 p.m. held Wednesday, September 15, the student body chose its cheerleaders for the coming year. The squad consists of eight members, including three juniors, two sophomores, and three freshmen.

The only male member of the squad, Fred Hodges, hails from Racine. He is a second-semester junior, majoring in woods. His pet peeve is "guys that don't take girls out." This is his third year as cheerleader for Stout.

Joyce Fraedrich, from Weyauwega, is a junior, majoring in education. This is also her third year as cheerleader. She loves to dance, though "Buff" is her main interest. She is "veep" of S.S.A. and a member of both Pallas Athene and Phi U.

From Virginia, Minnesota, we have Shirley Lundeen, also a junior. Last year she was a student at Virginia Junior College, but she attended Stout and was a cheerleader in her freshman year. She likes to dance, and basketball is her favorite sport.

Rita Jackson, a sophomore from Independence, cheered four seasons in high school and last year at Stout. For obvious reasons, she's better known as "Shorty" or "Shrimp" to her friends. Dancing is one of her main interests.

Another "soph", Judy Benson, comes from Spooner. She was a cheerleader in high school and here as a freshman. She loves all sports, but basketball, bowling, and swimming come first. She can't stand lack of enthusiasm at games. Take note, readers.

Barb Gruenther, a freshman, is from Waupun. She enjoys all spectator sports and likes to swim and water-ski. Her ambition is a career in merchandising.

Another Minnesotan, Adeline Bocke, comes from Rosemount and is a freshman this year. She was a cheerleader in her junior year of high school. Adeline, more often known as "Toots", likes bowling and swimming, and she collects china dogs as a hobby. Conceited people are her pet peeves.

Last, but not least, is Joan Wonoski from Doumar. She is a freshman this year and wants to become a commercial demonstrator. Square-dance calling is one of "Joannie's" favorite hobbies. She doesn't like people who say they "can't stand farms", because she loves them.

The cheerleaders are hoping, as we all are, for a good year in sports. No doubt Fred Hodges was speaking for the entire squad when he asked that "everyone yell." We chose them, so let's support them.

NOTICE

The new residents of Lynwood Hall are holding their annual open house this Sunday, September 26, from 3:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. All faculty members, students, and parents are invited to inspect the dorm and meet the students. Lunch will be served at 4:00. Roger Kerstner is in charge of the event.

CRAFTS LAB GETS COMPLETE REMODELING

A completely renovated and re-equipped laboratory, now being used by students enrolled in the crafts classes of The Stout Institute, will permit Stout's roads to the ceramics, "professional touch" in the ceramics, leather articles, and woven materials which they create in the related arts department of the college.

Addition of such equipment as the latest in electrically fired kilns will permit students to work with materials which vary from imported Indiana grey-blue to Menomonie's red clay. Students are being encouraged to experiment with the Menomonie clay and with suitable glazes. Such practical experience in choosing and adapting glazes could possibly lead to the discovery of new uses for the Menomonie product.

Purpose of remodeling the room was twofold, according to Miss Martha Ruth Amon, head of Stout Institute's related arts department.

"We felt that the new lab should be designed not only for most effective student work but also to provide adequate storage for all equipment and supplies. Thus our room will present an orderly appearance in contrast to the usual 'craft room clutter'."

Perhaps the most eye-catching object in the pale green room is the large new electric kiln which has an inside baking chamber of 15x15x24 inches and possesses a temperature range up to 2000 degrees F. Within its wide temperature scale, crafts students now can select proper temperatures to bake ceramic articles and glazes in a near-professional manner. A smaller electric kiln is also available.

For such "rough" jobs as pounding and painting, one 8 ft. by 4 ft. work bench and two 4 ft. square benches have been installed in the room. These benches feature one and one quarter inch laminated hardwood tops which are practically impervious to the punishment which they will receive from generations of crafts classes.

Storage cupboards and drawers for the tremendous variety of equipment and supplies needed in each crafts class have been installed along one wall of the room. Cupboards doors are finished with cork, thus doubling as bulletin boards for displaying pictures and samples of the type of work being done.

A new metal-lined clay cart has been provided as another incentive for ceramic experimentation. Holding 200 pounds of clay, the specially-built, movable cart keeps clay moist for an indefinite period of time.

Ten looms provide facilities for all types of weaving. When any of the eight small looms are not in use, they are placed out of sight in special cabinets designed for their storage. One large floor loom which weaves a 45 inch width of material, and another floor loom which weaves finer material 21 inches wide, occupy convenient locations in the room.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

By this time all freshmen and transfers have been welcomed a sufficient number of times. College life is no longer a dream for the future, for you are now a very distinct part of it. By now feelings are varied as to higher education. Some of you are wondering why you ever set your suitcase outside the door and others of you are "really havin' a ball".

What makes this difference in reaction to college life? Did you have a fight with your roommate that very first week? Or do you not see quite eye to eye with one of your instructors? If you have no such problems, you're lucky, because they come to everyone sooner or later. You are going to meet many different situations to which you will have to adjust. Keep that in mind for a harmonious adjustment is a definite sign of maturity.

Have you picked out any extra-curricular activities to participate in as yet? These activities are provided for your interest and enjoyment and an education is really not complete without participation in some of them.

Speaking for ourselves, The STOUTONIA provides an interesting application of leisure time. Being that the paper is written and published right here on campus, there are many chances for student participation.

For instance, a STOUTONIA reporter has contacts with various people, he gains knowledge and experience in writing different kinds of stories.

There are other openings in the staff for typists, copyreaders, and proofreaders.

The most acute shortage of personnel appears in the linotype room. Last year we had five regular operators and a few more who could fill in a pinch. Now we find ourselves with only one experienced operator left. If anyone has had any such experience or would like to learn it, he is most welcome to stop over at the printshop.

It might be nice to know that you get financially reimbursed for these activities.

If you are interested in working on the STOUTONIA, contact any of the present staff or drop in on one of our meetings, Monday afternoons at 5:00, Room 122 Harvey Hall, across the hall from the auditorium.

DORM NEWS

Now that the freshman welcome week is over, the girls in the dormitories have settled down to their books. Most of the freshmen and transfer students seem to be well acquainted with Stout and other students, thanks to the parties and picnics sponsored by the upperclassmen and church organizations.

There are twenty-four girls staying in Tainter Hall, sixty-four in Tainter Annex, and thirty-one in Eichelberger.

Each dorm held one house meeting. Dormitory officers will be elected within a week or two.

Says James: "I had the toughest time of my life. First I got angina pectoris and then arteriosclerosis. Just as I was recovering from these, I got tuberculosis, double pneumonia and phthisis. Then they gave me a hypodermic. Appendicitis was followed by torsionectomy. These gave way to hypertrophic cirrhosis and amnesia. I completely lost my memory for a while. I know I had diabetes and acute indigestion, besides gastritis, rheumatism, lumbago, and neuritis. "I don't know how I pulled through it. It was the hardest spelling test I've ever had."

ORIENTAL HOLIDAY IS THEME OF PARTY

On Saturday, September 18, the members and advisors of the Alpha Sigma Alpha, Hyperion, Pallas Athene and Tri Sigma sororities entertained the girls eligible for entrance into a sorority at an informal party in the Stout gymnasium.

The theme of the party was "Oriental Holiday", and in keeping with the theme the girls donned coolie hats, silk robes, and mandarin collars. Fans, rice bowls and chop sticks, and long black braids fastened in blond hair also added to the oriental atmosphere.

After name tags were given to everyone, the rushers were asked to have sorority girls fill in the squares of a bingo card with their signatures. At the same time the sorority girls were securing rushers' signatures to complete their cards. Everyone sat crosslegged on the gym floor as names were read and checked off in this new type of bingo. As each name was called the person stood up, so that everyone else would know who she was. Prizes were awarded as in ordinary bingo. Next, all the girls joined in doing the popular Hokey Pokey.

Following the games, each sorority president introduced the members, officers and advisor of her sorority and they then joined in singing their song.

Glorified rice topped with a cherry, and punch were the oriental refreshments. Individual wallpaper mats placed on the floor served as oriental "floors".

INTERSORORITY COUNCIL TO ENTERTAIN MOTHERS

The mothers of the football players will be guests of the Intersorority Council at a tea on Saturday, September 25, at 1:00 p.m.

Orchids will be presented to Mom and tours of the Home Economics building will highlight the afternoon. The new library will be an added attraction on the tour this year.

The Stout Snooper

My name is the Stout Snooper. I'm invisible, but my telescope eyes are extremely powerful and follow you, the Stout students, in all activities, either scholastic studies or social trips "north of town." Enrolled as a student, I major in special subjects, all pertaining to spying on other student's private affairs. This job is straining to my powerful eyes, but it is fun and of course I learn lots of very interesting "stuff." (Sometimes too much private information is overheard, but you needn't be scared, I'm not a gossip and besides my reporting is censored in the Stoutonia office.)

Now take for example the other night. I flew to the football field, screwed up my telescope eyes to their greatest power and watched the spectacular game from a seat on the 50 yard line. (And my seat was really on the yard line; why, I even tackled some of those Northland giants with my powerful eyes. I warned you about their strength.)

But before the game began, I saw the fans -- you, the students, teachers, parents and friends -- file into the field and seat themselves on various benches attempting to appear as a large crowd, but only covering about 1/2 of the bleachers. By the time of the kick-off more "loyal" supporters came to help make the total attendance: I'll about 2/3 of the benches. Now that's good, but you can make it better yet at the next home game, Sept. 25.

My ears hear well too, but Saturday night I just couldn't seem to make any contacts with the outside world, the Stout fans. The cheerleaders were busy exerting themselves using all sorts of "body building" exercises to make you yell, but nope, all was considerably quiet on the Stout front.

But I'll admit that when the brave Stout team scored a touchdown and then kept on adding others to make the score more lopsided and embarrassing to Northland, you did use your healthy lungs which had been stored in moth balls for several football seasons. (I did my share; I left my 60 yd. line seat and hopped inside the halfback's helmet and cheered words of encouragement into his ear as he side-stepped his way to the goal line.)

But now that the game is won and tomorrow eve another sporting event begins, let's be good sports and loyal Stout supporters. I can't see that game, but on Sept. 25, there's a home game and then I promise to sneak in the line-up and back some Superior players if you, the Stout students will cheer the team on to another victory.

DORAIN AND ELLIS PRESENT FIRST CONVO

"Romance in Song" by Doraine and Ellis was presented at the first convocation.

Their opening number, "Chocolate Soldier", won them an outburst of applause which grew more enthusiastic after each succeeding number. They continued by singing selections from South Pacific and Show Boat.

The program was masterfully put together by Ellis' informative remarks concerning both the composers of the music and the stories of the musicals which they sang. Their fresh young voices, charming personalities, and beautiful costumes made a happy combination.

Crafts work done at Stout is limited to the three areas-- ceramics, weaving, and leather work-- in order that coeds gain an "understanding in depth" of the work in these three areas. Although an entire class works on a project in the same craft area, students produce a wide variety of articles. Students working in ceramics have produced a colorful collection of vases, flat dishes, bowls, cream and sugar sets, and costume jewelry.

Student weavers have made such articles as rugs, curtains, and stoles, and smaller items like placemats, towels, and purses. All students have an opportunity to produce woven articles which they can use.

Purses, billfolds, and key cases are generally chosen by coeds as projects in leather work. Here again much individuality is shown in the way the articles are designed and finished.

Crafts emphasis has always been stressed at the Stout Institute but now the new attractive, and efficient crafts room is reflected in increased student interest and accomplishment.

GALE WOELFFER IS ASSISTANT

Gale Woelffer, Stout Institute's former all-conference quarterback, has been named assistant football coach at Stout. He will serve as aide to Jack Wink, who directs football for the Bluedevils. The appointment was made by Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of the college.

Woelffer comes to Stout after success in coaching experiences in armed services football. His Fort Knox Tankers last year posted 12 consecutive victories in tough service league play.

GALE WOELFFER

A letterman in Stout football from 1948-51, Woelffer was named to the Wisconsin College all-conference team in both 1950 and 1951. He also captained the Stout team in 1951. Stout's Bluedevil squad won the conference title in 1949 and finished second in each of the last two years of Woelffer's career.

Before coming to Stout, Gale earned three football letters at Sheboygan Central high school. He was twice named all-conference quarterback in the Fox River Valley conference.

BLUEDEVILS PLOW UNDER NORTHLAND

Stout's Bluedevils, paced by Co-captains Steve Hansen and Skip Wick, rolled to a 27-6 win over Northland College of Ashland at Nelson field Saturday night. It was the opening game for both teams.

The Bluedevils, held to a 7-0 first half lead, exploded for three counters in the second half. Hansen's two touchdowns were sandwiched around a TD plunge by Wick. Bob Noltner scored in the closing minutes of the game on a six yard romp.

Northland was held at bay until mid-way in the final period when a fumble got the Bluedevils in a jam. An 11 yard pass from R. Koehler to D. Wolfgram on fourth down netted the score.

Quarterback Don Woelffer directed three touchdown marches. His passes set up the first two scores and a 30 yard aerial to Hansen hit paydirt. Fullback Leo Janis added three points from placement and was a bearcat on defense.

Northland's attack was slowed by the loss of co-captains F. Caskey and R. Wilson. Caskey, a burley fullback, was ejected from the game in the first quarter for a personal foul and Wilson was injured in the second quarter and had to be helped from the field.

The middle of the Stout line headed by center Ron Wilhelm, guard Ed Zillman, and tackles Lyle Martens Dave Wendt checked Northland's running attack and opened up holes time and again for the hard running backs of the Bluedevils.

The running of Hansen and Wick proved the difference of the two clubs. Hansen averaged 8.4 yards per try and Wick averaged 7.5 yards per try.

BLUEDEVILS TO PLAY HOST TO SUPERIOR

Tomorrow night at 8:00 p.m. the Superior Yellowjackets will be out to sting the Stout Bluedevils in the first conference opener at Nelson Field. It will also be Dad's Day and dads of Stout players will be honored during half-time activities.

The Bluedevils have a 1-1 record to date, holding a win over Northland but losing it to Winona. Superior holds a 6-0 win over St. Cloud in its only engagement. The Yellowjackets by defeating St. Cloud topped last year's Minnesota State champions. With this win Superior is tabbed as the darkhorse in the Wisconsin State League. Last year the Yellowjackets defeated Stout, 19-7.

Superior coach Americo Mortoreli has 13 lettermen on his squad with five backfield monogram winners. The attack will probably be headed by Jim Rotsaert, quarterback; Gene Martin, halfback; and Rodney Lundberg, fullback. All are seniors. Jack Hulmer and Joe Rounce, two giant tackles, will anchor the team on defense.

Coach Jack Wink will probably field a line-up composed of Don Woelffer or Bill Romoser, quarterback; Steve Hansen and Skip Wick at halfbacks; Ron Ebben, fullback; Dick Brehm and Al Loew at ends; Dave Wendt and Lyle Martin at tackles; Art Goggin and Ed Zillman at guards; and Ron Wilhelm at center.

The school spirit in the first two games has been terrific. This was shown by the huge turn out of students at the Winona game. Although the game was played at Winona, there were more people from Stout at the game than there were from Winona. Let's keep the cheering section going by having a hundred per cent turn-out for our annual Dad's Day Game.

BLUEDEVILS BOW TO WINONA SCORE: 18-6

An alert Winona defense recovered three Bluedevils fumbles early in the game to win 18-6, despite only making two first downs in the entire game.

Stout fumbled Winona's kickoff in the opening seconds of the game, on its own seven yard line. The Warriors recovered and in three plunges at Stout's granite line scored with only fifty-three seconds of the game completed. The try for the extra point was blocked. Minutes later, Stout after bringing the ball to its own thirty-two yard line fumbled on the opening play from scrimmage. Again the ever alert Winona defense seized the opportunity and recovered the loose ball. A fourth down, thirty yard pass was good for a six pointer and the score read Winona 12, Stout 0. Again Stout received the kick off and again fumbled on the first play from scrimmage. This time on a fake punt Gerry Grebin tallied on a zig-zag thirty-five yard run that made the score read 18-0. The try for the extra point was blocked.

After these three bad breaks the Bluedevils completely outplayed the orange and purple. With Skip Wick carrying the entire load, Stout repeatedly threatened, but couldn't punch across the six pointers. Finally in the fourth quarter with Stout fans cheering them on the Bluedevils marched seventy-five yards in eleven plays to score. The final two yards were run by Skip Wick making the score read 18-6. Leo Janis's try for the extra point was blocked with only a few minutes left in the game.

Winona was repeatedly pushed back on their ground game. Dick Brehm, freshmen end from Knapp played a terrific game along with Dave Wendt and Ron Wilhelm. Skip Wick and Steve Hansen did well in the back field along with freshman fullback, Ronald Ebben.

The game by no means reflected on the Bluedevils ability as they completely outclassed the Warriors in statistics.

NATIONAL GUARD OFFERS OPPORTUNITY

Men of The Stout Institute! Do you know that if you are not yet 18½ years old and if you are now a member of—or if you join—a National Guard unit, you are not subject to the Selective Service call? National Guard drill is held every Monday night from 7:30 to 9:30 and you could earn at least $2.80 each drill night. Not only would you fulfill your military obligation and be able to remain in college, but you can also average about $12.00 per month to help defray your college expenses. This arrangement is just about as good as belonging to an ROTC Unit.

Company A, 128th Infantry, Wisconsin National Guard drills on Monday nights at the Menomonie Armory which is located just off the campus on Broadway. Unit strength is now 100 enlisted men and six officers, including one officer and ten enlisted men who are enrolled at The Stout Institute. Stout students who belong to other National Guard units in Wisconsin can take their drill nights with Company "A" while attending Stout. Students who belong to National Guard units in other states can join Company "A" and receive the same benefits as though they were still attached to their home units.

If you are interested in becoming a member of the National Guard, call at the office of Dean Jarvis and he will furnish you with additional information.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES HOLDS RECENT MEETING

Cadet Teaching Centers, Faculty Appointments, and Enrollment Are Matters of Business

Enrollment, announcement of an increased number of cadet teaching centers for the home economics division, a review of the 1954 summer session, approval of scholarships, and acknowledgement of faculty resignations and appointments were matters of business before the recent quarterly meeting of the Board of Trustees of The Stout Institute.

Current enrollment at the college stands at 781, Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of the college, revealed. This total includes 406 men and 375 women. Of this number, 23 are full-time graduate students.

The enrollment totals indicate a 10 per cent increase in new students including freshmen and transfer students. In attendance are 181 veterans of Korea and World War II. On campus are 84 married students. Additional enrollments, which will take place on November 8, are expected to bring the campus population to over 800 students.

The current freshman class of 304 students is the largest in several years. This year's graduating class, containing only 109 students, will be the smallest senior group in some time. The reduced number of graduates was anticipated in view of the fact that this class entered Stout in 1951 as the smallest freshman class since the close of World War II.

President Fryklund pointed out also that military service is cutting into the number of upperclassmen, at least until such men can complete their military obligations and return to college. Last year 20 men with good scholastic records entered military service instead of continuing in college.

The Stout Institute is expanding its student teaching facilities for both men and women, thus providing more complete cadet training than can be had in Menomonie alone. The following cities will this year cooperate in practice teaching on a six weeks basis each semester:

Medford (two centers), West Salem, Stanley, Baldwin, Mondovi, Schofield, Rice Lake, Frederic, St. Croix Falls, Glenwood City, Abbotsford, Elmwood (second semester).

INTRODUCING YOUR S.S.A. OFFICERS

All freshman students have already been introduced to the person who ties with our College President for Campus importance. However, besides the president, the SSA office also accommodates three other very active and important officers. All new Stout students will soon become acquainted with these four very well-qualified officers.

This past March the student body chose the four officers to be representatives on the Student Governing Board. For the benefit of the new members of the Stout family, we would like to introduce them at this time.

Roger Hansen, our SSA President, is a Senior from Wittenburg, Wisconsin. This is his second year as a Stout Student Association officer as he was vice-president of the organization last year. Roger is an active member of Delta Kappa and Epsilon Pi Tau.

Our Vice-President is Joyce Fraedrich, a junior from Weyauwega, Wisconsin. You have all met Joyce as a cheerleader. She is also a member of the following organizations: Pallas Athene Sorority, Women's Recreational Association, Home Economics Club, Lutheran Student Association, Band and Phi Upsilon Omicron.

Doris Wandrey is a junior from Wisconsin Rapids and is the SSA Secretary. Most of the freshmen girls have met Doris as a counselor at Tainter Hall. She is a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma Sorority, YWCA, and Wesley Club.

The SSA Treasurer is Dick Kadotani, one of the Hawaiian students attending Stout. Dick, a senior, is an active member of Epsilon Pi Tau, Sigma Tau Gamma, and the Arts and Crafts Club.

Students will live in given town for six weeks and take part in all school work and faculty meetings. This arrangement will provide greatly increased experience over the present situation wherein a girl teaches but one class for only one semester.

The board also approved methods of training the supervisors who will direct cadet teachers in each town. The supervisors will also receive pay from the college for their supervisory activities.

The Trustees were informed by President Fryklund that the 1954 summer session attracted 545 students for various offerings of the total program. Students came from 23 states and from Alaska, Canada, Bolivia, Hawaii, and Thailand.

President Fryklund also pointed out the strong summer school demand for both basic and advanced courses in Driver Education. He recommended that these courses, offered in cooperation with the Wisconsin Division of the American Automobile Association, the Wisconsin Department of Public Instruction and the Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Department, be included in the summer schedule for at least several more years.

LECTURER WILL SPEAK HERE ON DIAMONDS

A glimpse into the sparkling world of diamonds is promised to interested persons of Stout Institute next Thursday, October 6, at 2:30 in the audiovisual theatre of the new Stout library.

Speaking and providing colorful illustrations with her talk will be Gladys Babson Hannaford, an internationally-recognized diamond authority. Mrs. Hannaford has worked extensively with diamond cutters, wholesalers and retailers. She conducted the most intensive examination of a South African diamond mine ever made by a woman.

Mrs. Hannaford has lectured extensively at such educational institutions as Cornell University and Vassar and has been in great demand for talks to women's clubs and men's groups.

Mrs. Hannaford will bring to the attention of her audience many little-known facts about the origin, sentiment, tradition and use of diamonds. To illustrate her talk, Mrs. Hannaford will show samples of rock formations in which diamonds are found, rough diamonds, polished gem diamonds, industrial diamonds, and diamond tools. She also carries with her replicas of world-famous diamonds that have made history.

The speaker will also show slides which depict for her audience the transformation which a rough diamond undergoes from its discovery in the Kimberley, South Africa, mine to its emergence as a magnificent and costly jewel.

MISS DUNCAN IS DIRECTOR OF DORMITORIES

Tainter Hall has a new dorm head in the person of Miss Carol Jean Duncan from Denver, Colorado. She received her Bachelor's Degree from the University of Denver and Master's Degree from Michigan State College.

Miss Duncan has several hobbies. She appreciates art and likes music, having a phonograph and numerous records. Her favorite sport is swimming, but she likes to observe football games. Steak is her favorite food.

Miss Duncan worked as a director of a dorm at the University of Colorado for one year. This was between the time she received her two degrees. Her future plans include getting to know the girls better and visiting her girl friend who has similar work at River Falls.

When asked for a pet peeve, Miss Duncan replied, "Getting stations on the radio here." She likes the people she is working with and is impressed by the friendly atmosphere.

The fathers of the football players were honored Saturday as they came to see their sons play and to take part in the eighth annual Dad's Day ceremonies. Besides the game, a banquet, a tour of the campus, and the Sweetheart Dance were planned for them.

SYMPHONIC SINGERS PLAN CONCERT TOUR

The Stout Symphonic Singers, Stout Institute's nationally-known vocal and instrumental organization, has announced the itinerary of the 4000 mile concert tour for which that group is scheduled when the Symphonic Singers represent the State of Wisconsin at the biennial convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs of America. The convention is to be held in Miami next year.

Covering ten states, the two-week tour will permit the Symphonic Singers to present concerts in Fond du Lac, Milwaukee, Chicago, Chanute Air Force Base, Indianapolis, Louisville, Daytona Beach, and Palm Beach.

Highlights of the tour will be the Symphonic's appearance in Miami before National Federation delegates from all parts of the United States, Canada, Mexico, and South America.

Plans are being made to combine as much sight-seeing as possible with the tour concert schedule. Special features of the tour will be the drive through the Smoky Mountains, and the 100-mile trip via oversea bridge from Miami to Key West. The Stout musicians will travel in three chartered Greyhound Buses, and will be on the road from April 8th through April 25th.

The Symphonic Singers is a unique combined choral and instrumental concert organization of 65 voices and 35 instruments. Pioneering in the field of combined choral and band music, the Symphonics present a distinctive program of choral-instrumental music.

The Symphonic Singers, featuring 65 singers and 35 instrumentalists, is one of the largest touring musical groups in the country. In addition to their annual concert tour, the Symphonics has also done recording work, as well as made radio and television appearances. Director of the Symphonic Singers is Dr. Victor H. Hardt, chairman of the Stout Department of Music.

DR. AGNEW ATTENDS W. E. A. OFFICERS MEET

In attendance at a recent meeting of officers of local chapters of the Wisconsin Education Association was Dr. Dwight Agnew, head of the social science department at Stout Institute. The gathering was held at Stevens Point.

Among the business transacted was the reporting, by officers of the WEA, of legislative programs and problems. Shildrick Kendrick of the National Education Association gave a progress report on his organization.

Among the headline speakers was T. J. Jensen, superintendent of schools at Shorewood. Jensen, who for a time was an educational consultant to Germany, discussed "New Educational Ventures in Germany."

Several Stout alumni were in attendance at the conference, among them Paul Larson, Manitowoc, and Arvin (Tex) Ahlf, Sheboygan.

Committees will be needed to take charge of properties, costumes, publicity, lighting, and the building and painting of the scenery. All interested men are encouraged to join a stage group.

DAD'S DAY IS BUSY DAY FOR BOYS' PARENTS

Saturday, September 25, was a big day in the lives of our football players and their Dads and Moms. Stout's eighth annual Dad's Day was a busy one, packed with activity for each and everyone in attendance.

The day's formal activities started at 12:00 noon with a banquet given for the fathers in the Stout cafeteria. Following the delicious roast beef dinner was a program including several speakers and entertainment. Rev. Cornelius deStigter of the First Congregational Church opened the program with a prayer. He was followed by President Fryklund; LeRoy Zwick; Dave Wendt; J. A. Jarvis; Reverend John Paul of Regis High, Eau Claire; Skip Wick; and Jack Wink. The master of ceremonies was George Soderberg. With the singing of the Alma Mater, the banquet came to a close. The group had their picture taken and went on a tour of the Industrial Education building to complete the afternoons activities.

The Mothers also had a part in the days program with the Intersorority Council entertaining them in the afternoon. At 1:00 P.M. the Mothers were welcomed at Harvey Hall. Each Mom was presented with an orchid and received a name tag. At 1:15 the group picture was taken, followed by either a tour of the Home Economics building and library or the playing of various card games. Closing the afternoon's program was a lovely tea for the Mothers.

Saturday evening the many proud fathers of our football players were the honored guests at the Stout-Superior football game.

The halftime program was begun with a number played by the marching band. The word "Dad" was formed and suitable selections played while the fathers filed out onto the field. Each father or sponsor wore the number of the player he represented. They were introduced individually and presented with a copy of the group picture. Many of the Dads had come several hundred miles to attend the celebration. The whole Stout family was very proud to pay tribute to the fathers of our team members.

The traditional dance which highlights Dad's Day followed the victorious game. The Sweetheart Dance was co-sponsored by Sigma Sigma Sigma Sorority and Phi Sigma Epsilon Fraternity. Attendance at the event was wonderful. The packed gym was decorated with large cartoons of America's favorite sweethearts and streamers of crepe paper.

During intermission, drawing for "Lover" was held with Ron Ebben being the lucky recipient. "Lover" was created by the nimble fingers of a Sigma Sigma Sigma member.

The excellent turnout, attractive decorations, and everyone's festive spirit all combined to make the dance a big success. Dancing to the music of George Soderberg and his "Royal Blackhaws" continued until near twelve o'clock, climaxing the busy day's round of activities.

GOVERNING BOARD NEWS

At the Governing Board meeting of Wednesday, Sept. 22, the following items were discussed:

1. The Panhellenic Council announced that from now on no invitations will be sent to faculty wives or other personnel concerning Wednesday afternoon teas. Posters above teacher's mailboxes and notices in the Stoutonia will be the only invitation to these teas.

2. The modern show case left by the Senior Class of 1953 will be moved to the corridor near Dean Price's office, which is in the old library. When and if another place for this show case is found, further action will be taken.

3. Since the whole school attends the picnic in the fall which the Senior Class gives for the freshmen, it was decided to relieve part of the financial burden placed on that class. Instead of the Senior class and the S.S.A. splitting the bill, as was previously done, the S.S.A. will pay 3/4 of the bill, and let the Senior class pay for the rest. This action was taken only for this year.

4. A committee was set up to investigate the locker situation for students. The result of this investigation will be discussed at a later Governing Board meeting.

5. It was decided that there would be a Pep assembly on Sept. 29, and another student assembly on October 6 to acquaint students with the operation of the Governing Board.

6. Jerry Sommers brought in plans for a new Student Union, which could fit Stout's requirements, and might possibly be built in the not too far distant future. Proposed plans include a book store, lounge, coffee shop, and cafeteria. The committee will continue their investigations and reports.

7. George Stolp will head a committee to investigate the possibility of a Stout ice-skating rink this winter. A proposed site for this rink is at Stout Court, across from the girl's dormitories. The imitation Stout tower building was discussed as a possible warming house.

L. S. A. OFFICERS PLAN YEAR'S ACTIVITIES

The activities of L.S.A. are being planned for this school year by our capable officers which include the following: President, Carol Koch; Vice President, Mary Kay; Secretary, Lois Mallen; and Treasurer, Diane Klemme. Marlene Krause and Del Medin are in charge of the poster committee.

Our representative for L.S.A. in the inter-religious council are Lois Jessen, Rose Peper, and Mary Kay. Dr. Iverson is our counselor.

Many interesting activities will take place as a result of their efforts to make this a successful year. Included in the program will be numerous types of recreation and panel discussions on various subjects.

Several meetings with other religious groups in Menomonie, and the L.S.A. organizations from River Falls and Eau Claire, have been planned.

Most meetings, which will meet alternately at "Peace" and "Our Saviors" Lutheran churches, will open on Sunday evenings with a supper followed by the business meeting and recreation.

The more members that attend, the more will be accomplished and we will truly be able to say that our year was a successful one.

SIGMA TAU GAMMA STARTS BUSY YEAR

Sigma Tau Gamma came out in force to cheer on the Blue Devils at the Winona game last Saturday night. After the game, members and their dates attended the all school mixer in the Winona gymnasium and fun was had by all.

Anyone who is anyone buys Sig Tau candy apples and popcorn. Enjoy your next home football game with a candy apple in one hand and a box of popcorn in the other.

At Thursday's meeting, plans were started for Homecoming, Rose Dance, and other various social activities throughout the school year.

The next breakfast meeting of the Newman Club will be Sunday, October 3.

P. A.'s HOLD PICNIC AT RIVERSIDE PARK

The Stout Snooper

Hi freshman! Today I've some facts to tell you about "the big year", your freshman year, in this college. (To you upper classmen, it'll bring back memories of happy days.) I set up the following rules which may help you to have a happy year as a Stout freshman. I gathered material over several years by snooping in diaries kept by Annex girls, over-hearing telephone conversations between the "Jacks" at the girls' dorms and the "Jacks" at Lynwood, peeking in instructor's grade books, sitting in on coke dates at Lou's, and watching sleepy students at midnight cram sessions.

1. Be friendly to all upperclassmen and other "greenies"—but don't feel hurt if they forget your name.

2. Always rush to the phone in the dorms; it may be Willie or Sue ringing for you!

3. Study hard and long for the knowledge gained will be forever worth your effort. It's often "later than you think".

4. Omit trips to places "you shouldn't be", so that in a few years the doctor won't say, "You've too much blood in your alcohol stream."

5. Girls, all of you have natural beauty; don't cover it up with too much make-up or "Glow in the dark" lipstick.

6. Enter into all school activities; don't pass up opportunities to attend lyceums or church activities. Have lots of fun, but hesitate about going steady. In "going steady", the preliminaries may be more entertaining than the main event.

7. Boys, kindness is just one thing you can't give away; it always comes back.

Since I'm a Stout Snooper, I'll tell you a secret. All of you freshmen will have a wonderfully happy and successful year at The Stout Institute. Welcome!

MR. RENESON SPEAKS AT S. C. F. MEETING

The Stout Christian Fellowship held its first meeting of this year Tuesday evening, September 21. Ray Johnson led the study of the second chapter in Romans. An interesting discussion of the text accompanied the lesson.

This group is a chapter of Intervarsity, an international Christian movement for college and university students. S.C.F. meets every Tuesday evening for Bible study meditation, and fellowship. The meetings are held from 7:15 to 8:15 in Room 10 of the new library. Any one is welcome to attend. The group is exploring Romans this semester and took Chapter 3 for study at the September 28 meeting.

After the study session a short business meeting was called by Carl Smith, the president. Mr. Reneson was guest speaker at the September 28 meeting. He talked about a conference on "Christianity On The Campus" which he attended this summer.

The question of a float for Homecoming was brought up and discussed. The members decided that instead of having one themselves, they would help on the one planned by the Inter-religious Council.

TOWER STAFF MEETS AND CHOOSES THEME

The Tower staff held its first meeting Tuesday, Sept. 14, at 5:00. The theme was decided upon and the dummy setup of the yearbook is now in process. A change has been made this year in that Russell Studio is doing the photography. Senior pictures will be taken immediately. The staff is busy getting everything ready so as to have as much of the book in as possible by the first deadline, November 15th.

Donald O'Brien, a Stout Institute senior, is pictured here as he shows a clock from his treasured collection of antique timepieces. His brother, in the rear, is responsible for the shrinkage of the collection.

THIS YOUNG MAN REALLY HAS RHYTHM

Donald O'Brien Collects Clocks, Repairs Watches And Plays The Drum

When the average American exclaims, "I've Got Rhythm," he's probably just singing a once-popular tune or tapping his feet to the rhythm of a current hit song.

But with Donald O'Brien, Menomonie's leading clock fancier, watch repairer, and drum virtuoso, "I've Got Rhythm," could well be the theme of his daily routine.

O'Brien, a Stout Institute student, first entered the field of commercial clock repair at the age of nine. His budding interest in clocks was stimulated when he was given an antique clock, a timepiece whose venerable and complex works proved intriguing. That was the beginning of Don's valuable—but now unfortunately dwindling—antique clock collection.

And, if Don loves to collect clocks, why does the size of his collection shrink? The answer's easy. Since George O'Brien, Don's brother has reached marriagable age, he merely purloins one of Don's antique clocks each time he finds it necessary to give some friend a wedding present. The arrangement causes brother Don much anguish but saves George a lot of money.

Once numbering 30 antique timepieces, every one in perfect mechanical condition, Don's collection has lately shrunk to 17 clocks under attack of George's matrimonial obligations. Some of the surviving clocks are in need of repair, but Don plans to keep things that way. As he puts it, "My brother doesn't give away clocks that aren't in perfect condition."

Gems of the O'Brien clock collection, all chiming together in his parent's home at which Don lives, are five timepieces. These five represent the maximum number with which Don is permitted to disturb the household at one time.

One is a Seth Thomas calendar clock dating back to 1876. This timepiece shows the day of the week, date of the month, hour, and minute—and is even corrected for leap year!

Perhaps the most valuable clock in the collection is a 107 year old, weight operated Chauncey Jerome, enclosed in a rose wood case which features a stained-glass insert, patterned after a church window, below the face of the clock.

Don buys most of his clocks by scrounging through the wares of antique dealers and by contacts at Madsen's Jewelry Store, the Menomonie firm for which he does clock repairing while he isn't attending classes at Stout.

When the timepieces reach his hands, the old clocks are usually in various state of repair. Donald claims that renovating these old-timers has been the most interesting part of assembling his collection:

"Collecting antique clocks is not an expensive hobby unless it entails buying parts and having someone else do the repair work. I don't have the latter problem at all and whatever repair parts I need are merely modifications of old parts which I can purchase right here at the jewelry store."

While Don's collection claims a great deal of his time, he somehow finds the necessary hours to be the most versatile drummer in all three of Stout Institute's bands.

Don's family claims that his collection is not the noise maker or dust catcher it could be just as long as he observes a household rule: "Only five clocks running in the house and the rest in storage." At least they are in storage until Don wants to work on them or until brother George is in need of his next wedding present.

TRAINING MEET IS CONDUCTED AT STOUT

Teacher Training Project for Driver Education Is Held In August

The largest teacher training project for driver education in the State of Wisconsin was conducted at Stout Institute from August 2-14. A total of 114 persons participated in the various phases of the program and representatives from ten states were in attendance.

Both basic and advanced driver education curriculums were offered by the industrial education division of the college, in conjunction with the Wisconsin division and the national division of the American Automobile Association.

Visiting specialists in driver education included Paul Bernd, educational consultant in driver education for the national AAA, and Dean Frey, a Stout alumnus who is assistant safety director of the Wisconsin AAA Division, working with B.A. Precourt, director of that division.

In charge of Stout Institute's portion of the project were Dr. John A.

Jarvis, dean of the Stout Institute division of industrial education, and R. F. Kransusch, director of driver education at the college.

Using eight dual-control training cars, 52 young persons and adults from Menomonie or the surrounding area each received a daily period of individual driving instruction. Participants who were completing the advanced course in driver education supervised the behind-the-wheel instruction which was being given beginning drivers by instructors who were completing the basic course.

According to Mr. Bernd, who has done extensive consulting for AAA on a national scale, Stout's training procedure was especially thorough in training instructors who will later teach others to drive:

"The driver education curriculum, as it was conducted at Stout, may be regarded as almost unique in that every new teacher had an opportunity to actually instruct in driver education under supervision before that teacher went out to his actual teaching situation. We were very proud of the equipment and the individual instruction and experience which we were able to offer our students here."

Begun at Stout in 1941, the college driver education program was one of the pioneers in such offerings. This year's training group included a number of police officers, three women, several members of a religious community, and a father and son combination.

Enrollees, in addition to those from Wisconsin came to Stout from South Dakota, Montana, Michigan, Iowa, Ohio, Minnesota, Missouri, Illinois, and California.

Participants who received a certificate of competence upon completion of the basic driver education course are now eligible to teach driver education in high schools, schools of adult and vocational education, or similar institutions. Graduates of the advanced course earned a certificate indicating successful completion of additional work in supervising driver training teachers.

DR. FLEMING SIGNS PUBLISHING CONTRACT

Recent signer of a publishing contract as one of the authors of the forthcoming educational volume, "The Teacher in American Education," is Dr. Thomas Fleming, a member of the faculty of The Stout Institute.

Dr. Fleming will collaborate with Dr. A. S. Barr, head of the teacher education section at the University of Wisconsin; Dr. Frank W. Hubbard, director of the Research division of the National Education Association; Dr. Alfred D. Simpson, of the Harvard University Graduate School of Education; Dr. Alonzo Grace, of the Division of Higher Education of New York university; and Dr. H. Harry Giles, of the Center for Human Relations Studies of New York university.

The book, designed to explain the American teacher's role to laymen, teachers and administrators, will be published by the college department of Henry Holt and Co.

MRS. SMITH TRAVELS TO N.E.A. CONVENTION

Selected as the delegate to represent Stout Institute's chapter of the National Education Association at that organization's national convention in June was Mrs. Benita G. Smith, associate professor of home economics at Stout and director of the nursery school at the college.

The Convention was held in Madison Square Garden in New York City from June 27-July 2. The gathering was the 92nd annual convention of NEA, which is a professional organization for teachers.

Mrs. Smith, acted as the official representative of Stout Institute faculty members, who for a number of years have achieved the enviable record of 100 percent membership in the National Education.

Of the 20,000 teachers and educators in attendance this year at one of the nation's largest educational conventions, 4,400 were delegates officially representing state and local associations. They came from every state, the District of Columbia, Hawaii, Alaska and Puerto Rico to attend the representative assembly which is held in conjunction with the annual meeting.

Nationally and internationally known leaders addressed many of the general sessions, including John Foster Dulles, secretary of state, Dag Hammarskjold, secretary general of the United Nations; Robert R. Wagner, mayor of New York City; Samuel M. Brownell, U.S. Commissioner of Trusteeship Division, UN Secretariat; Grayson Kirk, president, Columbia University and William A. Early, NEA president.

One of the highlights of this year's convention was the use of the United Nations General Assembly Hall for several section meetings on the theme Education and the United Nations. Among those who addressed these sessions are: Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt; James J. Wadsworth, deputy United States representative to the United Nations; Rt. Rev. Msgr. Frederick G. Hochwalt, secretary-general, National Catholic Educational Association; Earl J. McGrath, president, University of Kansas City and former U.S. Commissioner of Education.

Many of the current issues facing public education were considered in discussion groups and panel meetings by lay people and teachers and educators representing all levels of education. A series of information sessions discussed such topics as safeguarding freedom through education; the prevention and cure of delinquency; forces affecting education today; potentials of TV education; textbooks—their content and selection; reaching the non-parent group in the community.

Another highlight of the convention was the premiere showing of "Freedom to Learn," a 16 mm sound picture on the teaching of controversial issues, produced by the NEA in cooperation with its affiliated state education associations.

The National Education Association founded in 1857, now has more than a half million members who are served by 67 departments, commissions and committees. Approximately 5,200 local and state associations are affiliated with the NEA.

Surviving is one sister, Rachel L. Skinner, Milwaukee.

pany of Chicago.

Mrs. McLean discussed many aspects of the field of home economics, taking as the title of her talk, "What Of It?" an expression often used by the late Dr. L. D. Harvey, first president of The Stout Institute. Dr. Harvey, who taught classes in psychology in addition to fulfilling his presidential duties, used the "What Of It?" approach to stimulate his students to "stop, look, and reason."

Mrs. McLean taught as an associate professor in home economics at Iowa State college, Ames, Iowa, and in 1937, became the director of home economics for Swift. As director of Swift's Martha Logan service, Mrs. McLean supervises the activities of 25 graduate home economists. Under her leadership, departmental activities have continually increased in scope.

Mrs. McLean also has authored several books. The best known is "Meal Planning and Table Service," which is used as a college textbook. Her latest book is "The Complete Meat Cookbook," for which she shares honors with her assistant at Swift, Thora Hegstad Campbell. Another of her recent books is the popular "The Young Woman in Business," which is a culmination of years of counseling young college and business women.

Besides being a busy home economist and author, Mrs. McLean is also a proud mother and grandmother. After the early death of her husband, Mrs. McLean reared their two children, Janet and Jack. Janet, who graduated from Iowa State college, is now Mrs. James Christianson of Cheyenne, Wyoming, and the Christiansons have a son, John. Jack graduated from the University of Chicago and the University of Chicago law school. He now is in the legal division of the Oregon State Highway Division. He and his wife live in Salem, Oregon.

BILL, THE ELEVATOR MAN, RETIRES

Bill Estimates He Has Traveled 48,000 Miles In the Stout Elevator

A Menomoneie man who's traveled nearly twice the distance around the world—without going anywhere—is really ready to go places now.

Yes, William F. Neubauer, better known to generations of Stout Institute students as "Bill" the college elevator operator, has recently retired. This fall, instead of starting his up-and-down journeys in the home economics building on the Stout campus, he'll be traveling to Gainesville, Florida to spend the winter with his son and daughter.

In 23 years of continuous service at Stout, Bill covered alot of territory—even if he never went any place. In his 500 to 600 elevator trips a day, Neubauer estimates he traveled over 48,000 miles, all in one elevator shaft. During an average college year of 210 school days, he transported over 630,000 students and faculty members. In 23 years that's a big total of close to 15 million passengers.

But Bill is proudest, not of his years of service nor the many miles which his elevator has travelled, but of his safety record:

"Nearly 50,000 miles and 15 million passengers without any kind of accident in 23 years. That's the part that makes me feel so good."

Neubauer's safety achievement, however, was not just due to good luck. Each weekday morning for 23 years he personally checked and cleaned the elevator's contact plates before starting the day's journeys. Every Saturday meant a complete examination of the elevator car and machinery.

"And if anything went wrong mechanically," Bill recalls, "the college electrician, Ed Tiller, was johnny-on-the-spot to put everything back into working order. Maybe Ed didn't actually operate the elevator, but he certainly should get credit for keeping it running right."

One time Bill figured out what the elevator meant to the Stout population, in addition to eliminating the necessity of their climbing stairs. He discovered that if every passenger saved just one-half a minute by riding the elevator, people on the campus had saved an annual total of 5250 hours.

Neubauer was born in Pommerania, Germany, and was brought to America before he was two years old. Because he often entertained his passengers with his fluent German greetings and proverbs, many people in Menomoneie still think Bill was raised and educated in Europe. However, Bill readily admits that he didn't perfect his German in Germany:

"Sometimes I wish my folks had waited a few years before bringing me to this country. I was too young to remember anything about Germany and I've never gotten around to returning for another look."

Bill's six sister's enjoyed even less early travel for they were all born in America after the Neubauer family's immigration. Both Bill and an older brother, however, had to complete naturalization proceedings before being admitted to citizenship.

The father of the Neubauer clan made a living as did most Menomoneie men of the 1890's, by working summers in Knapp Stout and Co.'s lumber mills and winters in that firm's logging operations. As was the custom in those days, Bill went to work at an early age and stayed at it until retirement.

Following the traditional family religious confirmation at 14 years of age he enjoyed a two-week "vacation". He worked the next 10 years for the A.H. Johnson Grocery and Drygoods Co., 5 years for the Carter Co. mercantile business, 3 years for the Michaels Fuel Co., and 16 years for the Michaels Clothing Store. And in 1931 he became Stout Institute's official elevator operator—on a 30 day trial basis. That trial worked out so well that only the retirement provisions of the State of Wisconsin and the installation of an automatic elevator brought his career to a close.

A widower for eleven years, Neubauer is now waiting for the first signs of cold weather before traveling to Gainesville, Florida, where his son teaches at the University of Florida and his married daughter also lives.

When ever he's asked how it seems to be idle for the first time in 57 years, and not to be operating the elevator which has transported him the equivalent of nearly twice around the equator, Bill Neubauer has a ready and an eminently sensible answer:

"This is the first real vacation I've ever had. Why shouldn't I enjoy it?"

Enter an exciting new world!

CAMPUS MUSICIANS SEE BUSY YEAR AHEAD

Competition for the openings in the various music groups of Stout was very keen this year, with approximately two-hundred twenty students trying out.

The seventy voice choir and fifty-eight piece band have already begun work for the two concerts they will present this fall. They will perform for the convention of the Federated Music Clubs which will be held on the Stout campus late in October. They will also present their fall concert in November.

The band, largest in several years, is really a three-band unit: marching band, concert band, and the symphonies band.

CERAMIC WARE IS DISPLAYED BY MISS AMON

Have you ever seen the crafts display, located in the display case on the second floor of the Home Economics building? This is an exhibit made by Miss Martha Ruth Amon, who teaches the Crafts classes in the Home Economics Division. She made these articles at a workshop sponsored by Butler University at Indianapolis, Indiana and held at Herrm Art School, in Indianapolis, this past summer. The exhibit shows small studies in ceramics (pottery) and enameling.

These studies of pottery were developed to try out methods of construction. There are three methods. They are as follows:

1. The clay is rolled flat and cut out. This is called the "slab method."
2. The clay is rolled out and put over a mold. This is called the "drape mold."
3. The clay is formed with the wheel and hands. This method is called the "Potter's Method."

One of Miss Amon's reasons for going to Indianapolis last summer was to see if she could use these methods with Menomonie clay. She has had a deep interest in Menomonie clay ever since she came to teach at Stout Institute, which was six years ago.

The articles in the display case, also represent the different ways of putting decorations on the clay, such as scratching or cutting the design into the clay, painting a design on, or adding other clay for the design. Miss Amon has tried to work out the tower at Stout on some of her pottery and has done a very fine job.

There is, also, a display of enameling on metal. The enameling is quite popular. You can make several types of jewelry and enameling, such as earrings and cuff-links. Enameling will be taken up in Craft classes next semester.

Crafts is an elective every semester after the first semester of the freshman year.

JOIN SYNCHRONIZED SWIMMING CLUB NOW

Who? You.
Where? Swimming pool.
When? Tuesday nights.
What? Synchronized Swimming.

Yes, once again all swimmers are invited to join the synchronized swimming club. Anyone who can swim and likes to swim to music is eligible to join. During the year you will learn water stunts and formations, and sometime during the second semester you will put on an all school water show.

Non-swimmers are needed just as much as swimmers to help with costumes and lighting. It's the people behind the show that do more to make a successful performance than those who participate. We make a special appeal to men who like to swim. We need you to make a good show. So come next Tuesday night at 7:30 to the swimming pool, dressed in your suits. It's a lot of fun!!

Earth flew in all directions as the crimson-faced golfer kept missing the ball. Two worms near by, shivering in terror, looked at each other desperately. Finally the more courageous one had an idea.

"After the next explosion," he whispered, "let's run for it and hide under the ball!"

A Superior man is brought down hard by three Blue Devils, Ron Wilhelm, Art Goglin, and Leo Janis, in Saturday evening's Dad's Day game. Morey Ellis looks on as Coach Wink's men went on to shut out Superior 27-0.

BLUEDEVILS WILL TAKE ON LA CROSSE

Coach Wink's charges will be out to upset the highly rated LaCrosse Indians at 8:00 tomorrow night at the LaCrosse field.

The Indians who are defending champions of the Wisconsin State College Conference will be out to beat the Blue Devils as they would like nothing better than to repeat as title champs. Last year, as a result of their fine playing, they went to the Cigar Bowl in Florida. They played a 12-12 standstill with a team from Missouri. Heading LaCrosse's power packed team is big Brenzinski, All American choice for fullback, Tuska and Richter at the halfback positions, and Mason at quarterback.

The Blue Devils will probably use the same starting line-up. Ends, Loew and Brehm; tackles, Wendt and Marten; guards, Goglin and Zillman; quarterback, Romoser; halfbacks, Wick and Hansen; and fullback, Ebben. Al Brown, last week's co-captain is another probable starter.

If the boys fight as hard this week as they did last week for Dad's Day, they could possibly upset the three deep LaCrosse Eleven. As Father Paul, principal of Eau Claire Regis High School said, "There are a lot of good players' but very few great players." Let's play the Dad's Day game over again and bring home the bacon.

The President also praised the contributions and success of the cooperative plans between The Stout Institute and the State Board of Vocational and Adult Education. He expressed the hope that these cooperative plans would continue to operate.

The Trustees approved the awarding of 50 scholarships, 12 of them made possible by Menomonie business men or concerns. These 12 scholarships, paying $84 for a full year's tuition, were given by the following:

H. P. Chaimson, Badger State Yard, Bank of Menomonie, Rotary Club, Fair Store, Carter Ice and Fuel Company, Presto Foundation, Wisconsin Milling Company, Menomonie Chamber of Commerce, Ole Madsen Jewellers, J. P. Lee Pharmacy, and the Menomonie Lions Club.

The other scholarships included those made possible by the Eichelberger Trust Fund and another group given in accordance with the Wisconsin statutes.

Approval was also granted to the following faculty members: Miss Phyllis Bentley, assistant librarian; Miss Carol Jean Duncan, director of dormitories; Miss Bertha Geiger, college nurse; Miss Ellen Nelson, transferred to the department of home economics education; Miss Mary K. Williams, a member of the art department; and Miss Joan Mitby, instructor in the foods department. A number of other appointments had been announced earlier.

BLUEDEVILS RACE OVER SUPERIOR 27-0

The Stout Blue Devils really started conference play out right as the boys gave their dads a 27-0 victory over the Superior Yellowjackets. This was the eighth annual Dad's Day game. Superior, who is supposedly the darkhorse of the Wisconsin State College Conference, is really in the dark now.

The defensive play, of the Stout line and backs, was second to none. They repeatedly stopped the Yellowjackets from scoring.

On offense Steve Hansen and Skip Wick led the way. Hansen scored three touchdowns and Wick one. Each player carried the ball fourteen times with Hansen averaging 9.6 yards per try and Wick 7.9 yards per try. Ron Ebben, hard charging fullback, also gained a neat five yards per try. Bill Romoser, who called every play to perfection gained two yards per carry. Don Woelffer, Stout's passing quarterback, connected on two out of two passes to Louie Kort for a gain of 30 yards. The blocking of the line was great as they repeatedly opened up holes in the Superior defense for the hard running backs. Co-captains for the game were Al Brown and Skip Wick.

CLASSES WILL RECESS DURING CONVENTION

Eau Claire Teachers' Convention Will Be Held October 14-15

Many of The Stout Institute faculty members and students are planning to attend the Northwestern Wisconsin Teachers' Association meeting in Eau Claire. The meeting will be held from Thursday, October 14, through Friday, October 15. There will be no classes at Stout on Friday.

Special student tickets for sessions of the convention will be sold in President Fryklund's office. The tickets will be available for a week preceding the convention.

J. H. Murphy, president of the N.W.T.A. has assured the teachers a rich and varied program for the general sessions. Principal speakers will be featured for the Thursday morning and Friday afternoon programs with four sectional meetings on Thursday afternoon and more than twenty roundtables for Friday morning.

Headline speakers include Mrs. Evelyn Duvall, John Biddle, Milton Laver, and Doctor Beryl Orris. Mrs. Duvall, author of several books on family life, will speak on "Home Isn't What It Used To Be." The second speaker to deal with youth problems is Doctor Orris, a psychiatrist who has worked with youth, on the topic, "There Is No Delinquency." To give the teachers a balanced program and a look at national and international issues, John Biddle, a Pennsylvania newspaper publisher and radio station director, who visited Russia recently with a party of American newspaper editors, will report his observations behind the iron curtain. His subject is "They Opened Up Moscow." Milton Mayer will develop the troublesome question in democracy in his discussion of the topic, "The Fear of Freedom."

The Karamu Quartet, a CBS radio network musical feature, will provide an evening of rich and varied musical entertainment. Officers expect an attendance of three thousand teachers from the area. The meetings will be held on the campus of the Wisconsin State College.

DR. JARVIS AND MR. RUEHL GO TO MEETING

Active participants in the recent Wisconsin Annual Joint Conference of Administrators and Supervisors were two members of The Stout Institute faculty, Dr. John A. Jarvis, dean of the Stout division of industrial education, and Philip Ruehl, assistant professor of electricity and electronics at the college.

The meeting was called in Madison by G. E. Watson, state superintendent of public instruction. Taking part were city superintendents, the Wisconsin Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, county superintendents, county supervising teachers, county normal school principals, and members of the Wisconsin State Department of Public Instruction.

Dean Jarvis served as chairman for the industrial arts discussion group, of which there were 23, devoting their attention to topics from agriculture to Wisconsin history. Mr. Ruehl spoke to the industrial education group, presenting a suggested outline for a resource unit in general electricity.

OPPORTUNITIES IN JOURNALISM ARE AVAILABLE

The splendid opportunities available to home economics graduates who have had training in various aspects of journalism are emphasized in recent correspondence between Mrs. Lorene Staley, personnel assistant for the publisher of "Better Homes and Gardens" and "Successful Farming" magazines, and Dr. Alice J. Kirk, dean of The Stout Institute division of home economics.

According to Mrs. Staley, "Home economists qualified for foods and equipment editorial positions are particularly scarce." The Stout Institute offers such training to its home economics students through its courses in journalism, feature article writing, and publications.

As an example of the need for home economists with journalistic training Mrs. Staley indicated that, during the past summer alone, at least six such positions have been available on the staffs of "Better Homes" and "Successful Farming."

One position, in the foods section of the editorial department of "Better Homes," requires a graduate home economist who has ability and some experience in writing. Among the openings which have been available on the staff of "Successful Farming" are those for an assistant foods editor and a household equipment editor.

The latter two opportunities, in addition to the writing ability which they require, are particularly suited to a home economics graduate with a farm family background. Such a background, the publishers feel, will help these editors to understand the problems of farm homemakers.

Also of interest is a position for a graduate home economist in the Tasting-Test Kitchen of the Meredith Publishing Company. This work is primarily concerned with recipe testing.

ORGANIZED CHAOS!

The title of this article is no joke, believe me! At least not to most new students here at Stout. (and quite a few "ole pros" as well.)

"Organized Confusion" is merely a definition of "getting ready and coming to school".

Have you ever tried changing the oil in your car, watching dear little Junior (just for the afternoon) and listening for the phone at the same time?

Or how about sewing name tags on towels, making the farewell Sunday dinner and using the hair dryer at frequent intervals?

Now for a real treat! Why not do all your last minute writing while chores or dishes must be done so you can finish packing and load the car before hitting the hay.

And if you want that little "extra touch of brightness", just agree to take that sweet little lady (age 13) cousin of yours along for the ride. (that fresh country air may do wonders for her hay fever.)

So these examples sound fantastic, eh? Well watch out pal, next year this may happen to YOU!

GOVERNING BOARD NEWS

The following items were discussed at the Governing Board meeting of September 28:

1. It was voted to change the Winter Carnival from Feb. 12 to Feb. 5
2. It was voted to require the 1954 Homecoming Queen to be either a junior or senior girl.
3. A student committee, advised by last year's Homecoming Queen will take care of staging and the crowning of the queen.
4. Themes for Homecoming are to be handed in by October 5, at which time a student committee will look over the themes and pick out the most appropriate ones. These themes will be voted on by the entire student body. Themes are to be short in length, and may be placed in a box near the bulletin board.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE IS PLANNING MIXERS

The Social Committee which is made up of the vice-presidents of all the social organizations is in the process of planning all of the Wednesday night mixers and all school social activities that are sponsored by the Stout Student Association. The meetings will be held in Room 122 of Harvey Hall at 5 o'clock on Thursdays. A poster will give the notice of the meeting; it will be on the S.S.A. bulletin board in front of the old S.S.A. office. Each organization's vice-president is automatically a member of the social committee. Special 10 minute intermission entertainments at these Wednesday night mixers will be furnished by the various organizations, each vice-president will receive a number at the meeting and will have charge of the intermission of the number of the mixer they have drawn. If you have any suggestions for all school parties and get-togethers, tell your vice-president and we will try to arrange it. Each organization will also be given a social affairs book in which duplicate notices are to be made to be given to Dean Price, Dean Antrim, Coach Johnson, The Presidents Office, and the S.S.A. of each social affair that your organization sponsors. This is for the purpose of reserving the gym or whatever building you may want. Before an organization schedules any activity that is social, they must check with the S.S.A. office for a date on the social calendar. Social affairs books will be handed to the vice-presidents at the Social Committee meetings.

NOTICE

MALE QUARTET WILL PRESENT MUSICAL CONVO

Swiss Bell-ringing will be the highlight of a musical program which the Ambassador Male Quartet will present October 13 at Stout.

The Ambassadors are known as the "Four Aces" in Harmony. Each member of the group is a concert artist in his own right as well as highly skilled in ensemble harmonization. They are a lively entertaining group and are known for presenting programs rich in interest and variety. Well-known for their specially-styled arrangements of negro spirituals, the Quartet also sings modern and classical songs. Their repertoire includes selections such as "Dreaming Lake," "Without a Song," "Battle of Jericho," and "Ave Maria".

The addition of Swiss Bell ringing makes their program unique in its kind. On stage they will appear with almost fifty bells in graduated sizes. With the bells they will give renditions of "The Bells of Saint Mary's," "Sunday Morning in London" and several others.

The program promises to be a very entertaining one and it is one that no one should miss.

Dr. Kirk is Appointed To Serve on Program Committee

Appointed to serve on the committee for the program of the annual meeting of the college and university section of the American Home Economics association has been Dr. Alice J. Kirk, dean of the division of home economics at The Stout Institute.

The national convention of the association will be held in Minneapolis next June.

STOUT LIBRARY ACQUIRES RARE VOLUME

Acquisition by the library of The Stout Institute of an unusual book depicting the lithographing designs and methods of Thailand has been made possible by Douglas W. Harris, a Stout graduate of 1930, who obtained the rare volume for the college.

Presentation was made, in Harris' absence, by his wife's mother, Mrs. Bida Braker, Menomonie. Accepting the volume were Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of Stout, and Miss Lilian Froggatt, director of the college library.

The volume, entirely in the Thai language, provides lithographers of that nation with artistic reproductions of animals, warriors, and other Thai art forms. The Thailander's intense interest in spirits and oriental dancing is also evident from the number of reproductions depicting those art forms.

Several drawings of Thailand women, often considered the most beautiful in the world, are included. Models and methods for creating anatomical sketches also appear. All the art work is of a very intricate and artistic nature.

Harris, now a printing specialist for the Foreign Operations Administration, is stationed in Bangkok, Thailand. He is working with that nation's Technical Institute.

With Professor Harris in Bangkok are his wife, Henrietta, and two of their children who are attending school there. Another son remained in the United States to attend college. Mrs. Harris, herself a Stout graduate, is teaching English in a Bangkok high school. She formerly taught in the schools of Detroit and Cincinnati.

Harris entered the FOA program from the faculty of San Marcos (Texas) State Teachers college, where he had taught printing. Previous to that appointment, he was for 14 years a member of the faculty of Miami university, Oxford, Ohio. His appointment to the FOA is in force until the early part of 1955.

ALL STUDENTS INVITED TO ATTEND MIXERS

An all school mixer was held on Wednesday, September 29 in the Stout gymnasium.

Popular dance music was furnished by records. At intermission time the Pallas Athene sorority provided entertainment with a 15 minute floor show. Free refreshments were also served.

During the course of the evening it was announced that the first hour of future Wednesday night mixers will be devoted to teaching students some of the faster dance steps.

All students are welcome to these mixers and are sincerely urged to attend.

STOUT NURSERY SCHOOL OPENS WITH THIRTEEN

Nursery School re-opened with a total enrollment of thirteen youngsters. Those enrolled are: Nicky Ahrens, Larry Anderson, Paula Anshus, Peggy Berg, Tommy Flemming, Kathleen Glaeser, Timothy Metling, Robert Muea, Charles Nelson, Lucy Peterson, Bruce Rawson, Billy Talen, and Wendy Wink. Five returned from last year, those being the only eligible ones. Mrs. Richard Dale, the former Dorothy Krushas, 1952 Stout graduate, is the new assistant.

Any child between the ages of three and four is allowed to enroll in the Stout nursery school. There are, however, two qualifying factors. They are that the parents must be willing to cooperate with the school nursery plan and that the child be mentally healthy.

The children had a chance to use their playground this week. It has been out of use due to the library construction last year. The children are very thrilled to have it back.

Learning through their laboratory experiences, forty junior girls are studying the growth and development of the child. Taking the course in Child Guidance, twenty senior girls are assisting in the nursery for two hours a week as their laboratory experiences.

DR. AGNEW WRITES ON ROCK ISLAND RAILROAD

Author of an article, "The Rock Island Railroad in Iowa," appearing in the July, 1954, issue of the "Iowa Journal of History" is Dr. Dwight L. Agnew, chairman of the department of history and social science at The Stout Institute.

The article is the fourth in a series of such features by Dr. Agnew, all of them dealing with the early history of the Rock Island and Mississippi and Missouri railroads. The articles have appeared in publications of the State Historical Societies of Illinois and of Iowa.

Dr. Agnew's current feature describes the financial difficulties of the Mississippi and Missouri Railroad in the 1860's, leading to its eventual sale to the Chicago and Rock Island Railroad in 1866.

The article closes with a depiction of the arrival of "steel" into Council Bluffs in 1869 and then describes the effect of railroad construction upon the settlement and urbanization of Iowa prairie lands.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

"Blue Devils Fight, are you with me?" This and many other cheers resounded through the rain on Saturday night at the Stout-LaCrosse game as many Stout fans braved the rain to see Stout tie LaCrosse by a score of 20-20. The school spirit was so great that some of the LaCrosse students remarked that they wished their college had the school spirit Stout does.

Not many of you students realized that your backing the team helped tie that game. A team, no matter how good or bad, needs a great deal of backing by the students. Student spirit not only gives a team confidence in playing but also boosts their morale when the going gets rough.

So far this year, you, the students, have been doing a commendable job of cheering at games. In fact the over-all school spirit is at a much higher peak than it was last year. Keep up the good work!

Tomorrow night the Blue Devils play the Blue Golds from Eau Claire. This game will be interesting because Eau Claire will be over in full force to upset the record that Stout has established this year. They will also be trying to retain the Little Brown Jug. So, come one come all and back the team with your loudest cheering voice. Root for a win!!!

And don't forget the Duffy's Tavern Dance after the game.

ORGANIZATION NEWS

The Wesley panel for this week was called "Academic Freedom". The panel was made up of three members of the Stout faculty. They were: Dr. Guy Salyer, Dr. Agnew and Dr. Wall. The question presented in this discussion was how much opinion should the teacher put into his class on such topics as communism.

Sigma Tau Gamma members and their dates have scheduled a swimming party for this evening at 7:00 o'clock.

Because the candy apples and popcorn sold so well at the last home game, plans are being made to keep up with the high volume of sales.

The Phi Sigs started another successful year with their co-sponsorship of the Sweetheart Dance after the Dads Day game.

Plans are now being made for the Alumni breakfast, to be held at the Anchor Cafe, October 31 at 10:00 A.M.

The Congo Club met for its usual meeting Sunday, September 26 at 5:30. During the business meeting the members voted to welcome the alumni with a homecoming coffee hour, Oct. 29, from 3:30 to 5:00.

A joint hay-ride and chili supper party with the Wesley and L.S.A. groups has been planned for October 10 at 6:30.

Balloons, games, and refreshments will lend a circus atmosphere to the Hyperian Sorority's rushing party which will take place on Saturday, October 9 at 1:00 P.M. in Harvey Hall.

On Saturday, October 2 at 9:30 A.M. in Harvey Hall, Alpha Sigma Alpha greeted their rushees.

The Pallas Athene rushing party was held on Sunday, October 3 in the afternoon in Harvey Memorial.

The Pallas Athene Sorority, at its meeting on September 23, discussed the alumnae file and ways of improving it. They are considering putting out a P.A. alumnae news letter this year and would like alumnae help in gathering news.

The first meeting of the M.A.P. was held Monday, September 27. Old and new members were welcomed by Doris Hutchinson, president, and the constitution was explained.

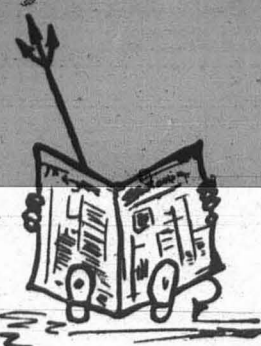

Plans and projects for the coming year were discussed at the Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority meeting on Thursday evening, September 16. The calendar will be organized at the next meeting and will feature a special event each month.

The regular Sunday night supper was held at the Methodist Church on September 26 at 5:30 P.M. After the meal, a panel called "The Four Winds" was given by various members who had had interesting experiences at religious camps and on trips during the summer.

The first Home Economics Club meeting met Monday night in the cafeteria. Gloria Voigt, the president, presided.

Gloria mentioned that the home ec. club should have a good delegation to the State Convention to be held in Stevens Point, October 8 and 9. A bus will be chartered to the convention.

The Home Economics Club is responsible for entertainment at the fourth S.S.A. record dance. A committee was selected to prepare for this.

The Stout Snooper

Wednesday eve I wasn't busy with snooping homework, so I went for a walk on the campus. My nose sniffed at the scent of music and it followed the trail to the entrance of the Stout gym where I discovered an all-school mixer in progress.

As I walked in the door I further tracked the scent of music and found that it was provided by a phonograph and records, but it was suited to the choice of the students. Then I watched the couples dancing. Some were dancing so slow, almost walking "cheek to cheek"; others, the girl trying to follow the fellow's intricate version of "HIS" self-invented dance step, and others, bumping into their best friends on the crowded floor. Snooping is my business and so I attached myself to a cute girl's collar and heard her partner, a serious young freshman saying, "Do you enjoy Kipling?" His partner, an experienced sophomore girl, answered, "Why, I don't know—how do you kipple?"

Laughing at the astonished look on the fresher's face, I unattached myself and floated to the other end of the hall. There I witnessed games of Hearts or 500; the games were just too complicated for my brain, so I screwed down my eye shades to become accustomed to the very dim lights and again wandered around. When I stopped I found myself among an attractive group of girls quietly gossiping. I snooped and accidentally on purpose overheard, "Their engagement is still a secret." "Yes, that's what everyone around Stout is saying!"

Taking poll of this group of girls I counted freshmen, sophs, and a few juniors and seniors. It is sort of difficult for freshmen to watch their friends and school-mates dancing and even more trying and sad for the upper classmen to see "former" boy-friends dancing with the "freshmen girls. Wondering what I could do to remedy the situation, I snooped and immediately saw the large group of fellows near the door, Stout's stag-line. Well, men in the stag-line, cooperate! Just politely ask a near-by girl to dance and sooner or later one will be friendlier and cuter than you ever knew and maybe you'll even ask to take her home. Come on fellows, ask these attractive girls to dance. It's fun! (And you know what, these girls think you're handsome! I should know after all, I'm the Stout Snooper.)

A BARGAIN FOR ALUMNI LIFE MEMBERSHIP

The alumni located at Stout hope that your new school year has gotten off to as good a start as ours has. This year's enrollment of both men and women represents a gratifying increase. Classes are filled to capacity with extra sessions being run evenings and Saturday mornings to meet the increased demands on shop facilities.

Now that the new school year is well underway, and the first pay check is about due, why not take a little time to consider the values of buying a life membership in the Stout Alumni Association? Not only does membership signify loyalty to and support of your alma mater but it also assures the continuing of the program of scholarships for deserving young men and women who desire careers in the fields we find satisfying. The revenue from such memberships is placed in a scholarship fund from which each year a worthy young man and young woman receives an eighty-four dollar scholarship to be used here. With the demand for Stout graduates continuing to exceed the supply, the life membership committee would like to see a large increase in the number of life memberships to make possible financial assistance to a large number of deserving students.

Thirty dollars in one payment or divided into six yearly payments of five dollars each is a small price for a life membership. In the cases where both husband and wife are alumni, the payment of thirty dollars by either plan entitles both to life membership. Should the buyer of a membership on the installment plan become unable to continue payments, the sum already paid can be applied to annual membership at the rate of two dollars per year. Any way you look at the proposition, you can't lose.

The weekly Stoutonia with its recently enlarged alumni section and a Newsletter sent twice annually go to every member of the Stout Alumni Association. Why not assure their appearing in your mail box regularly by taking out a life membership this fall?

Best wishes for a pleasant school year.

Sincerely,
Ellen F. Nelson
Chairman Life Membership Committee

LA CROSSE IS STYMIED BY STOUT ELEVEN

The Stout Bluedevils, coming to life in The Wisconsin State College Conference, led by the running of Steve Hanson and Skip Wick all but upset the apple-cart for the high riding La Crosse Indians. Hansen, with four and a half minutes left in the game, took a fourth quarter kickoff and raced 89 yards for a touchdown. Then still trailing 20-19 Leo "the toe" Janis booted the all important extra point gaining a 20-20 tie.

The game, played in a heavy down-pour, was delayed for an hour and 23 minutes because of a power failure and the second half was finished under one section of lights between the forty yard lines.

The Bluedevils with their 'umbrella' defense stopped LaCrosse cold the first half. The Indians kicked off and Stout returned the ball to the Stout 26 yard line. On the third play of the game, Wick took a hand off from Don Woelffer and galloped 65 yards for a touchdown. Janis missed the try for extra point and Stout led 6-0.

In the second quarter Stout recovered a fumble on La Crosse's 15 yard line and three plays later Wick scored his second touchdown of the evening. Janis converted giving Stout a 13-0 lead.

La Crosse kicked off to the Blue-devils to open the second half and three plays later the Indians recovered a Stout fumble on Stout's 28 yard line.

Three plays later Jim Mason took a pitch-out and scored La Crosse's first touchdown. Jerry Tuska converted giving the Bluedevils a slim 6 point lead.

The Indians kicking off to Stout recovered an onside kick giving La Crosse the ball on Stout's 40 yard line. The Indians drove to the Stout five where they lost the ball on a fumble. Stout brought the ball out to the 30 yard line on a pass from Woelffer to Hansen. On the next play Stout fumbled and seven plays later Willie Berzinski rushed over from the one yard-yard line. Tuska's try for the extra point was wide and the score stood, La Crosse 13 - Stout 13.

After four punt exchanges in the fourth quarter Frank Granger carried the ball into the end-zone giving La Crosse a 19-13 lead. Tuska kicked the extra point giving the Indians a big 7 point lead.

Hansen Races 89 Yards for Touchdown

Steve Hanson, Bluedevil halfback from Menomonic, leads conference scoring with four touchdowns. In the final minutes of last week's game at LaCrosse, Steve took the kickoff for an 89 yard touchdown run.

With four and a half minutes left in the ball game Hansen took a hand-off from Wick on the kick-off and put on a tremendous show of speed as he reced 89 yards for a touchdown. With the La Crosse fans yelling, "block that kick" Janis, who knew how much the point meant, placed the ball through the uprights giving Stout a 20-20 tie.

EAU CLAIRE IS GUNNING FOR BLUEDEVILS

The Eau Claire State Bugolds, fighting mad after losing a 14-7 battle with River Falls, will be out in force to beat the Stout Bledevils. Whether Stout will give them a chance is another story.

Eau Claire, who has won two conference starts while losing one, holds victories over Oshkosh State and Whitewater State Colleges, while losing to River Falls in the mud last week. Last year the Bugolds defeated Stout by a score of 19-13. Eau Claire's backfield is composed of Bollinger at quarterback, Snell and Gorsegner at halfbacks, and Golden at fullback. It will be these four boys that the Stout defense will have to stop if Stout is ing to stay a strong contender for the Wisconsin State College Conference Championship. You can bet your last nickel that Eau Claire will be fighting all the way, for if they lose this game they are out of any chance of winning the championship.

Coach Wink will probably call on the same starting line up he has used in the last games. It is hoped that last weeks' co-captain Ron Wilhelm, who was injured in the La Crosse contest, will be able to resume his center position where he has done such a fine job. Ron suffered a very bad ankle injury. Willie Romoser, Stout's stellar quarterback, also suffered a leg injury in last weeks encounter, but will undoubtedly be ready for action against the Bugolds. In the event that Wilhelm is unable to see action Saturday night, Dick Tepp from Stevens Point, Wisconsin, will probably take over the center position. It will probably be a toss up to who will start at quarterback as both Romoser and Don Woelffer can handle the job. Al Loew, last week's co-captain along with injured Wilhelm, will probably hold down one end position, as will Dick Brehm, Dave Wendt and Lyle Martens, the bear-cats on the team, will handle the tack-

The Stout defense once again coming to life recovered a La Crosse fumble and five plays later the Blue-devils were pounding on the Indians door as time ran out on the 13 yard line.

The Stout line, playing heads-up ball as they have all season, stopped anything the Indians had to offer. If football had an earned run average the Stout defense would have an amazing 1.5 points per game scored against them. All other points scored against them have come as a result of fumbles. The night the Bluedevils hang on to the ball is one night the opposition will have a long ride home for Stout has the defense; the offense, and the coaching which makes up a great team. Congratulations for a job well done.

kle positions. Art Goglin and Ed Zillman will fill up the rest of Stout's fine line at the guards. When these two players take the field they take care of any opposition that comes their way. Leo Janis who handles the fullback chores and does the extra point kicking, will be out to give the Bugolds plenty of trouble when he sends his 190 pounds up the middle of the line. Steve Hansen and Skip Wick the dash men on the team will handle the halfback positions. Both players are eating up yardage with approximately 7 yards per carry. With these two "break away" artists in there fighting every minute of this weeks' game with Eau Claire will probably hold more thrills than your first date.

Another interesting feature about this weeks game is the fact that Eau Claire now has the traditional "little brown jug" in her possession. The "little brown jug" is a tradition started back in the early 30's by the F.O.B. fraternity. Where the jug stays for a year is decided on who wins the Stout Eau Claire football game. If the Blue-devils play the ball they are capable of playing, they'll not only bring back the "little brown jug", but make them a stronger contender for the conference championship.

OPPORTUNITIES AVAILABLE IN FOREIGN LANDS

The college registrar has received recent information describing exchange teaching opportunities which will be available abroad in 1955-56. A brief summary of this data is as follows:

American elementary, secondary and junior college teachers in all subject fields may apply for approximately 300 teaching positions abroad during the 1955-56 school year. Teaching opportunities fall into two general categories: those involving an interchange of an American and a foreign teacher, and one-way assignments for American teachers in foreign schools. These opportunities are grouped according to similarity in financial arrangements.

INTERCHANGE OPPORTUNITIES
Australia, Austria, Belgium, France, Germany, New Zealand, Netherlands, and Norway. The foreign teacher is paid by U. S. school according to his qualifications. U. S. teacher receives a maintenance grant in foreign currency, full or partial round-trip transportation, and a supplemental dollar grant.

Canada and United Kingdom. The American and foreign teacher each secure a leave of absence with pay, and continue to receive their own salaries. U. S. school superintendent approves the qualifications of the foreign teacher. Teachers going to Britain receive round-trip rail transportation to New York, and partial round trip ocean travel. Teachers going to Canada are responsible for the full cost of travel.

ONE-WAY OPPORTUNITIES
Burma, Denmark, Finland, Greece, Iraq, Italy, Japan, Netherlands, Thailand, Union of South Africa, United Kingdom, Colonial Areas. The U. S. teacher receives a maintenance grant in foreign currency, full or partial round-trip transportation, and a supplemental dollar grant.

QUALIFICATIONS include: A Bachelor's degree, preferably the Master's degree, three years of successful teaching experience, U. S. citizenship, good health and moral character, emotional stability, and adaptability. Other qualifications being equal, persons under 50 years of age and veterans are given preference.

PLATOFF DON COSSACKS WILL GIVE LYCEUM

The Platoff Don Cossack Chorus and Dancers, under the direction of Nicholas Kostukoff, will appear at the Stout auditorium on Friday evening, October 22, at 8 o'clock. This is the first lyceum of the school year.

The Cossacks sang their first concert together 22 years ago in the Cathedral in Prague in Czechoslovakia. They were exiles from the Don River Country and were gathered together by Nicholas Kostukoff, who left Russia during the Revolution. Thus they began their musical wanderings. The chorus has traveled on a total of one hundred seven different ocean liners and visited sixty-five different countries. Recently they gave their 5,805 concert.

The membership of the Platoff Chorus and Dancers has always comprised the best of vocal talent and dancers obtainable among the White Russian emigrants who fought Communism in Russia. All members of this organization are now American Citizens. For them America has finally become a home, a real home, sweet and beloved.

The chorus has a varied and colorful program that seems to please everybody. Offering the hallowed anthems of the Greek Orthodox Church, folk songs, boisterous regimental songs, and gay peasant dances, the Cossacks give something musical for everyone in the audience.

NOTICE

"Turn Back The Clock," a style revue of previous year's clothing trends, will soon be sponsored by the Home Ec. Club. Raid old trunks, ask grandma, neighbors or anyone for old-fashioned styled clothes from the 1900's (or before) through the 1940's. Everyone look and bring back some clothing after vacation.

LETTERS FROM OTHER SCHOOLS AREN'T WORN

The "S" Club of Stout wishes to direct the attention of the new students, particularly the men, to the fact that it is customary and traditional at colleges throughout the country that the only athletic award letter worn are those which have been worn at the college.

The members wish to point out however, that letter sweaters worn at other schools can be worn on the campus if the letter has been removed.

FACULTY MEMBERS ARE AUTHORS OF ARTICLE

Authors of an article in the October issue of "The American School Board Journal," regarded as the nationwide periodical of school administrators, are two Stout Institute faculty members, Dr. John A. Jarvis, dean of the division of industrial education, and Dick G. Klatt, instructor in metalworking at the college.

Titled "A Schedule Board," the article describes the schedule board which was designed and constructed at Stout. In use for the past two years, the schedule board has proved very efficient in alleviating the time consuming tasks of developing class time schedules, filling out teachers' programs, and assigning classrooms and laboratories.

Both a photograph and a drawing of the schedule board are offered in the article. The feature also describes the various types of materials which are placed on the board and its value in developing satisfactory program solutions.

MENOMONIE PLANS FOR GROUND OBSERVER UNIT

All interested Menomonie residents were invited to a meeting dealing with the ground observer corps unit which has been proposed for Menomonie. Such a corps would be part of the nation's Civil Defense program.

The gathering was held in the audio visual theatre of Stout's new library at 3 p.m. on Wednesday, October 13. Speaking to the group was Airman Laflerty, whose previous appearances in Menomonie had also been of great interest.

Sponsoring the public meeting was The Stout Institute's class in Safety Education. R. F. Kranssich of the Stout faculty is in charge of the group.

PLACEMENT OF HOME EC SENIORS ANNOUNCED

MARINE CORPS TEAM WILL VISIT CAMPUS

Dr. R. G. Iverson, director of student personnel services, announced today that an officer procurement team of the U. S. Marine Corps will visit The Stout Institute campus on Wednesday and Thursday the 27th and 28th of October.

Dr. Iverson stated that the officer procurement team would present two programs for college students that will lead to a second lieutenants commission in the Marine Corps Reserve. The platoon leaders class for freshmen, sophomores, and juniors is the Marine Corps ROTC and assures a college man that he will complete his college education prior to meeting his military obligations. Participation in two six week summer training programs without interference in academic pursuits during the school year will lead to a second lieutenant's commission in the Marine Corps Reserve.

The officer candidate course for seniors and college graduates requires only ten weeks indoctrination prior to receiving a commission in the Marine Corps Reserve.

The officer procurement team will be located in The Student Personnel Office, Conference Room during their stay on campus and will be most happy to discuss the officer programs with all Stout Institute students.

Eligible disabled veterans discharged before October 20, 1951, have until October 20, 1954, in which to apply for a Government grant toward the purchase of an automobile or other conveyance, J. P. Cullen, manager of the Milwaukee Regional Office said today.

VA is authorized by law to make a payment not to exceed $1,600 toward the price of an automobile or conveyance, including special appliances, to World War II and post-Korean veterans entitled to compensation for three types of disabilities.

The three types of disabilities are:

The law requires that eligible veterans wishing to take advantage of this benefit must apply within three years after October 30, 1951 or three years after separation from active service, whichever is later.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

The other night I was walking down the hall when I heard some noise coming from the auditorium. I entered the auditorium and found the play cast practicing for the coming production of "Claudia" which will be held on November 18, 19, and 20.

After watching for a while, one of the directors walked over to me and asked about the play. To my surprise, I found out some very interesting things about play production. It was interesting to note that the cast starts practicing at least a month and a half before opening night. A month before the play the production staff starts to work building sets, designing and making costumes, securing properties, regulating lighting, and doing numerous other things to make the play a success.

The directors are important in guiding and helping the students. This year the director is Mr. John Kirby. Technical director is Mr. Norman Ziemann, and Marion Lohr is the assistant director.

What's New With Your Friends

With the winter social season approaching, are you at a loss to choose eye-catching yet budget-wise styles for your wardrobe? If so, this brief preview of popular fall fashions is designed to help you.

"Tweed is the lead" for coats, suits, jumpers, and skirts. This fabric comes in a wide variety of color tones, weave designs and textures. The versatility of tweed challenges you to select it for many different styles and types of garments.

Jumpers are essential to a well-balanced wardrobe. Choose a style that you can vary with or without a blouse or belt.

Shirt style blouses are both practical and attractive. Be sure that you select colors which go hand-in-hand with your skirts and jumpers.

This season's suits are styled with short jackets and a minimum of trim. Suits seem to have shared their popularity with jumpers and coat dresses.

Each year, you are continuously being introduced to an increasing number of synthetic fabrics. Familiarize yourself with these versatile materials and examine their characteristics. You will find that another attraction of synthetics is their economy in price.

Styles that are extreme become rapidly out-dated and soon prove tiresome to their owner. Therefore, choose a style that is moderate in design, yet one which personifies individuality. Such a garment will serve you well and enhance your reputation for having good taste in clothes.

How do you tell whether your gold fish is a girl or a boy?

Just add one-half ounce of sulphuric acid to the water in the fish bowl; if he comes floating to the top, he's a boy. And if she comes floating to the top, she's a girl.

The drunk was hustled before the magistrate for disorderly conduct. "Do you have anything to say before I pass sentence?" asked the judge.

"Your honor," the culprit replied in a cultured tone, "I am not so intemperate as Burns, so profligate as Byron, so debased as Poe, so ungrateful as Keats, so vulgar as Shakespeare." "Make a note of those birds," shouted His Honor, "and bring 'em in. They're as bad as he is."

The Eyes of the Institute

Hi kids! Know something? The biggest news on campus right now is—you! We've seen you at the Union, at Pete's, in the halls at school, and always there are couples in the making and breaking. But we're here to check up on you, so watch your step!

The biggest little news around Stout is the addition of a baby boy to Jo (Gritt) and Bill Wagner's home. The little lad is William Michael, Mike for short. He is one month old. Both Jo and Bill are attending school.

We not only have additions, but subtractions, too. Kathryn Seymour and Janet Grey (both ex '56) were married in Elkhorn, Wis.

Nancy Dexheimer (ex '57) was married to Don Abraham this summer. He is a law student at the University of Wisconsin, and Nancy is continuing her studies in Home Economics at the U.

Audrey Cornwell (ex '57) was married this summer to Don Trotter. Audrey is now employed at the Fashion Store in Eau Claire, and Don is a student at E.C.S.T.C.

Myrtle (Mike) Tamura and Dick Hashimoto were married this summer. Both are going to Stout. We hear that "Mike" is quite an authority on household budgets!

Jerry Poad and his new wife Rayburn (Rae) are living at Stout Court. Gale Woelffer is back in school this year, and with him is his wife, Alice.

Roger Hanson, S.S.A. president, has some assistance with his job in the person of his new wife, Ramona.

We have a new student at Stout this year. He is Allen Fritz, who was married to Barbara Hiltz this summer. Barbara's wedding picture is being shown at the Russell Studio.

But enough of the old married couples. There are a few sparkling diamonds around school.

One belongs to Eileen Myrick, who is engaged to Merlin (Speed) Halverson, from Menomonie. September 24 marked the big day for Ann Ritzinger ('55) and Don Zittleman. Ann is now interning at Anchor Hospital in Minneapolis.

There are a few weddings coming up. Arlys Hamann and Dennis Hawkes (ex '55) are planning to be married October 15. Dennis is now in Florida, serving with the U.S. Navy. Jeanne Sommervold (ex '56) and Neil Russ (ex '57) have set their wedding date for October 16. They will live in Madison. Best wishes, kids.

Our new Prom king, Ed Griffith was pinned to Roberta (Bobbie) Haskins this summer. Another Sig Tau minus his pin!!!! All kidding aside, we think it's swell!

Bob Foster celebrated his 20th birthday, and got the "cutest" present! Right, Bob?

The flame is missing its candle. We're sorry to see that Al Harri isn't with us this year. We really miss you, Al.

Seen anyone looking slightly squashed? Well, it's only due to those quickly closing elevator doors. For instance—ask Barb Storing.

Well kids, that's all the scoop for this week. If you want this column to continue, we need all the fan mail we can get!! So let's get with it!!!! We'll be hearing from you (we hope!).

The Stout Snooper

Although I'm just the Stout Snooper, I do pattern acts after Stout students. For instance, while studying in the library, I let my eyes and my thoughts wander away from my studies!!

One recent evening while studying at the library, I tired of my snooping homework (mine can be as boring as yours) and let my curiosity win. So I screwed up my powerful snooping eyes and began snooping! First I counted the students and the accommodations in the reading room; 163 students studying and 234 accommodations. Floating up to the two librarians conversing, I heard more information about evening attendance records; 122, 87, 118 were totals, the largest group came on September 21, 186, and the smallest attendance, 87, was on September 29. I came to the conclusion that more students studying in the library on Monday eve means that more are catching up on the homework they should have done during the week end. As the week progresses, the attendance dwindles, meaning less homework or other things to do! Right?

Floating over the students I heard the football player, say, "I'm off girls, they cheat and lie; They prey on us males till the day we die; They tease us and torment, and drive us to sin, Say who is that blonde that just walked in?" Yes, the library also serves as a meeting place for many "couples". Doesn't it, and "more censoring".

Using my X-ray eyes, I snooped in some other library records. I discovered that Stout's library has a total of 40,000 books! The following notes of interest will illustrate that you, the students, do study or at least "put up a good front". Last year 39,344 books were checked out for use during the day; 8,909 volumes, overnight; 2,727 volumes, 3 days; and 17,574 loaned for a two-week period. Here's an extra, students, during my snooping I also discovered that 2,124 volumes were checked out by faculty and staff members!

Unbound periodicals are the highest in popularity for student loans, one-third of the total, 69,575. And guess what, girls, "more" than one-half of these were drawn by men!! The work of checking in and out keeps busy five librarians plus 15-20 students who work alternately.

Coming from inspecting the carrels (the reference tables in the stacks), my eyes noticed the time, 9:25, almost closing, so I swished my eyes upstairs to look at the student's typing room; then I floated back down and floated out of the door.

Snooping after many students walking up to the Union, I heard, "Say, walks with a decided jerk!" "Yea, ain't he?" Ah, yes, that knowledge gained in the library doesn't stay long, does it?

P. S. As the Stout Snooper, I wish to congratulate both the football team and the cheering section; both did a fine job at the game against Eau Claire. "Go Bluedevils, go!"

WAYNE R. GRIFFIN IS SPORTS COMMENTATOR

A Stout graduate with an unusual career is Wayne R. Griffin (B.S. '36) who is sports commentator for "Wrestling from Rainbo," the oldest sports TV program. Produced by the television department of the American Broadcasting Company, the program is seen on about 50 TV stations each Wednesday.

Wayne also handles weather and news programs on local Chicago TV. Residing at 2004 Keeney Street, Evanston, Illinois, Wayne and his wife Frances have two daughters, Catherine 11, and Deborah 1½.

Mrs. Dora M. Griffin, Wayne's mother, also graduated from Stout in 1936. After a teaching career in Sheboygan, she is now retired and is living in Woodville, Wisconsin.

A publicity release from the Chicago TV promotion office gives the following description of Wayne's varied and interesting work:

"Versatile Wayne Griffin has traveled a wide circle since he first grabbed a microphone back in 1937, on a Minneapolis radio station. It was during that year that the ex-electrical engineer first became acquainted with the 'grunt and groan' profession.

It was an era when women wrestlers were more of an attraction than the male torso artists and when mud wrestling was at the height of its popularity. Wayne announced hundreds of matches over the local Minneapolis station and suffered only one casualty. He was hit in the face with a misplaced glob of mud from the hands of an overly enthusiastic wrestler.

In 1938 Griffin went to Bismarck, N.D., as an announcer. He stayed four years and ended up as assistant manager of the station.

His first big break came in 1942 when he joined the American Broadcasting Company, then the Blue Network, and was assigned as announcer with the famed "Victory Parade of Spotlight Bands." He stayed with the show for the entire year at which time he estimates he traveled more than 800,000 miles in the vanguard of the program, arranging broadcasts from various service camps throughout the nation.

In the fall of 1948, when ABC began telecasting its Rainbo wrestling matches, Griffin was handed the assignment and he has been in his "fox-hole" beneath the ring ever since.

Of wrestling, he says, "It's a great sport, and I like it. . . 'cept that every time I see a pretzel I expect to hear it groan!"

W. C. Banks, En USNR, USS Moale DD 693, FPO N.Y., New York, received his B.S. degree in 1952.

STOUT DROPS FROM RANKS OF UNDEFEATED

An inspired Eau Claire team Working off a Split T formation couldn't do anything wrong as they dropped the Bluedevils from the ranks or the undefeated by a 27 - 7 score. It was the third victory against one defeat for the Bluegolds while Stout now has one victory, one loss, and one tie.

The Bluegold's running attack was led by halfbacks Darrel Snell and Ev Gorsegner while Jim Bollinger did a fine job of quarterbacking. The outstanding feature of the Eau Claire team was the way in which they got blocking in front of their runners.

Stout was handicapped in the first quarter when Steve Hanson returned a Bluegold kick and injured his knee. This loss was big as Steve has scored four touchdowns in two previous games. This also put the brunt of the running on Skip Wick, Stout's other fine halfback. Ron Ebben, a freshman from Thorpe, Wisconsin, carried the ball well as he made several fine gains. Although Stout did lose 27-7 it is well to remember that the other team can't score if you've got the ball. You only have to make 10 yards in four plays, but the Bluedevil's offense just couldn't keep going so they lost the ball on downs. Eau Claire was on pushover as their record indicates.

Scoring did not open until midway in the second quarter when Snell plunged over from the two yard line after a 51 yard drive.

Stout bounded right back, moving the ball on three successive first downs to the Eau Claire 10 yard line, but a strong Blugold line held and Stout was forced to give the ball up on downs.

After Eau Claire was forced to punt

LOOK AT HIM GO!

Caught in action is Bill Romoser as he races across the field with the pigskin in Saturday nights game with Eau Claire. The Bluedevils lost 27-7. Romoser scored Stout's only touchdown in that game.

on fourth down Stout finally started to come to life as Skip Wick and Bill Romoser picked up yardage on running plays. Romoser, who has up to this game always played quarterback, took over Hansen's place in the backfield. Don Woelffer, Stout quarterback, then hit Romoser for two straight passes and a touchdown. Leo Janis converted giving Stout a 7 - 7 tie.

This was only short lived as Eau Claire shot the works. With less than a minute to go Bollinger fired a 5 yard pass to Gorsegner who gathered in the ball on the Bluedevil's 25 and outran the Stout secondary to put the then converted for the second straight Bluegolds in front to stay. Bollinger time.

A hurried punt in the third quarter gave the Bluegolds the ball on Stout's 39 and four plays later they moved it to the 3 yard line. A penalty set Eau Claire back on the eight but Snell gathered in a pitchout and raced into the end zone for his second touchdown of the evening. Bollinger's third kick was good giving Eau Claire a 21 - 7 lead.

Stout, still lacking any offensive thrust, was forced to punt on fourth down shortly after the kickoff. Snell returned the ball to the 46 yard line and Russ Knudson, from Colfax, went 54 yards to paydirt on a reverse for the final Eau Claire score. Bollinger's kick was wide and the score stood 27 - 7 in favor of Eau Claire.

The rest of the game was played with both teams threatening, but neither being able to produce a score.

BLUEDEVILS WILL TAKE ON RIVER FALLS

The Stout Bluedevils after losing a downhill battle to Eau Claire last week will have to snap back into their winning ways if they expect to remain in contention for The Wisconsin State College Conference championship. This also means that Eau Claire, La Crosse, Stevens Point, and Platteville must all lose one of their remaining games.

At 1:30 P.M. Saturday afternoon the Bluedevils will take the field against a strong River Falls team. Although the Falcon's have lost two out of their three conference games, they should still be well respected. Three weeks ago they were defeated by a strong La Crosse team 27-12. La Crosse is currently in first place. They were leading La Crosse by a 12-7 score at the half. A week after the La Crosse game, they defeated Eau Claire, who is now holding down second place with a 3-1 record. Last week they lost to Oshkosh 14-7 at the winners field. Last year they defeated Stout 20-0.

River Falls boasts a strong backfield in Bob Wood and Steffens at the halfbacks, Claire Murphey hard driving fullback, and Joe Burgoyne quarterback. The Falcon's line is not the best, although they have provided enough blocking to score their touch downs on long drives. Their defense must be fair as Oshkosh had to score both of their touchdowns by taking to the air and Eau Claire was held to a lone touchdown. It took last years conference champions the La Crosse Indians two quarters before they were able to get going against the Falcons. The Falcon's will probably run the ends and try a passing attack against the Bluedevils.

Coach Wink will probably call on the same starting line-up he has used in previous games. Whether Steve Hansen will be able to see action is not known at this time. If Steve is unable to go Saturday, Harry Miller, a freshman half-back from Neenah or Bill Romoser, a junior quarterback from Fort Atkinson will probably start in the halfback position. What holds gotli Bilthreerfmoe sm smh holds Bill together from game to game is a wonder, but he's always ready for action. If he had his leg in a cast he'd still be out on the field giving it the old college try. Skip Wick, the work horse of the team, will handle the other halfback position. Ron Ebben of Leo Janis will start at fullback. In last weeks' game Ron assumed every position in the backfield so don't be surprised if you see him switching in and out of the line. Don Woelffer and Bill Romoser will again flip a coin to see who starts at quarterback in the event that Steve is ready for action. Both players do a fine job so they'll probably share the duties. Ron Wilhelm, Stout's fine center will hold down the middle of the line, while Art Goglin, Stout's defensive signal caller, will assume a guard position along with Ed Zillman. Dave Wendt and Lyle Martens will handle the tackle assignments. Al Loew and Dick Brehm will probably assume their end positions.

FACULTY MEMBERS HELP LEAD CONVENTION

A number of faculty members of Stout Institute took active roles in the program of the Northwest Wisconsin Teachers association, held recently in Eau Claire.

Named chairman of the audio-visual section of the association for 1955-56 was Raymond L. Cornwell, of the graphic arts department of Stout. As this year's vice-chairman of the section, he presented the topic, "Simple Photographic Slides Without Photography."

The process of creating photographic slides without photography was largely developed by Edward McMahon, a Stout alumnus now on the faculty of Mankato State Teachers college. His process permits the creation of slides by actually lifting the ink from a printed page and transferring it to a slide for projection.

Mr. Cornwell demonstrated projects on which that technique could be successfully employed. He also showed a movie, "The Overhead Projector".

Taking part in a panel entitled "Guidance at the High School Level" was Ralph G. Iverson, director of student personnel services at Stout Institute. Miss Martha Ruth Amon, chairman of related arts at Stout, served as vice-chairman of a roundtable on art. Vice-chairman of the driver education section was Ray F. Kranzsch, head of the driver education program at the college.

"LEZGINA" TO BE INTERPRETED BY SOLODUHIN

Gabriel Soloduhin, intrepid Cossack, whose hair-raising dagger dance is one of the most exciting interludes in the program of the Platoff Don Cossack singers and dancers to be presented here tonight is probably the most photographed Cossack in the world. He has made dozens of motion pictures and is summoned each season to Hollywood whenever there is a call for a colorful Cossack in a movie. A daring horseman, trained by his father and his grandfather, Soloduhin has also been featured by the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey's Circus in riding spectacles, performing the famous Cossack trick of riding strapped to a horse's belly.

In tonight's program Soloduhin is featured in "Lezginka". This is a barbaric Caucasian dance which begins on the sad lilt of a peasant song and concludes in a wild dance of jubilation. With the entire chorus providing the vocal background, Soloduhin will perform the traditional dance with the daggers which never fails to stir his audiences.

HOLD INSTITUTE ON INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION

Industrial education teachers from throughout Wisconsin and eastern Minnesota will meet at The Stout Institute campus Friday, October 29, for a special conference featuring demonstrations of new processes and products in the field of industrial arts.

This industrial education conference is the second in a series of annual Stout Institute meetings dealing with innovations in construction materials. Last year's Builders' conference attracted contractors, union representatives, and building material dealers to demonstrations and exhibits of interest to the building trades. The present meeting, which is also tied in with Stout's homecoming celebration, is designed primarily for high school teachers of industrial arts.

All participants will register the morning of October 29 between 8:30 and 9 o'clock at a registration center in Harvey Hall on the Stout campus. The total attendance will then be divided into four groups, each of which will then attend one of the four sections comprising the conference program.

Each of those sections will be repeated four times during the day. This procedure will permit every person at the conference to attend all four of the sections. Arrangements are being directed by Dr. Herbert Anderson, chairman of The Stout Institute woodworking department. He is also serving as general chairman of the conference.

The graphic arts portion of the conference will be presented by Lloyd Whydowski, chairman of the graphic arts department at Stout. Offered in

NAVY OFFERS AVIATION CADET PROGRAM

Flying here as a part of a campaign to interest young men of The Stout Institute in the Aviation Cadet program of the U. S. Navy will be a rescue-utility helicopter from the U. S. Naval Air Station in Minneapolis.

The craft, to be piloted by Lt. D.O. Modeen, USN, is scheduled to land on the practice gridiron of Stout's Nelson Field at noon on Friday, October 29. Purpose of the visit is to acquaint students with opportunities in U. S. Naval Aviation and also to permit the public to inspect the helicopter.

The Navy is currently accepting flight training applications from young men between 18 and 25 who have had two years of college and can meet the physical and mental requirements. Accepted applicants are sent to the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Florida, to begin a 15-month training schedule. Graduates are commissioned Ensign, USNR, or Second Lieutenant, USMCR.

The Piasecki helicopter which will be shown to the public here is powered by a 550 horsepower engine, carries six passengers, and can cruise 300 miles at about 85 miles per hour.

this section will be a participating demonstration of elementary pamphlet binding. This section has also developed a general graphic arts "corner" display, showing what may be considered a graphic arts area of the general shop.

Robert Swanson, assistant professor of industrial education at the college, will be in charge of that part of the conference devoted to plastics.

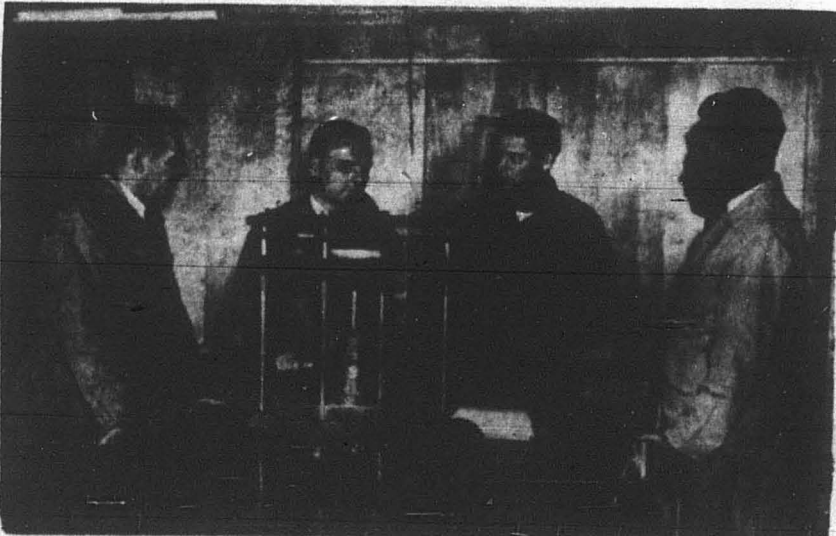

Conference participants attending the tool and die making section will view cutting and forming of non-ferrous metals. Dick G. Klatt, of the general metal department of The Stout Institute, will be in charge.

A visiting expert on wood and new wood products, Ernest Nelson, supervisor of industrial arts for the public schools of Superior, Wisconsin, will demonstrate the construction of laminated wood projects. An important innovation in the field of woodworking, laminated wood construction is becoming widely used in the manufacture of contemporary furniture.

Nelson has recently received considerable public attention in the Superior area for his construction of a 16 foot "swamp buggy," embodying 50 laminated parts. Powered by a 75 horsepower airplane engine, the boat's laminated construction can withstand the impact of hitting a "deadhead" at 40 miles an hour. The boat is completely enclosed, offers visibility through 20 running feet of windshield and sideglass, and contains sleeping accommodations.

In addition to Nelson's demonstrations, the conference section on woodworking will provide two other features. George Soderberg, specialist in wood finishing at Stout, will display newly-developed finishing materials. K. T. Olsen, specialist in carpentry and upholstery techniques at the college, will describe the newest materials for upholstery.

CONFERENCE LEADERS PLAN DEMONSTRATION

Observing a demonstration of the three-dimensional forming of acrylic plastics, which will be a feature of a special conference for Wisconsin and Minnesota high school teachers of industrial education being held at Stout Institute on Friday, October 29, are leaders of several of the discussion groups which are conference highlights. They are (L-R) Lloyd Whydowski, chairman of the Stout Institute department of graphic arts; Robert Swanson, assistant professor of industrial education at the college; Dick G. Klatt, of the Stout general metal department; and Dr. Herbert Anderson, head of Stout's woodworking department and general chairman of the event.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

What would Homecoming be without a bonfire! The alumni and upperclassmen will remember in years past, that the success of a Homecoming was determined largely by the size of the bonfire. Each year in the past, the freshmen tried and usually were successful in outdoing the efforts of the class before them. For example, a crane had to be used to finish it off last year because the pile was so high.

Now, because of objection to the week of collecting material by the police department, the freshmen are expected to complete this obligation in one or two days. The suggestion even came up before the governing board to have fireworks instead of a bonfire.

It is the opinion of this writer that a valuable experience for the freshmen and a tremendous part of Homecoming will be lost if we lose our bonfire.

What do you think?

What's New With Your Neighbors

Life at The Stout Institute is busy and exciting. But the campuses of other colleges are also exciting. Let's take a check-up on some of the goings on in several of our neighboring colleges.

River Falls had its Homecoming on October 15-16. Highlighting their Saturday events was the game with the Stout Blue Devils at 1:30. Another attraction of River Falls is the opening of the little theatre when "Stage Door" will be presented on October 28-29, under the direction of Myron Moen a senior.

Stevens Point has plans laid for Homecoming with activities starting on Thursday, October 22 through 23. Their football game will be played with Oshkosh at 1:30 Saturday afternoon. After the game, the students, alumni and faculty members have arranged for an informal mixer dance from 3 to 5:30. The Homecoming Dance will be held in the evening.

One of the new faculty members at Platteville is Mr. Robert Hesselrock, a former teacher from Menomonie High School. He teaches journalism, advanced composition, and is also faculty advisor for their school paper.

The Eau Claire College Homecoming game will be played November 6 with Winona. Plans for their Homecoming are underway with Lois Morrell as general chairman.

Students at Stevens Point had the opportunity to hear an outstanding vocal group, the Karamu Quartet. They have a weekly broadcast on CBS radio every Sunday morning at 8:15 (EST) and their quartet is nationally known for its high standard of musical performance throughout the past thirteen years. On October 14, the Karamu Quartet gave an evening concert for 3000 teachers attending the Northwestern Wisconsin Teachers Association.

1955 TOWER DUMMY FINISHED AND CHECKED

The dummy of the 1955 Tower has been set up and the staff is preparing the actual pages to send to the engraver before the first deadline November 15th.

October 7th Mr. Adams and Ray Johnson attended the yearbook work shop at Minneapolis. On October 12th, Editor, Norma Schlottman, along with Mr. Barnard, Joeline Chryst, and Bob Triese traveled to Minneapolis where they took the dummy and first layouts to be checked and received an estimate on engraving. The group then went on a tour of the Dahl Bookbinding Co. where they received samples of covers to consider for the Tower.

The Stout Snooper

One of my outside activities is to check on the mail Stout students receive. Last Tuesday, Menomonie mailmen had an extra task, that of delivering special letters to about 40 Stout girls.

Preceding this day the sororities sponsored rushing parties with clever themes. (The four fraternities had rushing parties too, but as I have snooped around these "jolly" occasions, I noticed that these parties vary in many ways from the girls' social gatherings!)

After the rushing parties, the girls had a silence period which was not 100% observed; then the interested girls signed for sorority preferences. As the invitations arrived in the mail, or were delivered, I snooped and saw delighted, beaming and proud expressions on both girls' and fellows' faces. As far as I, The Snooper, am concerned, all of these students had a right to be happy.

And now pledge week looms ahead. For the girls, polishing shoes, decorating the Homecoming floats, picking up pins, etc.; for the fellows, hikes "back" to Menomonie, guarding the doors of Harvey Hall, "Sirs" and "Scums", etc.

The climax will soon be reached by the pledges, the participation in and witnessing of an impressive formal initiation ceremony. I also have snooped into the future and have discovered new friendships, co-operative campaigning and serenading, "fun" parties, eventful meetings, and oh, just many other wonderful moments for the new members.

But, during my snooping in the last weeks, my telescope eyes came to rest upon another figure on the Stout campus, the "girl or fellow who didn't make it". She or he are the students who failed to receive an invitation to join a sorority or fraternity.

Well, "kids", cheer up, don't give sympathy to yourself, it'll just be wasted; instead grin and bear it, but try again next semester or next year. Don't find fault — find a remedy! Anybody can complain. Enter cheerfully into other Stout activities, go to all of the mixers, volunteer for committees, visit your friends, study just as hard, etc.

As the Stout Snooper, I know it won't pay to be too sad or disappointed because ALL Stout students are every other student's pal. Membership in a fraternity or sorority does not really matter in friendship! And that's what is important.

The Eyes of the Institute

Belated birthday greetings to Jan Hornickel—heard she celebrated it in real style!!

Watermelon "cooking" and Halloween DO get mixed up, don't they? Just ask Anne, Mike, Doris, Gene, Rusty, and Mel how it's done. By the way, how did those pumpkin pies taste?

Congratulations are in order for all those aspiring young lasses who made Phi U!

We've also noticed that freshman Nancy Richards has a beautiful diamond.

Boys are being rushed by Meal Management girls—seems as though they like male company at their delicious meals.

Everybody's been commenting on the "open sessin" of the Stout Governing Board. Why don't you produce it more often?

Nancy Bargen and Don Zittleman have been wearing big smiles this past week. Nancy's fiance is home on leave, and Anne Ritzinger has been making Stout her second home.

Marcia "Putt-putt" Carhart visited the campus last week. We hear that she plans to return to Stout next year.

STOUT ELEVEN WILL INVADE PLATTEVILLE

The Platteville Pioneers will be the target for the Bluedevils as they invade Legion Field Saturday afternoon at 2:00 p. m. This game is a big one for the Pioneers as it marks their homecoming. It will be an even one for the Bluedevils who will be out to prove that they are ever bit as good a team as their first games indicated.

Stout will field a veteran team composed of 12 return players. The Pioneers have a good line which provides them with a mediocre defense.

This year Platteville lost their first game in three years to the Green Gulls at Milwaukee, a 7-12 margin. The Pioneers' season record this year is as follows: 26-6 tie with Wartburg, 14-8 decision over Stevens Point, 7-0 loss to Milwaukee, 31-7 victory over Whitewater, and 1st week they edged out a 6-6 tie with Oshkosh.

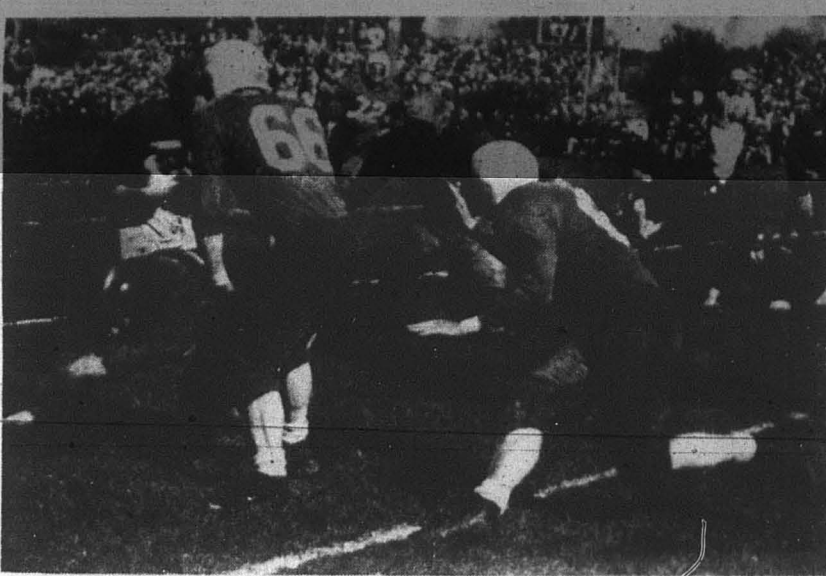

Using a T and single wing unbalanced line to the left or right the Pioneers are able to provide power plays around the ends and a good passing attack. The Pioneers backfield will be led by Jim Veith and their hard charging fullback Leny. Veith furnishes the team with a passing attack, with Smith as his favorite receiver. Leny furnishes the power when his team needs that couple of yards for the first down.

Here's an unusual occurrence which happened when Stevens Point was playing Platteville. With the score 1-13 in favor of the Pioneers, one of the Point players made a fine run for a touchdown. The Point players were already lined up for the extra point when an official called a foul against Stevens Point which nullified their touchdown. Final score Platteville 14-Stevens Point 13. Maybe the official was a little slow in telling the visiting team that they had committed an infraction of the rules. But it's doubtful if he'd have received his striped shirt for picking four leaf clovers in between plays. Therefore it looks as though the Bluedevils will have more to battle than just eleven men when they take the field Saturday afternoon.

Coach Wink will probably field his usual starting line-up. Injuries have hurt the squad ever since the night of the Eau Claire game as the scores have shown. If the Bluedevils bruise heal by Saturday, Platteville will definitely have a harder time winning than they probably think they are at this moment. Starting at ends will be Al Loew and Dick Brehm. It will be their job to keep the ball carrier from going around the ends for long gains. Dave Wendt and Ed Zillman will be the boys that open the way for the ball carriers on the left side of Stout's line and Lyle Martens and Art Goglin will do likewise on the right side. Ron Wilhelm will hold down the center position. Starting in the backfield will be Skip Wick and Steve Hansen at the halfbacks. If the line can throw those "bone crushing" blocks, Steve and Skip will carry the mail to pay dirt. It will be up to Bill Romoser and Don Woelffer to keep the offense going from their quarterback position. A good field general will be needed if the Bluedevils are to function properly. Ron Ebben and Leo Janis will have to furnish the power from their fullback position. The reserves will play a big part in Saturday's game as they do in any game. They give the first string a rest when needed. If they play well enough they will play a good share of the ball game.

Let's have that good old team spirit and bring home a victory. You tied one of last year's co-champions; let's beat Platteville.

Three of Stout's Bluedevils block the advance of a River Falls player in last Saturday's game. River Falls won over Stout by a score of 26-6.

BLUEDEVILS BOW TO RIVER FALLS, 26-6

The River Falls Falcons capitalizing on virtually every Stout miscue scored two touchdowns in both the second and third quarters to gain a 26-6 victory. The Falcons definitely deserved to win as everything they did seemed to work. Their inspired play was probably a result of this game being their homecoming. However, anyone who witnessed the game would have to agree that the Bluedevils were not the same team who rolled over Northland, drubbed Superior, and gained an impressive tie with La Crosse earlier in the season. The same players were on the field, but not the same spirit. It's true the offense has failed to function properly in the last couple of games, but you don't see those bone-crushing tackles in the opponents backfield that you saw in previous games. Injuries undoubtedly are the cause of much of the inability of the Bluedevils to function as many members of the team have some injury which they are carrying from game to game. Last week's game with River Falls was no exception as Skip Wick was badly shaken up while stopping a Falcon ball carrier early in the second quarter. Skip never did get back into the ball game, but he's recovered now so he will probably be ready for next week's encounter at Platteville.

The first quarter opened with neither team being able to produce a score. Led by Captain Dave Wendt the Bluedevils displayed some fine defensive play.

However, things changed in the second stanza when the Falcons started their offensive clicking. They took the ball from their own 25 yard line and marched 75 yards for a touchdown. John Steffen's four-yard sprint around right end climaxed the march. Claire Murphy kicked the extra point giving River Falls a 7-0 lead. Later in second quarter the Falcons tallied again on a 74 yard pass play from Jerry Route to Wayne Haushalter. It was the Falcons passing off their single formation which proved the big difference in the teams. They would appear to be running a power play around one of the ends when they would uncork a pass to some eligible receiver downfield who was for an instant unguarded. Stout's secondary just wasn't in the right place at the right time as the Falcons completed 12 out of 25 passes.

The Bluedevils never gave up as they took the ball on their series of downs, after the River Falls team kicked off to them, and scored. The score came when Don Woelffer fired a pass just over the Falcon's secondary to Steve Hansen who gathered it in and outran the River Falls secondary 71 yards to a touchdown. Janis missed the conversion and the Falcons lead 13-6 at halftime.

River Falls was not satisfied with a 7 point lead and scored another touchdown in the third quarter. The score was gained on an eight-yard pass from Steffen to Bill Kraft after Murphy zigzagged his way 45 yards on a previous play. The third quarter still offered another highlight when Murphy deflected a Stout pass and racing at top speed gathered it in with his finger-tips and sped 37 yards to another River Falls score. Murphy also added the extra point giving the Falcons a 26-6 lead and the ball game.

The fourth quarter was played with reserves going in and out of the game for both teams. River Falls had possession of the ball most of the time, but couldn't crack the Bluedevils defense for a score.

GREETINGS FROM THE PRESIDENT

Each year it is my pleasure to extend homecoming greetings to the many thousands of Stout alumni, whether they have returned to our campus for a festive week-end or are with us in spirit during this happy occasion.

We at Stout hope that, for each of our alumni, the past year has been one of progress. We trust that you have advanced in your profession, in your community relationships, and in the happiness and serenity of close family ties. Progress, indeed, typifies those who have graduated from The Stout Institute.

Your college, too, continues its progress. Architectural plans are now complete for the new residence hall for women. An early start on its construction is promised. Additional, vitally-needed buildings are also in prospect.

This year's enrollment is 10% over that of last year. And all indications are that, in the foreseeable future, our college population will continue to grow.

Yes, homecoming is a time for remembering, for recalling happy times in college and important achievements after graduation. It is my sincere wish that your homecoming will be a pleasant one, an event that you will long remember.

THE SYMPHONIC SINGERS WILL GIVE CONCERT

Featuring sacred, modern, folk and novelty music, the Symphonic Singers of The Stout Institute will present their annual fall concert at The Stout auditorium on Wednesday evening, November 3, at 8 p.m. Taking part will be the 50 piece concert band of the college, the 100 member Symphonic Singers organization, the Stout choir, several ensemble groups and soloists.

Featured numbers by the Symphonic Singers include "The Bells of St. Mary's," "Stormy Weather" and a medley of tunes from the Gay 90's. Pianist Dorothy Belisle, Menomonie, will be heard in "Prelude of the Bells" with choir and band, and as soloist in "Bumble Boogie".

The audience will also have the opportunity to hear Dan Wielgus, saxophone star from Pulaski. Several special numbers by the girls' ensemble of the group have also been included.

Proceeds from the concert will help finance next spring's concert tour by the Symphonics organization. Traveling 4000 miles for concerts in 10 states, Stout's musical organization will conclude its trip with an invitational appearance before the convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs of America.

Tickets for the Wednesday concert, 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for students, are now being sold by music students at the college. Tickets will also be available at the auditorium on the evening of the event.

No convocation performance of the Symphonics Fall Concert will be given. Faculty and student tickets to the evening performance, the only one to be presented, are 50 cents.

"THE LITTLE ST. CLOUD THAT CRIED" IS ELECTED AS THEME
"The Little St. Cloud That Cried" will be this year's Homecoming theme at Stout.

The student assembly voted this theme the favored from the ten best submitted to the contest. Gloria Mc Neight, a sophomore from Stratford, Wisconsin, was the winner.

PHI UPSILON OMICRON PLEDGES NINE

JOHNNIE ROBERTS BAND WILL PLAY FOR DANCE

Hailing from Winona, Minnesota, Johnnie Roberts and his orchestra will provide music for the 1954 Homecoming dance to be held in the Stout gymnasium on Saturday, October 30 at 9:30 P.M.

The main event of the evening will be the grand march and the presentation of the Homecoming Queen and court.

The Junior Class is sponsoring the dance, and the chaperons for the evening will be Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Arneson, Dean Antrim, and Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Price.

It might be of general interest to the student body to know that Saturday night is a 1:00 o'clock night. So boys, bring your girl to one of the biggest dances of the year, the 1954 Homecoming.

NOTICE!

Please note that an informal coffee and doughnut get-together is planned for all alumni and their friends after the parade in the cafeteria.

Beginning right after the snake parade, there will be an all-school mixer, both for students and ex-students. It's a good place to renew old acquaintances, and make new friends. There will be free cider and doughnuts for all.

On the food committee are Verna Dunn, Shirley Brask, Nancy Carroll, and Betty Appell. Jerry Loushin and Mel Podolske are in charge of clean up, and Mel is co-ordinator of the evening's activities.

QUEEN MARY AND HER COURT

Queen of Stout Institute's 1954 Homecoming, to be held October 29-30, is Miss Mary Pacioti, junior coed from Beaver Dam. A dietetics major at the college, she was elected by the student body. Members of her royal court are Helen Harry, Elkhorn; Doris Wandrey, Wisconsin Rapids; Carol Young, Berlin; Irene Novinski, Montfort; and Marjorie Newman, Kenosha.

HOMECOMING EVENTS BEGIN THIS EVENING

Coronation Ceremony Will Start off the Highlight of the Football Season

Homecoming, one of the biggest events of our college year, will be held this Friday and Saturday.

Coronation ceremony will begin at 8:00 Friday night in the Stout auditorium. Marjorie Newman and Irene Novinsky will lead off the procession, followed by Carol Young and Doris Wandrey. Helen Harry, Maid of Honor, will precede Queen Mary Pacioti down the aisle. Roger Hanson, S.S.A. president, will present the queen and her court to the audience.

The Queen's pages, Wendy Wink and Tommy Fleming, will come forth carrying the crown and football.

Marie Strodthoff, 1953 Homecoming queen, will crown Mary Pacioti Queen of the 1954 Homecoming, and Helen Harry, Maid of Honor, will present the football to the team's captain.

At this time Carol Hahn will present a vocal solo. The audience will join in singing the Alma Mater, and the recessional will begin.

Beginning at 8:30 the Torchlight Parade will leave for the Fair Grounds. It will be led by Queen Mary Pacioti and her court, followed by the band and all the cheerleaders. Students carrying torches will march along Wilson Avenue to the Fair Grounds.

At 9:00 the Bonfire Rally will start. The captain of the team will light the bonfire at this time. The cheerleaders will then circle the fire and lead everyone in yells. The band will play "Honor Bound", and everyone will sing. Next on the program are speeches by alumni and former S.S.A. presidents. The Stout band will play several marches, and the queen and her court will be presented. The program will end with the singing of Alma Mater.

The German Band will present a few rousing numbers, and everyone will again circle around the bonfire. The cheerleaders will then lead the group in a snake parade back to the gym. At the gym the Senior Class will sponsor a mixer, at which time students and alumni will renew old acquaintances, and receive free cider and doughnuts. There will be 5 stands at different places which will be run by freshman, sophomore, and junior class members. The Senior class will replenish supplies and keep activities going. Meanwhile students will be entertained by the German Band, which will drift among the students, playing their favorite tunes. And thus, Friday evening's activities will come to a close.

Saturday morning is the time for organization breakfasts. The following is the schedule:

8:00 a.m. Sig Tau breakfast at

8:00 a.m. F.O.B. breakfast at the Tea Room

9:00 a.m. Hyperians breakfast at Peace Lutheran Church
9:30 a. m. Alpha Sigma Alpha breakfast at Our Savior's Lutheran Church

10:00 a.m. Sigma Sigma Sigma breakfast at the Methodist Church

10:30 a. m. Initiate E. P. T. members

12:00 p.m. E.P.T. banquet at Hotel Marion

At 2:00 the parade will begin. Floats will be judged for the most beautiful, most humorous, and most in keeping with the theme. Floats will line up at designated places near 7th and Main, and must be in formation at 1:35. Floats must be plainly marked with letters 12 inches high.

Judges will be scattered through the crowd. Announcement of the winners will be made at half-time during the game, and floats will be shown at this time.

The floats have been entered in different categories, and the ones competing for most humorous are: Delta Kappa, W. R. A., and Rifle Club. Those entering as most beautiful are: Tri Sigmas, Alpha Sigma Alpha, Hyperians, Pallas Athene, and Interreligious. The most in keeping with the theme are: Sophomore Class, Junior Class, Phi Sigma Epsilon, and Sigma Tau Gamma.

During the day homes will be judged on the same qualities as the floats, that is, for beauty, in keeping with the theme, and most humorous. They will be judged sometime at night also, to see how well they were set up.

At 7:30 p. m. the football game between Stout and St. Cloud will begin. The game will be played at Nelson Field. During half-time the queen and her court will be presented. The royal cars will be driven by Leroy Zwick, Ronald Mehsner, Don O'Brien, Eddie Ehrens, and George McGowan. The drivers will escort the court to the middle of the field, at which time Mary Pacioti, 1954 Homecoming Queen will introduce the various members of the court and give a speech. Following this there will be formations by Stout's band.

The homecoming dance will be held in the Menomonie High School gymnasium beginning at 9:30 and lasting until 12:30. Johnny Roberts and his orchestra will play for this occasion. Once again the Queen and her court will be presented, and they will lead the students in a grand march.

Sunday's activities are but few, but they begin at 6:30 a. m. at Wakanda Park, where the Delta Kappas will have a breakfast. At 8:00 a. m. the Pallas Athenes sorority will breakfast at the Anchor Cafe, and at 10:00 the Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity will have breakfast at the Anchor Cafe.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Homecoming week is drawing to a close for another year. Only the big weekend remains.

Queen campaigning is over and a new queen has been chosen to reign over the festivities. Queen Mary will be crowned tonight, and after the crowning, the bonfire will be burned at the fair grounds. A snake dance will return the students to the gym where doughnuts and cider will be served.

Tomorrow afternoon the big parade will be held. There will be breakfasts and luncheons for the returning alumni. In the evening the Blue Devils will play St. Cloud and try to make 'The Little St. Cloud That Cried.' After the game the Homecoming Dance will be held.

As these events are recalled, it seems appropriate to give many "pats on the back" to the classes, clubs, sororities, fraternities, and many individuals who have worked so many long hours to make this, Stout's 1954 Homecoming, a success.

Again, congratulations. Queen Mary. May this week-end last forever in your book of college memories.

SAY IT WITH FLOWERS IS BREAKFAST THEME

The Homecoming Alumni Breakfast of Sigma Sigma Sigma will be held Saturday morning at 10:00 A.M. in the Methodist Church basement. Alumni from many different Wisconsin cities and towns are expected to be present for this annual affair. The dining room will be decorated in keeping with the theme, "Say It With Flowers." Freshmen girls will serve the Tri Sigma alumni, members, and pledges an appetizing meal. Every Tri Sigma hopes that this annual Alumni Breakfast will again be a memorable one both to the alumni and to the present members and pledges.

PHI SIGS TO ENTERTAIN ALUMNI AT BREAKFAST

The Phi Sigma Epsilon Fraternity will hold its annual Homecoming breakfast at the Anchor Cafe, Sunday, October 31, at 10 A. M.

The breakfast has for the past few years helped to acquaint the members of the K. F. S. and the P. S. E. The alumni will also be introduced to the pledges. A large number of alumni are expected for the Homecoming game and breakfast.

ANCHOR CAFE IS SITE OF P. A. BREAKFAST

The Pallas Athene sorority will hold its Homecoming Breakfast Sunday at 8:30 a.m. at the Anchor Cafe. Replies have been received from many alumni who are planning to attend the breakfast.

SIG TAU PLANS FOR HOMECOMING EVENTS

Last week was a busy one for the members of Sigma Tau Gamma. Throughout the week plans were being made for the various activities concerning Homecoming.

Tomorrow morning at 8:00 o'clock will find members of Sigma Tau Gamma and returning alumni eating a hearty breakfast at the Harbor Inn.

With the Rose Dance only two weeks away, preparations are beginning to take shape which will make the first formal dance of the year a long-to-be-remembered success.

D.K.'S PLAN WARM GREETING FOR ALUMNI

The members of Delta Kappa wish to extend a cordial HELLO to all of its' alumnus, and to those alumni that will be at Stout, we want to say, "Join us in a weekend of good fellowship."

The homecoming breakfast will be held at Wakanda Park, 6:30 A.M. Sunday, Oct. 31, 1954. Something new will be added — it will be warm when you get there.

HYPERIAN BREAKFAST TO BE HELD SATURDAY

The Hyperian homecoming breakfast will be held on Saturday, October 30, at 9:00 a. m. at Peace Lutheran Church.

A short program has been planned to entertain the members, pledges and returning alumni.

LT. VIOLA M. LENTZ SPEAKS IN CLASSES

First Lt. Viola M. Lentz of the Women's Medical Specialist Corps spoke to the Personal Development and Dietetics classes on Tuesday, October 12. Miss Lentz is from Brooke Army Hospital, Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

Lt. Lentz told of the life and work of a Dietetics intern in an army hospital and enumerated its benefits. She showed several movies depicting both the working and social aspect of her job.

The Stout Snooper

Homecoming is tomorrow, October 30! After snooping around the campus, listening to all of the gossip sessions in the Union, and hanging around the building of the many floats, I'm happy to predict that the Stout 1954 Homecoming will be the best since I began my snooping!

Last night I went along out to the Fairgrounds with some freshmen. There I witnessed trucks coming in with loads of wood, broken objects, and brush; kids yelling and laughing as they threw the "stuff off"; fellows and girls smiling at each other as they stood by small fires; trucks buzzing out of the grounds headed for more isolated wood piles to secure more wood to make the pile still higher; and the freshman fellows and girls throwing previously gathered tires on the heap of junk, the bonfire.

As last year, I snooped among the couples and discovered that many were just becoming newly acquainted!! I think these couples may copy others and attend Homecoming festivities together because I overheard: "I've wanted to ask you to go to the Homecoming dance for days—" "And I've had the answer ready for weeks." Come on fellows, the girls are willing to go, just ask one of 'em.

Today in an accidentally-on-purpose overheard conversation, I also heard one girl ask a fellow, "Why were you kissing my roommate by the bonfire last night?" Dubious Lynwooder answered, "Now that I've seen her in the daylight, I sort of wonder myself."

Well, tonight the five pretty girls, the Maid of Honor and Court of Honor, will begin their festive duties of assisting the pretty Homecoming Queen as she reigns over Stout's 1954 Homecoming. The whispers, happy smiles, excited laughter, I saw and heard as I snooped in locker rooms and in the Union, prove that all six are very happy. I'm glad!

Stout's Homecoming also brings back alumni. Snooping around town, I know that some even plan to stay at former rooming houses. It's fun to gossip about the "old times".

In fact, just about everything about

FRATERNITY PLEDGING STARTS WITH ZEST

Frat Pledging started Thursday evening, October 28. Pledging activities will continue for one week and some of the fraternities are planning additional activities for the following week.

Delta Kappa pledges can be recognized by the red sashes and fez hats. Their formal initiation is planned for Thursday evening, November 4.

Straw hats, canes, and frat signs will be the "give-away" apparel of the Phi Sigma pledges. Two of their special duties are putting on a skit in the union Tuesday evening, November 2, and reserving seats for Phi Sigma members for all occasions. An informal initiation and a formal initiation are scheduled for November 4 and November 11 respectively.

Next week, Sig Tau pledges may be recognized by their blue and white helmets and shields and wooden swords. Sig Tau's plan their initiation to continue for two weeks, the climax being the initiation banquet, Thursday evening, November 11. Watch for the Sig Tau Door Guards this Friday.

FOB pledges may be recognized by their black derby hats, T-shirts, black bow ties and white gloves. They are also required to carry shoe shine kits. A skit will be presented by the pledges Monday evening November 1 at 7:30 p. m. in the Union. Informal initiation will be held the following Wednesday evening and Thursday evening the Formal initiation will be held at the Anchor Cafe at 6:30 p. m.

BLOCKED PUNT GIVES PIONEERS 19-14 WIN

A blocked punt gave Platteville its winning touchdown Saturday as they defeated the Bluedevils 19-14. This closed conference play for both teams.

Platteville's Homecoming Football Game opened with the Bluedevils kicking off to the Pioneers. The Pioneers were unable to move the ball for a first down and were forced to punt on fourth down. The Bluedevils took the ball from scrimmage on their own 22 yard line and marched 78 yards for a touchdown. In this drive Stout smashed through the Platteville team for five first downs. The drive was climaxed when Ron Ebben broke loose from the Pioneer nine yard line and hit pay dirt giving Stout a 6 point lead. Leo Janis converted to give the Bluedevils a seven point edge. During this drive the Stout line played very good ball as they threw hard blocks and opened up wide gaps in the Platteville line. Dave Wendt, captain for the team, Art Goglin, Ron Wilhelm, Ed Zillman, Lyle Martens, Dick Brehm, and Al Loew were the players responsible for Stout's fine start. Skip Wick, Steve Hansen, and Ron Ebben took turns carrying the pigskin with Bill Romoser calling every play to perfection. Stout's defense looked especially sharp the first quarter as they stopped everything the Pioneers had to offer.

The second quarter opened with

Platteville in possession of the ball. The Pioneers took the ball on their own 32 yard line and took the "air-lines" as Leon Veith, Platteville's fine passer, threw nine straight pass plays which eventually netted them a touchdown when Dale Marquardt caught one in the end zone. The extra point was missed and Stout still led 7-6. Both teams continued to display fine defensive as the score stood 7-6 at the half.

Hansen Streaks 90 yards for Touchdown

The third quarter opened with Platteville kicking off to the Bluedevils. The ball went to Skip Wick, who started across the opposite side of the field and handed off to Steve Hansen on a reverse. Hansen raced at top speed all the way down the sidelines for the touchdown. The Stout team once again made another score possible as they threw some fine blocks. Janis came through with another extra point conversion giving Stout a 14-6 lead.

Platteville fought back as they returned the kickoff to their own 39 yard line. Eight plays later they were on Stout's one yard line. On the next play John Haar plunged over for the tally. The extra point was again missed and Stout still led 14-12. The Pioneers now all inspired kicked off to Stout. The Bluedevils returned the ball to the 25 yard line. After a gain of two yards Bill Romoser broke through for a long gain but a personal foul put the ball back on Stout's own 12 yard line. On fourth down Skip Wick went back in punt formation. It was here that the crucial blow struck as Bill Collien broke through the Stout defense to block the punt. The ball was deflected back into the end zone where Walt Carroll recovered it for the Pioneers. This gave Platteville a 19-14 lead in the ball game as Veith converted.

The fourth period also proved exciting as the Bluedevils took the kick off and returned it to the 11 yard line. Stout then marched all the way to the Pioneers 13 yard line where they lost the ball on downs. The Pioneers, soon after they gained possession of the ball, were forced to punt. The Bluedevils once again fought back as they went from the Stout 25 to the Pioneers 27 yard line where they ran out of downs. The reserves played stellar ball throughout this period. Dean Karreker, John Oakeson, Dennis Gerner, Al Brown, Dick Tepp, Maury Ellis, and Dave Pedro teamed with the backfield to provide Stout with a strong string. Bill Romoser and Skip Wick continued to shine in this period.

HUSKIES INVADE STOUT FOR HOMECOMING

The St. Cloud Huskies, ably coached by Les Luymes, will invade Nelson Field at 7:30 Saturday. This is expected to be one of the most exciting games of the season. The Bluedevils would like nothing more than to make this years Homecoming a complete success; while St. Cloud would like nothing more than to avenge a 19-7 loss inflicted upon them by Stout last year.

St. Cloud will be the favorite as they have again repeated last years performance by winning The Minnesota State (Teachers) College Conference. They gained the championship by defeating Moorhead Teachers College, Mankato Teachers College, Bimidi Teachers College and last week they defeated Winona Teachers College. However, the Huskies have lost two non-conference games. They lost their first game of the season 6-0 to Superior and they also lost their second game to St. John's University. St. Cloud has quite a few students from which to select football material as they have 1400 students enrolled thus far. This accounts for their strong teams as they have won three conference championships since 1951. The Huskies, whose colors are orange and black, have only eleven returning lettermen from last year but since this is the last game of the season for both teams all of their starters are pretty well seasoned as their last four games indicate.

The Huskies have a strong backfield, but shallow replacements. Their guard, center, and end positions are supposed to be the strength of the team. Coach Luymes will probably field the following line-up. At the ends will be Tom Janutka and Dave Westlund. Andy Melrose and Jim Fogo assume the tackle positions. The guards are Virg Deering and Tom Parnell. The center position is ably filled by Bill Carlson, a veteran who played quite a bit of service ball. The quarterback is Korsel. Jim Baxter will probably be the starting fullback. The break away artists for the Huskies are Don Cash and Jerry Ruchel at the halfbacks. Cash averaged 6.7 yards per carry last year.

Probably the biggest asset the Huskies have is their defense. In their four conference games they only gave up 26 points. They didn't trounce any teams by big margins as they have been unable to maintain a strong offense along with a strong defense.

Coach Jack Wink whose players have been hampered by injuries throughout the last three games of the season, sent his squad through light drills Monday in preparation for this weeks Homecoming encounter with St. Cloud. If no serious injuries result before Saturday the usual line-up will probably start. The reserves proved themselves in last weeks game so undoubtedly many of them will be in action.

This is the last game for six of Coach Winks charges as they will be lost by graduation. These players which have devoted so much of their time to the sport we all enjoy are: Dave Wendt No. 34, senior tackle

Another member of Stout's football team will also be lost by graduation.

ation. You've seen him at every game going on and off the field. He's the backbone of the Stout team. He's the fellow who tapes up the players, looks after their gear, and just about every job outside of carrying the ball in the games. Gino Casucci is his name. It takes a lot of time to handle a job like Gino's. You can be sure of one thing when Gino's at the helm; the job is always done and done right.

With all the players fighting to make Homecoming a successful one it won't be too much trouble to cheer extra loud and support our cheerleaders who are doing such a commendable job. The players will do their part, let's do our part by cheering them on to victory.

A grave digger, absorbed in his thoughts, dug a grave so deep he could not get out. Came nightfall and his predicament became more and more uncomfortable. He shouted for help and at last attracted the attention of a drunk.

"Get me out of here," he shouted, "I'm cold."

The drunk looked into the grave and finally distinguished the form of the uncomfortable grave-digger.

"No wonder you're cold," he said. "You haven't any dirt on you."

A great big beautiful car pulled up to the curb where a cute little working girl was waiting for a bus. A gentleman stuck his head out and said, "Hello. I'm driving west."

"How wonderful," said the girl, "Bring me back an orange."

WINNER OF MOOSE LODGE SCHOLARSHIP

Dale Shaver (center) is pictured at work in the woodworking shop. He won the scholarship sponsored by the Menomonie Moose Lodge. Sam Lotwin and Albert Menster of the Menomonie chapter look on.

MENOMONIE LODGE PROVIDES SCHOLARSHIP

Dale Shaver of Mooseheart Foundation Receives Moose Lodge Award

The educational opportunities which the Loyal Order of Moose made possible for a young man at their world-famous Mooseheart youth foundation are being continued for him on the college level by members of the Moose Lodge of Menomonie.

The boy is Dale Shaver. The college which he is now attending, because of a scholarship from the Menomonie Moose and a part-time job, is Stout Institute. The career for which he is preparing is the teaching of industrial arts.

Following the death of his father, Dale and his mother entered Mooseheart, the 1250 acre family and educational center which the Loyal Order of the Moose maintains 47 miles west of Chicago. Eligible for admission are the families of deceased members of the Moose Lodge.

Enrollment at Mooseheart is usually in the neighborhood of 700 youngsters and between 50 and 100 adults. Three younger members of Dale's family are still in attendance at Mooseheart.

At Mooseheart, Dale was educated from third grade through high school. He was an active participant in football, track, and senior boy scouting. An accomplished snare drummer, he was a member of Mooseheart's famous band and symphony orchestra.

Dale has the highest praise for the opportunities which the Loyal Order Mooseheart centers.

"To the family which has been deprived of a father's love and support Mooseheart represents 'another chance'. There I received an excellent education in a good environment. To any young person of school age, proper training and surroundings mean everything."

While he was undergoing the industrial arts phase of his Mooseheart education, Dale was instructed by three graduates of Stout Institute: Lionel Gardiner, woodworking teacher; Ray Luhrs, drafting instructor; and Arnold Olson, electrical teacher.

Dale's vocational adviser, one of a number of counselors responsible for the vocational guidance of all Mooseheart young people, also recommended Stout as a college preparing teachers of industrial arts.

Another factor in Dale's choice was the fact that Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of Stout, is a member of the National Advisory Council for Child Research at Mooseheart. Dr. Fryklund represents the field of vocational education and guidance on the National Council.

After contacts between Mooseheart authorities and officers of the Menomonie Moose lodge, Dale was awarded a scholarship by the Menomonie Moose, covering his fees and tuition at Stout. In addition, he defrays his other expenses through part-time work.

On the basis of experiences he has had thus far on the campus and in the classrooms of the college, Dale feels that his former Mooseheart teachers and vocational adviser were correct in deciding that his qualifications suited him for enrollment at Stout.

"I have found Stout Institute to be an excellent college. I have already benefitted personally from guidance and good teaching. The courses with which I am familiar certainly seem practical and well-presented."

Both Sam Lotwin, governor of Menomonie Moose Lodge 1584, and Albert Menster, secretary of that lodge, are in close contact with Dale's scholastic progress. In summarizing the aim of Menomonie Moose in granting Dale his college scholarship Lotwin points out:

Our Menomonie Moose chapter is very happy to take part in such a worthwhile project. Having Dale attending college in Menomonie gives us a feeling of closer association with Mooseheart. But more than that, we are carrying out the principal aim of our lodge: seeing to it that young people from families of Moose members have the opportunity to make something of themselves in this world."

PHI U INITIATES NINE WOMEN AT CEREMONY

Recently, nine outstanding junior and senior women were initiated into Phi Upsilon Omicron, the national Home Economics fraternity. The initiates this year are Mary Gehlor, senior, from Waterloo; Mary Buol, junior, from West Salem; Doris Hutchinson, junior from Poynette; Viola Wicken, junior from Rice Lake; Lillian Smith, junior from Clintonville; Helen Harry, junior from Elkhorn; Irene Novnaki, junior from Montfort; Rosemary Kelly, junior from Menomonie, and Barbara Ray, junior from Superior. The new initiates were chosen on the basis of leadership, scholastic attainment, professional attitude, and personality.

After the formal initiation service in the Tea Room, a dinner honoring the initiates was held at the Anchor Cafe. At this dinner meeting, Kay Wedin gave her report on the national Conclave held this year in Denton, Texas. Presenting the information she gained at the Phi U meetings along with her views of Texas, Kay took the girls with her on the trip to Texas.

SYMPHONIC SINGERS GIVE FALL CONCERT

Presenting their annual concert last Wednesday evening in the college auditorium were the Symphonic Singers of The Stout Institute. The group offered a program of sacred, modern, novelty, and folk music.

Appearing were the 50 piece Stout Institute concert band, the college choir, several soloists and ensemble groups, and the 100 member Symphonic Singers.

Soloists include Dorothy Belisle, well-known Menomonie pianist, and Dan Wielgus, saxophone performer from Pulaski. Miss Belisle was also heard in "Prelude of the Bells" with combined choir and band.

Directing the concert was Dr. Victor H. Hardt, chairman of the music department at Stout. The performers under Dr. Hardt's direction, recently made a television appearance.

Proceeds from the performance will be used to finance an invitational appearance of the Symphonic Singers next spring before the convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs of America. En route to the convention, to be held in Miami, Florida, the Symphonic group will travel 4000 miles, giving concerts in 10 states.

WERNER LEVI WILL SPEAK AT CONVOCATION

Dr. Werner Levi, Professor of Political Science at the University of Minnesota, will speak at the convocation Wednesday. The topic of his talk will be the Netherlands and Switzerland.

He has slides of unusual interest and beauty which he uses as a point of departure for a searching discussion of Switzerland and its place in the world today—covering economic, social and political, as well as scenic aspects.

Dr. Levi received his degree, Doctor of Jurisprudence, from the University of Fribourg in Switzerland. He is known also for his work on the Far East and has had published such books as "American-Australian Relations" in 1947 and "Free India in Asia" in 1952.

CLOTHING INSTRUCTORS ATTEND CONVENTION

A convention concerning textile and clothing curriculums was held in St. Louis on October 28, 29, and 30. The 62 people attending the convention represented 13 states of the central region. Mrs. Vanek and Miss Van Ness were the delegates from Stout.

"The Place of Home Economics in Retailing and Vocational Opportunities Other Than Teaching" was chosen as the theme. Dr. Raymond Loree from Louisiana State University and Dr. Johnny Christian from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare were consultants.

Mrs. Vanek worked with a committee on freshman curriculum and course planning, and Miss Van Ness worked with a group on graduate study. Highlights of the program included field trips to clothing manufacturing companies, a visit to the city art museum, many interesting lectures and speeches, and a luncheon and millinery show in the Statler Hotel.

EPSILON PI TAU HOLDS FORMAL INITIATION

Theta Chapter of Epsilon Pi Tau, the international honorary professional fraternity for industrial arts and vocational education, accepted seven new members into the fraternity in a formal initiation held October 30.

Members of the initiating team were Edward Treise, Bill Stern, Mr. Robert Swanson, Gordon Mavez, Jerome Abbott, Richard Sutton, Mr. Phillip Ruelh, and Dean M. M. Price.

The new members on campus are Frank Hoffman, Marvin Kufahl, Edward Prahl, John N. L. Smith, Orville Nelson, and Robert Vieths. The other new member, Wayne Pool, is an instructor in the Milwaukee school system, and past president of the Milwaukee Industrial Arts Association.

A banquet was held at the Hotel Marion following the formal initiation. Dean John A. Jarvis welcomed the new members.

POSITIONS ARE ACCEPTED BY M. S. STUDENTS

LYCEUM SERIES FOR 1954-55 IS SCHEDULED

The 1954-55 Lyceum Series for The Stout Institute has been announced by the Assembly-Lyceum committee.

The Platoff Don Cossack Chorus under the direction of Nicholas Kost-rukoff presented the first of a series of four programs on October 22.

The second program in the series will be "The Curious Savage", presented by the University of Minnesota Theatre-on Tour, January 7. The theatre group is composed of drama students from the University.

Philippe Enthement, a 20-year old French pianist will present a program of Classical and Semi-classical music for the third lyceum, March 4.

Entremont toured the United States for the first time in 1953, the highlight of the tour being an appearance in Carnegie Hall. The young pianist is visiting on the interchange program of the National Music League and the Jeunesse Musicales de France.

More classical and popular music will be presented by the Reisman Trio on April 29, to end the series.

The trio consists of three talented young sisters, all of them professional musicians. Shirley, a noted solo pianist, received much of her training in Europe. Barbara, the youngest, is not only a cellist but a gifted singer as well. Mona, the violinist, is one of New York's busiest musicians.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

The flurry and excitement of Homecoming are over, and the 1954 Stout Homecoming has been chalked up as another success. With all of the pleasant memories still lingering, it is no wonder that the tidings that "today is the end of the quarter" sort of surprised everyone. Suddenly, we had to take stock of ourselves, settle down, and cram for those exams. It seemed as though something hit us and we were not prepared to fight back.

It is too late now to try and gather up the loose ends of the last quarter. Most people think that "college bred" means a four year loaf made from the flour of youth by the old man's dough. This statement doesn't have to be true if we really want to get ahead. If we try, we can plunge into the new quarter with renewed vigor and enthusiasm and achieve some of the goals we had when we first came to Stout.

The Eyes of the Institute

Hi there!! It was nice to see so many alumni back for Homecoming. We'll try to catch up on all the latest developments around the campus.

Pins and rings are the first items of interest. Donna Harvey (55) has the ring. She is engaged to Fred Kneisler (54). The couples who are pinned are Pat Ryan and Jim Mau, Kathy Hellman and Bob Thomas, Ed Steineke and Shirley Palmer (M. H. S. 1952).

Wayne Pluckham (ex. 56) and Gary Peterson (ex. 55) visited the campus last week. They are stationed at Fort Leonard Wood in Missouri.

The strains of "Hard Hearted Hannah from Savannah" are becoming familiar around here. Ron Strayer, our new "Liberace" on campus, has been favoring a select few with his pianistic virtuosity. Pretty big words, huh?

Correction!!! Bob "Bull" Foster was rather perturbed when he saw that the "Eyes of the Institute" had made a mistake about his birthday. Bob is 21 years old, not 20.

Another celebration and another birthday----this time Mel Podolske's. Congratulations, Mel! There was a big party with angel food cake and all. But there is one sad note. Mel was so busy giving away his cake that he forgot to save a piece for himself. Tough luck, Mel! By the way, Mel is also 21 (we hope!!----hate to have to make another correction!)

Men, muscles, cats and physiology. It sounds mixed up, but really isn't. The men are Jerry Foth and Bud (the janitor). The muscles belong to both the men and the cats, and the cats belong to physiology. But here's the story. Some of the girls were having trouble skinning their cats, so Jerry Foth volunteered to help them out. Three girls and Jerry pulled and struggled but alas, the skin stayed on. Finally Bud came to the rescue. After 20 minutes of hard work the cat was conquered, and the 2 men emerged triumphant. Yes, brute strength does have its advantages!!

We've been noticing a poster in the elevator dedicated to our former elevator operator, Bill. It seems that every year Bill has bought a mum from the Alpha Sigs, and this year it just didn't seem the same. So the girls put a mum and a sign in the elevator, in memory of Bill and the flower he always bought. Nice work!

Again, hats off to all the alumni who came back. Hope you enjoyed the column as much as we enjoyed seeing you back here.

The Stout Snooper

In the not-too-distant future most Stout students will be traveling home ward bound for the annual Thanksgiving vacation. I, The Snooper, thought it would be interesting for you to know about the location of the homes of your fellow students.

So I snooped in the Registrar's reports and obtained the following information. Students here at Stout come from 15 states, as far west as Washington and east to Massachusetts. Wisconsin's total, 667, 335 women and 332 men, far out-numbers the rest. Next is Minnesota with 26 of each sex; Illinois' total is 10. Seven states have one student here. Congratulations men, you come from all 15 states while the women's homes are only in 4!

Our Hawaiian friends at Stout number 10, 3 women and 7 men. I am happy to report that there is one man each from Canada and Thailand and one woman whose home is in Japan. I think that Stout's students are a fine representation of the world's youth. (But the Snooper thinks all of you could urge out-of-state cousins or friends to attend Stout too.)

Do you know your college's total enrollment? Well, in my snooping, I discovered that the registration shows 305 freshman (23 more than last year) 197 sophomores, 151 juniors, 104 seniors, 23 graduates, and 1 post-graduate or the grand total of 781 (71 more than last year). Of this total, 143 are veterans. The increasing enrollment shows that more parents are packing up their troubles and are sending them off to college. (I'm just kidding!)

Wisconsin has 72 counties and of these only 2 are not represented at Stout. The largest number of students 89, come from Dunn Co., the home of Stout; next, Milwaukee Co. with 44; and Dane, 24. Yes, they come from near and far in the state. St. Croix Co. has 18 in attendance; Winnebago, 16; Chippewa, 19; Clark, 18; La Crosse, 15; and Winnebago, 16. Stout is not a local college.

Oh, girls, here's news! There are more men than girls on campus! (Of course, I'll admit some are wearing wedding rings.) The junior class has the largest margin of men, 27 more males than females! Prospects are good girls, although I overheard one freshman girl say, "Gee, you have to be intelligent to get into college and yet you have to be dumb to get a man!"

Only a little more than 2 weeks and you will journey to your homes in the east and west, north and south. You know, I think vacations are a little like love; anticipated with relish, experienced with inconvenience---and remembered with nostalgia.

CARYL TEASDALE WINS MISS MAIZE CONTEST

The Stout Institute students have in their midst one of Wisconsin's beauty queens, "Miss Maize of 1954," in real life Miss Caryl Teasdale, a junior in Stout's division of home economics.

Miss Teasdale was chosen to reign over the recent National Corn Picking Contest held recently on the Tracy farms at Janesville. The 19 year old coed is from Darlington. She is also drum majorette of The Stout Institute marching band.

The queen was presented to the Corn Pickers' banquet at Arrow Park. With her on the banquet program were Dan Parker, executive vice-president of Parker Pen Co., and Warren Hyde, city manager of Janesville.

Helping Miss Teasdale in her queenly duties were three attendants: Nancy Rowley, Rock county; Rose Dempsey, Whitewater; and Shirley Leopold, Monroe. Miss Teasdale was named queen in competition with a number of contestants.

ARTICLES ABOUT STOUT APPEAR IN MAGAZINE

Two articles dealing with The Stout Institute appear in the 1954 convention issue of the "Carpenter and Builder Journal," official publication of the Wisconsin State Council United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

One of the lead feature articles, "An Analysis of Apprentice Enrollments in Wisconsin Schools of Vocational and Adult Education, 1927-1953," was written by Marvin L. Krueger, who recently was granted his master's degree in the Stout graduate program.

The other article, by Dr. Thomas F. Fleming, associate professor of English and journalism at the college, is entitled "Builders Conference." It describes a conference of union representatives, contractors, and other personnel of the building trades who attended a special seminar at the college.

Krueger came to the college as a member of Local Union 460 at Wausau, having won the 1950 Wisconsin State Council of Carpenters apprentice scholarship for a Stout Institute student. He completed both his undergraduate and graduate work at Stout.

Krueger, in his article, discusses his findings in attempting to discover if there exists a uniform relation between the number of apprentice enrollments in Wisconsin cities and the population of those cities, if there is a uniform relation between apprentice enrollments in Wisconsin and the number of individuals in non-agricultural employment, and if there has been a steady increase in apprentice enrollments in Wisconsin from 1927 through 1953.

According to Krueger's conclusions, no uniform relations were discovered between enrollments and city population or between apprentice enrollments and the number of individuals in non-agricultural employment.

The writer also learned that there has been no steady increase in apprentice enrollments in Wisconsin vocational schools from 1927 through 1935. Instead there has been a series of declines and inclinations. A general decline in such enrollments has characterized the last five years of the period examined.

Dr. Fleming's article describes highlights of the Stout builders' conference, which was attended by representatives from a number of states and from Canada. The findings of the principal conference speaker, Griffith S. Clark, modular building specialist, are stressed.

Also discussed are the presentations of R. F. Luxford, U. S. Forest Products Laboratory engineer; George Soderberg, associate professor of industrial education at Stout; and Edwin Nixon and James Porter, representatives of leading manufacturing concerns.

'TACKIEST' CHARACTERS CARRY OFF PRIZES

Those attending the Tacky Drag were attired very picturesquely and carried out the theme of the evening with some worthwhile results. A grand march was held and winners of the evening's prizes were announced. Marilyn Randall and Marge Schuette were chosen as the prize winning pair and were the receivers of five dollars. Larry Loveland was picked as the "tackiest" boy and Barbara Habstrett as the most appropriately dressed girl. Larry and Barb each received a gallon jug of cider.

Corn shocks and pumpkins added to the spirit of the entertaining evening sponsored by the Delta Kappa Fraternity. Cider served as refreshment.

Dancing was to the music of George Soderberg and his Royal Blackhaws.

JEWELRY STORE WILL SPONSOR CONTEST

The Anshus Jewelry Store is sponsoring a contest in table setting for the students in the home furnishings classes this semester. Teams of girls will arrange table settings in the store. There will be individual prizes for each member of the winning teams. This contest gives the students an opportunity to become acquainted with dishes, silverware, and glasses, and to study ways to combine them attractively.

Before the students began to arrange the table setting, they were given a very informative talk by one of the people at the store. She told them a great deal about tableware.

Students are divided in groups of three or four. They make their choices of materials as a "team" but they will receive separate prizes later if their team wins.

Each group uses a complete place-setting of china, silverware, and glassware. They set up an arrangement in the store, and the staff at Anshus will duplicate this arrangement in a window display and take colored pictures of the arrangements. The table settings will be judged in two categories, one a "traditional" setting, and the second group either a "transitional" or "contemporary" setting. This latter group is planned to include combinations of traditional and contemporary (the "transitional") and those which are purely "contemporary."

Winners in the traditional table setting group will each receive a cup and saucer in the pattern which each girl chooses. Those in the "transitional" or "contemporary" group will each receive a goblet in a pattern she chooses.

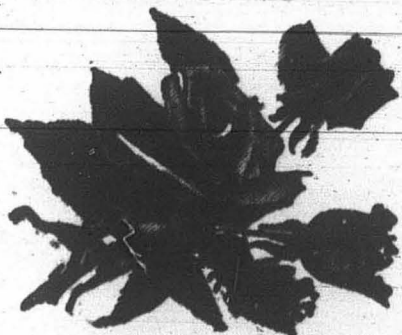

This project reflects an effort on the part of the school and the business to cooperate for their mutual benefit.

The stage crew for the M. A. P. fall play are working in earnest now on the sets. The production, "Claudia," will be presented three nights, November 18, 19, and 20.

HOME EC MEMBERS TRAVEL TO CONVENTION

Eighteen members of The Stout Institute's Home Economics Club attended the State Home Economics Club Convention in Stevens Point on October 8 and 9. Representatives were present from the six clubs in the state: Stout, University of Wisconsin, Stevens Point, Mount Mary, Milwaukee Downer, and Cardinal Stritch.

The Stout Institute delegation boarded a bus for the trip to Stevens Point. They were accompanied by their sponsor, Miss Nelson. Doris Hutchinson was voting delegate, and Norma Schlottman led group discussion.

Gloria Voigt, president of The Stout Institute Home Economics Club was the featured speaker. Gloria reported on "Impressions of The National Convention." Gloria attended the A.H.E.A. Convention in San Francisco in June 1954.

During the convention there was a tour of the campus, a visit to the home management house, entertainment, and luncheon. Miss May Roach spoke on "The Greatest Vocation," which is home economics, at the luncheon. Miss Roach is an English instructor at the Stevens Point College.

Stout Institute Home Economics Club is by far the largest in the state. Stout is looking forward to being host to the State Convention in the future.

One of two drunks standing beside a lamp-post asked his companion, "Shay, you gotta match?"

"I shink sho," said his companion. "Lemme shoo." He reached in his pocket, withdrew a stick match and rubbed the unsulphured end on the lamp-post several times. "No good," he said finally, and threw it away. He pulled out another and tried again, and threw it away. He reached into his pocket, found another match, and fortunately tried to light the proper end. It blazed up, but immediately he blew it out and thrust it back into his pocket. "Ah," he beamed, "thash a good one. Gotta save it."

M. A. P. CREWS BEGIN WORK ON "CLAUDIA"

The M. A. P. production staff for the play "Claudia" has been formed under the direction of Mr. N. C. Ziemann, acting as technical director. The various crews have begun to collect their equipment and supplies.

The publicity crews are operating by sending out radio announcements, writing news stories and designing the posters and programs for the play.

A meeting of the stage crew was held to begin the building and painting of the set. This includes the modernizing of an old farm house.

The costume committee has been busy collecting the proper costumes.

The make-up and lighting crews have been working on their parts of the project also. The make-up people have been studying the characters and experimenting with correct make-ups for these characters. The lighting crew has been busy with the experimenting of various arrangements of lighting and the planning of the lighting layout.

Mr. Ziemann has released the list of the production staff members. The stage crew consists of: Judy Gohring, Marilyn Randall, Audrey Grote, Nancy Parnesky, Nathalie Wick, Carolee Kaeker, Richard Dirschel, Tom Knutson, Larry Loveland, Catherine Todd, and Jerry Messer.

The haughty senior girl sniffed disdainfully as the tiny freshman cut in. "And just why did you have to cut in when I was dancing?" she inquired.

The freshman hung his head with shame. "I'm sorry, ma'am," he said, "but I'm working my way through college and your partner was waving a five-dollar bill at me."

A RELAXING MOMENT

M.A.P. WILL PRESENT "CLAUDIA" NEXT WEEK

Tickets for this comedy Drama Will Go on Sale Saturday Evening

Tickets for "Claudia," the three act comedy drama soon to be presented by The Stout Institute Manual Arts Players, will go on sale Monday, November 15-19 in the corridor of Harvey Hall. Tickets will also be sold before each performance at the entrance of The Stout Institute Auditorium. "Claudia" will be presented on the evenings of November 18-19-20 at 8:00 p.m.

All students will be admitted to "Claudia" upon presentation of their SSA cards. Tickets for other persons are 75 cents each.

The play is under the direction of Mr. John J. Kirby and Mr. Norman C. Zieman of The Stout Speech Department. Mr. Kirby has charge of the acting cast. Mr. Zieman will handle technical aspects of the production.

The story of "Claudia" describes Claudia's meeting with real life and her compliance to the demands of living. She is married to David, a promising young architect, and the couple live on a farm outside of New York. Between Claudia's mother and David, there exists a complete understanding of Claudia's childlike attitude towards life. As the play progresses, Claudia discovers her real self. This self-enlightenment results from three dramatic conflicts in the play.

Claudia and David Naughton are Carole Evans and Douglas Dornier. Kay Kennedy will be seen as Claudia's mother, Mrs. Evans. Zita Pappalardo and Richard Dirschedl have the roles of the elderly couple who act as caretakers for the Naughtons. Donald O'Brien plays an author who lives in the neighborhood. Kathleen Ott will be seen as Julia, David Naughton's sister-in-law, and Mary Doyle has the role of Madame Daruschna, a successful opera star of Russian origin.

In addition to presenting an evening of good entertainment, the Manual Arts Players are seeking to provide Menomonie residents with a live theatre presentation which does not require an audience to travel out of town or pay road show ticket prices.

INSTRUMENTALIST TO PERFORM FOR CONVO

An instrumentalist, Harris Nelson, will present a one man show at the next convocation.

Nelson, who is a prize winning band and choir director in Minneapolis, is known as a comedian on stage. His performance is clown-like but he comes down to earth and shows the audience that he really can play. Highlight of his show will be the playing of three trumpets at once.

Pop and personality of this 27 year old performer helps make his unusual program a hit with the audience. He is billed as "one carload of horns and one thousand laughs".

The A A U P of Stout, Eau Claire, and River Falls will hold their annual banquet at River Falls tomorrow. This is both a professional and social affair.

SWITZERLAND IS TOPIC OF DR. LEVI'S LECTURE

"Mountains create democracy," stated Dr. Werner Levi at the convocation Wednesday. With his beautiful colored slides he took the audience inside Switzerland.

"The Swiss are enterprising people as they keep pace with the modern time". He brought out the fact that some of their homes may look old on the outside but they have all modern conveniences inside. The people are very progressive and readily adapt themselves to new developments. They have a high standard of living. Four languages are spoken in this country.

Red geraniums, fountains, and elaborately painted houses are the characteristics of the Swiss villages. The machine and watch industry are most prominent in this country as there are few resources. The Swiss believe that "labor is a human being and not a commodity". They treat it as such. Dr. Levi proved that the Swiss have a strong sense of democracy by telling how the shops in the villages close down during haying time. The people collect cooperatively but enjoy the profits individually.

"May and June are the best times to visit Switzerland," stated Dr. Levi, "because the scenery is the most beautiful at this time." The country is extremely pretty and the Swiss people love it. In closing his talk he showed scenes of the mountains at various times during the sunset.

INSURANCE CO. IS SPONSORING CONTEST

The Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company is sponsoring a college newspaper contest on safe driving. The contest is open to any college newspaper or student in the United States and Canada.

The purpose of this contest is to encourage safe driving among college students -- particularly during the winter holiday season -- through college publications. Twenty-one hundred dollars in cash prizes will be awarded for the most effective entries.

Material submitted for judging must have appeared in a college publication between November 15 and December 18, inclusive. All entries become the property of the sponsor and can be used, with or without credit, by the sponsor for safety publicity and contest promotion.

Entries will be judged on the originality of material, method of presentation to the reader, and general effectiveness and vigor of the campaign or individual entry. Decisions of the judges will be final. All entries must be postmarked no later than midnight, January 15, 1955.

Anyone on the Stout campus who is interested in this contest should contact Mr. Lloyd Whydolski or Gordon Mayes for further information about this contest.

LYNDA BESSLER WILL REIGN AT ROSE DANCE

The Sigma Tau Gamma Fraternity Will Crown 34th Annual Rose Queen Saturday Evening

Tomorrow night at 8:30 will be the start of the sixth annual Rose Dance sponsored by the Sigma Tau Fraternity.

Lynda Bessler, a sophomore from Kiel, Wisconsin, will reign as Queen over the Rose Dance this year.

In keeping with the fraternities 34 year old tradition, Stout's chapter of Sigma Tau Gamma has chosen Lynda Bessler to be this year's Rose Queen.

Lynda is Secretary of the Sophomore Class, an active member of the Home Ec. Club, W.R.A., Ski Club, Tower, and Wesley. She was on the Dean's List during her freshman year and was a candidate for Snow Queen in that year. At the present time she is a pledge of the Pallas Athene Sorority.

Lynda's court consists of two pretty popular girls, Barbara Rowe and Donna Neerhof.

Tickets to the dance will be sold for $1.75 a couple in advance in the halls of Harvey Hall. As in the past, everyone who attends the dance will be allowed an extension of hours to 1:00 A.M. Music will be by George Soderberg and his Royal Blackhaws.

The coronation of the Queen will take place just preceding the intermission. Mr. Arneson, one of the fraternity advisors, will place the crown of white roses on the Queen's head.

Guests for the evening are: Dr. and Mrs. John Jarvis, Mr. and Mrs. Herman A. Arneson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Swanson, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Adams, Dr. and Mrs. Guy Salyer, and Miss Carol Duncan and escort.

Jim Warnecke, Chairman, in charge of the dance, and John Posewitz in charge of decorations will help make this year's Rose Dance a success.

Or, do you just want to treat yourself?

Fruit cakes, jammed full of fruits and nuts, will be sold in one pound loaves at one dollar a piece during the weeks of November 16-19 and 22-23 by the Dietetics Club. Maybe this will solve your problem.

Saran wrapped, tied with bright ribbon, with plastic cellophane, the bows, these cakes will be sold in Harvey Hall. Orders will not be taken this year.

Dietetics club members have begun making 300 pounds of this traditional holiday goodie. Profits from the sale will be used to further the club's activities. The twenty-eight dietetic majors have speakers as part of their program. Recently they heard an interesting talk on dietetics internship.

S.C.F. MEMBERS WILL TRAVEL TO EAU CLAIRE

Dresses that are 100 years old and dresses that we wear today will be modeled. Doris Hutchinson and Nat Wick reported on the State Home Economics Club Convention held previously at Stevens Point.

Lunch was served by Lois Jensen and her committee.

You may still become a member of the Home Economics Club. Dues are one dollar per semester and may be paid to Barbara Ness.

The Stout Snooper

Guess what? In this week's snooping, I discovered that on your campus are the members of the largest Home Economics Club in the entire United States! In the nation there are 434 college clubs with 20,163 members or an average membership of about 46. Yes, The Stout Institute Home Economics Club membership of 230 is quite a record! There are 100 freshman members, 67 sophomores, 43 juniors, and 20 seniors, plus 2 adult advisors. (Girls, being a member is a prerequisite for becoming a member of the Phi Upsilon Omicron, Stout's women's honor fraternity.)

Each year there is a state convention held on one of the campuses of the following Wisconsin schools which have Home Ec. Clubs: U. of Wis., Mount Mary, Cardinal Stritch, Milwaukee Downer, Stevens Point or Stout. In October, 18 Stout girls and an advisor attended this year's convention. (Last year it was held on the Stout campus!) I heard one girl telling a girl friend as she left, saying: "While I'm gone, you can continue what I was working on—but that does not include..."

Spying into the year's program, I noticed that Stout's Club has a variety of activities providing the opportunities to develop leadership or professional phases through participation in a style revue, food sale, sponsored dance, supper and card sale, etc. The club's annual projects include a square dance welcoming new students, The Christmas Tea, Freshman Green Tea and the Senior Breakfast.

In my years of snooping, I've noticed that "snoops" of former Stout Home Ec. Club members never say, "Well, she finally made her first money since graduating from Stout. She sold the watch we gave her for graduation."

The symbol of this club is the "betty lamp" representing the application of science to the improvement of the home. These lamps are open work iron lamps which the first New England pioneers brought with them to this country. This theme is being carried out in this year's special topic meetings with guest speakers. Men, of special interest to you are the topics, Finishes for the Home, Buying or Building a Home, and Electricity, the Spark of the Home. And girls, I've snooped and I'm sure that these talks won't be given by speakers who will go back and forth over one idea like a stocking darning!

Yes, I as the Snooper, think that Stout can be proud of its Home Economics Club.

P.S. Remember to attend the Home Ec. Club sponsored Pancake Supper on Nov. 20 and the "Turn Back the Clock" Dress Revue on Nov. 30.

The Eyes of the Institute

Nancy Gunderson Reimers (ex 55) and her husband Mark (ex 54) are visiting the campus this week. Mark is now in the Air Force, stationed in Denver. Nice to see you bark!

Correction: (This always happens to us!) Mel Podolski is now 22, not 21 as we reported.

Basil Holder, transfer, is talented as well as humorous. It seems that last Friday night he entertained about 40 kids in the Union with his little banjo. Later he took it down to the mixer where he supplied background music for the Home Ec. Club skit. Lovely, lovely!! He also took an I. Q. test in Ed Psych the other day, and much to the amazement of everyone he came out with the brilliant statement, "I've suddenly developed an inferiority complex." Oh, Basil!!

Carole Evans will be married this November to John (Mark) Breitzman who is now in the service. Carole is a freshman, and has the lead in the play "Claudia", which will be produced next weekend.

Another marriage-to-be: Eileen Myrick will be married in January to Merlin "Speed" Halverson.

Congratulations!!!! The Union finally got some new playing cards! Will miracles never cease?

A photographer sure does have his troubles, doesn't he, Mr. Russell? After a hectic night of taking organization pictures, who does he meet up with but the Delta Kappa fraternity, fresh out of their initiation party. It seems Joel Lapke said something rather hilarious to Dave Wendt, which started everyone laughing—but — we didn't catch what was said. If you're curious, why don't you ask one of the boys?

Pledge week for the fraternities is now over. However, the F. O. R.'s square meal was one event that can't pass without mention. The setting: a well packed cafeteria. The food: well, ask Carl Spursted — he was last seen trying to swallow a potato, whole. Trouble? You bet!

A closing note — the women instructors had their dinner with the Sig Tau pledges last Sunday night. From reports we hear that a good time was had by all.

Adios, fellow students. We'll be back next week with more tales of student capers.

LETTER FROM A STOUT GRAD IN HAWAII

(The following is part of a letter received by Dr. Ralph Iverson from a Stout graduate of 1950, Herbert Watanabe.)

"I have so long wanted to write a few lines to you but never got around to it. Well, here I am and I'll try to give you a brief "history" of what has happened since I graduated from Stout back in 1950.

I returned home to take up a position in professional Scouting as a Field and District Scout Executive with the Boy Scouts of America and was employed in that position for two years. After two years of much traveling, I decided that it would be difficult for me to continue at the pace I was going, so I left Scouting and came into teaching.

I have been here at Pahala High School since I have started teaching. It is situated on the island of Hawaii which is commonly called the "Big Island". This school is, technically, the Southern most high school in the United States since it lies nearest the equator. Our students are mixed which is common of Hawaii. Racially, the students are Japanese, Filipino, Portuguese, Korean, Hawaiian, Haole (White), Chinese, and a great many "Haps" (mixed).

Our school curriculum is basically set up by the Territorial Department of Public Instruction in Honolulu. There is much stress today in guidance and I think that is one subject that could be broadened in college.

Our Territory lacks teachers. Each year more than three hundred are needed, other than what the University of Hawaii can train. It is surprising to note that we do get as many acceptances from mainland teachers to fill in the need, but the need increases each year since not all stay here to live.

I am teaching a full industrial arts course for six periods. The shop layout is for a General Course and we cover such as in metals, finishing, hand and machine woodwork, and a general course in drawing. In addition to industrial arts, I have the year book production class.

If there is anything I can do to help you know more about our educational system here in Hawaii, I'll be more than glad to secure the information and forward it to you. Aloha and Mahalo.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Wischan and their two daughters, Ann Marie and Patty Jane, live at 150 Quail Street, Stratford, Conn. Mrs. Wischan is the former Lillian Baxter. Mr. and Mrs. Wischan both received their B.S. in 1941. Carl taught eight years at Stratford High School, was Assistant Plant Engineer for five years at Tito Roofing Company, Stratford, and at present is part owner and secretary-treasurer of Wilcar Products Inc., Stratford, which is a contract machining shop specializing in precision aircraft work, tools, and fixtures. Lillian has been doing substitute teaching for the past two years and is also active in Girl Scout and Brownie Scout work.

General sales manager for Sanco Motors is Earl L. Morrison. His address is P. O. Box 1561, Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Mrs. Lorin J. Lucius, the former Rita Ryan, B. S. 1946, lives at 1514 A North 60th Street, Wauwatosa, Wisconsin. She has one son, Mark Joseph, age three.

Stationed at Healy, Alaska is Cpl. Aaron T. Van Deventer, Jr., B. S. 1952. He operates a switchboard for Western Union and Bell Telephone Company. During his spare time he does maintenance work on the equipment at the station. Since arriving in Alaska he has taken interesting trips to Anchorage, Fairbanks and Mt. McKinley Park. In April he hopes to spend a 30 day leave at Seattle. His address is Box 25 ACS, Healy, Alaska.

RECEIVING THE MESSAGE

GRADUATE STUDENT IS 'HAM' RADIO OPERATOR

Charles Thomas Takes On Roles of Grad Student, Teacher, and Father

Mr. Thomas is busily engaged in his graduate work at the present time while playing the role of husband and father.

He and his wife, Ruth, are graduates of Stout. Mrs. Thomas is the home economics teacher at the Dunn County School of Agriculture and Mr. Thomas has been teaching free hand drawing here at The Stout Institute. They have a son, Larry, six, and a daughter, Lynn, two and one-half.

Thomas is a member of the Radio Club and E. P. T. He formerly played a tenor sax in several local orchestras. As another one of his hobbies, he, his family and his father recently returned from bow hunting near Clam Lake.

The Army Signal Corps gave Mr. Thomas the "know-how" of a "radio amateur" or so-called "radio ham."

Amateur radio is a direct private experimental communication, from one's own home, on apparatus you have built yourself, with other amateurs similarly equipped. Factory made transmitters and receivers may be purchased for a reasonably low price.

Anyone may become an amateur at any age or from any walk of life, so long as he follows the three following steps. Step one — Learn something about radio, assembling a station and learning the code. Step 2 — Acquire a knowledge of the amateur operating practices, customs, etc. Step 3 — Acquire the government station and operator licenses from the Federal Communications Commission at Washington, D. C.

Mr. Thomas followed these steps and received his license in October of 1953. From his home station in Colorado Springs, Colorado, he reached cities on both coasts as well as many throughout the United States. He and his family lived in Colorado for three years where he taught at the senior high school and also taught hand crafts at the Y. M. C. A.

Thomas stated that he would encourage anyone interested in radio work to work for a license because there is no limit to the experimentation in this field. Many important electronic discoveries have been made by "hams," and in times of disaster they may assist the Red Cross with their emergency equipment. He added that he has handled several messages between different persons and one of these was from Madison to Menomonie.

Also, each day at noon and 6:00 P. M. the "Badger Phone Net" becomes active. Through this messages are handled throughout the state between many of its radio "hams." Most states have such set-ups.

Besides his indoor "station," he is now building a complete set for his car. Some states issue special license plates for the car with the radio amateur's call number on it. The call number of Mr. Thomas is W10 RAP-9.

In the words of Mr. Thomas, "It's limitless what one can do with this type of hobby because of the variety of things there are to experiment with. And every ham is constantly experimenting."

CURTAIN RISES ON FALL PLAY "CLAUDIA"

The curtain on The Stout Institute's annual fall stage production, "Claudia," went up Thursday evening at 8 p.m. Members of the cast had put in long hours of rehearsal. Stage crews were ready with the scenery, lighting, costumes, and properties for opening night. The play will be presented again this evening and Saturday evening at 8 P.M. in the college auditorium.

Mr. John J. Kirby, who is directing "Claudia" stresses the fact that the cast for "Claudia" was chosen as an ensemble, rather than as specific individuals. He has therefore worked toward a balanced, blended presentation on the part of the actors.

Norman C. Ziemann, chairman of Stout's department of speech, is technical director for the play. According to Ziemann, the technical aspects of the production were given much attention:

"The designing and building of the set went ahead smoothly. We hope we have provided a stage setting which is a realistic background for the actors."

Ziemann's stage crews worked hard to reproduce a comfortable, home-like living room, typical of a remodeled New York state farm house. Styled in blue and white, the living room is furnished in early American maple.

Tickets for this evening's performance and for Saturday evening will be on sale, at 75 cents each, at the door of the auditorium. Students will be admitted free upon presentation of their SSA cards.

PRESIDENT AND FACULTY GO TO CONVENTION

Taking an active part in the recent Wisconsin Education Association convention in Milwaukee were President Verne C. Fryklund and numerous members of the Stout Institute faculty.

In addition to Dr. Fryklund, members of the industrial education division in attendance included Dean John A. Jarvis, Ray A. Wigen, Dr. Ralph G. Iverson, Dr. Robert Rudiger, Dr. Dwight Agnew, Dr. J. Edgar Ray, Ray Kranzsch, C. L. Rich, and Raymond L. Cornwell.

Many of the men took active parts in the convention program. Dr. Iverson served as consultant to the Wisconsin Association of Educational and Vocational Guidance. Dr. Agnew served as the official delegate for the Stout W.E.A. chapter.

Dr. Robert Rudiger served as chairman for the W. E. A. sectional meeting on general shop. He led a group discussion dealing with general shop organization. Other topics discussed by the 42 persons in attendance included evaluation of student attainment, written instruction sheets, shop area arrangements, and proposed methods of teaching drawing in a general shop. He also attended general sessions 1 and 3 and the meeting of the Wisconsin Industrial Arts association as well.

Dr. Rudiger was also active at an alumni get-together at the convention.

Raymond Cornwell represented Stout at the executive committee meeting of the association of Wisconsin State College Faculties. He had been appointed alternate to Dwight Agnew.

Mr. Cornwell also served as president-elect of the sectional meeting of the graphic arts delegates. Next year he will be in charge of that section during the state-wide W. E. A. convention.

Three feminine representatives of The Stout Institute faculty also took active roles in the convention. Dr. Alice J. Kirk was selected chairman of the committee which will nominate officers to lead the Wisconsin Home Economics association in 1955.

Miss Gertrude M. O'Brien, placement chairman at Stout, attended the annual meeting of the Wisconsin College Placement Officers. Delegate to the state executive board meeting of Delta Kappa Gamma was Miss Ellen Nelson. She is president of Kappa chapter of that organization, the chapter composed of members from Menomonie, Eau Claire and Chippewa Falls.

Miss Nelson also represented Stout Institute at the Wisconsin Home Economics Council meeting. This gathering was also held in conjunction with the W. E. A. convention.

The course is offered the second semester of each college year and is taught by Dr. Thomas F. Fleming, associate professor of English and Journalism at Stout. Graduate students will be accepted into the course this January.

Feature writing, a two credit course numbered English 410, from 3-4 p.m. each Tuesday and Thursday. Students enrolled are required to prepare and submit feature articles for potential publication. ## HARRIS NELSON PUTS AUDIENCE IN STITCHES

Fifty minutes of laughter well describes the Wednesday convocation at which Harris Nelson, instrumentalist, performed. Accompanied on the piano by his wife, he played a variety of musical instruments.

Applying the comedian style of Bob Hope, he opened his program with a trumpet duet. He then played several numbers on two baritone horns which were fastened together. Using a long box which contained medicine bottles filled with water, he played "White Christmas."

A "sweet potato" was the next object he performed with. Mr. Nelson attempted to play a piece, but after several unsuccessful attempts, he finally gave it up as "the thing squeaked." He put it aside and with an accordion he played two pieces.

Taking his accordion and two trumpets, he showed the audience how he could play three instruments at the same time. Next, with a carpenter's saw and a violin bow, he "ripped off a number." He said that he was the only musician in the United States who could play a piece on the saw and the accordion at the same time. However, he performed this stunt by sitting on the accordion.

Still clowning, he proceeded to play a trumpet solo, this time using a bicycle horn to play the high notes.

Mr. Nelson followed this act by playing "Holy City" on the trombone. While standing on one foot, he then played a trombone and cornet duet. After playing three pieces on the piano, which seemed to be "hot," he closed his program by playing a selection on three trumpets.

PRESIDENT AND DEAN TRAVEL TO CONFERENCE

Taking an active part in the 41st annual meeting of the Industrial Arts Conference, held recently in Chicago, were two administrative officers of The Stout Institute.

Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of Stout, served as general chairman of the meeting and is also permanent chairman of the Industrial Arts Conference. Dr. John A. Jarvis, dean of Stout's division of industrial education, reported to delegates on the findings from two educational studies.

Membership in the Industrial Arts Conference is limited to industrial educators in the Mississippi Valley, and is based upon invitations to heads of industrial arts departments and to members of state boards dealing with industrial education. All persons chosen for membership must be leaders in the field.

Among the meetings for which Dr. Fryklund served as general chairman were those dealing with "Effective and Ethical Recruitment of Young Men and Women for the Profession of Teaching, Especially Industrial Arts" and "The Crafts Problem and Its Rightful Place: In Art or Industrial Arts." He also presided over the final business session of the conference.

Dean Jarvis reported to the conference session devoted to "Recent Important Research Bearing on Industrial Arts Education." He described a Stout Institute study dealing with student survival factors at Stout and a similar study showing the relationship between student achievement at Stout and the size of the high school graduation class from which those students attended The Stout Institute.

Formerly the Mississippi Valley Industrial Arts Conference, now the present Industrial Arts Conference, has been an active organization for 45 years. During the years of World War II, it voluntarily suspended four of its annual meetings to ease the transportation crisis.

Dr. Fryklund has been permanent chairman of the conference since 1940. He succeeded Mr. William T. Bowden, well known for his work as assistant U. S. Commissioner of Education, editor of the "Industrial Education" magazine, and former head of the industrial education department.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

In spite of the shining successes of American education and the tremendous strides of progress it has made since the early days of the Plymouth colony, the United States is still faced with a number of major problems.

The first problem is a shortage of school facilities. Even colleges face the problem of a shortage of classrooms.

A second problem is simply that not enough teachers are being provided to fill the classrooms. More than half of the students in the United States drop out of school between the fifth grade and graduation from high school. Similarly, almost half of the 4-year college students fail to graduate.

There are several reasons why a college education is important. Today our generation is living in a very complex society. In order to cope with the problems of this society, a college education is almost a necessity. Another is America's position in the world. The population of the United States today is roughly only a fourth that of China and Russia combined -- not counting the population of the rest of the world. These statistics show that there is a need for making the maximum use of every American student. These students are the ones who will be called on to make the responses to the challenges which the United States will face in the future.

Perhaps as we bow our heads in thanksgiving next Thursday, we can add a little extra prayer to show our gratitude that we have been chosen to help protect our country - America - through education.

L. S. A. IS HOST TO INTR-RELIGIOUS GROUP

The L. S. A. served as hosts at the Inter-religious Council monthly supper meeting. It was held at our Savior's Church at 5:30 P. M. There were 24 present.

President Judy Day gave the proposed yearly budget and reported, the amount which each young people's group will be asked to contribute according to membership. Joan Morneau thanked everyone for their help on the Homecoming float. Several compliments were received on our float this fall. Speakers and activities for Religious Emphasis and Brotherhood Week are being worked out. It was suggested that perhaps Brotherhood and Religious Emphasis Week be combined and held the week before the Ecumenical Convention which will be held at The Stout Institute on March 11, 12, and 13.

There will be no December meeting. The January 15th meeting will be held at St. Joseph's Church with the Newman Club as hosts.

As another professional project this year, the officers of Phi U presented a panel discussion for the freshmen girls' personal development course, taught by Dean Alice J. Kirk. The Phi U officers informed the freshmen girls about this honorary organization. Presenting the different phases of the organization were the following girls: Jean Baker, history of Tau chapter; Mary Lou Anderson, history of Phi Upsilon Omicron, the national organization; Pat Jensen, yearly professional projects; Carol Bredlow, permanent professional projects; Kay Wiedin, national convales; Jo Fritz, social activities; Delores Sauey, alumni chapter; Ginny Lathrop, membership requirements. A nurse in a mental hospital noticed a patient with his ear close to the wall listening intently. The patient held up a finger as a warning to be quiet. Then he beckoned the nurse over and said "Listen here."

The nurse listened for some time and then said, "I can't hear anything." "No," said the patient, "and it's been like that all day."

FOUNDATION IS OFFERING SCHOLARSHIPS

The Danforth Foundation, an educational trust fund in St. Louis, Missouri, invites applications for the fourth class (1965) of Graduate Fellowships from college senior men and recent graduates who are preparing themselves for a career of college teaching, and are planning to enter graduate school in September, 1965, for their first year of graduate study. The Foundation welcomes applicants from the areas of Natural and Biological Sciences, Social Sciences, Humanities and all fields of specialization to be found in the undergraduate college.

President Verne C. Fryklund has named Dr. R. G. Iverson as the Liaison Officer to nominate to the Danforth Foundation two or not to exceed three candidates for these fellowships. These appointments are fundamentally "a relationship of encouragement" throughout the years of graduate study, carrying a promise of financial aid within prescribed conditions as there may be need. The maximum annual grant for single Fellows is $1800; for married Fellows, $2400. Students with or without financial need are invited to apply. A Danforth Fellow is allowed to carry other scholarship appointments, such as Fulbright, Woodrow Wilson, G.E.B., etc., concurrently with his Danforth Fellowship, and applicants for these appointments are cordially invited to apply at the same time for a Danforth Fellowship. If a man receives the Danforth appointment, together with a Rhodes Scholarship, Fulbright Scholarship, or Woodrow Wilson Fellowship, he becomes a Danforth Fellow without stipend, until these other relationships are completed.

All Danforth Fellows will participate in the annual Danforth Foundation Conference on Teaching, to be held at Camp Minnawaca in Michigan next September. The qualifications of the candidates as listed in the announcement from the Foundation are: men of outstanding academic ability, personality congenial to the classroom, and integrity and character, including faith and commitment within the Christian tradition.

All applications, including the recommendations, must be completed by February 15, 1965. Any student wishing further information should get in touch with Dr. R. G. Iverson, our Liaison Officer.

Drafting instructor at Robbinsdale, Minnesota is William E. Wivell, who received his B.S. in 1938. He is married and has two sons.

Howard L. Schneider, B.S. 1949, has been promoted recently to principal of Central elementary school. He is married, has one son, and lives at 20 Pomeroy Avenue, Crystal Lake, Illinois.

The food instructor at the Green Bay Vocational School is Miss Helen Williams, B.S. 1941. She lives at 621 N. Broadway, DePue, Wisconsin.

BLUEDEVILS ARE TRAINING FOR BASKETBALL

The Stout Institute Blue Devils have been practicing for the past 19 days under the leadership of coach Ray Johnson. This year coach Johnson is confronted with the task of rebuilding the team as he has only three returning lettermen. Although the team is relatively short in height, the Blue Devils will have speed and spirit.

Coach Johnson has appointed Gale Woelffer as his assistant coach. Gale will be in charge of the Freshman Varsity, having the power to promote any member he feels qualified to participate with the varsity.

The Stout Varsity will be composed of 17 men. Of these 17 players, 12 are freshmen. The freshmen are as follows:

Jim Bohm, Escanaba, Mich.; Steve Buty, Clinton, Ia.; Dennis Challeen, Brahm, Minn.; Jack Corey, Greenwood, Ill.; Gelsert, Menomonie; Dave Kamish, Menomonie; Dick Johnson, Virginia, Minn.; Bill McGovern, Escanaba, Mich.; Jann Peterson, Menomonie; Jim Schletty, St. Paul, Minn.; Rich Vogtsberger, Menomonie; and Jim Molitor, Elk Mound.

Another member of the team is Basil Holder, a transfer from La Crosse and former high school captain at Black River Falls. Mike Wingert from Menomonie, who spent time in the service, is also back.

The three returning lettermen are

130 ENJOY THE YEAR'S FIRST FORMAL EVENT

Your best girl, soft lights, beautiful surroundings, delightful music by George Soderberg and his Royal Blackhawks; what more could a person ask for? All of these things were enjoyed by the sixty-five couples who attended the 1954 Sigma Tau Gamma Rose Dance.

The highlight of the evening was the coronation of the queen, Sigma Tau Gamma members and their dates marched in and formed a large "V" in front of the throne as the Royal Blackhawks played the Rose Song. Mr. Swanson then placed a white rose crown on the head of Lynda Bessler, making her officially the 1954 Rose of Sigma Tau.

Picket fences, lattices and hundreds of pink, white, and red roses made the Stout Gym look like the first day of spring. At the south end, perched on their individual shelves, were little white puppies trimmed with blue ribbons spelling out in huge Greek letters, Sigma Tau Gamma. These puppies were given to the dates of the men of Sig Tau in place of corsages.

The dance was a gratifying success and Sigma Tau Gamma wishes to thank everyone who attended.

Clerk: "Here's a pretty card with lovely sentiment: 'To the only girl I ever loved.'"

SONG OF THE HARVEST

The glad harvest greets us; brave toiler for bread;
Good cheer! the prospect is brighter ahead;
Like magic, the plentiful sunshine and rain
Have ripened our millions of acres of grain;
And the poorest, the wolf may keep from his door--
There'll be bread and to spare another year more.

So sing merrily, merrily,

As we gather it in;
We will store it away gladly
In garner and bin.

We hailed with delight, yet tempered with fear,
The corn as it grew from the blade to the ear;
Lest haply, though large is the surplus in store,
That bread might be dearer for twelve months or more,
But the sunshine and rain, how they ripened the grain
That waited the sickle over hillside and plain!

So sing merrily, merrily,

As we gather it in;
We will store it away gladly
In garner and bin.

Oh, ne'er let us question the Wisdom which guides
Our feet in green pastures, and for us provides;
Who now, as aforetime, His glory displays,
In the bounty that crowns our autumnal days;
Let the glad tidings echo the continent o'er
There'll be bread and to spare another year more!

So sing merrily, merrily,

As we gather it in;
We will store it away gladly
In garner and bin.

Henry Stevenson Washburn

THANKSGIVING IS CENTURIES OLD

Around the Mediterranean, early people called Thanksgiving a feast to the earth Mother and her child. Among the ancient Hebrews, it was Moses who instructed his people to the idea of being thankful. "...after thou hast gathered in from the threshing floor...shalt thou keep a feast unto the Lord thy God."

The Greeks, even when their city-states were warring with each other, held a general truce for the autumnal festival of Demeter. Romans marked the harvest with the Cerealia, after the goddess Ceres.

In 1621, when the Pilgrim Fathers held their first Thanksgiving in Plymouth Colony, they were not strangers to the custom. They had taken part in similar observances in both England and Holland.

Yet Thanksgiving as an annual national observance is firmly established as a custom of the New World in the United States and Canada. And it was Abraham Lincoln who, in 1863, formalized Thanksgiving as a regular national holiday in the United States.

THANKSGIVING IS A DAY FOR WORSHIP

When John, Mary, and Faith set out to church that morning nearly 300 years ago, it was with a deep sense of Thankfulness.

It had been a busy but good year. Now they had a small cabin, built after cutting and dragging heavy logs from the woods. They had cleared, planted, and harvested a small plot of ground. They had survived serious illnesses, and the future stretched promisingly across the land of freedom and boundless opportunity.

But through all their thoughts ran a note of deepest gratitude because no one could tell them how they must worship. They were free to do as they pleased.

Today, in America, you still have this privilege of going to the church you choose, of working and living where you choose.

In America -- with material, education, and spiritual advantages not even dreamed of in other lands -- every day is Thanksgiving Day.

STOP AND THINK!

When you sit down Thanksgiving Day

To gobble up the chows,
Stop a moment now and then,
And ask yourself some how's.
How did this special day commence?
How long has this been done?
How many of us really know how
This day was begun?

Those precious foods upon the table
Are an aftermath of strife,
When Plymouth Rock was desolation
With a sprinkling of Pilgrim life.

When digging in the cranberries
Or chewing on a wing
Give thought to the occasion—
Yes, here's another thing:
Don't overlook your fortunes;
Think back to those before.
Realize your opportunities.
Then dig in for some more!

THREE CHEERS FOR THANKSGIVING DAY

Hail, Thanksgiving, that American institution for taking stock of our good fortune. Hail, family dinner, followed by the mutual stupefaction and good will that make all relatives kin. Hail, pie, indigenous to us—the tangy mince, the cinnamon pumpkin. Hail, small fry, sitting on the dictionary, coping with the wish bone and the drumstick. Hail, Grandma and Grandpa, to whose house over the hill we go. Hail, Halcyon Thursday, a jeweled gift out of the long week and the long year for rest, relaxation, and resumes. And hail to you, gentle reader, for whom we are profoundly thankful. Happy turkey.

THE 1954 THANKSGIVING

For the moon and the stars that shine,
For the Stout hearts that beat with mine,
For my home and its daily care,
For dreams that grow along the years
For those friends whom I hold most dear,
For my senses, e'er keen and clear,
For the seasons which come and go,
For the books I've learned to know,
For music and its lovely way,
For the sun pouring out gold all day,
For the hills of my native land,
And the clasp of a child's hand,
For the life that binds me to these
Let me be thankful, dear God-please!

The Stout Snooper

One-hundred years ago, President Lincoln proclaimed the 4th Thursday in November as Thanksgiving, a legal holiday in all states, territories and possessions.

In my snooping, I discovered that the origin of this day is attributed to a group of Pilgrims. These Pilgrims landed in winter and suffered through a bleak winter; then in spring, seeds were sown. And in the fall, abundant crops were harvested. The Pilgrim men went hunting and had good luck; 'then the women prepared a feast of good food in thanks for the bountiful harvest. Friendly Indians were the Pilgrims' special guests at this Thanksgiving feast which lasted one week!

During the following years, Thanksgiving meals were held at various times of the year in some parts of the country, but Gov. Bradford took the first step toward nationalizing this distinctively American tradition. But the states still didn't celebrate this festival on the same day. Girls, then a woman editor, Mrs. Sarah Hale, wrote "powerful" editorials advocating the uniformity of a day set aside for the expression of thanks for the blessings of the year. She persuaded Pres. Lincoln to issue his Thanksgiving Proclamation of 1864.

Thanksgiving is traditionally observed by church services, family reunions, dinners and home festivities. But in my snooping, I uncovered some uncommon customs. An old world custom is practiced in many eastern states. Children dress in costumes of elders, cover their faces with masks, parade down streets blowing tin horns and solicit money or contributions of fruits and vegetables. This Scotch custom was formerly used on New Year's Day.

In the middle of the last century, it was fashionable to dine and then hold country-wide receptions. (Nowadays, I suppose hostesses would have to book a cook or else have a Stout grad prepare the food for such a large reception!) Other former traditions were holding raffles of fowl on the eve. Men, they also used to hold shooting matches.

"Over the river and through the woods to grandfather's house we'll go" for a Thanksgiving dinner. That was the theme years ago; now it's "Such traffic—we drove five hours a mile!" A typical dinner includes the principle dish, roast turkey (long ago, also a side-dish of pigeon), cranberry sauce, varieties of vegetables, apples, nuts, mince and pumpkin pie and sweet cider.

Of course youngsters in the family especially enjoy this big dinner; after all, meal time is when youngsters sit down to continue eating. Yes my snooping proves that Thanksgiving feast competes with the Christmas dinner for indigestion!

It is good that there is one time of the year when you stop to think of the things for which you are thankful. They are numberless, but the seven wonders are: life itself (enjoying life), the world itself (hill and vale, the snowflakes), the home and bodies, (blessing of family, hearing voices), ability of human beings to love and be loved (security), power of prayer (brings peace), love of God (the greatness of the universe), and partnership with God (thanksgiving). Yes, I the Snooper, think that you need to give personal thanks to God for your blessings at this happy time of year, Thanksgiving!

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Thanksgiving . . . what does it mean to you? A few days of vacation, good food, a family reunion, is that all there is to your Thanksgiving? Or do you include that often overlooked, the actual reason for celebrating this festive day, the thanking of God for his wonderful and abundant gifts throughout the days and years?

Many years ago, 1620 to be exact, the Pilgrims landed on our shores. To be sure, they had their long sought freedom, and they were happy. Yet, what else did they have? Long days of toil and starvation stood ahead of them, but they survived and with grateful hearts celebrated their first Thanksgiving. How many of us would be thankful if we had to go back now and share what little they had compared to our way of life. Yes, we are fortunate, but are we thankful as the pilgrims were? They thanked God and were blessed doubly, to be sure. Let us also remember our obligation to give thanks, not only on Thanksgiving day, but on every day of the year.

EVERY DAY THANKSGIVING

Sweet it is to see the sun
Shining on Thanksgiving Day,
Sweet it is to see the snow
Fall as it came to stay;
Sweet is everything that comes,
For all makes cheer, Thanksgiv-
Fine is the pantry's goodly store,
And fine the heaping dish and tray;
Fine the church-bells ringing; fine
All the diners' great array.
Things we'd hardly dare to touch,
Were it not Thanksgiving Day.
Dear the people coming home,
Dear glad faces long away,
Dear the merry cries, and dear
All the glad and happy play.
Dear the thanks, too, that we give
For all of this Thanksgiving Day.
But sweeter, finer, dearer far
It will might be if on our way,
With love for all, with thanks to Heaven,
We did not wait for time's delay,
But, with remembered blessings then Made every day Thanksgiving Day.

As the first college in Wisconsin to offer driver education, Stout Institute receives the national recognition award of the Automobile Association of America. R. F. Kramarz, director of driver education at Stout, accepts the trophy while B. A. Precourt (left) safety director for AAA's Wisconsin division, and Roy Van Duzee, director of the West Allis School of Vocational and Adult Education, look on. Van Duzee taught Stout's first driver education class in the 1939 college summer session.

DRIVER EDUCATION GETS NATIONAL RECOGNITION

Stout Training Program Merits Recognition by American Auto Ass'n

Receiving national recognition from the Automobile Association of America for its 15 years of effort in training American automobile drivers was Stout Institute. Stout was the first college in Wisconsin to offer driver education training.

Since its first driver training course, given in the summer school of 1939, the college has trained approximately 600 persons to be better drivers. Since that time another phase of driver education has been added to the Stout curriculum.

At present the basic course in driver education is offered each semester of the college year and during summer sessions. To that has been added an advanced course, designed to improve the techniques of practice driving instruction.

Stout Institute has long been an advocate of the use of driver training dual control cars and actual on road experience in teaching persons to drive. It is the individual who completes both the basic and advanced driver education courses at the college receives 60 hours of driving instructions, research problems on traffic, knowledge of state driving regulations, and written and practical driving tests.

The college requires that enrollees in the driver education courses have completed Stout's course in safety education or its equivalent prior to beginning driver education. Both the basic and advanced driver education courses will be offered at Stout this summer from August 1-12.

However, the enrollees may complete only one of the two courses during each 60 hour session. The basic course only will be offered during the second semester of Stout's academic year, beginning January 24.

EDUCATORS ARE VISITING ON CAMPUS TODAY

Visiting the campus of Stout Institute today are leading educators from 13 foreign nations. They are paying special attention to industrial arts shops and laboratories at the college.

Represented are the educational departments of Pakistan, Ceylon, Belgium, Indonesia, Nigeria, Egypt, Germany, Brazil, Mexico, Japan, Italy, Finland, and Burma. Prior to their campus tour, the visitors will hear a short talk on American vocational education by Dr. Verne C. Frylund, of Stout.

Also assisting in orienting the educators to the Stout campus will be Robert Swanson, assistant professor of industrial education at the college, and Dwight Chincock, supervisor of student teaching for Stout's division of industrial education.

DR. JARVIS ATTENDS NATIONAL CONVENTION

Taking part in four portions of the 48th Annual American Vocational Association national convention in San Francisco will be Dr. John A. Jarvis, Dean of the Industrial Education Division of Stout Institute. The convention will be held December 3-7 and will attract vocational educators throughout the nation.

Dr. Jarvis will describe latest trends in undergraduate college industrial education programs to a convention section dealing with "College Curriculum in Industrial Arts." He will later present a report on "Student Membership in the A. V. A." to the general and business session of the industrial arts group.

Dean Jarvis will also participate as a member of the Association's important "Policy and Planning Committee of the Industrial Arts Division." He will then be one of the principal speakers at a conference section titled "The National Association of Industrial Teacher Educators at Work."

To that section he will show the NAITE filmstrip project, "Analysis Technique for Instructors." Much of the work on the filmstrip was done by four members of Stout. Dr. Jarvis, who is being accompanied by the convention by Dr. E. E. Rudiger, secretary of the National Stout Institute Alumni Association, will return to the college campus December 8.

JOAN WONOSKI WINS TRIP TO 4-H CONGRESS

Winner of a trip to the forthcoming National 4-H Congress in Chicago because she was judged to have the outstanding girls' 4-H record in Wisconsin is Joan Wonoski, freshman coed at The Stout Institute.

Miss Wonoski's achievement records have won over all competition at the county, district, sectional, and state-wide 4-H level. At Chicago she will be competing for the national championship, for which a $300 college scholarship is awarded. The National Congress is being held from November 27-December 5.

Joan, whose home is in Houseman, has a 10 year record in 4-H work. She has won state-wide honors for her projects in clothing, food, and electricity. Her dairy entries have often won her trips to the Wisconsin State Fair and she also raised the recent championship pig of Waushara county.

Miss Wonoski is also this year's state 4-H champion in public speaking, winning in competition held on the campus of the University of Wisconsin. For her accomplishment, she was awarded a full silverware service for eight persons.

At the Stout Institute Miss Wonoski is enrolled in the home economics department and is also cheerleader for Stout's athletic teams.

MERGER ACTION COULD CHANGE NAME OF STOUT

New Bill Would Transfer Stout to Direction of State College Regents

Now being prepared by the Legislative Council for submission to the Wisconsin Legislature is a bill which would transfer The Stout Institute and the Wisconsin Institute of Technology at Platteville to the jurisdiction of the Board of Regents of (Wisconsin) State Colleges. A change is also contemplated in the procedures of the Wisconsin University Building Corporation, state colleges building corporation, and The Stout Institute Corporation.

If the bill is enacted into law, the name of The Stout Institute, after July 1, 1956 will be changed to the Stout State college. The college will continue to maintain 4 and 5 year college courses, and students who satisfactorily complete such courses will receive the degree of bachelor or master of science with majors in industrial education, vocational education, in home economics education and home economics and industrial technology.

The degree in industrial technology is designed to provide a college degree for men with vocational and industrial interests who do not wish to become teachers. Platteville State College and the Wisconsin Institute of Technology at Platteville would be integrated into a single institution, the Platteville State College.

On July 1, 1956, the board of trustees of The Stout Institute and the Wisconsin Institute of Technology board of regents would cease to exist and all their functions, property, documents, records, assets, liabilities, and obligations would be designated to the "Board of Regents of State Colleges."

The newly-constituted Board of Regents of State Colleges would be composed of the state superintendent of public instruction, serving as ex officio regent, and of 12 appointed regents, at least one of whom would be a woman. The term of office of the appointed regents, commencing with the first Monday in February in the year in which appointed, would be five years and until appointment and qualification of their respective successors.

Appointment of the regents would be made by the governor, acting by and with the advice and consent of the senate. The change in the membership of the Board of Regents of State Colleges would be accomplished by expansion of the existing board.

According to a "transitional clause" in the bill, all rules and orders of the Stout Institute, including the Wisconsin Institute of Technology regents in force immediately prior to the transfer of functions would remain in force as rules and orders of the Board of Regents of the State Colleges, until modified or rescinded by the latter group.

Benefits which had been before the abolished boards would be completed by the new regents. No present employee of The Stout Institute or the Wisconsin Institute of Technology—whether classified, educational or administrative—would be removed from his position nor would the state fair director in effect at the time of the transfer be altered during this transfer.

CIVIL SERVICE POSITIONS ARE AVAILABLE

Stout Institute upperclassmen and alumni who have the necessary qualifications may be interested in a Wisconsin civil service position recently brought to the attention of Stout's placement chairman.

The opportunity is titled "Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds for the Wisconsin State Fair Park." The person chosen would work with the state fair director in planning and maintaining buildings at the State Fair Park.

Responsibilities of the position include planning for use of buildings and facilities, supervision of construction and maintenance of buildings, supervision and repair of the fair grounds and race track, making preliminary drawings of certain new facilities, and arranging for construction of exhibits, bleachers, special lighting etc. for fair and special events.

Qualifications desired for the position include college graduation, preferably in engineering or light building construction, plus three years of experience in construction and maintenance or three years of experience in the administration of building and ground maintenance or other relevant work.

The work requires ability to supervise a permanent maintenance crew, to select and direct a large crew at fair time, to maintain high standards of safety, and to work well with exhibitors, committees and crowds.

The salary starts at $497 per month in a range of $439-$525 plus the index-based cost-of-living bonus. Applications must be made to the Bureau of Personnel, State Capitol, Madison 20, Wisconsin, no later than December 30, 1954. An examination will be given to applicants.

Further information may be obtained at the office of the placement chairman of The Stout Institute.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT WILL GIVE CONCERT

The Stout music department will present its annual Christmas Concert Wednesday, December 15. All Stout students and faculty will be admitted free to the morning convocation. Admission of 75c for adults and 40c for students will be charged at the evening concert.

Traditional sacred and novelty numbers will feature the college band, choir, saxophone ensemble, arioso ensemble, and the Symphonic Singers.

NOTICE

The Stout Snooper

Snooping around the campus this week, I heard and saw signs of Christmas — students humming "White Christmas," conversations with discussions about presents to give or get, girls in "the Harvey" making out greeting card lists, men planning big parties, students gossiping, using smoke signals in the frosty mornings.

After noticing these usual signs of the festive season, my snooping ears and eyes have taken toll of the changes in the Christmas season becoming common today. Santa Claus now comes in a helicopter, cards have "cute" designs, radios sing out with "buy her this," "peroxidized" angels appear in costume, a search for "new" Christmas stories is conducted, and people, even you, the student, just forget to go to church during the Advent season. Yes, today's Christmas is becoming modernized (commercialized). Why, some stores even begin to decorate before Thanksgiving has been observed!

Now only 1954 years after the birth of Christ, when the wonderful season honoring the birthday of the Christ-child nears, I hear students saying "the traffic is terrible," others singing "Rudolph, the Red-Nosed Reindeer," or "I just don't know what he needs." I wonder where the old carols are or why don't students know what their friend needs. Well, perhaps friends don't need a material thing, but what about putting the "real" meaning of Christmas back into practice in this modern day and give them a token of love and friendship. Give your friends understanding, a hug (energy gone to waist), consideration, a prayer, a smile, or a helping hand. These gifts don't cost money either and remember tax time is nearing and your father's dollar practically becomes a dime when taxes are taken out. Oh, sure, I know you can't buy or find these things in a store, but these things are what your friends really need.

Permit not the crowd to rush Christmas out of your hearts! So do a favor for the Stout Snooper. Hold on to the old traditions, save that crooked star that goes on top of your family tree, send a kind thought with each "Christmas" card, do a kind deed each day, sing "Silent Night" and the other "old" carols, bake cookies, review the story of Christ's birth by re-reading it from the Bible, and go to church each Sunday morning.

Then you will be giving me my Christmas gift, and you will not be "spending" or "observing" Christmas, but you will be putting Christ back into Christmas! Remember, I'll be watching you.

CHRISTMAS DANCE SPONSORED BY SSA

On Friday evening, December 10th, the Stout Student Association is sponsoring the all-school Christmas dance. This is an annual informal dance and dates are not needed to attend the dance. No admission will be charged for the dance. There will be special entertainment at intermission, and punch will be served. The dance is from 8:00 P.M. to 12:00 P.M., and the George Soderberg Orchestra will provide the music. All students are urged to attend this dance.

The freshman class is in charge of posters and advertising; the sophomore class is in charge of decorations; the junior class is in charge of punch; the senior class is in charge of intermission entertainment.

TV SHOW GAINS NATIONWIDE POPULARITY

A recent story in a metropolitan newspaper of the St. Paul-Minneapolis area tells of the growing popularity of a nation-wide television program, "Walt's Workshop," which stars a graduate of The Stout Institute, Walter Durbahn. Mr. Durbahn received his diploma from Stout in 1915.

The article was forwarded to the Stout campus by Dr. E. H. Fast, Spring Valley dentist. Dr. Fast indicates that Mrs. Durbahn is a former Menomonie resident.

According to the article, Walter Durbahn commutes 1,000 miles every week to work in the three workshops which he maintains at NBC Chicago, at Reid Ray Film Industries in St. Paul, and in his own home in Highland Park, Illinois.

Called by its sponsors "the oldest continually-sponsored TV program on the air," Mr. Durbahn has been seen in the Chicago TV area since 1949. Previous to becoming a television personality, Walt started teaching at Stewartville, Minnesota, following his graduation from Stout. He also possesses degrees from Northwestern university.

In the next few years he was on the faculties of the Wadena, Bemidji and Mankato public schools. He turned down the principalship of Mankato's Lincoln junior high school to become a teacher of building trades at Highland Park for 28 years. There he was named chairman of the vocational education department.

During his time at Highland Park Walt's students built, under his supervision, about $500,000 worth of buildings: a fieldhouse, a classroom building, bus garage, mechanical shop, and five houses. The projects were built to provide practical building experience for students, not as competition with professional builders.

Walt "retired" from teaching last year—but into a far more hectic life. In addition to his TV shows, he is responsible for the writing of books, development of magazine articles, and creation of the instruction sheets which are sent to listeners of his show.

He flies to St. Paul each Sunday night. On Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday he films two shows for Ray Films. He flies back to Chicago on Wednesday night. Thursday he spends in his own workshop preparing the Chicago TV show which he does "live" on Friday.

On all his shows, Walt is known by his trademarks: his pipe and violently colored sports shirts. Usually he is attired in a work apron with "Walt" spelled across it. The setting is a duplicate of a basement workshop.

According to the newspaper article, Durbahn receives complimentary tools and machinery from manufacturers throughout the nation. He never uses a script. Instead he merely outlines his woodworking project and then makes it in front of the camera.

Robert C. Popovich, B. S. 1953, home address is 402 First Street, Nashauk, Minnesota. Robert is serving in the army at Camp Gordon, Georgia. He is in the Military Police Corp. His address is Pvt. Robert Popovich, U. S. 22409351, MRE SUE DET, 3441 ASUI, Camp Gordon, Georgia.

CAGERS BOW TO REDMEN IN SEASON OPENER

Height was the factor which provided the winning margin for the Winona Redmen Wednesday night. The game ending tally read 74-58, favor of the Redmen.

Stout, this year, fields a short, fast moving ball club. Paced in scoring by Kamish, the Devils showed much promise of a successful '54-'55 season. Kamish also scored the first points in the new season. Roger "Pussy Foot" Lowney was the speed demon and ball handling "ace". Jim Dailey could well be called "Defense Dailey" insofar as sparkling defense play is concerned. Lowney and Dailey are by far the best working guards Stout has seen for some time.

Though short, Stout shows definite possibilities for a game winning team. Scoring among the players is relatively uniform. Kamish led with 14 followed by Bolm and Lowney with 11 and 10 points respectively. St. Mary's forward, Scemp, led opposition scoring with 19 followed by Jansen and Biewen with 18 and 17.

The loss of this seasons opening game does not prove Stout's weakness. We may look forward to many good contests in the very near future. Stout, this year, boasts speed and reserve strength and most of all, 'heart.' Let's all be on hand to cheer the boys on to victory against Northland next week. The game is at Northland, December 7.

Frosh president cracking up: William Erpenbach, frosh president, is on the verge of a nervous breakdown. It seems that Bill has only 30 days left until he returns to his home in Falls Church, Virginia. "Erp," as he is known around school, had better keep calm, cool, and collected. The boys wonder why Bill is so excited. Couldn't be a girl, could it?

SKATING RINK WILL SOON BE READY

When the winter winds blow and snow starts to fall, many Stout students start to think of winter sports. One of the available sports this year will be a skating rink on the tennis courts which are located near the girl's dormitories. The courts will be flooded soon and the rink will be available to all enthusiastic skaters. A warming house will also be available this year.

Daughter: (as the radio grinds out the latest in swing music) It's wonderful. Did you ever hear anything like it Dad?

Father: Can't say that I have, although I once heard a collision between a truckload of milk cans and a car filled with ducks.

"THE TWELVE DAYS OF CHRISTMAS"

Four Stout Institute coeds put finishing touches on a holiday number which the Symphonic Singers of the college will offer in Stout's annual Christmas concert on Wednesday evening, December 15, at 8 p.m. in the college auditorium. Shown (l-r) are Lenora Ginsbach, Elmwood; Mary Brackett, Menomonie; Doris Curtis, Arkansaw; and Glenyce Harmston, Menomonie. A special program for the faculty and students of the college will be offered Wednesday morning.

SYMPHONIC SINGERS TO PRESENT CONCERT

Annual Christmas Concert Will Be Presented For Public December 15

Featuring a saxophone quintet, the latest innovation in musical ensembles of the music department of The Stout Institute, the 100-person Symphonic Singers organization of the college will present its annual Christmas concert for the community in The Stout auditorium on Wednesday evening, December 15, at 8:00 p. m.

Proceeds from all home concerts of the Symphonics will be used to finance the group's 4,000 mile concert tour next spring. This tour will be climaxed by the Symphonics' invitational concert before delegates to the biennial convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs of America, to be held in Miami, Florida.

A special performance of the Christmas concert, to be given for students and faculty members of The Stout Institute, will be presented at the 10:00 a.m. convocation on Wednesday, December 15. Students and faculty members will be admitted free of charge to this special concert.

Participating in the Christmas concert will be soloists, vocal and instrumental ensembles, the Stout Institute concert band, the college choir, and the Symphonic Singers.

Featured Christmas number by the band will be Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker Suite." Bach chorales, "Carol of the Bells," and the popular "Lullaby on Christmas Eve" will be presented by the mixed choir.

Well-known Menomonie pianist, Dorothy Belisle, will be heard in "Christmas Song." Carol Hahn, soprano soloist from Oshkosh, will offer "O Holy Night."

After the girls' ensemble has recounted "The Twelve Days of Christmas," a medieval yuletide ballad, the Symphonic Singers will close with a group of Christmas favorites. These will include "White Christmas," "Sleigh Ride," and "Jingle Bells."

Tickets for the Christmas concert on December 15 are priced at 75 cents for adults and 40 cents for students. These tickets are now being sold by music students at the college and will also be available at the auditorium on the evening of the concert.

JANICE WEST WINS NATIONAL HONORS IN 4-H

A Stout Institute coed who has home canned 3136 quarts of meats, fruits, and vegetables in the past six years has had her accomplishments recognized by being named a national 4-H winner in canning achievement.

The coed is Janice West. She is a junior in the home economics division of Stout. Her championship has won for her a $300 college scholarship which she plans to use in completing her education at Stout.

The Neillsville girl has had 10 years of 4-H membership, with one more year remaining. In her years of 4-H competition, she has submitted 945 local entries, 20 county entries, and one at the Wisconsin State Fair. Miss West has been canning champion of Clark County for the past five consecutive years.

Janice has been very active in her 4-H club, having been elected to every office in that organization. During her years of membership she has kept accurate records of her accomplishments and her work in the field of food preservation won for her a national championship.

Miss West received her scholarship at the annual banquet for national 4-H winners, an event held in the grand ballroom of the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago. Present to see the awarding of prizes were 1500 4-H delegates, their chaperones, and many guests.

Among the convention experiences which are most vivid to Janice-- in addition, of course, to her national championship--was the opportunity to meet 4-H delegates from 31 foreign nations, all territories of the United States, and every state in the Union.

LIBRARY CHANGES RULE ON RESERVE BOOKS

The library announces the following change in the time for giving out reserved books for week ends. Books may be drawn for the week end between four and five o'clock Friday afternoon, or any time Saturday morning. The library will be open as usual on Saturday morning, but students will not have to wait until that day to draw reserved books for use over Sunday. The library reserves the right to make exceptions when certain books are in great demand. Two-hour reserves drawn for the week end will be due at nine o'clock on Monday morning.

The library is announcing another change. The staff will charge books until 15 minutes before closing. Library hours will remain as they are, and patrons may read or study until closing. But the staff will not give out books during the last 15 minutes before closing, in order to have time for clearing the desks and completing records.

Reserved books may be drawn overnight at the following hours:

Monday to Thursday, 8:45 to 9:15 p. m.
Friday, 4:00 to 5:00 p. m. (For the week end)
Saturday, 8:30 to 11:45 a. m.

SORORITY MEMBERS ENJOY MISTLETOE BALL

The Mistletoe Ball, held in the Stout Gym Saturday evening, December 4, was a land of snow and of music, provided by George Soderberg and his Royal Blackhaws.

The day before the dance the members of all four of Stout's social sororities began work on the Mistletoe Ball, the Panhellenic formal dance of the year. The Gym was transformed into a beautiful winter wonderland with over 2,000 snow-flakes, in mid-air over the dancers. Small Christmas trees decorated with blue lights were scattered here and there, mistletoe balls with bright red ribbons, and a large shimmering bell, completed the festive decorations.

An intersorority dance is held each year, with the members of the sororities acting as hostesses to their escorts. (This year a large number of girls participated in the holiday spirited activity and all will remember the Mistletoe Ball.)

PHI U'S WILL GO CHRISTMAS CAROLING

Songs will ring out next Monday night when Phi U members and advisors will be observing their annual Christmas caroling party. After bringing the Christmas spirit to patients at the Memorial Hospital, the group will visit the Dunn County Hospital. From there, Menomonie and the girls' dorms will be visited, and President Fryklund's house will be the last stop.

After spending the night in the chilly air, the girls will welcome the sight of the open doors at the Home Management House where the Phi U Alumni Chapter will serve hot chili. The social gathering will end the evening's events.

EDUCATORS SEE CAMPUS ON RECENT VISIT

Educators from a number of foreign countries visited Stout Institute Friday afternoon to inspect shops, laboratories, and teaching methods of the college. They were accompanied by a number of escorts from Mondovi and from the staff of the University of Wisconsin.

Upon their arrival at Stout, the group was greeted by Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of the college. He discussed with them the philosophy and operation of vocational education in America.

The group was then photographed by the staff of Stout's audio-visual center and began their tour of campus facilities. Before returning to private homes in Mondovi, the visitors enjoyed a coffee hour with administrators and faculty members of The Stout Institute.

Official escort for the group was Harold Savides, of the School of Education staff at the University of Wisconsin. Also taking part were George Britton, mayor of Mondovi, and the pastors of two Mondovi churches, the Rev. Harold Haugland and the Rev. James Savides, brother of the official escort.

In addition to Harold Savides, the visitors included Terence Amerasuight, Ceylon; Antonio Trotta and Miss Emilia Tambuini, Italy; Oscar Blanton, Indonesia; Miss Dorothy Alexander, England; Ramakuri James and Miss Cecilia Phillips, India; Pieter Bloembergen, Netherlands; Adly Faraji, Egypt; and Roger Bekaert and Miss Collette Steverlyuck, Belgium.

MR. BARICH SPEAKS ON HIS PROFESSION

Mr. Dewey Barich, manager of the educational relations at the Ford Motor Company, presented "A Second Look at My Profession" to the convocation audience.

Barich expressed pleasure in returning to his alma mater. He stated that the students are fortunate they are attending a school as great as Stout and that they should take advantage of everything they can that Stout has to offer.

He told a story of his childhood days. He spoke of some of the former teachers at Stout, Mr. Doyle and Mr. Shepherd, who helped him mold his desire to become an industrial arts teacher. "When I began my first job I then first realized the professional struggle to establish my kind of work. I am satisfied that the shop teachers now hold a respectable position in society."

He closed by saying, "I hope wherever you may go you will always take advantage of guidance from a superior being. Don't concentrate on your hands and heads but remember your soul."

Mr. Barich endorsed the check for his speech and gave it to the music department as a contribution for its spring tour.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Christmas vacation is almost here, and next Friday most of us will be traveling home to various states including Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, and Illinois. The most common method of traveling will be by car. We will be driving these cars. As young people of today, we ought to be careful and competent drivers. But yet, most of the deaths occurring in our age group are caused by automobile accidents.

Yet, why should the death rate be so high due to car accidents? We're better off physically; we have better hearing and eyesight, greater resistance to fatigue, and longer endurance.

Perhaps the cause of all these accidents is due to carelessness. As we travel along, we often do not concentrate on our driving and thus we endanger ourselves as well as the other drivers on the road.

When we travel home next Friday, remember the safety rules of good driving and practice them. Let us try to cut down on the accident rate.

Remember, the life you save may be your own.

W. R. A. MEMBERS TRAVEL TO EAU CLAIRE MEET

The Stout WRA took an active part in the State Women's Recreation Convention held at Eau Claire State college recently. Mary Paciotti, Jeanne Madaus, May Rommer, Virginia Ehlers, Katy Seal, and Miss Erdlitz, advisor, made up the Stout delegation.

Other schools that attended the convention were the University of Wisconsin, Lawrence, River Falls, Milwaukee State, LaCrosse State, and Eau Claire State.

Discussion groups reviewed the problems of each school, its moneymaking projects and its plans for play day.

After the program was planned for the coming year, a luncheon was served to all delegates.

MEAL MGT. CLASSES SERVE FACULTY DINNER

Against a background of Christmas decorations, the meal management classes served Christmas dinner for the women faculty of Stout.

The guests were entertained on two evenings, December 7 and 8, with one half of the teachers present at each dinner. The Tuesday evening dinner was under the chairmanship of Ardelie Gossell, with Hila Jeffrey in charge of the Wednesday meal.

The dinners, starting at 5:30, were served buffet style with the traditional holiday foods on the menu. Highlights of the menu were the flaming steamed puddings.

This dinner is one of the holiday traditions on the Stout campus.

S-CLUB WILL RUN CONCESSION STAND

As the Stout basketball season gets into full swing, all loyal Stout students will be there to cheer the team on. With all the cheering, you're sure to get hungry. This is where the S-Club refreshment stand comes in. In years past there have been no refreshments at Stout games. Starting with our first home game the S-Club began selling ice cream, candy bars, peanuts, and pop corn.

The money from these concessions will be used by the S-Club to help promote athletics at Stout.

Be sure when you're out there rooting for the team to stop at the S-Club concession stand.

The Stout Snooper

Hi! It's commonly said that men never learn anything about women, but that they have a lot of fun trying. Well, I, the Snooper, think this preceding statement is true even at Stout. Don't you men agree?

But I have snooped in the Deas of Women's files and have made a discovery that I could really learn "something" about the women at Stout.

For instance, the total number attending Stout is 375! (Lots of women to date, men!) 18 years is the age most of the women, 112, have reached. Next, 104 are 19 years old; 79, 20 years; 45, 21 years. About 18 women are older than 21 years—and 11 are only 17 years of age, but aside line is that the years a woman subtracts from her age are not lost—they are added on to the age of other women.

During my years as a Stout Snooper, I have heard lots of "jokes" of "friendly digs" pertaining to women drivers. The other night, I heard a Stout man say to his date who was driving, "How about letting me drive for a while so I can relax?" But many Stout women do know how to "wheel a car" correctly and 10 Stout women are using cars here—2 as commuters, 6 using cars are married and 4 are unmarried.

Another very interesting fact I discovered while snooping is that 102 or almost 1/3 of Stout's female students are working part-time. This is a fine record for you working students to be proud of—keep up the spirit! The majority work as waitresses (in the cafeteria, union, or restaurants) or help the Stout faculty or librarians. There are other things a woman can do too, quoting the late John Barrymore, who once said, "There are 3 things a woman can make out of almost nothing—a salad, a hat, and a quarrel." Isn't that right, men?

In my searching I also learned about the womens' fathers' occupations. The most popular occupation is farming since a total of 124 fathers are farmers. Next, are 30 workers (electric co., canning factory, mills, etc.), 29 businessmen (salesmen, agents, dealers), 19 engineers (electricians, city, and r.r.) 17 teachers or superintendents, 16 store or restaurant etc. owners, and 16 managers (foremen, supervisors, etc.).

Several unusual occupations are: Life underwriter, sailor, cab driver, coach, brick layer, lithographer, county forester, pilot, commercial artist, auditor, cheesemaker, and architect.

The church affiliations also vary with the Lutheran, Methodist, and Catholic churches having the highest number of affiliations. Then come the Congregational, Presbyterian, Episcopal, Evangelical United Brethren, Evangelical Reformed, Baptist, Church of Christ, and Christian Science churches. I hate to admit it, but some women have not noted any particular affiliation. Why not?

Of these 375 women, 332 come from Wisconsin; 26, Minnesota; 10, Illinois; 3, Hawaii; 2, Michigan; and 1 each from Japan and North Carolina.

I, the Snooper, know that in the future, these 375 women will either marry and become homemakers (Diamonds are very popular this season, but first came the proposal—a woman listening faster than a man can talk) or they will become career women (one who prefers plots and plans to pots and pans).

Well, good-bye for now. And I, the Snooper, hope that all of you, but especially the men, have learned "something" about the women attending Stout.

CLASS PRESENTS "FOUR LADIES OF THE MOP"

The scene: A bare stage.
The time: After an evening performance of a Broadway play.
The characters: "Four Ladies of the Mop".

Such was the setting of the play presented by the Play Production Class at convocation Wednesday, December 1. "Ladies of the Mop" was a short play about four ladies who longed to be in show business, but their talents were doubtful. Annie (Judy Goehring) had always wanted to be an actress, Bessie (Ellen Steinhoff) believed she could have been a great singer, Hallie (Ava Turner) had always wanted to be a dancer, and Mattie (Colleen Ellis) had a deep desire to be a great piano player.

Kathleen Ott directed the play, Jean Baker was stage manager and Mary Rosin and Janet Pavlek were house managers. Advisor for the play production was Mr. Norman Ziemann.

Students who gained experience behind the scenes were: Jerry Abbott and Vern Ader, lighting; Evelyn Rosentiel and Pat Browe, properties; Katherine Hellman and Maureen Galliher, costumes; Janice West, Edith Iwen, and Andree Jost, publicity; and Doris Wandrey and Joan Mountford, make-up. Robert Wallace and Wendlen Schmaltz were the stage crew.

BLUEDEVILS DROP GAME TO NORTHLAND

After last week's loss to St. Mary's the Blue Devils attempted a fresh start at an up and coming season. They lost their second game by a score of 74-84. Regardless of the score, the game was a hard fought, close contest, which at halftime saw Stout only one point behind. Beginning the third period, Stout led by six points. Stout was unable to hold this lead, however, as Northland rallied their scoring punch. Northland's punch was a knockout — they won by ten points.

High scorer for Stout in the game was Kamish, with 22, followed by Lowney and Bolm with 19 and 14. Northland's ace was Johnson with 33, followed by Larson and Durkin with 20 and 18.

This Saturday Stout plays host to Northland in a return contest. It's for sure that Stout will be out to avenge this cruel defeat, so let's all load up with spirit and go to the game—I'll see you there !!!!

DORM NEWS

The boys who attended the party at Eichelberger Hall Saturday night want to thank the girls for the wonderful time. They enjoyed it very much.

If you get behind a long line of people in the halls don't cuss the person in front. It might be Nick Jarich hobbling along on crutches. The poor guy broke his leg.

On Saturday evening, December 4, the girls of Eichelberger Hall entertained some of the freshmen boys with a Christmas party in their recreation room. The group danced amidst an atmosphere of snowflakes and pine boughs. Ron Strayer's piano playing contributed greatly to the enjoyment of the party, while Milan Vitas and Frank Burdick gave their rendition of a "modified tango."

Refreshments consisted of barbaques, potato chips, cake, pickles, and coffee. More dancing followed and the evening came to an end when the girls sang goodnight to the fellows at 12:29 A.M.

THE NIGHT BEFORE CHRISTMAS

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse;
The stockings were hung by the chimney with care,
In hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there;
The children were nestled all snug in their beds;
While visions of sugar-plums danced in their heads;
And mamma in her kerchief, and I in my cap,
Had just settled our brains for a long winter's nap,—
When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter.
Away to the window I flew like a flash,
Tore open the shutter and threw up the sash.
The moon, on the breast of the new-fallen snow,
Gave a lustre of mid-day to the objects below;
When what to my wondering eyes should appear,
But a miniature sleigh and eight tiny reindeer,
With a little old driver, so lively and quick
I knew in a moment it must be St. Nick.
More rapid than eagles his coursers they came,
And he whistled and shouted and called them by name:
"Now, Dasher! now, Dancer! now, Prancer and Vixen!
On, Comet! on, Cupid! on, Donner and Blitzen!
To the top of the porch, to the top of the wall!
Now, dash away, dash away, dash away all!"
As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly,
When they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky,
So, up to the house-top the coursers they flew,
With a sleigh full of toys, and St. Nicholas, too.
And then in a twinkling I heard on the roof
The prancing and pawing of each little hoof.
As I drew in my head and was turning around,
Down the chimney St. Nicholas came with a bound.
He was dressed all in fur from his head to his foot,
And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot;
A bundle of toys he had flung on his back,
And he looked like a peddler just opening his pack.
His eyes, how they twinkled! his dimples, how merry!
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry;
His droll little mouth was drawn up like a bow,
And the beard on his chin was as white as the snow.
The stump of a pipe he held tight in his teeth,
And the smoke it encircled his head like a wreath.
He had a broad face, and a little round belly
That shook, when he laughed, like a bowl full of jelly.
He was chubby and plump, a right jolly old elf,
And I laughed when I saw him, in spite of myself.
A wink of his eye and a twist of his head
Soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread.
He spoke not a word, but went straight to his work,
And filled all the stockings; then turned with a jerk,
And laying a finger aside of his nose,
And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose.
He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle,
And away they all flew like the down of a thistle;
But I heard him exclaim, ere he drove out of sight:
"Merry Christmas to all, and to all a good night!"

CHRISTMAS STORY

"My name is Henry Joseph Schmitt. I have just arrived in America with my wife and four children. We live on Mitchell Street in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

I remember best my first Christmas here. It was a cold, blizzarding night, and we had just moved into our flat. It was cold there, too, and we were hungry. I went to the grocery store to buy some food for my family.

The store was warm and so full of food to buy! It seems strange to be in a land of plenty after the hard times of post-war Germany. I just stood and looked, absorbing the hustle and good cheer that filled the store on Christmas Eve.

A pretty girl came up to me and asked me a question. I spoke no English, and I didn't understand her, but I figured she was going to give me the food I wanted. So I pointed it out and she put it in a bag.

She counted it up, and it came to 98¢. I had a $20.00 bill in my wallet. I gave it to her, but she asked me another question. I guess she wanted to know if I had a smaller bill, but I didn't understand her at all. I showed her my wallet. It was empty.

She turned toward the cash register. I thought I hadn't given her enough money. But my family was hungry, so I grabbed the bag and ran up stairs into the crowd. Once I looked back and saw her, I knew she was looking for me, so I ran faster.

When I reached home I gave the food to my wife. The smile on her face was enough to make me forget that I had stolen the food. And it felt so good not to be hungry any more.

It was two weeks before I dared go back to the store. The same girl was working. I kept my face turned all the time, hoping she wouldn't recognize me. Then all of a sudden she started coming toward me, and I knew what she wanted. I started to walk away, but she caught up with me.

And then a miracle happened. She gave me money. Nineteen dollars and two cents. I finally realized what had happened, and we laughed. I still couldn't speak much English, but we understood one another.

I saw her again the other day. After two years she still remembers me. This is a wonderful country!!!!

CHRISTMAS STORY

We have heard middle-aged people of sound mind insist nostalgically that a subtle but steady revolution of climate has been in progress for quite a number of years. In certain areas of the country where once you could get your ears frozen on Halloween now probably your breath wouldn't even steam on New Year's — and vacationists are around all winter. At least, so they say.

Their sad remembrance of the bygone, more rugged days, seems to pivot on Christmas. Christmas isn't white any more, most of the time. Evergreen decorations are superfluous because the grass and privet retain their July look through December. Department stores carry small skate inventories, and the illustrations in the Dickens books seem like invaders from outer-space, in their unfamiliar mufflers and great-coats.

A more remote and fetching memory to the aging sentimentalist is the tinkle of sleigh bells, the clomp of snow-muted hooves, and street lamps lighting up red-cheeked faces of happy carolers. All this has gone.

About the only place you can encounter such scenes today is on Christmas cards or in backward villages of Europe. So that, nowadays, when you wish your friends a Merry Christmas, you are locating the merriment in a very different sort of world and in a different brand of adventure.

You are wishing them a green Christmas out of consideration for their new Cadillac. You are wishing them things like daron finery and color TV. You are being very modern, very practical, and very unpoetic.

Your misfortune is that you were born fifty years too late to enjoy the old-fashioned Yuletide touted in the Christmas songs. And so were they.

But the great ingredient of Christmas joy for the Christian is none of these things. Rather, it is an irreversible event fixed in the eternal cement of history. Climate has nothing to do with it. Neither has industrial chemistry, nor household electronics.

This, the real key to the holiday happiness, is the simple fact that a long time ago the Saviour came and arranged it so that we are to live with Him forever—His kind of life. Christmas is His Birthday.

So, when we wish you a Merry Christmas, we are wishing you the successful accomplishment of that destiny. Wishing you, a much more exciting environment than the winter wonderland of the Christmas cards, tin-pan alley, and the middle-aged memory. What if it isn't white? A Merry Christmas, anyway.

SUBTLE SUGGESTIONS FOR MALE SHOPPERS

by Marjorie Lederer Lee

Some wives have a yen for a toaster
That tosses the toast when it's through;
And some would go mad for a roaster
That could handle a turkey or two. . . .
But I'm an impractical maiden
As proven too clearly by this:
Bizarre as it seems
I've been stacking my dreams
On a lipstick, a compact, a kiss.
Expensive's a stove, and a boon it
Would be; and a vacuum or grill
Would be great for the family unit,
But where is the personal thrill?
For I am a queer sort of peasant,
As any poor husband can see,
Who asks, when you give me a present,
That you give me a present for me. . . .
So, love, please recall in your shopping
That I'm an impractical miss
Who would happily part
With the whole of my heart
For a lipstick, a compact, a kiss!

Season's Greetings

AT CHRISTMASTIME

May the joys of the Yuletide season gladden your hearts. Let us not forget the real meaning of Christmas, and pray together for peace on earth and good will toward men.

CASSEL'S

HEALTH . . . HAPPINESS . . . PROSPERITY

May we join the happy snowman in sending Yuletide greetings to all our friends . . . here's hoping the new year brings you much happiness and may we continue as good friends.

GERMAN BAND

The Stout German Band is pictured in action. Its members are: Gordon Maves on the sax, Danny Wielgus, also a sax man, Ed Griffith on the trombone. Ed Clary and Larry Bruno play coronets, Don Kalkofen, drummer, and Bob Olistrom on the bass horn. The band offers their services for many school functions.

GERMAN BAND IS DASH OF COLOR ON CAMPUS

The Band Includes Five Juniors, One Soph., One Freshman; In Gay Colors

Did you know that The Stout Institute has a German band?

What's unusual about a German band?

Well, this German musical organization is composed of Welsh, Swedish, Polish, and French extraction. And just to make the title "German" legitimate, the organization found two Germans with enough musical talent to play in a German band. The members of the band are five Stout juniors: Ed Griffith, Danny Wielgus, Gordon Maves, Ed Clary, and Larry Bruno, one sophomore, Bob Olistrom, and one freshman, Donald Kalkofen.

Each of the members is a musician in his own field and has had much experience playing the instrument of his choice. All seven boys are also members of the Stout concert band.

Featured on the trombone is Ed Griffith, a 19 year old junior from Columbus. He has played the trombone nine years and while in high school he was an active member of the band. Ed enjoys playing his instrument and he also likes to "clown" on it.

Danny Wielgus, who is 20 years old and also a junior, comes from Pulaski. Danny has played the alto saxophone and the tenor saxophone for seven years. He has had two years of music lessons. Recently he was featured as soloist at the fall concert and also on the television program.

Menomonic's contribution to the band is Gordon Maves, a 20 year old junior. He has played the tenor saxophone for seven years. In high school he was a member of the band. Gordie has had two years of music lessons.

From Beloit comes Ed Clary, a 20 year old junior. This is the 12th year Ed has played the cornet. While in high school he played with a 20 piece dance band. Last year Ed was president of the Stout band.

Larry Bruno, also a 20 year old junior, is from Wakefield, Michigan. Larry is an alternate in the band. He has had two years of lessons and has played the cornet seven years.

Frederic is the home of Bob Olistrom, a 19 year old sophomore. Bob plays the accordion and the bass horn.

TOWER MUST MEET SEVERAL DEADLINES

Norma Schlottman, the editor of the 1955 Tower, reported the deadlines that must be met by the staff to provide ample time for printing and to assure prompt delivery of the yearbook by the middle of May.

A deadline for engraving must be met every two weeks. The dates follow this pattern: December 15, January 15, February 1, and every two weeks from that time until all the engraving has been completed.

Copy deadlines have been divided into three dates. On February 15 the first one-third of the copy is due, on March 15 the next one-third is to be sent in, and the final deadline for all copy is April 1.

ALL-SCHOOL MIXER DANCE IS PLANNED

The S.S.A. is sponsoring an all-school mixer dance the week after we all come back from Christmas vacation. The occasion seems to be a new phonograph and a new set of records that have been ordered.

The Synchronized Swimmers will present half-time entertainment and refreshments will be served. Let's all plan to join the fun.

PAT SULLIVAN IS NAMED TO HONOR POST

A member of the Youth Advisory Board of the Governor's Commission on Human Rights in Wisconsin is Patricia Sullivan, Stout Institute freshman coed from Janesville.

Made up of outstanding students from throughout Wisconsin, the Youth Advisory Board is a relatively new agency designed to lessen racial discrimination in the state. Appointed to the group are 15 young people with outstanding personal characteristics and an interest in human welfare.

Miss Sullivan was chosen largely on the basis of her 4-H record. She was selected to attend the 1953 National 4-H Club Congress as Wisconsin's home economics representative and had previously won junior leadership and home economics awards on both the county and state level of competition. Pat is now enrolled in the home economics division of The Stout Institute.

She was nominated for membership on the Youth Advisory board by the Wisconsin State 4-H Club office and was then interviewed by Mrs. Rebecca Barton, a director of the human rights project.

In her new role Pat has been contributing feature articles to the quarterly publication of the Youth Advisory Board and will take an active part in a meeting of the board in Madison late in December.

The governor's human rights program is based upon a section of the Wisconsin statutes which proclaims:

"It shall be the duty of the Commission to disseminate information and to attempt by means of discussion as well as other proper means to educate the people to a greater understanding, appreciation, and practice of human rights for all people, of whatever race, creed, color or national origin, to the end that Wisconsin will be a better place in which to live."

According to Miss Sullivan, her experience as a member of the Youth Advisory Board has brought to her these benefits:

"I have broadened my interest in problems relating to personal equality and I have a much keener recognition that such problems do exist. The Youth Advisory Board gives me the opportunity to express my beliefs on matters of discrimination and to make a positive contribution toward eliminating this evil from our state and nation."

"A SCHEDULE BOARD" IS BY TWO OF FACULTY

Authors of an article which has been printed in two industrial education magazines are Dr. John A. Jarvis, dean of the industrial education division at The Stout Institute, and Dick G. Klatt, teacher of general metals at the college.

Latest magazine to use the article, entitled "A Schedule Board", is the December issue of "Industrial Arts and Vocational Education" magazine. The article was previously used in the October issue of the "American School Board Journal".

This feature describes a schedule board devised and built at The Stout Institute which speeds the development of class time schedules, teachers' teaching programs, and the assignment of classrooms and laboratories to teachers and their students.

MISS ANDERSON GETS DIETETIC APPOINTMENT

Appointment of Mary Lois Andersen, Stout Institute senior, to a one year hospital internship at University Hospitals in Cleveland has been announced by Dr. Alice J. Kirk, dean of the division of home economics at Stout, in cooperation with the American Dietetics association.

Dietetic internship appointments are announced simultaneously throughout the United States by the American Dietetic association. These appointments are made through heads of home economics departments in colleges and universities approved by the association.

Miss Andersen will be a January graduate at Stout. She will begin her dietetic internship in Cleveland on February 1. Upon completion of this hospital internship, she will be eligible to accept a position in any accredited clinic or hospital in the United States or abroad.

At that time she will be certified as a full-fledged dietitian. In addition, by her work during the internship period she will have earned nine credits toward her master's degree.

CRAFTS CLASS DISPLAYS ITS CERAMIC WORK

Many people are saying that the work of the crafts class seems "better than ever" this year. It may be true, for the class, under the guidance of Miss Amon, have made many unusual and interesting ceramic pieces that are on display in the showcase in the hall on second floor of the Home Ec. Building.

Modelling from clay is the first step in making ceramics. After the desired design is achieved, the objects are placed in a kiln, which heats to about 1900 degrees F. After the first baking period the design is called bisquit. Bisquit is hard and won't break easily. The third step varies depending whether or not the bisquit is to be decorated. Some of the girls didn't add special designs so they put a transparent glaze on the bisquit and baked it a second time; however, many of the girls added an underglaze of paints or dyes to the bisquit before applying the transparent glaze and baking. The finished product is shiny and smooth.

Darlene Pyatt used the coil method of shaping for her sugar and creamer. She decorated the two dishes with red clay by slip painting. Darlene used her hands and small tools to do a ceramic sculpture also. The sculpture is glazed with a black glaze.

Marilee Cate also tried something different-scaffitto. Scaffitto is painting over the clay and scratching a design through so that the clay underneath shows as the design. Marilee also made a small vase which is on display.

Pat Ryan used scaffitto to put a fish design on her red clay dish which she covered with light colored slip.

Ardis Carr is making a large brown pitcher which would be a welcome addition to any girl's hope chest.

Most unusual among the ceramics are two colorful clowns constructed by Janice Hornickel. The playful clowns are originally painted with underglaze colors.

These and other ceramic pieces are on display now. Why not stop and have a look?

AVA DELEGATES RETURN FROM CONVENTION

The Stout Institute, its personnel, alumni and activities, played quite a part in the national convention of the held recently in San Francisco.

Dr. John A. Jarvis, dean of the division of industrial education at the college, appeared on four portions of the convention program. A complete description of his contributions was published earlier in the Stoutonia.

Also participating in the convention program was Dr. E. Robert Rudiger, assistant professor of education at Stout. He addressed a section devoted to "Recent Research in Industrial Arts," describing the "Educational Needs and Interests of People Concerning the Selection, Operation, and Care of the Automobile."

Attending meetings of the Industrial Education division of the AVA convention and also sectional groups of the National Association of Industrial Teacher Educators was Dr. Gustave Wall, a member of the graduate studies faculty of Stout.

Another important convention event for Stout Institute people was the reunion of the Stout Alumni Association, an annual gathering at each national AVA meeting. This year the reunion was a breakfast on Sunday morning, December 5, at Clinton Cafeteria. A total of 36 Stout grads attended.

With Einar Ciro, Stout alumnus and head of the industrial education department of Chico State college, as master of ceremonies, a program was presented which described the past, present, and future of The Stout Institute and of Menomonic.

C. A. Bowman, dean emeritus of industrial education of Stout, reminisced on early events and personalities on the Stout campus. These colorful memories were very well received by the audience. Mrs. Bowman was also in attendance, greeting many of the alumni.

Telling of new developments on the campus was Dr. Jarvis, present dean of industrial education. He described renovation activities at the college and painted a word picture of Stout's new library. He supplemented his description with slides.

Dr. Rudiger, as executive secretary of the National Stout Alumni association, regaled the audience with accounts of current happenings at Stout and in the community. Dr. Gustave Wall also acted as a faculty participant.

Represented by alumni were many of the graduating classes from 1909 to 1951. Claude Nihart, who had been chosen for the convention's coveted "Ship" award, and Clyde Bowman were delegates of the 1909 class. Fred Plonsky represented the 1951 graduates, newest group to have an alumnus present.

NOTICE

All notices to be posted on the bulletin board in Bowman Hall across from Dean Jarvis' Office must be typewritten. Students and faculty may bring notices they wish to have typed into Dean Jarvis' Office.

MINNESOTA PLAYERS WILL GIVE LYCEUM

"The Curious Savage" will visit the Stout campus Friday evening, January 7th. This play will be given by the University of Minnesota Theatre-on-tour as the second lyceum number of the school year.

This selection by John Patrick is a delightful comedy which is fanciful and entertaining. It takes place in a sanatorium where a middle age woman, Mrs. Savage, has been placed by her grown-up step-children. Her husband left her ten million dollars and the children try to get it away from her. But, Mrs. Savage is determined to put her fortune to a noble and unselfish use. She leads the children a merry chase and they get mixed up in all sorts of ridiculous mishaps which end in complete frustration.

Mark January 7th down on your calendar of events so you won't forget to see this play.

HOWARD & PAUL VETTER SET UP BUSINESS

The recent business venture of two Stout Institute alumni has attracted much notice in Wisconsin and Minnesota. The alumni are two brothers, Paul Vetter, Jr., who received his bachelor of science degree from Stout in 1949, and Howard Vetter, a Stout graduate of 1954.

The brothers, with the assistance of their father, Paul Vetter Sr., have reactivated an abandoned limestone quarry near Mankato, Minnesota, and are now operating the Vetter Company, an organization which quarries mill blocks, slabs, split face stone, and flagstone of famous Mankato-Kasota limestone.

Paul Vetter, Jr., is married and has two children. He holds a presidential citation for bravery beyond the call of duty when trapped in a submarine.

Howard is single. Before entering the limestone business, Paul Jr. taught industrial arts at Nicollet, Minnesota. The three Vettters have now constructed a 112 by 60 foot building, trucked massive quarry equipment from an abandoned quarry in northern Wisconsin, and have set up a going business. The only piece of new equipment which they have included is a guillotine-like stone splitter, one of the largest of its kind made.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vetter, Sr., attribute a large portion of their sons' success to the training which the young men had at The Stout Institute. However, for instance, the plans for the new quarry building while he was enrolled at Stout in 1952. In concluding her discussion of the new quarry, Mrs. Vetter points out:

"This project is real evidence that our sons received excellent training at Stout. It is also proof that Stout training equips students for other fields besides teaching."

The Vetter quarry recently received widespread publicity in the Minneapolis Star and in the Mankato Free Press. Both papers included pictures of actual quarry operations.

Robert James Johnson, B.S. 1930 and M.S. 1950, is principal of the Rock Hall High School, Rock Hall, Maryland.

John Calder, B.S. 1950, teaches in district arts in Monroe, Wisconsin. Mrs. Calder, Rosemary, was a secretary in Dean Bowman's office. The Calders have a daughter and a son.

Lloyd Gannigan, B.S. and M.S. 1950, teaches printing in the East High School in Aurora, Illinois. Mrs. Gannigan, Doris, was a secretary in the Registrar's office when Lloyd was a student at Stout. Their Aurora address is 937 5th Avenue. The Gannigans have a son, Blair John, who was born on June 9 of this year.

Robert E. Vilmann, B.S. 1952, has been a patient in the Veterans Hospital in Waukesha since last summer. Mr. Vilmann taught industrial arts in the High School at Mt. Horeb for two years. His friends at Stout wish him a speedy recovery. Letters from classmates and friends would be deeply appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Plonsky announce the birth of a daughter, Barbara Kay, November 10. Mr. Plonsky received a B.S. degree from Stout in 1950 and his M.S. degree in 1951. Mrs. Plonsky was the school nurse. They live at 2087 Williams, Palo Alto, California.

EDUCATORS COLLABORATE ON NEW BOOK

Three industrial educators, all with Stout Institute affiliation, are authors of a newly-released book, "Safe Practices in Woodworking and Plastics." The volume was displayed by the American Technical Society Publishing Co. at the recent American Vocational Association convention where it attracted much favorable comment.

Among the collaborators are two Stout alumni. Dr. G. Harold Silvius, who received his bachelor of science from the college in 1930, and Gerald B. Baysinger, a Stout graduate of 1928. Third collaborator is K. T. Olson, associate professor of industrial education at the college.

Dr. Silvius is now professor and chairman of industrial education at Wayne University, Detroit. Baysinger is associate professor of industrial education at that institution. K. T. Olson heads up carpentry activities at The Stout Institute.

Designed to encourage safety both in school shops and home workshops, the volume devotes much space to a discussion of methods of preventing shop accidents. The book also describes safe use of hand and machine tools. After discussing safety precautions peculiar to a home workshop, the authors provide a number of tests designed to determine the degree of safety present in any shop.

Another portion of the book suggests the use of a competent student as a student safety engineer in a shop student personnel system. The National Safety Council has also furnished the form which it recommends for the recording of shop accidents.

However, the accordion is his favorite instrument. He played the bass horn in the high school band and also played the accordion in a dance band. Bob has played both instruments seven years and has had two years of lessons on the bass horn.

The newest addition to the German band is Donald Kalkofen, a freshman drummer from Elcho, Wisconsin. Don's musical experience includes seven years of school bands, five years with an orchestra, and has had his own orchestra for two years. Don especially enjoys swing and Dixie land music.

The German band, which has already played together for one year, is expanding its activity by playing for school or public dances and by offering general entertainment. Polkas are their peppiest pieces, but they are beginning to play popular numbers.

May joy and happiness enfold your household during the Christmas season and throughout the coming year.

pair of dirty white socks, 2 shortie coats (1 blue and 1 red), a brown bow tie, 1 white wool glove, and last but not least, a blue gabardine skirt! Things are going from bad to worse! Now we may be able to open up a jewelry store. Among a heap of jewelry may be found 1 silver earring, 3 three strand string of pearls, 1 single strand (may be valuable) string of pearls, and a gold charm bracelet. Cupid must have goofed. There's a class ring in the lost too. (It has a "C" on it).

It seems some students are really getting lax, as three beautiful Rosaries (1 black and 2 green) and one Catholic medal has also gone astray. A red midjet manicuring kit remains unused too.

Advertising campaigns for "Speed-O-Meter" of the class and "Madison Sile Co." are at a halt so long as their names are recorded on 2 of the 6 eversharps turned in. "Frank" has also lost his pen along with two other Stout penpushers.

Someone has lost their buttons! (2 of them have been found). You'll believe this more than ever when you are informed, as of now, that it's only recently that a sax and a pair of (detached) false teeth were claimed at the "Lost and Found" department.

In anyone missing a May, 1952 Tower or a map of Wisconsin? Or how about one of the following books: Mathematics of the Shops by Mackin; Report of the Committee on the Judiciary (82nd Congress, Hearings held July 23, 1951-June 20, 1952 by Internal Security Subcommittee); Basic Electricity by Feirer and Williams; Brief Course in Organic Chemistry, by Fuson, Connor, Price, and Snyder; Preface to Writing by Hamilton, and A Foraster and Stedman English Book.

Tedious hours of home work and lecture notes show up in a notebook on Admin. Meth., one on "Use of Bulletin Boards", and still another on Organic Chemistry. Everything from "The Booklist" to "How to make a belt buckle" is found with some loose notes to Ed. Psy., Woodworking, Auto mech., and speech. Half a pad of typing paper, another Spiral, and a three ring notebook from West High School (Madison) is included in the library section of the "Lost and Found".

Seriously "fellow losers", if you have lost something in the near forgotten past that resembles an object mentioned here, please inquire about it at President Fryklund's office, home of the official "Lost and Found" department of The Stout Institute. ## BLUEDEVILS MAKE UP FOR EARLY DEFEAT

After suffering defeat at the hands of Northland College earlier this season, Stout's fighting Blue Devils came back strong to win the return contest 87-80. Stout followers saw a speedy ball club accented by smooth ball handling completely out-class Northland in all phases of floor play. The records show 32 field goals, 23 free throws, and 18 fouls for the Blue Devils for a gross total of 87 points. Northland had 28 field goals, 24 free throws, and 24 fouls for 80 points.

Roger Lowmyer paced Blue Devil scoring with 24, followed by Kamish with 22 and Challen with 19. Johnson paced scoring for the opposition with 27, followed by Larson with 16.

Lowmyer was a demon on the offensive court. He scored seven buckets and ten charity tosses in addition to very keen one-man stall game which he played in the closing minutes of the game. Kamish was Mr. Dependability with his shooting eye. He scored ten baskets and two free throws to clinch his consistency title. Dailey, as always, was strictly defense. He is a very definite scoring potential, but neglects it in favor of a defensive game.

Have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

E.P.T. CHRISTMAS PARTY IS A SUCCESS

The Epsilon Pi Tau members and their guests kept the holiday spirits moving by having their Christmas party Monday night, December 13.

An informal Christmas dinner with all the trimmings was served at 6:30 P.M. at the Tea Room. Soft Christmas music, mellow candle light, and colorful yuletide decorations provided the setting for this annual party. Following this a social hour was held which featured many sharp-witted games and an unusual selection of Christmas gifts. The Phi U's made their appearance by singing several traditional carols. This party ended with the singing of Christmas songs and a happy memory of a pleasant evening.

Lecturer: In my opinion, the world will probably end in seven billion years.

Voice from Audience: How long did you say?

Lecturer: Seven billion years.

Voice: Thank heaven! I thought you said seven million!

CHRISTMAS TIME STOOD STILL

Suddenly, abruptly, time stood still. It was as if the whole universe were a giant toy which had been wound too tightly and with a snap, stopped. Nothing moved. No sound was made. There was only absolute stillness, absolute quiet.

Ever since the giant universe had been formed, their creator had lavished love and hope on all beings. For them he had sent a tiny babe to the earth. The arrival of the infant had caused the inhabitants of Earth to realize much of good will, and the Maker had grown hopeful that man would cease his destructive ways and follow in the path of charitableness toward all men.

Centuries passed. The tiny babe's coming had caused great turmoil on Earth and the Creator looked down upon the multitudes, watching a glimmer of Christian love grow until its radiance began to envelop the entire world.

Now, over nineteen centuries had lapsed and as God viewed his children he grew displeased. Destruction was everywhere. Hatred flourished. All people seemed filled with hurry and competition. It appeared that the small babe who had been sent to the Earth to bring love to all men was forgotten. The good that he had done for mankind seemed lost, ruined.

Would man's eternal hatred ever be over?

Then suddenly everything stopped. Indeed, no bad was being done on the planet, Earth. There was no fighting, no lies were being told, the inevitable wars ceased, and the destructiveness of man ended. Oh yes, Earth was peaceful.

For a while God felt pleased. Then he realized that it was the anniversary of the sending of the infant Jesus to Earth.

God looked over the silent world. This time something in its eerie quiet loomed at Him greater than the ceasing of hatred and war. Where voices had rung, all was still. In place of beautiful music and the elated singing of people joyfully, was absolute silence.

In the midst of strife, the love of man for one another had become buried from the view of many. But suddenly God realized that it had been there, and in abundance. As each earthly creature stood in its motionless state, an inconceivable quantity of love could be seen in the acts in which countless had been occupied. Charity, kindness, good will and open hearted generosity were ended along with the ending of man's ravaging frictions.

Suddenly, abruptly, the world started to sing. It was as if the universe were a giant toy, happy and jubilant. Bells rang out the glory of God and on Earth was peace, good will toward men.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

The most widely celebrated holiday in the world today, Christmas, is here again. Besides the deep religious significance it has for the people of the world, it means singing Christmas Carols, decorating a Christmas tree, exchanging of gifts, sending of Christmas cards and, of course, Christmas wouldn't be Christmas without Santa Claus and his reindeer. These things are characteristic of Christmas in our United States, but different customs prevail in other countries during the Holiday Season.

Snow is unknown to our southern neighbor, Mexico. The Mexicans begin their holiday season with Felices Pascuas (Happy Christmas) nine days before Christmas. A family host of nine parties on December 16, to which neighbors and friends are invited. Family members and friends depict the journey of Mary and Joseph to Nazareth in a ceremony called the Posada. The actors well rehearsed in their roles, knock on the door and ask for shelter. The host admits them and after the ceremony is completed, feasting and dancing begins.

The ceremony is duplicated the following evening and every night until Christmas Eve when a big feast is held at home for all the family. After gifts are distributed the Mexicans go to bed. Christmas Day is quiet, a well-deserved rest after nine days of celebrating.

Christmas in Merrie England arrives with a tree, mistletoe, and Santa Claus. St. Nick was brought to New York by the Dutch and traveled back to England during the reign of Queen Elizabeth I. Giving gifts is a part of the English Christmas too, the family receiving their gifts on Christmas Day and friends and neighbors exchanging theirs on December 26. British celebrate the Holy Day as their ancestors have for generations and have a jolly good time doing it.

In Italy St. Nicholas is a revered saint who protects the seamen and traveler from mishap. Little snow falls in Italy so Santa doesn't ride in a reindeer drawn sleigh, but enters the house through a window left open just for her. St. Nick in Italy is an amiable lady who leaves gifts and goodies with the children on Christmas Eve. The entire Italian family goes to Midnight Mass and visiting friends and relatives come on Christmas Day.

Pere Noel, Father of Christmas, takes St. Nick's place in France. Pere Noel descends from the heavens on Christmas Eve to bring presents to the little ones, and is usually accompanied by Le Pere Fouettard, Father Spanker, who carries a load of switches for children who have been naughty. In place of a Christmas tree every French home has an elaborate creche, or crib representing Jesus and Mary in the manger with Joseph, the Three Wise Men and the animals. France goes wild with Christmas cards - a hundred cards are the least that any Frenchman expects at Christmastime. They also wish all their friends a Joyeux Noel or Joyous Christmas.

Quaint and beautiful are the customs of Poland. The Polish people fondly carry their Stokko, Christmas crib, from home to home through village streets. It is a symbol of their treasure, the infant Jesus. Children carry bright, burning candles, and sometimes a large star, in which a candle is burning, is carried on top of a pole, but always there are songs - songs for the Holy Festival of the Star.

After prayers are said on Christmas Eve, and when the first star appears in the evening sky, the Christmas feast begins. They scatter straw on the floor or under the tablecloth, in remembrance of the humble birthplace of the Christ Child in Bethlehem. When the bell rings after the feast, it means that the gifts have arrived for the children.

THE NIGHT AFTER CHRISTMAS

'Twas the night after Christmas—and boy what a house! I felt like the devil! And so did the spouse. The eggnog and candy and turkey were swell. But ten hours later they sure gave me H—? The stockings weren't hung by the chimney with care. The darned things were sprawled on the back of a chair. The children were nestled all snug in their bed, But I had a large cake of ice on my head. And when at long last I dozed off in a nap The ice woke me up as it fell in my lap. Then for some unknown reason, I wanted a drink, And so, started feeling my way to the sink. And I got along fine till I stepped on the cat. But I just don't recall what occurred after that. When I came to, the house was all flooded with light, Though under the table, I was high as a kite. While visions of sugar plums danced in my head I somehow got up and got back into bed. Then what, to my wandering mind should appear, But a miniature sleigh and eight tiny reindeer. Then the sleigh seemed to change to a red fire truck And each reindeer changed to a bleary-eyed buck; I knew in a moment it must be old Nick I tried to cry out but my tongue was too thick. Then the old devil whistled and shouted with glee While each buck pawed the earth and looked daggers at me. Then he called them by name and the names made me shudder. When I heard them I felt like a ship without a rudder. "Now Eggnog! Racardi! Four Roses! and Brandy! Now Fruit Cake! Cold Turkey! Gin-Rickey and Candy! To the top of his dome, to the base of his skull, Now whack away, crack away, with thumps that are dull!" And then in a twinkling I felt on my roof The prancing and pawing of each cloven hoof. How long this went on I'm sure I can't say, Though it seemed an eternity, plus a long day. But finally, the Night After Christmas had passed And I found I could really think straight at last. So I thought of the New Year a few days away And I've made my vows that no tempter can sway. I'm sticking to water—don't even want ice, For there's nothing so tasty, there's nothing so nice, The night after New Year may bother some guys But I've learned my lesson—yes, brother, I'm wise. You can have your rich victuals and liquor that's red, But what goes to my stomach, won't go to my head. So a big "Happy New Year" to you and to all, I'm back on the wagon, and I hope I don't fall!

other countries. Christmas to them is who is dressed like an angel in a white robe and veil, distributes the gifts after Father Star, who is a bit to be feared, listens to the children's prayers and Catechism.

In many lands the Epiphany is more like our Christmas than Christmas the Holy Day itself. Children of Russia receive their gifts on January 6th, as do children in some parts of Italy, Spain, Greece, Rumania, and a time of solemn religious ceremonies and quietly is frowned upon.

So the Christmas season will be hailed in the four corners of the world this year as it has been for hundreds of years in the past. Whether it is Santa Claus in his reindeer-drawn sleigh or St. Befana coming through the window in Italy, the spirit of giving is the important thing, not how the gifts arrive.

We wish each one
a Happy New Year.

The most enjoyable gift

the memory of your

A JAPANESE CHRISTMAS

Before the war, the people of Japan were not used to celebrating Christmas in the same manner as the people in the United States do. There is a general tendency now for the people to celebrate Christmas although some people still do not know the real meaning of the day.

The first sign of Christmas is the decorating of store windows, some being similar to those in America. Before the holiday there is a great bustle and hurry of people shopping and women hurrying to and fro choosing gifts.

It is a custom of tradition to exchange gifts between friends or relatives at the end of the year. The gift exchange is called "Seibo" or "O-Seibo."

The New Year holidays are more important to the people of Japan. It is the custom to send New Year greeting cards to friends. Women become especially busy before New Year preparing rice cakes and other traditional foods. The door of each home is decorated with pine trees which are called "Kadomatsu." A big lobster is used for it, too.

On the morning of January first, everyone greets each other with the words, "Happy New Year." A tiny glass of "Toso" (wine) is served, and then the rice cakes and other New Year foods as peas, nuts, "Tatsukuri" and "Kazunoko" are served. Each of these foods has a specific meaning as "Victory," "Peace," or "Fortune."

The holiday is also a great day for the children and young girls because they can wear their beautifully made "Kimonos." Some of the girls wear a classical hair-do, also.

CHRISTMAS IN CANADA

You have asked me to write an article on Canadian Christmas customs explaining the difference in celebrating the Christmas season in Canada and in the United States.

Actually there is very little difference in the celebrations, but I am jotting down a few things as they come into my mind. Generally speaking, about 70% of Canada can count on a "white Christmas," with the exception of the Atlantic coast region of Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia, the southern sections of Ontario and Quebec and the Pacific coast section, the country will be covered with snow in varying depths.

Temperatures will range from probably 70 above to 60 below. Temperatures of 60-70 above are not uncommon on Vancouver Island and the region around Vancouver, while 1500 miles east on the prairies a blizzard may be raging with temperatures well below zero.

The day after Christmas is also a holiday and is called Boxing Day. This is a tradition or custom which was inherited from England and stems from the old custom of distributing hampers of food and clothing, or "Christmas Boxes" to the poor on the day after Christmas. Christmas Day is a holiday when all stores and other businesses are closed while Boxing Day is a lesser holiday, the larger stores and banks remain closed but theatres and other businesses open up again.

Midnight church services on Christmas Eve are very popular with many people attending the evening services and again on Christmas Day. Christmas dinner may be eaten either at noon or in the evening depending on the family's particular choice. Dinner usually consists of roast turkey or European descent prefer duck or goose. Another traditional Christmas dish is plum pudding which is often soaked in Brandy and set alight and then served while still flaming.

Various national groups have small variations of the Christmas celebrations which have been brought from their homeland and still observed by the younger generations.

The French-Canadians do most of their celebrating on Christmas Eve, climaxing it with a Midnight Mass in the parish church. Christmas Day is then spent quietly with their families.

To the people of Scottish descent, Christmas is a minor holiday, they reserve their celebrations for New Year's Eve or "Hogmanay Night" as it is called. Here the traditional reels and other dances of Scotland are performed to the music of the pipes.

In northwestern Manitoba there is a large group of Ukrainian descent. They belong to the Eastern Churches, the Greek Orthodox and Greek Catholic; who still follow the ancient Julian Calendar which places Christmas 10 days later than the usual date. To them Christmas is a round of feasting and celebrations. A duck or goose is usually roasted and this is followed by an endless number of highly seasoned dishes with unpronounceable names. Pastry dishes flavored with poppy seeds are a great favorite at this time of the year.

Christmas in the Arctic often means two or three men sitting down to a meal that they have cooked themselves in some remote R.C.M.P. or H.I.C. post. While every effort is made to see that these people are supplied with the necessities for a proper meal, sometimes supply arrangements cannot be made because of weather conditions so Christmas dinner consists of a can of beans or Spam or some other delicacy of civilization.

THAILAND CELEBRATES NEW YEAR'S DAY

The New Year in Thailand falls on January first. It is winter, and the temperature goes down to 50-60 degrees Fahrenheit; there is no rain, so it is quite nice for fairs or celebrations. Starting from the later part of November until the New Year, there are many fairs and festivals, namely: King Rama VI Memorial Festival, Constitution Fair, and Students' Manual Arts Exhibition. Most of the fairs are arranged by the government departments or churches.

Generally speaking, the New Year's celebration is organized and planned by the Ministry of Culture. I would like to give a brief history. Between 1939-40 the present premier modernized the nation. He changed the name of the country from Siam to Thailand which is not new. We were called Thai ever since we were in the southern part of China which has been since the twelfth century. The premier also changed the New Year's Day from the first of April to the first of January. We now celebrate two New Year's Days. The one in April (according to lunar year) is celebrated by most people, and we have another name for this New Year's Day. As for my opinion, I like this festival, because it is an old custom and most people cooperate.

As I mentioned before, December is the happy month. When the New Year's Day comes around, some persons are tired of celebration. Fortunately, it falls right after pay day which is very helpful. Schools, banks, and government offices close three days from December thirty-first to January second. About two weeks before this some schools have a New Year card contest. The contests include drawing pictures and writing greeting poems. Postmen work hard with greeting cards and gifts.

On the night of November thirty-first, we have folk music, shows, boxing or other kind of entertainment at the fair ground. In Bangkok, the capital, besides having fun at the fair ground, every theatre has a special program with an outdoor stage show: the Department of Fine Arts shows the classical Mask Dance. There are fireworks too. At twelve o'clock temple bells ring, and monks pray for a happy new year for the people. We used to sing New Year songs or the Thai version of Auld Lang Syne. Then the inferior in age or rank always wishes the superior a Happy New Year. The celebration continues until dawn. As for students, they used to do the same thing to the teachers on January 1st.

The celebration goes on for two days. We have a morning market and give food to monks at the fair ground. We usually have some games, especially soccer or boxing. A night and a day celebration for the New Year's Day is quite exhausting.

"THE CURIOUS SAVAGE" WILL BE PRESENTED

Eleven very busy members of the University of Minnesota Theatre will be on - and off - stage in The Stout auditorium tonight, Friday evening, when the Touring Company presents "The Curious Savage".

Usually, when a theatre group takes a show on the road, it takes, obviously a cast. Usually it takes also again as many people as a stage crew. Not so with the University company.

Anyone who has the idea that an actor or actress is a delicate flower would lose it quickly if he watched one of the University players through a day's work. These versatile theatre devotees, trained in every phase of play production, handle the entire job themselves. One moment, a winsome actress will be a dainty on-stage character. The next moment, she'll be back stage handling sound effects or lights. And a few minutes after the curtain comes down, she may be seen carting out part of the set and loading it into the company's bus.

The nimble eleven work on a schedule that would do any field marshal credit. Every minute of performance time is budgeted. Whenever a player leaves the stage, he steps right into a backstage job. When his next cue is due, another off-stage actor is on the spot to take over his post as stage hand.

Between performances, too, organization is the watchword. The company sometimes plays in two different towns on the same day. Sometimes, they must travel hundreds of miles between one performance and the next. To go to where their audience is, they use a special bus with every inch of space plotted out for them selves, costumes, properties and sets. When they arrive, stage facilities must be checked, bus unloaded, set and selves put in order before the play begins.

There is little time or place for artistic "temperament" in such a group. The eleven who compose the Touring Company are seasoned actors and actresses, many of whom also helped direct plays on the University campus, in summer stock, or in the other University theatres, and all of whom have done their stints as regular members of stage crews. They love the theatre, love the tours, and love the enthusiasm which greets them in the middle-western communities in which they perform.

This year the Touring Company is presenting "The Curious Savage" by John Patrick. It brings to mind the unqualified success of another Patrick play, "The Hasty Heart," which toured in 1941. The company this year will be celebrating the eighth consecutive season for the Touring

WINTER CARNIVAL IS BEING PLANNED

The annual Winter Carnival will be held at Stout on Friday and Saturday, February 4 and 5. Plans are being made for various contests, two of which are the ice skating and the beard growing contests. Climaxing the two days of wintertime activities will be the Snow Brawl Dance reign over by the Winter Carnival Queen and her king, who is the winner of the beard growing contest.

Plan to take part in this weekend of fun, the 4th and 5th of February.

SEMESTER EXAMINATION SCHEDULE IS POSTED

All final examinations are based on a one hour limit. All classes will meet through Tuesday, January 18.

Examinations in courses having single sections, graduate or undergraduate, are to be given Monday or Tuesday, January 17 or 18, whichever is the last meeting of the class. Exceptions to this will be those classes meeting regularly on Wednesday and Friday. Students having conflicts on the group schedule will take the subject of their classification first. The period 3:00 to 5:00 on Friday is made available in case a three subject conflict occurs.

Reports on grades should be turned in at the earliest opportunity, at least 24 hours after the examination. All reports are to be in before the final deadline at noon Saturday, January 22.

MR. ZIEMANN TAKES A LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Granted a leave of absence to do further graduate work toward a doctor of philosophy degree at Northwestern university has been Norman C. Ziemann, chairman of the speech department of The Stout Institute.

Malcolm R. McBride, who will join the faculty of the University of Missouri next fall, has accepted the interim appointment. Mr. McBride will begin his duties at the college on January 23.

A member of the Stout faculty since 1949, Professor Ziemann will be enrolled in the School of Speech of Northwestern until he resumes his duties at Stout upon the opening of the 1955-56 college year. He will specialize in speech education while at Northwestern.

Malcolm McBride holds both a bachelor of arts and a master of arts degree in speech from the University of Minnesota. He has been very active in dramatics and speech activities on the University campus, earning membership in the Minnesota Masquers and the National Collegiate Players. He has twice been accorded national recognition by the Collegiate Players.

Prior to joining the Stout faculty, Mr. McBride taught in the speech departments of Western Reserve university and the University of Minnesota. He has also given instruction in public speaking for Standard Oil of Ohio and was a private tutor of public speaking in Cleveland and Minneapolis.

In addition to his educational experience, Stout's new teacher of speech served 11 years in the U. S. Army, spending much of that time in Greece and in the China-Burma-India area. He has recently completed a study of certain factors in the development of Radio Free Europe, working closely with Dr. E. W. Ziebarth, University of Minnesota professor and noted radio commentator.

STYLE SHOW TO BE FEATURED IN PIONEER PRESS

Residents of the community and students of The Stout Institute will receive widespread publicity in the St. Paul Pioneer Press this Sunday, January 9, when a portion of that Sunday rotogravure section will be devoted to a recent style show of The Stout Institute Home Economics club.

Students and faculty members of Stout are urged to purchase copies of the January 9 Sunday St. Paul paper directly from the Stout Home Economics club which is making copies easily available and will also realize a small profit on each copy sold. These papers can be obtained for 15 cents anytime Sunday morning after 10:30 in the east end of the basement corridor of Harvey Hall.

During the style show, which was recently held in the Stout auditorium, a cameraman from the Pioneer Press took flash pictures of the cast and members of the audience. In the January 9 rotogravure layout, a number of persons will discover that circles have been drawn around their pictures. These lucky individuals, upon proper notification of the Pioneer Press, will receive a $5 award.

"EUROPE AND EDUCATION" IS CONVO TOPIC

"Europe and Education" is the title of a lecture which will be given by Mr. Howard Pierce Davis at the January 12 convocation.

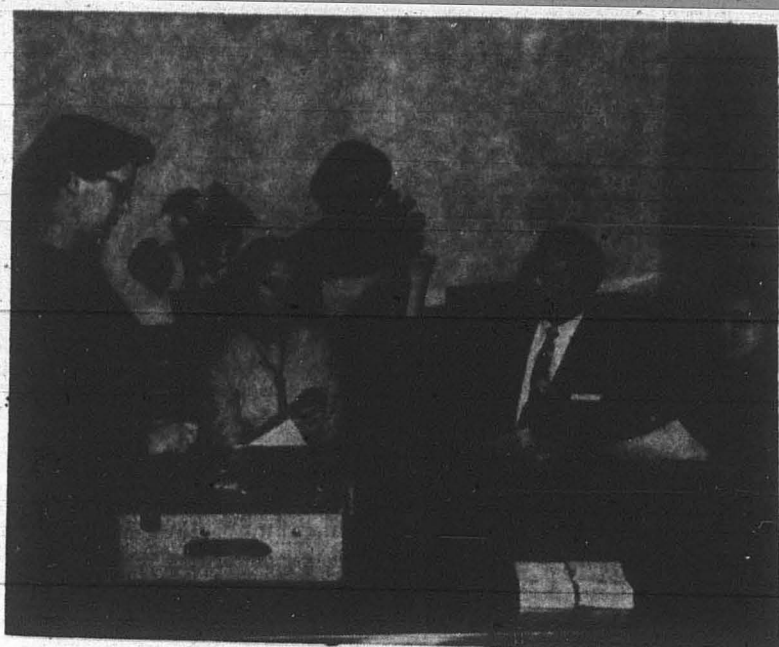

Mr. Davis is a New Englander by birth. He was educated in New England schools, and graduated from the Wesleyan University of New England. After working with the American Expeditionary Force in France for two years during World War I he entered the Christian ministry and received ordination in 1925.

After serving two New England churches, he became Headmaster of a Maine Preparatory school where he remained for five years. His interest in world affairs lured him to Europe in the summer of 1931 where he haunted the headquarters of Adolph Hitler in Munich. That experience was the beginning of an on-the-spot study of the growing Nazi movement. Subsequently, he burned his professional bridges behind him and devoted his time to the study of the critical events which unfolded from Hitler's accession to power in 1933 to the world explosion of 1939.

It was inevitable after this concentrated course in the vagaries of international politics that Mr. Davis should become an authority on the techniques of totalitarianism; its causes and patterns of development. It was likewise inevitable that he should turn to writing and lecturing. His bi-monthly publication, "World Observer" acquired nation-wide circulation and became required reading in many colleges.

Mr. Davis was at San Francisco in 1945 to watch the day-by-day events which resulted in the birth of the United Nations. He attended the first conference of World Federalists at Montreux, Switzerland in 1947. He has been a frequent observer at the United Nations.

Making a tape recording of the material which they will present at Stout Institute's fourth annual guidance conference, to be held in Menomonee on Thursday, January 13, are five coeds at the college who will demonstrate techniques of leading counseling interviews. The young ladies, working under the direction of Dr. Ralph G. Iverson, director of student personnel services at Stout and general chairman of the conference, are (L-R) Joan Mountford, Poynette, Nancy Bergen, Hudson; Mary Sappanen, Iron River, Mich.; and Lillian Smith, Clintonville.

GUIDANCE CONFERENCE TO BE HELD NEXT WEEK

AUDIO-VISUAL DEPT. PLANS CONFERENCE

Preparations are being made for the audio-visual conference to be held this coming spring. The tentative date has been set for March 8. The theme of the one day conference will be "Teacher Produced Audio-Visual Materials." The key speaker has not been selected to date.

NEXT M.A.P. PLAY WILL BE CAST NEXT WEEK

Tryouts for the next Manual Arts Players' production, "A Fate Worse Than Death", will be held Monday and Tuesday evenings, January 5th and 6th at 7:30 P. M. in the auditorium. All interested students are urged to attend.

NEW MAILBOXES ARE AVAILABLE TO EVERYONE

Mailboxes are now provided for all Stout Institute students and organizations. These boxes are located at the west end of Harvey Hall, where the general bulletin board was formerly located. Your name is now on your mailbox and you should look into it at least once each day. Mail or some other important message for you may be placed there at any time.

An official bulletin board is now located across from the student mailboxes. If you have an important notice to post, take it to the President's secretary and it will be typed and posted for you. The date of posting and the date for removal must also be typed on each notice. Bulletin boards, reserved for the use of college organizations, are located near the business office.

Posters may not be displayed except in places provided for them on the campus. Such posters should be no larger than 11 by 14 inches in size. Posters or bulletins for Harvey Hall must be placed only on bulletin boards on the first floor of that building. The departments above the first floor now have bulletin boards, but no new ones will be provided.

Posters and bulletins for other campus buildings are likewise to be displayed only in designated places. Posters and bulletins must not be placed elsewhere on the campus. If any improperly displayed posters are found, they will be taken down immediately.

Our buildings have been rather littered with all kinds of signs and notices. However, the new mailboxes and observance of rules for posting material will greatly improve the appearance of our campus. All of us will appreciate and benefit by this change.

Dr. S. A. Hamrin Will Be The Keynote Speaker At This Fourth Conference

School administrators, guidance personnel, county superintendents, rehabilitation workers and teachers of all levels of instruction will gather on The Stout Institute campus Thursday, January 13, for Stout's fourth annual guidance conference.

Over 250 delegates are expected to attend from Minnesota and Wisconsin. Heading the conference is Dr. Ralph G. Iverson, director of student personnel services at the college.

Those in attendance will register in Harvey Hall between 9 and 9:30 A.M. They will then hear a keynote address by Dr. S. A. Hamrin, professor of education at Northwestern university. Sectional meetings will take place until 3 P.M. Then delegates will assemble in general session for a conference summary and later a coffee hour.

SCIENCE GETS EMPHASIS IN FILM PREVIEW

All interested persons in the community are invited to preview free film showings dealing with natural and applied sciences which will be sponsored by the audio-visual center of The Stout Institute in the theatre of the new Stout library on Wednesday evening, January 12, at 7 P.M.

Four films have been forwarded to Stout by the Film Council of America. One describes the origin of Florida keys, from mangrove seeds embedded under water to a full-sized key. "Heredit and Environment" provides visual examples of these two factors at work. Included is a brief overview of inheritance, genetics, and other human interrelationships.

A film on industrial arts, "Using Screws and Nails", will also be shown. This short illustrates the function of various types of screws and nails in woodworking and the advantages of each type.

"Mastery of the Air" will appeal to every air-minded youngster or adult. On film made at England's internationally famous Farnborough Air Show, the latest in military and civilian craft are pictured.

Anyone interested in science or who is in need of films for group showings is invited to attend the free previews in the new Stout library. David Barnard of The Stout Institute audio-visual center is in charge of the previews.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." With cold weather here, many students are unconsciously making themselves easy target for colds by not dressing sufficiently warm for the outdoors.

It is a temptation to go from one building to another without stopping a minute to put on a coat and scarf or cap. And if you do catch a cold, follow proper medical procedures and avoid close contact with others until you are well.

Yes, you'll be doing yourself and others a big favor by not catching a cold.

ORGANIZATION NEWS

There will be a Newman Club meeting this Sunday, January 9, after the 9:30 Mass. The breakfast will be held in St. Joseph's School basement as usual, and will be prepared and served by a committee headed by Frank Trafford. All members are urged to attend this meeting.

The Seventeenth Biennial Conclave of Sigma Tau Gamma was held in the Hotel Wisconsin, Milwaukee, December 28-30, 1954.

Out of the eighty-four members present from the various chapters, ten of these men, including Reinhold Meisner - delegate, were from the Alpha Kappa chapter here at Stout. The high lights of the conclave were the election of Warren Barberg (Alumnus '51) to the position of Second Vice Deputy and the adoption of a new national constitution.

All members of the Synchronized Swimming club are requested to attend the meeting of January 11 at 7:30 in the pool room. The purpose of the meeting is to assign swimmers to the numbers in the swimming show and to get practices started. It is urgent that all people interested in the swimming show attend this meeting!

This has been a very busy year for members of the Wesley Club. A small backward glance shows us a hayride, a clothing drive, caroling parties, movies, joint meetings with L S A and Congo, donations to a scholarship fund for a foreign student, and some very interesting speakers.

At the present, several members are in New York, accompanied by The Reverend Ralph Reece, visiting the United Nations building and listening to the meetings. They planned on a very wonderful and educational trip.

A peek into the future will show us a get together of new students at the semester, interesting discussions about subjects such as Christ and man at coming meetings, and a spring conference at La Crosse. Plans are also being made for many social gatherings.

The public is invited to attend this demonstration which will be in Room 301 in the home economics building at The Stout Institute.

QUICKBREADS WILL BE DEMONSTRATED TONITE

THE BEARD GROWING CONTEST HAS BEGUN

Hear ye, hear ye, an announcement of importance to all men of the Stout Campus is about to be made. It is hereby proclaimed that the annual beard growing contest has officially begun.

The contest will come to a climax on February the fifth, when the proud owners will display their beards at the LaCrosse-Stout basketball game. Judging will take place at the game with prizes going to the wearers of the longest and the best grown beards.

Lucky is he who grows the longest chin whiskers, for he will reign as King of the Winter Carnival festivities. Away with the razors and shaving soap men. Let's really grow some stiff competition!

Father: What! Here, drink this water and wash it down.

The Stout Snooper

Hi! Well, are you all rested up after the two weeks of a fun-filled vacation? I couldn't resist snooping, and I saw you busily unwrapping presents, going to parties, visiting with parents and friends — always on the go! In fact, so busy with important things that there would not have been any time for the studying in those purposely forgotten books!

And then New Year's Eve. Ah, yes, about 99.44% of you went to a party or in some other way celebrated. (Er, I won't mention all ways of your celebrating since some of you really made a "mess" of yourselves, and still should be ashamed!)

At one party, I heard an annoyed girl say to date: "Let's go someplace where we can each be alone." But when the clocks began to strike midnight, I heard an ear-shattering uproar of everything — from tin whistles to just plain yelling. But it is also traditional on the stroke of midnight to give your date a special kiss and when one escort didn't kiss his Stout date, she complainingly said, "I don't know if he's a perfect gentleman or just not interested in me." In Edinburgh, any girl who was caught out on the streets, even if she had an escort, might be kissed by any youth.

Yes, good nature — even if not always sober nature — prevailed.

A prevalent U. S. custom is sitting up to see the Old Year out and the New Year in and some churches hold services to midnight.

And then New Year's Day arrived, and all Stout students were completely exhausted or had "hangovers of some type," but spent the day visiting and eating.

But now for some background: During my snooping, I discovered that the Egyptians used to say September 21 and the Greeks said June 21 was the beginning of the new year. But then New Year's Day was fixed without any reference to the sun. The month's name, January, comes from the Latin word, Januarius, which in turn is derived from the name of a Roman god, Janus, which means two-faced. (one backward and one forward).

An old custom was to exchange expensive gifts. The ladies received gloves or pins (which were expensive in those days), thus the expressions—glove or pin money.

Of special interest to you men is a song that the Scottish young men used to sing on New Year's Day:

I wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year
A pocketful of money and a cellar full of beer,
And a good fat pig to serve you all the year,
Ladies and gentlemen sitting by the fire,

Pity us poor boys out in the mire.
I can just hear all the "big letter-men" on campus singing this as their theme song on New Year's Day! The passing around and drinking of the wassail cup went out of fashion before Queen Elizabethan time, but the individual cup succeeded. (It was cleaner.) The day has never lost its convivial aspect!

Some present day U. S. customs are the White House open house on New Year's Day, and, of course, the big football game, in the Rose Bowl. Many of you watched the game between Ohio State and Southern Cal on TV! And all were happy when Ohio won 20 to 7. (The first Rose Bowl game was held in 1902.)

During the rest of this new year 1955, I the Stout Snooper, wish you lots of luck and fun in your semester exams, up at the union, new subjects, date-life, etc. "Happy New Year."

BLUEDEVILS TO TANGLE WITH RIVER FALLS

Coming up this Saturday night is a game featuring Stout's Blue Devils with a 2-5 win/loss record against River Falls State College. A good game is expected with Lowney and crew opening the new year. In this issue, I'm hoping that the student body and faculty will turn out to see the game one hundred per-cent to begin the new year. Be with me and start the new year right.

QUIZ FOR ENGLISH TEACHERS

English, they say, is the language most used,
Most spoken, most written, most cruelly abused.
The plural of box we all know is boxes,
Yet the plural of ox is oxen, not oxes.
One goose is a goose, but two are called geese
But why isn't more than one mouse quoted meese?
A mouse and his family are mentioned as mice,
But the plural of house is houses, not hie.
The plural of man? The answer is men.
The plural of pan? Who'd dare to say pen?
If more than one tooth we'll designate teeth,
Then why isn't more than one booth termed as beeth?
If one thing is that and three things are those
Then why do we swear at cats not cose?
A cow in the plural is sometimes the kine,
But who ever spoke of two vovs as vine?
You can readily double a foot and have feet
But try as you will you can't make root reet.
If this in my hand were two, 'twould be these,
And yet is the plural of kiss ever kesse?
We classify pronouns as he, his and him,
But never, it's certain, as she, shis, and shim.
No wonder then, foreigners nearly go mad
And speak our good English atrociously bad.

APPLY NOW FOR NAVAL OFFICER'S SCHOOL

Lieutenant (junior grade) R. S. Dodge, procurement officer of the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, Minneapolis, announces that college seniors will soon become eligible to apply for the Navy's Officer Candidate School. Applications will be accepted from college seniors who are within six months of graduation and receipt of their bachelor's degree.

By applying early, applications will be processed while seniors are still educationally deferred from selective service. Applicants can be notified of their selection for officer candidate training, and can actually be enlisted for the program as much as 60 days before graduation for a class convening after graduation. Officer candidates undergo four months indoctrination at the officer candidate school at Newport, Rhode Island, and upon completion are commissioned ensigns in the Naval Reserve and serve on active duty for three years. Upon completion of basic indoctrination certain graduates receive further training in their specialties.

Plans are also being made to administer the Navy's officer qualification test while on the campus. Seniors who graduate at the end of this semester are now eligible to apply for Officer Candidate training. Further information and applications can be obtained by writing directly to the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, Federal Office Building, Washington and Second Avenues South, Minneapolis 1, Minnesota.

Zeke bought a pink shirt with huge purple dots. In the pocket was a note with a girl's name and address and a request that the buyer of the shirt send his photograph.

"Ah, romance," thought Zeke, and mailed a snapshot.

Several days later he tore open her letter: "Thanks for the photo. I just wanted to see what kind of a jerk would buy such a shirt."

NEW WOMEN'S DORM WILL BE STARTED SOON

Bids on New Residence Hall Will Be Opened Early In February

Announcement that bids for a new residence hall for girls at The Stout Institute will be opened on February 2, has been made by Mr. R. L. Pierce, chairman of The Stout Institute board of trustees, and by Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of the college.

Designed for 134 girls, the new residence hall is expected to cost just under $700,000. Part of the cost of the all-brick structure will be financed through rental charges which occupants will pay over a long period.

The new residence hall is to be located between two of Stout's obsolete dormitories for women. As the new building is erected, it will be necessary to raze the dining hall attached to Tainter Hall. Later both Tainter Hall and Tainter Annex will be removed.

From the west exposure, three floors of the structure will be seen from the street. Each of these three floors will contain 20 to 28 double rooms, one single room per floor, a lounge, ironing room, and small kitchen facility for evening snacks.

As the residence hall will be situated on the edge of Lake Menomonie, four floors will be exposed on that side. The ground level will have picture windows facing the lake, which may soon be raised 10 feet by the new Northern States Power dam.

This first level will contain a 52 by 50 foot lounge, also looking out over the lake, a cafeteria line and dining room capable of serving 250 persons, and a heating plant.

Also on that level will be laundry facilities for use by the girls, a large ironing center, and a tea room. Many of the ground floor facilities are now located in Harvey Hall, home economics building on the campus.

Double rooms in the residence hall will be 14 by 11 feet and contain two beds, two dressers, a table, and a large built-in closet. A single room will be available on each floor in event of illness among the occupants. The dormitory director will have a private apartment and a guest room will also be provided.

Menomonie's famous red brick will be used throughout the residence hall. Aluminum windows will also be a feature of the new structure.

Architects on the project are Boyun, Schubert, and Sorenson of La Crosse. Bids will be opened by the college board of trustees when that group meets in Madison on February 2.

FRESHMEN PLAN FOR A WINTER FORMAL

George Soderberg and his orchestra will provide dancing music for the winter formal to be held January 28 in the Stout gym. The dance, sponsored by the freshman class, will be held from 8:30 to 12:00 p. m.

Freshman class president, Bill Erpenbach, has asked Althea Schraeder and Jim Kogler to act as advertising chairman and decorating chairman, respectively. Admission is 50c single or couple.

STOUT INVITED TO MEETING IN PUERTO RICO

The Stout Institute has been invited to participate in the "Fourth Annual College Week" in Puerto Rico from April 8-18.

Plans have been made to accept this invitation, and a tour to Puerto Rico is now being arranged. With a minimum cost and the maximum in experiences of flight-seeing, sight-seeing, and night-seeing, the tour should prove very popular with Stout students and recent graduates.

All persons interested in knowing more about the trip, its costs, its events, and its fun possibilities—are invited to see a color film in the Audio-Visual room of the library tonight, Friday, at 7:00 o'clock. Information regarding the itinerary will also be available at that time.

Accompanying the group will be Dr. Alice J. Kirk, dean of the division of home economics at The Stout Institute, as well as other faculty personnel.

"THE CURIOUS SAVAGE" IS VERY ENTERTAINING

The Cloister was the setting of the three act comedy, "The Curious Savage," which was presented Friday night by the University of Minnesota Players. For two hours the 11 players thrilled the audience with a production which contained good performances that were spirited and convincing.

The story concerned Mrs. Savage, a wealthy widow who was determined to use her millions to establish a fund to help people realize their dreams. It also concerned the machinations of her step-children to prevent her from using the money for more than just their comfort. Throughout the quick action of the play the self-seeking children were driven to distraction by their vain efforts to threaten and browbeat their mother.

When Mrs. Savage was sent to the Cloisters, a rest home, she met eight lovable patients who were interested in her, and not her money. With a merry chase for the negotiable bonds Mrs. Savage attempted and succeeded to outwit her children.

The last scene, a farewell party before she left, was a delightful fantasy when each guest in the sanatorium realized some hopeless dream for something he was never able to realize. The dominating mood of the play was high comedy. Each of the characters was clearly portrayed. The audience left with a feeling that somehow the neglected virtues of kindness and affection were not lost in a world that seems motivated at times only by greed and dishonesty.

STOUT HOLDS FOURTH ANNUAL GUIDANCE MEET

With over 250 educators and guidance experts from two states in attendance, The Stout Institute held its fourth annual guidance conference on the Stout campus Thursday, January 13. Keynote speaker was S.A. Hamrin, professor of education at Northwestern university and noted author in the field of guidance.

Delegates registered in Harvey Hall on the campus between 9 and 9:30 Thursday morning. They then attended a general session at which Dr. Hamrin discussed "Guidance Today in America". Six sectional meetings on specific phases of guidance were held in the forenoon and an additional six roundtables in the afternoon.

Following the sectional gatherings, delegates reconvened in general session for a conference summary and closing remarks by Professor Hamrin.

Participating in the sectional meetings, under the general chairmanship of Dr. Ralph G. Iverson, director of student personnel services at The Stout Institute, were a practicing psychiatrist, members of the Wisconsin State Department of Public Instruction, consultants of national test bureaus, personnel from city and state boards of adult and vocational education, and area school principals and guidance directors.

Reports on grades should be turned in at the earliest opportunity, at least 24 hours after the examination. All reports are to be in before the final deadline at noon Saturday, January 22.

What did you do, stay up all night studying for semester exams?!!

NEW TEACHER TRAINING PROGRAM IS INITIATED

FILM PREVIEWS WERE WELL ATTENDED

Persons in the community interested in previewing films on natural and applied science for organization programs or for young peoples' activities attended the free showing of four such films Wednesday evening at 7 p. m. in the audio-visual theatre of the new Stout library.

The showings were sponsored by the audio-visual center of Stout under the direction of David Barnard. The films were made available to the college and community by the Film Council of America.

Young people and adults interested in aviation especially enjoyed "Mastery of the Air", a movie short which showed the very latest in civilian and military aircraft. Helicopters, jets, and even new delta-wing models were described.

Persons in the field of industrial arts, or home workshop enthusiasts, learned much from "Using Screws and Nails". Various types of screws and nails were described and the advantages and use of each were also shown.

The "Heredity and Environment" of human beings was then explained in a film dealing with that subject. Included was a brief overview of cultural inheritances, genetics, and similar factors.

"Birth of a Florida Key" traced the origin of such a Florida phenomenon from mangrove seeds embedded under water in sandy soil to their eventual development as a full-size Florida Key.

NOTICE

There will be no Stoutonia next week because of semester exams.

CONVOCATION SPEAKER TALKS ON EUROPE

A scene by scene account of Europe and its present condition was given by Howard Pierce Davis at the convocation Wednesday. It was an electrifying talk on the significance of the present world upheaval and America's situation in the scheme of things.

Mr. Davis selected Europe as his interest for several reasons: "Europe is and has been a major casualty, it is the hatchery and home of the colonial system, the breeding ground of totalitarian movement, it is the ignition point of two great wars which upset the life of the century, and it is the cradle of civilization."

He proceeded further by saying that since 1916 Austria has been the victim of many conflicts and he hopes that it will now become a part of something strong.

When mentioning Hitler, Davis said one could compare him to a small fleecy cloud in a clear blue sky which looked as though it would do no harm. He went on to say how Hitler became more and more popular and soon became like a twister.

Davis pointed out the fact that as a member of the League of Nations the Soviets were completely cooperative from 1935 to 1938. However, since then to the present day the Soviet Union has not been cooperative with the West and with the exception of World War II, the Soviet Union made no pretense of trusting Western powers.

Mr. Davis said, "It makes no difference if we have five times as many bombs as the enemy does, because one or two bombs of the right type in the right place will bring down the curtain on civilization."

He also stated "One hothead given too much power might spoil humanity as far as any future is concerned."

"The Colonial Revolution is beginning to touch Africa and when Africa begins to boil it will be something to watch, as there might be a violent revolution."

He agrees with President Eisenhower, "We must have the courage to be patient."

Senior Women In Education Are Doing Off-Campus Student Teaching

The Home Economics Education Department has initiated a new teacher training program this year. For the first time, senior women who are majors in education are doing their student teaching in high schools within a radius of 150 miles from the campus which were selected to meet standards as to teaching facilities and personnel.

Two student teachers are assigned to each high school for six weeks. They remain in the school full time, each carrying one half the load of the homemaking teacher in the school.

Besides the classroom teaching they get experience in such extra curricular as Future Homemakers of America, home experiences, school lunch, home visits, and study hall supervisions.

This teaching takes place the middle six weeks of each semester and is supervised by Miss Ann Noble who visits the center twice during the six weeks period.

The twelve off-campus centers selected, the supervising teachers, and the student teachers who taught at each center are as follows:

Mondovi High School, Miss Jane Klatt - teacher, Carol Bredlow and Nyla Bock - student teachers.

West Salem High School, Miss Hazel Nelson - teacher, Barbara Clemmons and Pat Jensen - student teachers.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Girls and boys are pointing at each other on The Stout Institute campus these days. This reporter asked over a score of representative students "Why?"

"Because," say the boys, "the girls are just too darned aggressive after they are asked for merely a dance or a date. And to make things worse, they become serious the minute we pay the least bit of attention to them. Gee whiz, they act as if they will have only one opportunity during their whole life to associate with a boy, and they aren't going to miff their chance."

In addition, the boys complain that Stout Institute coeds make it very difficult for the boys to meet the whole feminine student body. The girls stick too close to their dormitories and their rooming houses. They failed to enter into college activities at the beginning of the year where they could have met the boys on a common footing. Our girls, say the men, bunch together at school dances like a herd of cows under a shade tree, and make it most embarrassing for a boy to seek a dancing partner.

Without bothering to dispute these charges, the girls hurl their own criticisms at Stout Institute men. What most annoys the ladies is the belief that boys aren't interested in taking girls to social functions, only in "looking over the group" and picking out some girl to escort home. (The girls admit that a formal function is an exception. A boy then manages to ask his date "at least ten minutes before the dance" and then expects her to send home for a formal dress and step out looking like the cover on Vogue.)

The girls want more compliments from the boys, especially after the coeds have primed and brushed endless hours preparing for a special occasion. A compliment never cost any money. And our boys, the ladies claim, are just too completely independent. They take the girls for granted and refuse to mix at social functions, neglecting to help everyone to have a good time.

Many hundreds of years ago, Socrates wrote a blistering criticism of the youth of his day. If one were to read that criticism now and not know when Socrates wrote it, the reader would quickly assume that it was tirade against American youth, 1955 model. And we suspect that the Greek boys and girls of Socrates' days leveled the same criticisms at each other that are recorded in this editorial.

Girls are girls, and boys are boys. But it seems that each should profit from challenge and make adjustments. Sober analysis points out that the primary purpose of life is growth of the individual.

Yes, adjustment is growth. Therefore, social adjustment is certainly worth a try.

The Stout Snooper

Hi! Well, next week is the week all of you have waited "patiently" for—a week of exams and of course the best part, the end of the semester! Many of you are planning to go home for a few days and this time you will not have a 'guilty conscience' about not taking any homework along home! But first comes the 'big exam' in most courses. These written reviews should be of vital importance to you — they may determine your success or failure.

You, the Stout student, are one in a 100 who have climbed so far as getting a college education. And now is the time when you must study! Most of you are "really busy", doing all of the projects you should have done weeks ago when you went to that "extra movie" and now the pressure is making you worried about these coming semester exams. As I snooped, I only heard a few people on campus say:

I like exams, I think they are fun;
I never cram; And I don't flunk one—
I'm the teacher!

Whether you admit it or not, studying is an important part of college life and so I've reminisced in my school days, remembering the times when I crammed. But I did learn some study habits and so I, The Stout Snooper, would like to give you some hints on studying. It is not too late to change your habits and use better ways of studying that will help you next semester and in the coming years.

First of all, in "all" studying, devise a schedule to budget your study time and stick to it! Review frequently. If you sleep 33.3% of the week, study or attend classes 33.3% of the time, you'll still have 33.4% of the time in the week to eat, have recreation and dates!

Study in a quiet, comfortable place! (Not in the union where I see so many Stout students trying to read, etc.) Then concentrate—find some sort of interest in every subject; forget your day dreams of the vacation to come or about the "cute blonde". Concentration is really the extent of interest.

When you review for these special semester exams, you need 8 hours of sleep and a good diet. It is not collegiate to have just 3 or 4 hours of sleep. It just doesn't work.

For studying for exams, you need to devise a special review schedule according to the posted schedule. When reviewing, first find out what sort of exam the instructor plans to give; then review notes, examine the text book index and contents, look over previous quizzes, and get together with friends to have a discussion with the type of test in mind. In your group review discussion, don't be as some Stout students I've heard. Yes, it takes a few of you Stout students twenty minutes longer to say what you think than to tell what you know!

Now my last hint is: Do not cram the hour before an exam; you will not learn anything that sticks that late in the game!

When you are taking the exam, glance at the whole test, plan time on each part and start with the easiest questions. Follow directions! When you have completed the test, re-read for errors, then hand it in.

I've given you students, especially freshmen, some advice (which probably is talking to students whose minds are already made up). I hope that all 779 of you will realize that studying is the main part of college!

But as I heard one Stout male student say:

I love the homework the teachers give, The tests.
I hate the pretty girls who flirt, The pests!
I'm never late to classes, nor take my cuts.
I do my homework faithfully. I'm nuts!

"IT TAKES A CAKE"
To make a cake and eat it too is what we all would like to do. Dorothy Ann Neis has found the magic key so why don't you just come and see. The foods demonstration on the basic cakes will be given in Room 301 of the Home Economics Building at 7:30 P.M. on Friday, January 14th. Everyone is invited.

STOUT GETS SHORT END OF 85-75 DECISION

Last Saturday night River Falls scored its second win in the Wisconsin State College Conference by handing Stout an 85-75 decision. The game was a fast one, with speed accounting for the large amount of time spent in the charity toss ring. The players were cut out to be angels that night; the only trouble is, someone stole the pattern.

Bob Williams led River Falls scoring with 23 points, while his counterparts, Wells, Wild, and Herum, had 19, 17, and 15, respectively. Roger Lowney paced the Bluedevils with 19 tallies, followed by forward Dennis Challeen, marking 16. Kamish turned in a brilliant floor and scoring game by tying Challeen for second place scoring honors with 16 markers.

This game was Stout's first conference loss of two starts.

RIGHT ON THE BALL, WOODY!

Woodliff sets up a block in anticipation of a shot by Williams of River Falls. Other players are Wells of River Falls and Kamish and Challeen of Stout. Our Bluedevils dropped the tilt 85-75.

Stout's Frosh Varsity romped to a good season start Saturday night when they came from behind to defeat the River Falls Frosh by a score of 61-58. The game was a much slower paced one than the varsity game but just as exciting. With 11 seconds remaining before the final gun, Stout led by one point. Schletty didn't go for the narrow winning margin, so as the horn blew, he dropped in two more points. Congratulations to Gale Woelffer and his Frosh team. You're looking good!

Now you've had the Stout cage news — it's time to take a look around the loop and see what else happened over the weekend.

Eau Claire's crack team, the Blugolds, handed LaCrosse a 107-94 drubbing while Milwaukee handed Oshkosh State an 84-72 loss. Stevens Point out-paced Platteville 85-77 and in the Big Ten conference, Wisconsin suffered defeat at the hands of Michigan State, 94-77.

In the bowling world at Stout, the F. O. B. fraternity was active this week. They bowled Sig Tau on Wednesday night and Lynwood II on Thursday night. As we go to press, no more scores on these games are available. We will print all the scores next week.

Thursday night the F. O. B.'s played the Globe Trotters in the Fraternity cage loop. We'll have the scores on the game in next week's sports report also.

Last Monday the Frosh Team took on the Globe Trotters of the intramural league, and won 50-41. Chalk up one more for the freshmen.

Over the weekend, the Stout Bluedevils are playing two games away from home. On Friday, January 14, they play Platteville State, and the following night it's Stout against Oshkosh State. Here's hoping for a good weekend.

We'd appreciate any comment or criticism on our new sports column — let's hear from you!

ATTENTION VETERANS !

An invitation is again being extended to Veterans who served their Country during Wartime and were honorably discharged to join The American Legion.

The American Legion is directly responsible for the G. I. Bill which provided the greatest impetus College education ever received. Millions of men and women received Government assistance for college training, lacking which, they would never had the opportunity of attending college. Millions of dollars were also made available to many of these veterans in forms of loans.

We are proud of these accomplishments and the many other services of The American Legion for the Community, State and Nation.

The recent announcement that the G. I. Bill benefits will be discontinued after January 31st of this year is in line with the trend to cut down and or take away many veterans benefits.

Membership in The American Legion will give you an opportunity to support the activities and help to insure that these benefits will not be lost; and also give you a voice in future activities to meet new problems as they arise.

Meetings are held 1st and 3rd Tuesdays at the Club House on 4th Street. Attend a meeting and join this great service organization.

AUDIO-VISUAL CONFERENCE TO BE HELD

The third annual Audio Visual conference will be held Tuesday, March 29 in the Stout library.

The theme of the conference will center around "teacher produced audio-visual materials". The keynote speaker of the day will be Mr. C. R. Crakes. Mr. Crakes is the educational consultant to the DeVry Technical Institute in Chicago.

Four sectional meetings have been scheduled for the day. The first meeting will have as a general focal point the subject, "How to give voice to your colored slides". The leader will be Dr. Richard S. Mitchell, who is director of Audio-Visual Services at the State Teachers College in St. Cloud, Minnesota. The second sectional meeting will have as its speaker Mr. Edward Mc Mahon. He is now director of Audio Visual Education at the State Teachers College in Mankato, Minnesota. Mr. Mc Mahon has a bachelor's and a master's degree from The Stout Institute. The subject for this meeting concerns "inexpensive teacher-made materials". The third meeting will be about "making better tape recordings". Definite plans have not been completed as to the speaker but there is a probability that a member from the State Radio Council at Madison will be the leader of this meeting. The fourth meeting has at this moment a tentative theme centering around bulletin boards.

In addition to these sectional meetings, a general session on new film previews from Coronet and the Encyclopedia Britannica will be included.

A coffee hour will conclude this conference. This Audio Visual conference is primarily aimed at teacher's and educators within a one-hundred mile radius of Menomonie. Any interested students are very welcome to attend this educational conference.

AIR FORCE HAS TEACHING JOBS OPEN OVERSEAS

Interviews for teachers interested in obtaining positions as elementary teachers in U. S. Air Force overseas dependents' schools for the 1955-56 school year will be held at The Stout Institute on Friday, February 18.

According to Miss Emily Doherty, overseas recruiting representative, applicants must have at least two years current elementary teaching experience plus a bachelor's degree. A small number of secondary teachers with experience in two or more subject fields are also needed.

Applicants can obtain the necessary form SF 57 from any first or second class postoffice. A transcript of the applicant's college credits and a valid teacher's certificate will also be required at the interview.

Preference will be given to unmarried men and women between the age of 23 and 40. Additional interviews will be conducted at Winona, Minnesota, on February 16 and at Eau Claire on February 17.

COEDS WILL ATTEND CLUB CONVENTION

Ardis Carr, Faye Nelson, and Lois Jessen will represent The Stout Institute Home Economics Club at Province 7 in Chicago, February 10-12. Miss Nelson, advisor of the club, will accompany the girls.

Ardis Carr is a junior from Barron, Wis. Ardis is State Secretary of Home Economics Clubs and is nominee for the national secretary of The College Club Department of AHEA.

Faye Nelson will be the voting delegate from the club. Faye, a junior from New Auburn, Wis., is vice president of our Home Economics Club on campus.

Lois Jessen, assistant Social Chairman is The Stout Institute nominee for State Secretary. Lois is a sophomore from Washington Island, Wis.

The Stout Institute Home Economics Club will be one of the clubs from four states meeting for the annual Province 7 at Chicago.

STOUT INCORPORATES NEW MAILING SYSTEM

The Stout Institute now has in service a postage meter which will eliminate the need for handling regular postage stamps and will speed up the processing of outgoing official mail from the college.

In addition, each envelope leaving the college will carry upon it a message, pointing out that Stout is a Wisconsin college at which a person can enroll for home economics, industrial education, industrial technology, graduate studies, and pre-professional study.

Use of the postage meter necessitates some changes in the procedure for handling outgoing official mail. New regulations pertaining to such mail have been summarized as follows:

Outgoing business mail should hereafter be left with the Business Office unsealed and without stamps. As a stamping and sealing machine is now in use, stamps will no longer be provided to the various departments.

This machine seals as it stamps, and therefore letters must be left unsealed if the college is to mail them.

Stamps will no longer be available for purchase. The college will continue to mail personal letters if they are properly sealed and stamped.

All outgoing mail should be in the Mail Room by 4:00 P. M. if it is to be mailed on that day.

Campus Mail:

Campus mail should be placed in the box provided for it at the Mail Room window. Such mail will then be placed in the proper mail box.

"MAD HATTER" THEME OF RUSHING PARTY

"The Mad Hatter" is the theme of this year's intersorority rushing party to be held on Saturday, February 5, from 9:00 to 11:00 in the gym.

Guests of this event will be all freshmen girls and transfers. Hostess for the party are: Hyperians as general chairmen; Pallas Athenes in charge of the food; Sigma Sigma Sigma providing the entertainment; and Alpha Sigma Alpha sending out the invitations.

Crazy hats will be the talk of the party and games and food will be based on that theme. So the sororities are urging you to grab your craziest hat and come to the intersorority "Mad Hatter" party.

MISS MEILLER IS ON STATE COMMITTEE

Miss Ella Jane Meiller, Menomonie, a member of The Stout Institute faculty, was among the one hundred members appointed by Governor Kohler to the Wisconsin Committee on Children and Youth.

Members serve for two year terms without compensation. The Committee sponsors in alternate years Governor's Conferences on Children and Youth which brought together in Madison in April, 1953, more than 1600 youth and adults from all parts of the state. The Governor has asked the Wisconsin Committee to again sponsor a fourth Governor's Conference on Children and Youth at Madison April 14-15, 1955.

LIBRARY ASKS FOR YOUR COOPERATION

If you want to "charge" books or magazines to take home from the library, please bring them to the desk at least fifteen minutes before closing time. The library is discontinuing desk service at that time because of the considerable record work connected with closing.

They will appreciate your cooperation.

CRAFTS CLASS DISPLAYS HAND WOVEN PIECES

The interesting display of hand-woven articles now being shown in the 2nd floor Craft display case are just a few of the pieces woven by this year's craft class. The class made a variety of articles ranging from small linen hand towels to a large wool rug. Place-mats, scarfs, stoles and napkins are among the imaginative materials cut from the looms.

Weaving is a very complicated art. It requires much patience, for the job of warping a loom and weaving is a tedious occupation. Most of the members of the class had no idea of the job ahead of them and neither has anyone in the class usually ever had any experience with it. This year, however, one person did know what was in store. Katherine Hellman, a sophomore, recently from Sweden, had had more than enough experience in her native Sweden to keep well ahead of the class. She brought samples of Swedish weaving, very popular to the U. S., to show to the class as a prelude to the course. Katherine completed one very attractive plaid scarf and has another one to match almost completed.

Andre Yost is the first student at Stout to ever tackle the job of weaving a rug. The bulky materials used are combined to make a very attractive and expensive looking rug.

ARDIS CARR NOMINEE FOR AHEA SECRETARY

Ardis Carr has been selected to represent the state of Wisconsin as nominee for national secretary of The College Club Department of AHEA. The final vote will be cast before the national convention which will be held at Minneapolis, June 28 through July 1.

ANSHUS NAMES WINNERS IN CONTEST

Beginning in the middle of October, Anshus Jewelry sponsored a table-setting contest. Stout's two home furnishings classes were divided into 12 teams, each consisting of three or four girls. The group as a whole was given a talk on place-settings, and a chance to see the materials with which they would be working.

Each group chose its own theme and built its own setting. Tableware, china, and glassware were provided by Anshus Jewelry. Two settings each week have been displayed in the store.

Dean Kirk and Mrs. John Anshus, judges, selected the two winning teams. First prize, a cup and saucer set in any pattern, went to Barb Benzie, Judy Benson, Gwen Somers, and Ellen Steinhoff. They chose "Christmas" as their theme. Second prize, a goblet in any pattern, went to Rita Pauls, Leona Novy, Charlotte Pengilly, and Gloria Christner. "Birthday" was their theme.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

In the halls and in the union the moans and groans of the students were loud during final examinations. Many of these students argued that some of their teachers asked questions about material which had not been covered in class.

Now, students, stop and think. Are you sure that the teacher didn't discuss some of that material when you were writing letters or doodling? Maybe the answers to some of the questions were in that reference book which you never got around to reading. Actually, could it be that your low mark was your own fault?

If you're not pleased with your last semester's accomplishments, then it's time for you to turn over a new leaf. Your letter writing can wait until after class, and so can the doodling. Reference books are easily obtainable down in the library, so there is really no excuse for your not reading them.

Organize your study time and learn to study in the most effective manner. Your marks will improve and it will surprise you how much more time you will have for social activities.

MALE WARDROBE IS RE-VITALIZED

Many new and exciting colors have been added to the male wardrobe this year. The change of clothing colors to charcoal tones has transferred accent and brightness on accessories.

Suits and sports coats of distinction consist of dark colors made popular with touches of orange, yellow, green, reds and blues. Other popular colors in sports coats are the black and white pin check or solid black, which gives access to a wider range of accessory colors. Sports coats are following the trend toward a natural shoulder, narrow lapel and three button fronts.

Trousers for the new look are made up of solid colors, varying from the same color value as the jacket to darker shades.

We have been seeing many beautiful sweaters on campus this year. The Blue Devils tend to have equal preference for the "V" neck sweaters as well as the turtle neck. Both of these styles have contributed a variety of brilliant colors to our campus.

Corduroy shirts are being introduced as a practical investment for campus wear. They are easily laundered (this may be of interest to some of the fellows) and comfortable for cold weather seasons. We might add that these shirts are quite attractive.

Suede foot-wear is another hit this year. Shoes range in color from the whites on through the blacks. Rumors are that sueded are as comfortable as they are stylish. Another preference in foot-wear at Stout is the cream colored moccasin. Color emphasis is applied to stockings in many different shades and designs for balancing foot appeal.

A man's clothes more than any other possession mark his way of life. Let your clothes indicate achievement and compliment your personality.

The Stout Snooper

Jeepers, the semester has begun! The tests are scored and grades from the previous semester are filed! Ah, yes, one-half of The Stout Institute's school year is completed. And now memories remain with you.

I especially remember the day of registration last fall: upper classmen hailing and renewing friendships, calling to one another making plans for a party out at _____ or in town at _____! (Censored again.) And then I saw the "green" freshman standing quietly and patiently in line wondering where the next room was or how he would ever get back to the dorm with his load of books.

The registration period was my first snooping experience here at Stout, but even though I was new it became interesting and I even remember several conversations between freshmen early last fall.

Lynwooder: "I flunked that quiz flat."

"What was the matter, didn't you know the answers?"

"Yes, but I had vaseline on my hair and they slipped my mind."

And the Annex girl: "If he looks you straight in the eye, you'd better do something about your figure."

The school year began. There were new courses, new instructors, school work to do, etc. After some heavy homework I heard one freshman say, "If all the professors at Stout would join hands, they would reach across the ocean. I am in favor of this agreement!"

As September progressed into October, the upper classmen made more frequent trips to the freshman girl's dorms and telephone calls from Lynwooders were also more common. 'Ah, yes, during my snooping I tapped telephone wires. The following is one remembered conversation of an "off-campus" visit. An elderly Menomonie lady called the service operator. "My telephone cord," she said. "is too long. Would you please pull it back at your end?"

In the fall while floating around outside, I heard the Stout band's drums beating a stirring rhythm. The crisp fall air carried the strains of a march to my ears and I tuned in Nelson field using my telescope eyes and there I saw the members of the band forming various formations in honor of football and the team.

I also remember the football games. Do you not especially remember the first game of Stout vs. Northland? Ah, yes, the school spirit was high when Stout was the victor. I cheered and so did all of you. Then you flocked to the gym for a mixer and more fun even though the long Stout stag line evaded inviting the girls to dance. But as the football season progressed, most of you got acquainted with more young people and some fellows even gave away their class rings.

Three weeks after teacher's convention, the 1954 Stout Homecoming arrived and of course it was "the best ever". The glorious coronation ceremony, a spirited march to the bonfire, the lighting ceremonies of the stubborn pile, and finally, hot, but brilliant flames appeared making the spirit of the occasion rise. The next day last minute preparations on floats were made and the "big" parade was on its way. Night time arrived and the thrilling game was played in snappy and sharp fall air, but the spirit was fitting for a Stout Homecoming.

Then Thanksgiving vacation and finally the long awaited two weeks of Christmas vacation. During this time you attended many parties and neglected your schoolwork. Didn't you? I know; I was snooping.

After these festive days came the long, busy three weeks between Christmas and the completion of the first semester. Then most of you did all of the schoolwork that should have been done before. But now the "dreaded" semester exams are over and one more semester on the Stout campus is completed.

A new semester has dawned. I hope that this second semester will be full of rewards for all of you. Have fun, but do not neglect your studies. Remember, I will continue to snoop!

Notice of the continuing success of a Stout Institute alumnus, Oren P. Stamstad (B. S. '33) has recently been received from the public relations department of Union Electric Company of Missouri in St. Louis.

According to Union Electric Co.'s public relations notice, Mr. Stamstad, formerly supervisor of the training coordination division and acting supervisor of the safety division, has been named manager of the educational division of the employee relations department of Union Electric. Announcement of Mr. Stamstad's promotion was made by W. L. Jones, director of employee relations for the firm.

In announcing the organizational change, Jones said that Stamstad would be in charge of all Union Electric educational programs, including safety, training coordination and management development. The changes were made to provide for the continuation of the work that had previously been carried on by the Safety, Training Coordination and Management Development Divisions with provisions for increased overall effectiveness, he said.

Stamstad came to Union Electric in January of 1947 as a training assistant after serving as a training specialist for Trans-World Airlines in Kansas City, Kansas. He was promoted to assistant supervisor of the Company's Training Coordination Division in August of 1947 and was made supervisor of the division in June of 1948.

A native of Black River Falls, Wis., Stamstad attended The Stout Institute at Menomonie, Wisconsin, from 1929 to 1933. In 1933, he received his Bachelor of Science Degree, majoring in industrial education. He later did graduate work at The Stout Institute in the same field.

Upon graduation, Stamstad was employed as an instructor by the Cumberland, Md., Board of Education. He worked for the Kansas City, Kansas, Board of Education as an instructor and supervisor from 1937 to 1942 and was a training and job evaluation supervisor with Pratt and Whitney Aircraft Co., in Hartford, Conn. and Kansas City before joining TWA in 1945.

A member of the American Society of Training Directors since 1947, Stamstad has served as treasurer, vice-president and president of the national organization's St. Louis Chapter. He also has been general chairman of the Chapter's annual conference committee.

He is a charter member of the Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church of

GUIDANCE CONFERENCE DRAWS LARGE CROWD

In addition to staff members and students, there were 299 registrants at the Fourth Annual Guidance Conference held at Stout on Thursday, January 13, 1955.

Participants came from every part of Wisconsin. Schools such as Grantsburg, Glenwood City, Elk Mound, and Eleva-Strum sent their entire staffs.

Recordings were made of the sectional meetings and general session. A discussion was held by the content recorders who attended two or three sectional meetings and then talked about the most significant ideas introduced at these sectional meetings.

A dinner was served by Miss Killian for approximately 175 persons.

The keynote speaker for 1956 will be Dr. John Rothney from the University of Wisconsin.

S.S.A. BUYS PUBLIC ADDRESS SYSTEM

The Stout Student Association has purchased a new Public Address system which is used for mixers, organization parties within the school buildings, and certain organization programs.

The system consists of a phonograph with a 3 speed record changer, automatic; an amplifier; a floor stand and hand mike; and a carrying case for all the parts.

The public address system is controlled by the S.S.A., and can be borrowed by anyone. To use the system, contact an S.S.A. officer and state the time and place you want to use it. The organization borrowing the equipment is completely responsible for it, and must see that it is returned to the S.S.A. office in good condition. The P.A. system is not to be taken off campus for any reason. There is also a list of instructions regarding the use of the various parts of the system inside the carrying case. Also, any S.S.A. officer can give instructions on the use of the system.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Well gang, sad news!! While most of us were away on our mid-semester vacation, Stout's fighting Blue Devils lost to the Superior Yellowjackets by a score of 95-81. Previous to this game, Stout lost two games the preceding weekend to Platteville and Oshkosh while the Yellowjackets defeated La Crosse. Stout has a 1-4 conference win loss record.

It seemed that Stout just couldn't come close to the height and bulk provided by Superior; hence, the loss. Woody Woodliff, the only Bluedevil who enjoyed any success at solving the high problem sat out part of the first half due to fouls, and after returning in the second half to help narrow the Superior margin, finally fouled out. It was then that Superior spread the margin of victory.

Dennis Challeen, Stout's freshman forward turned on an all time high scoring spree for the night and finished strong with 31 markers. He scored 20 of these in the first half. Rog Lowney, the sparkplug of Stout's machine turned in his usual good night with 20 tallies.

Team shooting for the evening wasn't too bad. Superior took 102 shots and scored on 39 for a 38% average from the field. Stout attempted 68 and proved successful on 28 field goal attempts for a 41% mark. With these facts in mind; we had the sharpshooters, but not the rebound or control men to hold the shooting advantage in this particular instance.

Tuesday Nite Retaliation At Superior
Saturday night Stout journeys to Eau Claire. That sentence should be enough to stir up sporting blood in Stout studs and alums!! Coach Johnson's boys will be out to pull the lofty pedestal out from under Eau Claire, who, so far this season, has been riding high and mighty. It's just about time, and, I might add, good weather for Stout to stir up a snowstorm to make tough sledding for the Blue-Golds. Skiis anyone??

Speaking of skiis, Deepwood had a serious accident Sunday when Sammy Samdahl was hurt. Most of us have heard, of course, that Sammy is in the Menomonee hospital after a ski pole penetrated his mid-section. Just a note to you Sammy, if you accidentally happen to read Stoutonia: we're all pulling for you and hoping for a speedy and safe recovery!! Get well and back on campus quick like, huh?

Synchronized swimmers are starting to break into the news now. I hear that rehearsals for the coming show are going well so we'll all be looking forward to this groups big night in the spotlight. When is it? Just ask me - I don't know!!

Stout plays Superior (at Superior) this coming Tuesday. Remember the Alamo!!

All we have in the intramural loop is a list of statistics. Here is the record as of December 14th.

Globetrotters	5	0

Be watching for the coming intramural basketball tourney.

It has been announced by the athletic department that intramural volleyball will begin shortly after February tenth. Managers of the teams are to get rosters in to the athetic office sometime before that date.

Coach Wink reminds team members as to these rules of the game:

1. Six men on a team
2. Game is 15 points and the game must be won by at least 2 points.
3. Only the serving team can win
4. Volley (after the serve) may consist of three hits with no two hits in succession by the same team member.
5. No reaching of any portion of the body across the net. Offense of this rule costs the team one point or the serve.

NINE WESLEY MEMBERS VISIT UNITED NATIONS

Nine members of the Wesley Club, accompanied by the Reverend and Mrs. Reece enjoyed a very wonderful and educational trip to New York, January 1-9, to see the United Nations building and attend the meetings. These nine people are Marion Kindshy, Mary Buol, Barb Ness, Pat Jensen, Colleen Ellis, Virginia Lathrop, Georgia Christner, John Smith, and Don Ritchard.

A. A. days were spent visiting the career UN buildings. At these buildings they heard briefings on the United Nations. The group was told that the UN is a second chance at world peace and that it should not have the power to settle all world difficulties. It is rather to bring all people together to talk over problems and to make an agreement instead of fighting. To do this we must have patience.

Through the Food and Agricultural Organization, experts are sent to advise and train countries how to grow better crops. The average person in the United States is not directly influenced by the UN like some countries because we have enough to eat and wear. The greatest problem is not of growing food, however, but of distributing it.

UNESCO is not directly under the UN, as all of its members are not UN members.

The group also heard about the troubles in some of the foreign countries as Israel, India, and Pakistan.

The land the UN building sits on does not belong to the United States but to the United Nations itself. There are special UN stamps which must be used if you mail a letter from the grounds. Also, there is a children's playground on the land where one was before the building was built.

Some time was also spent in Washington D. C., where the group visited government buildings and talked to some of the senators and representatives. However, they were rather disappointed in Senator Wiley. He seemed to beat around the bush when asked a question and gave no information of any value.

All of the time wasn't spent in such seriousness, however, as they took time out to see some of the points of interest along the way. Among these was the Riverside Church, a huge inter-denominational church which seats 2400 people. It is 100 years old and is noted for its size. They also visited the oldest Methodist church in the United States and the Bridal Altar. One day there were 48 weddings held at this altar. There are usually about 2,000 weddings held there each year.

The group also visited the Statue of Liberty, the Lincoln Memorial, the Washington Monument, Rockefeller Center, talked to Mrs. Roosevelt's close associate, Mr. Eichelberger, heard Marion Anderson sing in Carnegie Hall, and still found time to do a little shopping in New York.

While in New York they stayed at the International House which is a dorm for foreign college students. They come from fifty-two countries and may stay there for two years.

Outside of the fact that they were rushed for time, everyone had a very enjoyable trip even if the streets in Washington were rather confusing.

GOVERNING BOARD NEWS

Stout Student Governing Board discussed the following items at their business meeting on January 11, 1955:

1. The new Public Address system purchased by the S.S.A. is now in use at mixers and other school functions.
2. At basketball games for the rest of the year, the pep band will play.
3. Class elections for S.S.A. officers will be held soon. Friday, March 4th will be the deadline for petitions to be in, and Thursday, March 17th, is the election. S.S.A. officers can be put up by various social organizations, and we advise these organizations to select their candidate soon and get the petitions in early.
4. The S.S.A. office finally got their new furniture. The students voted on buying a new desk, chair, typing table, and lounge chairs for the new office at the first Governing Board meeting held in the fall. All students are invited to come and see the furniture at any time, or just stop in the office for a chat.
5. It was decided to have a Community Chest drive, at which time E.P.T. and Phi U will collect money during a convocation and all week in the hall. The money collected will be evenly divided between March of Dimes, Red Cross, Cancer, TB, Red Feather, and other worthy organizations to which we have been giving donations. The proposed plan is to have this single drive, thereby eliminating all the small drives throughout the year.

EICHELBERGER HALL IS NEWLY REDECORATED

Portions of Eichelberger Hall were redecorated during Christmas vacation. The major improvement was the redecoration of the recreation rooms in the basement. The ceilings of the two large rooms were painted white. The walls were painted yellow with a black border around the bottom of the woodwork.

In the small room, the risers were removed and the fireplace was remodeled.

The floors were cemented. Then they were covered with green tiling.

The stairway to the basement was, also, redecorated. The ceiling and walls were painted yellow. The steps and woodwork were varnished.

Besides making the recreation rooms beautiful, some redecorating was done to the rest of Eichelberger, too. Some of the floors on second floor were varnished. The second floor railing was refinished and painted and a few of the bathrooms and doors were painted.

MURAL DEUSING WILL SHOW AN AFRICAN SAFARI

Have you ever wished you could live the life of an explorer? You will be able to do this at the February 9th convocation during which an exciting adventure film will be shown by Mural Duesing.

"Safari in Africa" is the picture story of the American Museum of Natural History's Central African expedition. The expedition works its way across the veld through thrilling game country teeming with wild beasts, elands, gazelles, and zebras.

You will live the life of the explorer on safari visiting the proud Masai and watching the army ants on the march. You will also see battling bull giraffes and face the charge of a rhino. Mr. Duesing will take his audience on a climb into the famous Mountain of the Moon and then descend into the great jungles of the Congo for a visit with the lively pygmies.

After digging into a termite-mound and watching the primitive way of life among the Zande natives, you will stalk elephants, face a charging buffalo, and creep close to a herd of hippo where one great bull defies the camera.

Mr. Duesing, who was born and raised in a photographer's studio, has a friendly, unstudied style of lecturing which is enlivened with merry humor. His photography has astonished the experts and has won him national fame. Walt Disney has selected him for assignments which called for the most exacting kinds of photography. For 20 years Mural Duesing has been a staff member of the Milwaukee Public Museum and now holds the position of Curator of Education.

EXPERIMENT IN CLAY

Testing the artistic qualities of Menomonie's famous red brick on an electrically-operated potter's wheel is Miss Martha Ruth Amon, chairman of the related art department of Stout Institute. She is carrying on a number of experiments to determine the appropriateness of Menomonie clay for use in vases, pitchers and souvenir tiles.

INSTRUCTOR WORKS ON MENOMONIE RED CLAY

Miss Amon Experiments With Local Resource In Her Advanced Study

For over a century, clay from this area has been the basic ingredient in making the famous "Menomonie Red Bricks" which are used in construction projects across the nation.

However, if the current experiments of a Stout Institute instructor are successful, new commercial uses may be found for the red and red-brown clays which this city has in such abundance.

The instructor is Miss Martha Ruth Amon, chairman of Stout's department of related art. She is carrying out these experiments as part of her advanced graduate study in the John Herron Art School of Butler university and the University of Minnesota and also as one of a number of research projects currently being conducted by members of The Stout Institute faculty.

Since assuming the chairmanship of related arts at Stout in 1948, Miss Amon has been intrigued with Menomonie's great sufficiency of red clay, a natural resource which has become such a commonplace item that most citizens--except the brickmakers--pay it little heed. In her wide experience with related arts and crafts, Miss Amon had done considerable work with ceramics developed from the clays of various parts of the nation. As she expresses it: "I had heard much about Menomonie bricks and I found the city's red and red-brown clays to be most eye-catching. We all know that it makes splendid bricks, but can it be used--alone or in combination with other clays--for school

DIETETICS CLUB OFFERS BLOOD DONOR HINTS

If you have just donated blood, this concerns YOU. The loss of blood lowers the hemoglobin in the body, hemoglobin consisting largely of iron and protein. What you eat determines your speed of recovery to normal. Some students have expressed interest in this matter. As one coed emphatically put it, "I know I'm interested in giving blood...and if the fellas are not they should be!" The nutrition education committee of the Dietetic Club on campus offers the following information and advice to those commendable people who have donated a pint of their blood.

The loss of a pint of blood may mean the loss of about 250 mg. of iron and about 100 mg. of protein. The average time required to replace these is about seven weeks. A high iron diet has been shown to reduce this time by two. Protein and iron diet will reduce the time even more.

Here is what you should eat in a day to obtain a high protein and iron diet:

- Meat 4 ounces, 2 medium sized servings or one very large.
- One egg
- Other protein rich food, one serving (Cheese, beans, peanut butter or extra meat or egg)
- Bread and cereal, 4 servings
- Potato, 1 serving
- Green or yellow vegetable, 2 servings
- Citrus fruit, one serving
- Milk, 3 cups
- Snack foods, dried apricots - 1 ounce, raisins - 2 ounces, peanuts - 1 1/2 ounces.

WANTED: 375 PINTS OF BLOOD NEXT WEEK

The American Red Cross Blood Mobile Center will be located at The Memorial Library basement on February 9, 10, and 11, from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

The donating of blood may be done on either Wednesday, Thursday, or Friday, but Friday has been designated as "Stout Day."

One hundred twenty-five donors are needed each day to meet the quota, however, at least one hundred seventy-five should be registered.

The donor is requested not to eat any fatty foods at least four hours previous to the donating of blood. Beverages such as fruit juices are acceptable.

The Alpha Phi Omega Fraternity has a table in Harvey Hall to register on Friday, February 4. Anyone between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one will need a Parental Release signed before blood can be given. Eighteen is the minimum age limit.

If you can "spare a pint" let's make it a real "Stout Day" -- for a worthy cause.

Please contact The Health Office if you have any questions.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

All students of Stout Institute know that school papers are exchanged with other colleges throughout the state. Well, what becomes of these papers?

They remain in the Stoutonia office in order that some of the reporters may gain new ideas in writing up articles. After a period of time, the papers are disposed of and no one has seen them but a few reporters.

These college papers are of special interest to the students who have transferred to Stout from these colleges. They wish to learn what is happening in the college which they formerly attended. Even students who have not transferred are interested in the happenings on other state campuses.

Instead of being burned in the Stoutonia office, it would be much more convenient and worthwhile if these exchange papers were brought down to the library where everyone could read them. How about it?

The Stout Snooper

The year 1955 has completed one month of its existence and only 330 more days will pass before 1956 will arrive. Perhaps you think I'm thinking too far into the future, but aren't you curious about the future too? I am, or I wouldn't be The Stout Snooper.

This week I was thinking about the future of Stout so now I will snoop and look into the future using the most powerful lens of my telescope eyes and this is what I see: The date is February 4, 1956. The first stop for my eyes is Harvey Hall and of course it is about twice the size of the 1955 building. On 1/2 of the first floor is the music dept. with a large sound-proof practice room equipped with two pianos and its own built in microphones and recording system. This room is very large since the 200 members of the chorus plus an 85 piece orchestra-band practice together.

A large auditorium with a capacity of 6,000 lounging seats separates the dramatics dept. from the music dept. On the dramatics side there is another large rehearsing room-stage and make-up and dressing rooms for off-stage work equipped with the latest plastic chairs and cocoa cosmetics. There are also the discussion rooms where the English and speech courses are held. The study chairs are covered with a "hold your attention" fabric.

THE WHITE FRONT

Lunch
 Breakfast Dinner
Meals that Satisfy

In vocabulary class, new sentences are studied such as "They ain't hardly don't make them no more."

Now I will travel to the second floor or the "arts" floor. Here is the large crafts room equipped with the latest ceramics oven heated by small continuous explosions. Also on this floor are the individual studios where students paint, make models of houses, weave, design clothing, or just doodle.

Upstairs another flight is the modern clothing dept. Here there is one large room and many, many individual rooms equipped with a sewing center and machines such as Heald, Singer, Black, or Old Home. There the rooms are arranged around a small stage where the 1000 girls taking a sewing course model their garments.

In the foods dept. on 4th floor are many new kitchen appliances such as the modern gadgets, The Electric Measurer, Setting the Tableer, the Scruber, etc. The teachers instruct the students to learn how to run the gadgets.

And last, but not least in the 1955 Harvey Hall is a new science dept. There are charts showing the 121 elements, hanging in the lecture room which has a glass ceiling and glass walls. The chem. labs are efficiently arranged and the most exciting experiment of the course is when the students constructs a miniature H-bomb.

Other buildings on the 50 A. campus are similar. The new union is equipped with a long, 200 ft. lounge, 14 bowling alleys, an indoor tennis court, bookstore etc. There is a new course, The Union, which is required; all students must take it all of 5 hours a week in the Union!

Oh, by the way, one of the points of interest my eyes meet is Stout's Museum, the original Bowman Hall, showing the equipment of 1955.

There is a new Bowman Hall, constructed in the stone and stone, new Menomonie deposit discovered under the old dorms in 1955. In this beautiful building with its short tower and shining S of silver, the men get to their lectures and classes by riding upstairs on a 20 m.p.h. escalator.

In the shops the men work with atomic-powered machinery such as the lathes and polishers and they are proud of the fact that each designs and builds a house in their senior year.

Of course an added project to the school's 1955 curriculum is the "new Driver's Training course." Men and women learn how to steer the jet-propelled cars of 1955.

Well, this is what I see when I look into the future of Stout. Perhaps this prophecy will come about even sooner than predicted, but meanwhile during the rest of 1955 and in the coming year, I, The Stout Snooper, wish that all of you will remain proud of your "present" college!

ORGANIZATION NEWS

At a special meeting held on Tuesday night, the Phi Sigma Epsilon Fraternity elected new officers for the coming year. The new officers are: President, Roland Belwanger; Vice President, Dan Wielgus; Secretary, Doug Pregel; Corresponding Secretary, Bill Peterson; Sergeant at Arms, Frank Marose; and Historian, Don Hagen.

"Hey, don't splash out my light!" "Oh, my balloon is broken!" "We won!"

These exclamations and many more could be heard above the gay music which played in the Stout swimming pool, Thursday evening, January 27, at the Pallas Athene social meeting. There was no need to ask, "Did you have fun?" That was evident.

Elene Sweet planned the relays and entertainment for the party. Rose Poper was chairman of the food committee which provided doughnuts and hot chocolate to satisfy the starved swimmers. Miss Deininger was an invited guest.

The regular breakfast meeting of the Newman Club was held after the 9:30 Mass on Sunday, January 30. A business meeting followed the breakfast which was prepared and served by a committee of Sophomore girls. Many pertinent problems were discussed at this meeting with the main objective being that of improvement of the organization.

A mixer was held that evening in the school auditorium. The evening was spent in dancing and refreshments were served at the close of the party.

The next meeting of the Newman Club will be held on February 13.

Gamma Delta met at St. Paul's Lutheran School on January 30. The meeting began with a Vesper Service which is to become a regular part of each meeting. A supper and recreation completed the meeting.

On February 6, members will meet for a skating party at Mr. and Mrs. Seifert's cottage. Those interested in attending please meet at Tainter Annex at 9:00. Transportation will be provided.

Open house was held at the home of the Reverend and Mrs. Ralph Reece on Sunday, January 30, for freshman students of The Stout Institute. Here, those freshmen interested in the Methodist Church became better acquainted with each other, older members of Wesley, and Reverend and Mrs. Reece.

Following the open house was a whiz-bang night in the basement of the church. Folk games were played, and everyone had a very nice time getting acquainted.

art work, artistic creation, or even completely new commercial processes."

Having observed Menomonie clay in its natural state, Miss Amon then had to enlist some manpower to furnish an experimental supply—no task for a lady. As both Guy Wiseman, general manager of the Menomonie Brick Co. and Leon Erickson, superintendent of the brickyard, are interested in discovering as much as possible about the clay from which they make a living, she soon had a more than ample supply.

Using a technique which persons in the art field describe as the "hand-building process," Miss Amon turned out a number of experimental bowls, vases and pitchers. She discovered that the Indians had evidently done some experimentation of their own, for the coil method of hand-building, a favorite Indian pottery technique, proved an especially sound procedure for use with Menomonie clay.

"One large vase, constructed by addition of one inch flattened clay coils, one above the other, shows very well what can be done artistically with Menomonie clay," Miss Amon points out. "In addition, we have made some experimental tiles by rolling out slabs of local clay."

Working in the newly-equipped related arts laboratory at Stout and at the John Herron Art school, Miss Amon's experiments have led her to believe that Menomonie clay lends itself very well to "throwing" on a potter's wheel.

In the "throwing" process, the operator controls the formation of shapes of clay objects by hand manipulating a segment of clay which continuously revolves at varying speeds on a potter's wheel.

Current experiments with Menomonie clay have two additional facets. One is the development of a practical low cost, artistically-complementary glaze with which craft objects can be coated to give them a hard, attractive finish. Miss Amon has concocted a number of "recipes" for glazes, some even containing a portion of Menomonie clay.

Craft objects are then "fired" up to 1900 degrees Fahrenheit in Stout's new electric ceramic kiln. Glazes which crack (become roughened) or crack are rejected. Facts are compiled on all glazes at various stages of kiln heat.

As is true of any generation of college students, The Stout Institute youth are constantly seeking to construct crafts projects symbolic of their college campus. Faculty members and townspeople too want reproductions of area landmarks, especially of Stout's famous clock-bell tower, to use at home or to send as gifts.

Seeking to meet the constant clamor for such craft reproductions, Miss Amon hopes that her experiments will also lead to a practical method for the creation of souvenir tiles, made of the Menomonie clay and reproducible in large quantities. In this way, at least a start will have been made in diversifying uses for the city's huge supply of easily accessible, versatile and inexpensive red clay.

RABBI GIVES INSPIRING TALK AT CONVOCATION

"Youth in a Troubled World" was given by Rabbi Milton Kopstein at the January 26 convocation.

Kopstein stated that living is not as complicated as it seems. "Living requires vision and perspective. Each person must take what is offered and apply it to the things in life which are important." Adventure, challenge, and noble experiences—these are man's stimulants.

He stated "What youth needs is skills to understand and appreciate intelligently life. A second need is a self to live with. Life must have a meaning. The most important need youth should have is faith for or by which to live."

The Rabbi was invited to speak here by the Inter-Religious Council and the assembly-lyceum committee.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Wow, after last weeks column, I have quite a few words to take back and swallow. Eau Claire fooled me!! I thought we had ourselves a win!!

Rog Hanson, the tall Bluegold Ace, paced his teammates to a 107-70 victory over our own "Campus Joes" Saturday night. As added factors to Hanson's 30-point scoring spree, Eau Claire held the "ace-in-the-hole" punch with four other cagers hitting for dual digits.

Dave Kamish was Stout's "Mr. Big" for scoring with 20, closely followed by Roger Lowney with 19. No other Blue Devil was able to penetrate the Bluegold defense for more than 7 markers.

Looking over the box scores for the game, we see a few new names added to it and also some of the other names missing. Jim Dailey and Rich Vogtberger were on the subtracted portion and by the looks of the game, we needed them. Some of the fellows we haven't seen in action too much previous to this are Peterson, Blythe, Geisert, Holder, McGovern, Schletty, Aderholt, Johnson and Johnson, (sounds like a band aid company). Maybe we're up and coming. Who knows?

Right in contrast with Stout's loss to Eau Claire was Stout's loss to Superior. Remember the Alamo?? The score for this one was 87-57, with Woody Woodliff racking up 16 points to pace the Bluedevils. Kamish had 12 and Lowney had 9. Five men in the Superior ranks hit in the twin figures which gives the sports story an ironic twist. Both Eau Claire and Superior had five men on their individual teams that were able to hit the twin bill tally.

Looking back to the last time we played Superior, we find only a 10 point difference in score. In that game Kamish scored 31 markers but this time he had naught in the T. P. column. La Crosse meets Stout Saturday night — remember?

Yes, coming up Saturday night is the game between Stout and La Crosse. It might be well to note that we won over La Crosse last time, but now that La Crosse has seemingly added more power, we can only hope for the outcome of this one.

Last Monday night LaCrosse played River Falls and lost by only two points. If we speculate, we may have a close game on our hands. I'll go one better than speculation though, and say we'll win. Here's to the hope that all of you agree with me and will come to see Stout pull out of the conference cellar ranks. At this point, a little school spirit could do a lot of things.

All the sports news isn't in basketball this week with the S.S.A. Winter Rendezvous February 4th and 5th. There will be many different types of contests and prizes will be offered to the winners in each event. Undoubtedly you all got slips on the types of contests to be held, but just in case, here is a preview of the events taking place.

Under the chairmanship of George Stolp and Jiggs Kuboyama will be the following contests: Ice skate race, sled race, and hockey game. See George or Jiggs if you wish to participate. Ray Pearson is in charge of the Snowball rolling and building contest, and the cross country ski race is under the supervision of Bob Thomas and Kathleen Hellman. There will also be a log sawing contest with Reiny Melhsner and Gene Quilling as pilots, and Tom Kitto will be in charge of the snowshoe race. Skip Wick has charge of the ice fishing contest, and lest we forget, there will be a snowball fight with Allen Be Dell and Pat Drummond calling the shots. What say we all pitch in and make Winter Rendezvous a gala event.

MARINE CORPS TEAM TO VISIT CAMPUS SOON

Young men interested in obtaining a commission in the U.S. Marine Corp will have an opportunity to confer with members of a Marine Officers Procurement Team which will be on The Stout Institute campus all day Wednesday and Thursday, February 9 and 10.

The team will have its headquarters in the conference room of The Stout Institute student personnel office, located on the first floor of Harvey Hall at the college. Dr. Ralph G. Iverson, director of student personnel services at Stout, is in charge of arrangements for the visiting group. The visiting officers will present two programs for college students that will lead to a second lieutenant's commission in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve.

The Platoon Leaders Class for freshmen, sophomores, and juniors is the Marine Corps ROTC and assures a college man that he will complete college prior to beginning military duty. Participation in two six-week summer training programs without interference in academic pursuits during the college year will lead to a second lieutenant's commission in the Marine Corps Reserve.

The officer candidate course for seniors and college graduates requires only 10 weeks indoctrination prior to a commission in the Marine Corps Reserve.

Macataster College at St. Paul is producing a French comedy, "Madwoman of Chaillot," with performances beginning February 8-12.

A classic Greek tragedy, "The Trojan Women," was the feature of a double bill presented by the Beloit College players. An od Danish comedy, "Erasmus Montanus," proceeded as an after-piece for the tragedy.

An all-school carnival is in the making at Gustavus Adolphus College in Minnesota. The gym is decorated in the typical carnival fashion with booths, concessions, and entertainment.

"Mood Indigo" was the theme chosen for the annual Intersorority Ball at Stevens Point State. The mood was set by the music, colors, and abstractions rather than concrete detail.

The first semester graduates at Whitewater State were honored at a banquet last week at the LaGrange manor. Dr. Robert C. Williams was speaker for the graduating students and their guests.

The State College at Milwaukee witnessed a ground-breaking ceremony for the construction of a new student union.

The National Poetry Association in Los Angeles announced that a poem "When There's Only One" by Loraine Kammel of La Crosse State has been selected for publication in the annual anthology of college poetry.

DORM NEWS

The change in semesters has brought a number of new girls to the dorms.

La Vonne Mattson is now staying at Tainter Annex. She is a transfer from Gustavus Adolphus College in St. Peter, Minnesota. Her home town is Plum City, Wisconsin. This is her fourth semester at college.

Norma Brock from Rice Lake is now at Tainter Hall. This is her first semester in college, as she worked in Chicago before coming here.

Shirley Johnson at the Annex and Karen Lee at Eichelberger are also new to the dorms. This is their second semester at Stout, having lived at the Martini house first semester.

The Freshman Carnival Queen candidates are Joyce Magnussen from the Annex and Alice Yamamoto from Tainter Hall.

DR. FLEMING WRITES ON STUDY OF SALARIES

Appearing in the September, 1954, issue of the "Journal of Educational Research" is an article, "A Study of Mass Media Attitudes Toward Salaries and Salary Schedules of Teachers in 1931, 1941, and 1951" by Dr. Thomas F. Fleming, associate professor of English and Journalism at The Stout Institute.

The feature describes material published by the largest-circulating magazines and newspapers, as that material attacked and supported the requests of teachers for improvement of salary provisions and implementation of salary schedules for teachers. Dr. Fleming's findings indicate newspaper news and editorial support of teacher salary requests. Magazine news and editorial content was far smaller and divided in sentiment. It was discovered that controversy about teachers' salaries, as about any matter, increased news coverage devoted to the topic.

Less material was discovered relating to salary schedules for teachers. Mass-media support of such schedules was, however, discovered in all years. The topic is becoming increasingly of public concern, the study shows, largely because rising school populations are placing a premium upon the retention of experienced teachers.

WINTER ROYALTY

Alice Yamamoto and Don Pritchard were chosen to reign over the 1955 Winter Carnival. Alice, a freshman, was elected queen by the student body and Don was crowned king because of his flourishing growth of chin spinach.

MISS YAMAMOTO REIGNS OVER 1955 CARNIVAL

Miss Alice Yamamoto of Kealahou, Hawaii, was chosen by the student body to reign as Queen of Stout's 1955 Winter Carnival. Alice is a freshman student here.

Stout's "gentleman with the longest beard," Mr. Don Pritchard of Columbus, Wisconsin, reigned as King of the Carnival. At the present time he is a sophomore student here at The Stout Institute.

Judging for the beard growing contest was held during the half time of the Stout vs. La Crosse basketball game Saturday evening with local barbers acting as judges. Jim Schlagenhaff was named the one having the "best groomed" beard and Neil Larson's received the title of the "most unique."

A coronation ceremony for the royalty took place during the intermission of the "Snow Brawl" held in the Stout Gym following the game. The Pallas Athene Sorority sponsored the dance with George Soderberg's orchestra leading forth the music. Anne Robbe won the quilt which was given by the Hyperian Sorority.

Taking first place for one of the 4 grand prizes was Loren Johnson with a total of 15 points which he earned by taking part in various Winter Carnival activities. Nat Wick and Robert Robockker tied for 2nd place with 13 points each and Joan Anderson received the 4th prize with 12 points. These four students received beautiful ski sweaters as their reward.

The "Stout hearted men" won the snow ball fight on Saturday afternoon after being defeated by the women in a tug of war on Friday evening.

The Phi Sigs ice carving entry received the prize for the "most original" and the Alpha Sigma Alpha's was termed the "most beautiful."

Ice Hockey finals ended with the Phi Sigs and F.O.B.'S in a tie.

A very sincere "thank you" is extended to all who made the 1955 Winter Carnival so very successful.

MURL DEUSING TAKES AUDIENCE ON SAFARI

"Safari in Africa," which was shown by Murl Deusing, thrilled the audience at the convocation Wednesday morning. The film showed a real safari which took place in Africa under the direction of explorer Dr. James L. Clark.

Mr. Deusing opened by giving a brief description of the activities he participated in before he joined the expedition. His remarkable sense of humor delighted the audience throughout the film.

An inside view of the equipment and the camp prepared the audience for the expedition. Once it got under way a large variety of animals were seen. Mr. Deusing cleverly introduced them. Several of his shots were in slow motion to show the co-ordination of the animals when they moved swiftly.

PRACTICE FOR "A FATE WORSE THAN DEATH"

Rehearsals are going strong in preparation for the Manual Arts Players' spring production, "A Fate Worse Than Death." The play, a melo-drama, will be presented February 24, 25, and 26 in The Stout Auditorium at 8:00 P.M.

The cast includes: Betty Havlik (Carlotta Flower, the heroine), Don Pritchard (Rodney Ramsgate), Judy Goehring (Felicia Ramsgate, Rodney's wife), Ellen Steinhoff (Dorthea Ramsgate, the daughter) Jan Jenquin (Maria, the maid), Audrey Adams (Clarice Kingson, Dorthea's girlfriend), Don O'Brien (Cassius Carstairs, the villain), Francis Karraker (Cokie Joe, one of Cassius's confederates), Doug Dorner (Slick Carter, the detective), Larry Loveland (Burgess Lendahand, the hero), Rhea Van Vleet (Jennie Lynd, Rodney's secretary), and Carol Hatch (Ada Cornell).

MISS NOBLE URGES USE OF BULLETIN BOARDS

A recent feature article in the field of home economics, written by two persons with Stout Institute affiliation, has been so well received that its contents will be summarized for use by teacher groups in Los Angeles county, California.

Authors of the feature are Miss Ann Noble, head of the department of home economics education at Stout, and Miss Jeanette Oetting, Stout Institute graduate who is now completing her dietetic internship in St. Mary's hospital, Rochester.

The article appeared in a recent issue of "Practical Home Economics," a national professional publication in the field of home economics. It dealt with the planning and construction of eye-catching, informative bulletin boards.

Requesting the information to assist groups of teachers in Los Angeles county is Ragene Farris, consultant in secondary education for that county. She will include much of the contents of The Stout Institute article in a summarization which she is compiling for use in working with home economics teachers under her direction.

GALS! TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT TO HOOK HIM

Girls don't forget tonight is the Sadie Hawkins Dance after the game. Music will be by George Soderberg and there will be prizes for the best dressed couple, best dressed boy and the best dressed gal. Also be sure and fix your braids "real pretty", you might be chosen Stout's 1955 Pigtail Princess.

The ASA's are helping you to hook your man right. A license bureau will be located in the center of the gym where you can purchase your "marriage contracts" (rings come with them). And then to celebrate the happy occasion, kickaboy juice will be served. Don't forget to bring your number so you can pick up that corsage for him at the door. Admission is 2¢ an inch around the fellows waist.

HOME EC CLUB ELECTS THREE TO WORKSHOP

Dickie Nelson, Ardis Carr, and Lois Jessen have been elected by the executive council to attend the Province Workshop. The meeting will be held in Chicago on February 10, 11, and 12. Miss Nelson, one of the advisors, will accompany the girls.

Katherine Middleton, a prominent home economist, will speak on the educational, vocational, and cultural value of home economics. Miss Middleton is a staff member of "What's New in Home Economics," a national home ec. magazine; she also conducts a T.V. show, "Chicago Cooks With Kay Middleton."

The girls will take many interesting tours which will include the following: The Harvey and Howe Experimental kitchens; Marshall Field and Company; Mary Wright's Kitchen Studio; The American Institute of Baking; The Merchandise Mart; and the Underwritten Laboratories.

The council has voted to donate fifteen dollars to the International Scholastic Fund. This fund is one of the projects of the American Home Economics Association. An international fellowship is granted each year. International scholarships are also awarded, according to the size of the fund.

FILM PREVIEW WILL FEATURE CITIZENSHIP

Wednesday evening, February 16, at 7 P. M. in the audio-visual theatre of The Stout Institute library-teachers, parents, and all persons interested in good government are invited to a free preview of films which discuss various aspects of government in a democracy.

"A Citizen Participates" is a film depicting the role which the average citizen can play in the improvement of his community. In this short feature, an explanation is given of means by which a service club attracted a physician to its community.

In "Escape to Freedom", America's voting record is examined and so-called "excuses" for failure to vote are exploded. The feature also more clearly defines the often-abused term "politician" and proves that every citizen should be a politician.

The dangers and inefficiency of school-community tension are described in "School and Community." From the film, the audience will also learn that teachers, parents, school officials and all citizens have an important stake in achieving harmony between a community and its schools.

Two additional films are designed to stimulate discussion. "Public Opinion in a Democracy" explains the importance of public opinion to democratic government and methods by which such opinion is molded. Especially prepared as a means of explaining differences between socialism and capitalism, "Two Views on Socialism" answers criticisms sometimes made against the capitalistic system.

TRUSTEES TAKE ACTION ON SEVERAL PROPOSALS

COMIC HATS FEATURED AT RUSHING PARTY

Unlimited shapes, sizes and colors of hats were seen at the Intersorority Rush party Saturday forenoon, February 5, 1955. This party was held for all freshmen and transfer girls at the Stout gym.

The party's entertainment, under the direction of the Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority, started out with a thorough examination of each hat for certain articles that were to be found. The girls with the best hats were singled out and were judged by the sorority advisors. Irene Novinski won first prize for her hat called "Blackbirds Baked in a Pie." Ellen Paetsch won second prize for her hat which portrayed the "Winter Carnival." The third prize went to Joan Marquart for her "Hyp Hep Cat."

Mary Ellen Kane, a Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority member, explained to the girls the rules and regulations of pledging a sorority. She then introduced the presidents of each sorority and they, in turn, introduced their sorority sisters and advisors and concluded with the singing of their sorority song.

Each sorority member invited a freshman or transfer girl for lunch, which consisted of doughnuts and cocoa, served by the Pallas Athene sorority. The Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority was in charge of the clean up and the Hyperian sorority was in charge of the invitations.

This party acquainted the non-sorority girls with the members and perhaps helped to make their choice of a sorority of their preference.

DR. FRYKLUND APPOINTED TO AWARD COUNCIL

The appointment of Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of The Stout Institute, to the advisory council of the Industrial Arts Awards program of the Ford Motor Co. has been made by Henry Ford, president of the automotive corporation.

In his invitation to Dr. Fryklund to become a member of the advisory group, Mr. Ford pointed out that the council is composed of leaders in the fields of industrial arts and industrial vocational education. Members represent each state, territory and the District of Columbia in assisting with the industrial arts awards program.

President Fryklund's appointment is for a three year term. His term will be concluded on January 1, 1958. The Ford industrial arts award program has been in operation for the past five years and is designed to stimulate the interest and achievement of American youth in the endeavors of industrial education. Outstanding accomplishments of these young people are then recognized in a tangible manner.

Board of Trustees Approves Faculty Changes, Student Fee Revisions at Meeting

Action on a number of faculty changes, several revisions in student fee policies and support of proposed legislation to supplement teachers' retirement with social security were major items of business at a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees of The Stout Institute.

Requests for retirement, submitted by Miss Lillian M. Froggatt, for 30 years director of the Stout library, and by Miss Gertrude M. O'Brien, for 26 years college registrar, were accepted by the trustees. The secretary of the board was authorized to send to each woman an expression of appreciation prior to the effective date of the retirements, June 30.

Miss Froggatt was director of the college library during its time of greatest development. In her tenure, Stout's library facilities expanded from improvised quarters to the present excellent library building. Miss Froggatt played an important part in the planning of the new library.

During Miss O'Brien's years as registrar and placement chairman of the college, she has seen The Stout Institute advance from an emphasis on two-year diplomas to four-year degrees and eventually to the addition of a fifth year of graduate study. She has provided efficient placement services to the schools of Wisconsin, whether working with earlier limited facilities and staff or now with the excellent accommodations now available.

Other faculty changes included the promotion of Dr. Ralph G. Iverson, director of student personnel services at Stout, to the rank of full professor. The trustees also approved a leave of absence for Norman Ziemann, chairman of the speech department of the college, to permit him to continue his work toward a Ph.D. at Northwestern university.

Interim appointee during Ziemann's absence will be Malcolm McBride, holder of a Master of Arts degree from the University of Minnesota. He has recently concluded 11 years of military duty with the U. S. Army.

The trustees acted to permit The Stout Institute, for the first time in its history, to enroll special students on a pro-rata basis of $5.00 per semester credit up to a total of nine credits. Formerly all Wisconsin residents paid a flat $61.00 semester matriculation fee, no matter how few credits a special student desired.

However, the new pro-rata cost will not provide medical coverage for a student or an athletic ticket. Those two items are included in the $61.00 charge for regularly-enrolled students.

In another action concerning the student fee schedule, the trustees approved a policy permitting a pro-rata refund of fees to students who withdraw because of illness or a death in the family. Under previous regulations

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Some women students at Stout have withdrawn at the end of the semester; others will probably leave at the end of the school year. Many of these girls are giving up their education to get married.

How many women who now hold low-paying jobs regret not having had the chance to obtain an education in some profession. These women realize now, when it is too late, that if they had first gotten their specialized education, and then thought of marriage, they would be much better off today.

You girls are probably thinking that you'll never have to support anyone, so why should you worry? There is so much more to the situation. Look ahead in your future; your husband may die or be killed and you may be left with children to support. You can always get a job, but will it pay much and will it be work that you will enjoy? These are all things to consider when you decide whether to quit college to marry or to continue your education and make something of yourself.

Make your parents proud of you. They have given you so much, including this chance for an education. And no one will ever be able to take your education away from you. In addition, just consider how many more years of your life remain in which you can get married.

Think over this matter and do yourself a favor that you will never regret. Continue your college education and give yourself a greater feeling of satisfaction and security later in life.

ORGANIZATION NEWS

The Wesley Club has started a program of discussion following the book Credo. The topics for discussion are Man, God, Christ, Friendly Universe, and Religion of Jesus. Next week God will be the topic discussed. Plans are underway for a weekend retreat at Whispering Pines where old and new council members will be planning the program for the next year.

On February 2nd a group of students who went to New York, spoke to the Rotary Club about the trip, and on February 6th they spoke to the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Sunday evening, February 13, 1955 the L.S.A. group will meet at Our Saviors Lutheran Church to attend the first meeting of the 1955 Christian Life Series. A group of young people from the Plymouth Christian Youth Center in Minneapolis, Minnesota will present the program. The program begins at 5:00 P.M., so all L.S.A. members are asked to meet in the Friendship Room shortly before and go as a group. Following the meeting we will have supper and recreation in the Friendship Room.

Let's have all members there as these series of programs will be wonderful. Don't miss them!!

The Reverend Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius deStigter served a delicious waffle supper to the Congo Club February 6.

Recently Dr. Nitz, through the use of his slides taken on various trips took the Congo Club across the United States via Crater Lake, Glacier National Park, Kentucky, Washington, D.C., New York City, and then back to Menomonie.

February 13 some of the members of Wesley who visited the United Nations will give a discussion of their trip.

The Phi Sigs took first place in the Winter Carnival snow carving contest. The carving was of a penguin with the title "Keep Kool." The carving was attired in the traditional Phi Sig straw hat and cane. They were also forced to tie with the F.O.B.'s in the broom hockey game which took place Friday night.

Several of the members have lost their fraternity pins to Stout girls. Dan Weilgus has pinned Jean Schwerdt, Dick Dirshel pinned Aileen Shinabarger, and Leo Pleva pinned Barbara Ray. The girls received corsages and were serenaded Tuesday night by the fraternity. Two other Phi Sigs have pinned girls who do not attend Stout. Dick Anderson has pinned Miss Bea Winkler from Milwaukee and Bill Davis has pinned Veronica Wong from Eau Claire. The girls were telegraphed flowers.

The Hyperian Sorority held their annual Valentine's Dinner on Thursday evening, February 10th at the Anchor Cafe. Miss Carrison, the Hyperian advisor, Miss Jeter, and Miss Deiningner were guests of honor. Informal pledging for two Valentine hearts, Harriet Wilke and Ellen Steinhoff, took place at the dinner. Congratulations to Anne Robbe the winner of our pretty hand-tied quilt.

If the terms "cross-country" and "down-hill" have come into a conversation that was overheard lately, it's a sure thing that the people talking were skiers and probably members of Stout's Ski Club. It seems that skiing is particularly good this year at Deepwood and other skiing resorts and that a good ski enthusiast can't resist getting in every skiing minute possible. No weather is too cold or bleak for Stout's Ski Club if the snow is right for skiing. Every Saturday and Sunday is devoted to skiing from 9 to 5 at Deepwood. If there are any interested by-standers, why not join in the fun?

GEORGE SODERBERG SPEAKS ON FINISHES

The Home Economics Club opened "The House Around Us" series of meetings with guest speaker, George Soderberg. Mr. Soderberg is the author of a book on finishings and is general finishing instructor on campus.

Mr. Soderberg spoke on reconditioning wood finishes in the home. Stressing the importance of the subject to girls, Mr. Soderberg told the members that "80% of the finishing in the home is done by women."

Mr. Soderberg demonstrated the reconditioning of dirty furniture, light scratches or scuffs, deep scratches, checked finish, and the rubbed through finish on furniture. Explanation of the process of a complete re-finish completed his presentation.

Tom: My grandfather is ninety-nine and has never used glasses.
Dick: How did that happen?
Tom: He drinks from the bottle.

The Stout Snooper

Tonight is Sadie Hawkin's Week's biggest event, the dance. During my snooping the last week, I have seen Stout girls opening doors at the movie theatre, buying the tickets, or paying for the hamburgers. Yes, you of Stout have compiled to the rules of TWIRTP (The Woman Is Requested To Pay) season! This season is very appropriate now as Valentine's Day is only 3 days away.

And since Valentine's Day is on Monday, I am reminded of an old Roman custom, called the feast of Lupercalci. Part of this feast consisted of every young man putting his name into a box. Then each young woman drew and the man having the name drawn became the young woman's escort for the entire coming year! Perhaps this system would be of some use on Stout's campus, huh?

Speaking of Valentine's Day, the origin of this lover's day is not known. There are two theories ordinarily accepted: One is that the word galantin (lover of women) is similar to the word Valentine.

The other theory originated in the Middle Ages: It was found that the birds began to mate on Feb. 14. Chaucer said: "For this was Seynt Valentine's Day; When every foul cometh ther to choose his mate."

These two theories still do not explain just why lover's day received the name of St. Valentine because Saint Valentine wrote no love songs; instead he was a bishop and for believing in the Christian faith, he was beheaded. I think he'd be very surprised to discover that his name is always thought of in connection with lovers.

Years ago it became a custom to send a paper valentine to some special girl or boy friend and it was (and still is) common for the man to stick to the girl fallen for him than the one he falls for!

The first printed valentine depicted a young couple; the girl dressed in a scarlet gown, blue-green shawl, and the young man dressed in lavender trousers, a yellow waist-coat, blue gutcoat, and green cravat. Wow, those modern color combinations! Now there is a great assortment of Valentines sold. Why, I even found one for my 5th cousin.

Oh, say, did you girls know that if a girl has a college education, chances are she'll have a happy and successful marriage. And it is wise for a couple to have had the same amount of education, but a similar intelligence level is more important.

Only about 1/2 of the elopements are happy and secret marriages have even a poorer record. Remember this. "How come you never married?" I once asked a middle-aged graduate student, "women won't bite you." "No, he retorted, "but they sure can gnaw."

But in spite of these few gloomy prophets, most marriages are happy probably happier than all statistics show. So on Valentine's Day, pick a "Valentine" and make use of Feb. 14! I'll be snooping!

SECOND DEADLINE FOR TOWER COMING UP

February 15 is the next Tower deadline. At this time, all pictures should be in the tower office. The dummy sheet for the first third of the annual is being made-up, and this first section of the book will be sent to the printers on February 15.

March 1 is the deadline for the second portion of the book, and the third deadline is April 1. At this time all articles to be printed in the annual must have been turned in. If this schedule is followed, the first books will be printed by the middle of May.

If everyone cooperates in getting their stories and lists of names turned in, the book will be here sooner. Remember, it's up to you to do the job well.

ARTS AND CRAFTS TO SPONSOR PARTY

Arts and Crafts is sponsoring a card party in the Stout gymnasium on February 19 at 8:00 P.M. Various card games will be played and prizes which the members have made themselves will be given. A handsome door prize will also be awarded to some lucky person.

Come one, come all, and test your luck and skill at the Arts and Crafts card party!

Membership in this organization is still open.

Board members gave their unanimous support to a proposal by Stout Institute faculty members that the Stout faculty participate with a joint committee of the University of Wisconsin faculty and of the Association of Wisconsin State College Faculties in recommending passage of a bill in the Wisconsin Legislature.

That bill would authorize a referendum regarding the provision of social security as a supplement to the existing teachers' retirement program. Regents of the University and of the other states colleges have also acted favorably in support of the proposed legislation.

President Verne C. Fryklund, in presenting his quarterly report to the board, revealed that second semester enrollment at the college totals 790 students, of whom 431 are men and 359 are women. Included in this total are 31 full-time graduate students.

He also called the attention of the trustees to March 3, the date on which bids will be opened on a new residence hall for Stout Institute coeds. Plans and specifications for the building have been completed by the La Crosse architectural firm of Schubert, Sorenson, and Associates, Inc. The necessary advertising of bids has already been completed, Dr. Fryklund revealed.

Board members approved a new salary schedule for the college faculty, contingent upon availability of funds to implement the increases. President Fryklund, in recommending approval of the new schedule, told the trustees that it is virtually impossible to employ new teachers at the lower salary level of Stout's current salary schedule, which is $3420. The new minimum figure has been set at $3960.

Scholarships for a number of students and the budget for the third quarter of the college year also received board approval.

LIFE MEMBERSHIP BUSINESS IS BOOMING

The Stout Alumni Association is happy to announce that the drive for life members among the alumni has been most successful. The roster of life members has been increased by seventy-four in the past two years. Sixty-five members have begun life memberships on the installment plan basis. Under this plan, the membership is paid for in six yearly installments of five dollars. During this two year period ten additional life memberships have been paid in full.

The money from these memberships is earmarked for the scholarship fund from which worthy high school boys and girls are awarded scholarships to help them prepare for a vocation at The Stout Institute.

The Alumni Association is very happy over the steadily growing scholarship fund.

Any alumnus interested in learning more about the two plans for purchasing life memberships may write the Stout Alumni Secretary, Bob Rudiger, for details.

DUM-DA-DUM-DUM

By J. Mickie Schellin

Dum da dum dum! You're a police sergeant by the name of Stout Saturday assigned to special detail. There's been a strange disappearance of a thing called victory. Your job — find out what happened to it.

You go through all the relentless routine; the questioning, checking, and a few general shake-ups — still the question, what happened to the victory?

Eleven p. m. Wednesday: You have a lead, and follow it. Your suspect is La Crosse, of all culprits! It was rumored previous to this that River Falls, Superior, Platteville, Winona, or Eau Claire might have had a hand in this dastardly deed, but you know different. They were only accomplices; but you still have to get the facts. All we want is the facts.

So far you have in your record book a list of parties to the big crime: Stearns, Clark, Taylor, and Winiarski. The latter is the boy we'd like to have. You check his record: 20 points against River Falls, and 26 against Stout. It looks like he's the man we want! (in more ways than one!)

Eleven thirty Wednesday: You go on with your search, digging up all the nasty facts. You find out that Lowney had 22 markers for the home team, with Kamish, Bolm, and Chal-leen tallying 18, 16, and 15 respectively. You go on to check more records, and you find that freshman Jann Peterson played a beautiful game and scored nine. The trail is gettin' warm now!

You go back to the office and think. Nervously, you pull out a Chesterfield, place it to your eager lips (please people, don't get ideas!), and concentrate. You weigh the evidence — Stout's height against that of La Crosse, Stout's speed against that of La Crosse, Stout's basketball ability against that of La Crosse, and you draw your conclusion —

Whodunit? Well, it wasn't the butler! The charge? a 107 dash 89, of course. Chalk up one.

Well, you've had your report by Operative 91335 now so we can go on to fill in "more of the facts."

La Crosse defeated us (it wasn't the butler) by a score of 107 - 89. Sure we lost, but we had a lot of fun doing it! Look at it this way — there are better days ahead! Be optimists!

Coach Johnson started four freshmen in this game, plus one sophomore: Lowney, Kamish, Chal-leen, McGovern, and Bolm. All the boys played a good game, and should get credit for it. Lowney was the ball handling ace, as well as scoring ace. Reserve strength was added by Jann Peterson. (Nice work!)

Attendance at Stout home games has been good this year, but not spectacular. This brings to mind what a major league baseball team did to boost attendance.

It seems at one lady's day at the ball park, the officials gave a fifth of whiskey to each of the visiting females. Everything went along fine.

THE KILLERS AND THE KILLED

All the histrionics or old-time melodrama will be depicted in "A Fate Worse Than Death," which the Manual Arts Players of Stout Institute will present in the college auditorium at 8:30 p.m. the evenings of February 23, 24, 26. Horrified at the temporary collapse of the hero, Don Pritchard, are Joan Mountford and Francis Karracker, while the cause of it all, villainous Don O'Brien, gloats. However, justice will later triumph as it always does.

M.A.P. PREPARES "A FATE WORSE THAN DEATH"

Manual Arts Players To Present This Melodrama On February 24, 25, 26

A Fate Worse Than Death, a melodrama which is being presented by Stout's Manual Arts Players next week promises many laughs to those attending its presentation.

Mr. John J. Kirby is directing the play, which will be presented Feb. 24, 25, and 26. The story of A Fate Worse Than Death takes place at the Crossroads, a magnificent estate owned by Rodney Ramsgate (Don Pritchard). Felicia, Rodney's aristocratic wife (Judy Goehring), has a famous collection of jewels that attracts the villain, Cassius Carstairs (Don O'Brien). Cassius arrives at the Ramsgate home with Cokie Joe (Francis Karracker) to steal the jewels, but his plans change when he learns of a missing niece of Rodney's, Carlotta Flower (Betty Havlik) who has just been left a hundred thousand dollar fortune.

As the plot gets more involved, Carlotta and Dorothea Ramsgate, the Ramsgate's daughter (Ellen Steinhoff), both fall in love with Burgess Lendahand, the hero (Larry Loveland). Marie, the maid (Jan Jenquin), and Clarice Kingsdon, a member of Dorothea's social set (Audrey Adams), also add a few complications to the Ramsgate household which are later straightened out by Slick Carter, a noted detective (Doug Dorner), Jennie Lynd, Rodney's secretary (Rhea Van Vleet), and Ada Cornell, a former Ramsgate employee (Carol Hatch).

Don't miss this fun-packed piece of nonsense. It promises to be a different type of entertainment than previous productions of the Stout players.

INSTRUCTORS' COURSE IN SWIMMING ENDS

Today the week long instructors course comes to an end here on Stout campus. Since Monday, the 14th, Mr. Joe Racz has been here from the main office for the development of water safety in St. Louis, Missouri.

Previous to Mr. Racz's arrival, Elene Sweet and Earl Lehman, members of the water safety staff here on the campus, instructed a fifteen hour course in life saving as a prerequisite to the instructors course. Twenty eight Stout men and women qualified to take the course this week. Instruction took place from 7 to 9 each evening.

This service was extended through the Dunn County Red Cross office, headed by Miss Marion Angalls. The course was administered by Coach Johnson, chairman of the Dunn County water safety area.

These training areas are held annually so that students who wish to carry on life saving or instructors work may take advantage.

Not only Stout students, but any in this area who are interested may take advantage of this course.

CLARYSSE NESS TO PARTICIPATE IN SHOW

Miss Clarysse Ness, Stout Institute alumna, Home Economist with W. R. Beamish Co., Minneapolis, will be one of the participants in a Leisure Time Theatre program to be presented in The Stout Theatre at Menomonie, Wednesday, February 23rd. Two performances will be given, one at 2:00 P. M., and the second at 7:30 in the evening.

This is an unusual program in that the performance is free, yet it will help enlarge the funds of the local Heart Fund. For each person in attendance, twenty-five cents will be donated to the local Heart Fund.

The program is centered around the modern methods of laundering, showing the comedy side of the days gone-by method of laundering. Present day synthetic fabrics will be discussed, and methods of handling them.

In addition to Miss Ness, the show will be conducted by Mr. Whitey Lamb Sales Promotion Manager, Miss Audrey Pahl, Home Economist of Monsanto Chemical Company. This program is under the auspices of the Fair Store.

Additional entertainment and door prizes will be given.

"S" CLUB ORGANIZING ANNUAL CARNIVAL

The "S" Club Carnival is coming to town, so plan to attend. It will be here Saturday, February 26, 1955.

The carnival, an annual affair, is put on by the "S" Club in conjunction with the various organizations on the Stout campus.

There will be concession stands of all types. Here's your chance to win prizes, have fun, and get together with many of the students on campus.

Be sure to attend. The ideas the different organizations come up with are really keen. Who knows someday you might be asked to plan a social function of this type in a high school in which you are teaching. So don't pack that suitcase. Come over to the gymnasium for a real gone time.

HOW DO YOU WRITE AN APPLICATION LETTER

"Do you remember how to write a letter of application?" "I wish I would have saved that letter I wrote in Expos." Such snatches of conversation are quite often heard this time of the year. Many seniors and graduate students are writing letters of application to secure positions for next year.

For those of you who are faced with this problem, a solution is offered. Monday night, February 21 at 8:00 P. M., Dr. Fleming will speak on the writing of letters of application. The meeting will be held in the audiovisual room of the new library. All seniors and graduate students are invited.

SCANDINAVIAN GUEST TO TALK ON DEMOCRACY

The Scandinavian democracies will be the topic for discussion on Wednesday, February 23 at 10:00 in the auditorium when a lecture will be given by Per Monsen, president of the Norwegian Press Association. He is also the political news editor for "Arbeiderbladet" of Oslo and is chairman of the parliamentary press gallery in Norway's capital city.

Monsen is a favorite lecturer in Norway, Sweden, England, Germany, and the United States where he has appeared many times. His broad understanding of the policies of both Europe and the western hemisphere makes him a favorite of lecture audiences everywhere. Since he has been a correspondent for the New York Times and Radio Free Europe, he has been able to study the relations of all the NATO countries, and he brings this understanding into his lectures.

During the past two decades he has served as a journalist in some of the most exciting areas in the world. When World War II broke out, Monsen worked in the underground press in Norway. He was arrested by the Gestapo in November, 1940, and was imprisoned until May of the following year. He was released then by mistake, when the man who had handled his case was killed.

Following his escape he worked in the Norwegian embassy in Stockholm until he returned to Norway as liaison officer for the home forces. He is a captain in the Norwegian Army.

Monsen will discuss the position of his own government and the rest of Europe in relation to the latest developments. He left his news post on February first to make this tour of the upper midwests under the direction of the University of Minnesota Concert, Theatre and Lecture Service.

OVER 1200 EXPECTED TO ATTEND OPEN HOUSE

Demonstrations, Tours, And Style Revues Are Planned For Visitors

STUDENTS TO ADDRESS UN CHAPTER HERE

Addressing the Menomonie chapter of the Wisconsin United Nations association at a meeting of that group on Monday evening, February 21, will be The Stout Institute students who have recently returned from a visit to headquarters of the UN in New York. The free gathering will be held at the Hotel Marion at 8 P.M.

The students will describe functions of the UN which they observed and also give their impressions of leading political figures whom they met. Following the panel discussion by the students, all present will participate in a general discussion.

Students who will compose the panel include Georgia Christener, Elkhorn; Colleen Ellis, Hillsdale; Marian Kindschy, Alma; Barbara Ness, Byron, Minnesota; and John Smith, 909 Main St., Menomonie.

According to those in charge of the meeting, "anyone interested in the UN, favorably or unfavorably disposed toward the organization, is cordially invited to attend this free event."

ARTS AND CRAFTS CLUB OFFERS MEMBERSHIP

Win an original prize made by the Arts and Crafts members at the card party to be held at the Stout gymnasium on February 19, at 8:00 P. M. Many card games will be played at this party and winners will be awarded with a prize made by the members. Some lucky person will be the recipient of a handsome door prize. Lunch will be served at the conclusion of the games.

An invitation is extended to everyone to join this party and have fun.

Membership in this organization is still open.

HOME FURNISHINGS CLASSES PLAN BUDGET

Miss Amon recently had her Home Furnishings classes plan a budget which would pleasantly furnish and equip an apartment for a young working couple. The girls went about it enthusiastically, and came up with some wonderful ideas that would tempt any man.

The students were asked to keep within a $590.00 budget, plus an assumed $100.00 for wedding gifts, and $25.00 for items already owned. The cost of a refrigerator and stove was not included. However, each girl was to provide for furniture, kitchen equipment, table service, linens, floor coverings, and accessories.

The major item chosen was a good hide-away bed which could serve as a davenport also. Many girls selected unfinished or unpainted furniture and fiber rugs for economy's sake.

With careful discrimination, the girls have learned how to plan an apartment wisely and economically, a fact worth remembering, fellows.

With over 1200 high school juniors and seniors expected for a full day of style revues, demonstrations and campus tours, the Division of Home Economics of The Stout Institute has completed preliminary plans for its biennial open house, to be held on the college campus April 1.

Invitations are being sent to all high schools within a 125 mile radius of Menomonie which operate departments of home economics. Recipients of these invitations include home economics teachers, directors of city, vocational schools, members of the state department of education, home economics coordinators, F.H.A. presidents and home agents within the 125 mile radius, and other persons who have requested invitations.

Theme of this year's open house will be "Let's Look Ahead." Visitors will have the opportunity to glimpse the breadth of a modern four year college program in home economics. In addition, they will become familiar with the great range of opportunities available to home economics graduates, especially in view of the acute shortage of trained persons now available to that field.

Beginning at 9 A. M. the morning of April 1, the 1200 visitors will enjoy guided tours of the college buildings and grounds, observe exhibits and demonstrations depicting varied areas of home economics, and enjoy the highlight of the day—a style revue in which Stout coeds will model the latest fashions.

The first 600 visitors making reservations in the college cafeteria will be served a special 50 cent luncheon. The college union and local restaurants will be available to the remainder of the group.

An open house planning committee, headed by Dr. Alice J. Kirk, dean of the division of home economics at Stout, is at work completing arrangements for the event. As an innovation this year, two coeds, Judy Benson, Spooner, and Carol Young, Berlin, have been named to the planning group. Such an arrangement is designed to provide the student viewpoint in the committee and also to give the coeds experience in planning and carrying through an extensive educational event.

General chairman of the open house is Miss Ella Jane Meiller, head of the Stout department of food and nutrition. Directing the style show will be Mrs. Alyce Vanek of the department of clothing and textiles, assisted by Miss Hazel Van Ness of that department. Miss Martha Ruth Amon, chairman of the related art department, will arrange for general decoration and displays.

Miss Mary K. Williams, also of the related art department, is preparing invitations and programs. Miss Mary Killian, director of food service.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

With the advancement of the new comes renewal of the old. Not only have popular songs and mothers-in-law a tendency to return, but so do good theatrical performances.

Within the past few years, the old-fashioned melodrama has been welcomed back to the stage. The hero, the villain, and the young maiden have returned for one more curtain call.

Many of us have not had the privilege of witnessing a melodrama, mainly because it was all the rage in the 1890's. That was Grandpa's and and Grandma's time and they would tell you that it consisted of virtue versus villainy with a little love on the side.

The Manual Arts Players of The Stout Institute will do their best to recreate this strange atmosphere when they present "A Fate Worse Than Death" or "Adrift on Life's Sea" next week. Interested? Go ahead, this is your night — hiss the villain, cheer the hero, and, oh yes, watch for the fair maiden, but remember, she belongs to the hero.

ORGANIZATION NEWS

The Hyperian Sorority goes "All aboard" a chartered bus this afternoon enroute to see the stage play "South Pacific" at the St. Paul Auditorium. The girls plan on leaving in the afternoon, having dinner in the cities, and then seeing the play.

Tri Sigma members celebrated Sadie Hawkins Week by sponsoring a hay ride on Tuesday evening, February 8. The weather was perfect for the hay ride, but members and their dates reported that they became quite cold and rather wet after the first hour of the ride. Their spirits were not dampened, however, and their final report was that they had a very enjoyable evening. Refreshments were served in the club room above the union following the hay ride.

The regular meeting of the Newman Club was held last Sunday, February 13 following the 9:30 Mass. President Bob Tennesen presented the schedule of activities of the club for the remainder of the school year. This schedule will be printed so that each member may receive a copy.

Tuesday evening, February 15, Father Matthew Molinaro, a former Newman Club chaplain here at The Stout Institute, presented a talk to Newman Club members and other Catholic students here on the campus. The subject on which Father Molinaro spoke was Marriage. The subject was of interest to the listeners and Father Molinaro proved to be a very capable speaker.

The next breakfast meeting will be held on March 6. Cay Yentz, Janice Hornickel, and Dorothy Disrud volunteered to serve on the food committee for that meeting.

At Congo Club, February 13, Mary Buol, Georgia Christner, and John Smith from Wesley Club gave a very interesting account of their recent trip to New York, Washington, and the United Nations headquarters.

February 20, at 5:30 a joint meeting of Congo, L.S.A., and Wesley will be held at the First Congregational Church.

Do you have a sweet tooth? You will have a chance to satisfy it Tuesday, February 22. That is when the members of Phi Upsilon Omicron will be selling the results of their labors with candy thermometers, sugar, and strong right arms.

Remember, all day Tuesday in the corridor of Harvey Hall! Get your candy then!

DORM NEWS

Lynwood has a new counselor. His name is Bob Olstrum. The fellows on second floor will have to keep their eyes open and their mouths shut now.

No one seems to know who was with Bill Knabe when he got stuck out in Wakanda Park Saturday night. It has been rumored that Barb Johnson had an awful cold Sunday. Take it for what it is worth.

The main topic of conversation in the dorm is still "Sadie Hawkins." None of the boys are complaining about their dates, but now they realize how nice it is to be a girl. Getting asked out, being called for, providing the transportation, (walking or other wise) paying the bills, and the other things that go with a date; really strike a hit with the boys. They are in favor of a "Sadie Hawkins Semester."

Professor: Why don't you answer me?

Student: I did. I shook my head when I didn't know the answer.

Professor: You didn't expect me to hear it rattle way up here, did you?

The Stout Snooper

Hi! Perhaps you aren't in a patriotic mood, but you should always feel a sort of "American" feeling and especially during the "birthday month" of February when the births of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington are celebrated.

The first formal celebration in honor of Lincoln's birthday was held in 1866 near the Capitol in Washington, D. C. Most of Washington and all of the government officials attended, hearing a memorial speech while the flags were at half mast.

Perhaps way, way back in your mind is a memory of a Lincoln Day Program in grade school. You probably sang the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" (which was written by a woman), someone read Walt Whitman's "O Captain! My Captain!" and parts of the Gettysburg Address, and a usual conclusion for this grade-school program was the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

As you know Lincoln was born on a farm, worked in a store, etc., but did you know that Lincoln only attended school a total of one year? Or did you know that he suffered 32 defeats before finally being elected to the Presidency by the electoral college?

Abe Lincoln was a great man. He avoided liquor and profanity and although very sociable, he also avoided girls. But he fell in love with Mary Todd and married her after a romance filled with emotional disturbances. Of special interest to you women is the novel, "Love Is Eternal," now appearing in a condensed version in the Feb. and March issues of the Woman's Home Companion. It is the story of Abe and Mary's romance.

Someone once described Lincoln as being "splendid, but imposing." Yes, the 6' 4" of Lincoln, his face and dress, were not easily forgotten. In his face he had deep hollows, heavy shadows, craggy brows, tousled hair, drooping eyelids, melancholy eyes, a large nose and chin; his dress consisted of a battered stove-pipe hat stuffed with papers and an ill-fitting coat with trousers too short.

In the February 14 issue of Life is a series of pictures of Abe Lincoln. Men, won't you please look at these pictures? They'll prove to you once and for all that it is not necessary to be handsome in order to become a great man.

Yes, a man born in the most humble walks of life rose to be one of the country's greatest men! When he died his Secretary of State said, "Now he belongs to the ages." But his birthday is observed as a legal holiday in most of the United States. Even if it is past Feb. 12, won't you remember him now? He remembered you, the future, many years ago.

And now for George Washington. The custom of celebrating his birthday was of slow growth. The first observance outside of his family, was his Valley Forge troops serenading him in the winter of 1778.

In 1932 President Hoover proclaimed a celebration in honor of Washington from Feb. 22 to Thanksgiving Day. Twelve memorial stamps, each with a portrait, were printed and the birthday was celebrated in forty foreign countries.

Today it is celebrated as a legal holiday in every state in the union, the District of Columbia, and territories.

Washington had from 7-8 years of formal schooling. When 21, he carried out a dangerous journey, full of hardship, as one of honor and glory.

Six years later he was married to the widow, Martha, and settled down to the life of a gentleman-farmer on his farm, Mount Vernon. He loved the widow's children as his own and was heartbroken when they departed from life on earth.

Later in his life, the handling of a small, green, and poorly equipped army was remarkable. In fact the victory of the Americas in 1777 was largely attributed to the conduct and character of George Washington, the first president of the United States.

I'm proud to be a citizen in this great land where boys can become "great" men of the nation. Be proud too; I'll be snooping.

GIRLS HONORED AT BIRTHDAY DINNER

PHI U HOLDS ANNUAL FOUNDER'S DAY DINNER

Nosegays of the traditional white and purple violets adorned the banquet tables at Jeatran's Friday, February 11 at 6:00 when the Phi Upsilon Omicron fraternity held its annual Founder's Day dinner. Every year the members of the active and alumna chapter gather to reminisce about the beginnings of their fraternity at the University of Minnesota on February 10, 1909.

This year Rosemary Kelly reviewed the history and growth of the national organization. In forty-six years, forty chapters have been organized throughout the United States. Doris Hutchinson then told of the birth of Tau chapter here at Stout in 1933, and reviewed the activities of the group from then up to the present time.

Kay Wedin, president of the chapter, presided as mistress of ceremonies. With the active and alumnae groups were the advisors, Dean Kirk, Mrs. Smith, Miss Trullinger, and Miss Mitby.

FOUNDER'S DAY HELD BY PALLAS ATHENE

Happy Birthday to you. Pallas Athene celebrated its 20th birthday in honor of its founder on February 14. Members of the sorority wore red roses, their flower, Monday. A birthday party was held Sunday in the Tea Room, following church services at the Congregational Church.

Traditional singing, stories of "when it was young," and plenty of eats added to the festivity. Three alumnae, Dorothy Johnson, Mary Lou Brown, and Jo Wagner (who beat her classmates through Stout) were welcome guests.

The Founder's Day was combined with a pledging ceremony at which Marion Kindschy and Joan Anderson were pledged to Pallas Athene.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Ah, Stout
There's honor
To your name,
It's true,
It's true,
We won a game.

As well as win
We lost a few..
Excuses many . . .
Few are true.

Here, in verse,
Enumerated,
Are excuses;
Worn, outdated

We
"Had the spirit,
Had the fight,
Have good men,
But have no height.,,

We
"Had support,
The will to do—
Of course, we had Competition too."
(Unfortunately!)
Assets?
Yes,
We have a few.
("The line above
Is "asset's cue".)

We
Have teamwork,
Lots of speed.
All the things,
That all teams need.
Skill with ball,
On hoop and board.
Dribbling, passing,
Strength assured.
In shooting too,
Our power's pronounced:
In win-loss record,
All denounced.
Wha' Hoppin'?
Time will tell.

Poetry, the spice of life?? Onward with the story anyway— Stout's fighting Bluedevils fought this weekend, coming up with one win and one loss. They lost to Milwaukee State, (93-87) and handed Whitewater defeat by a score of 82-73.

Dave Kamish paced the Bluedevils in the win over Whitewater tallying 26 markers; 22 of these scored in the second half of action. Roger Lowney, always consistent turned in 19 to boost the margin of victory. This win was the second in conference play for the Bluedevils.

Stout led the scoring in the game by marking 34 the first half, and adding 4 in the second. Whitewater trailed throughout the game with the exception of a tied score early in the second period.

Floor play, as usual was "Lowney Style." Rog certainly deserves every favorable adjective for his performance in this category. Challeen, also turned in an all-around good night, at the same time, scoring 13. Jann Peterson, a relative newcomer to the active Bluedevil squad, netted 10.

Milwaukee State proved to be a thorn in the flesh with their tall men dominating "in" play. Stout hit well from the floor, however, to hold Milwaukee's winning margin to 6 points.

Opposition scoring was led by Krueger with 32 and Netzel with 18 while Jim Bolm paced the home squad with 25. Challeen added 19, Lowney 17, and Kamish 16. Jann Peterson played a beautiful floor game, rebounded well, chalked up 8 markers, and fouled out.

Coming up this weekend, Stout travels to River Falls. Earlier this season, Stout was defeated by River Falls but the margin was not so great so as to assure another loss. Since this game, Stout has perked up some what, so we can look for a possible win. Maybe, Maybe, Maybe!

In the intramural loop the play has been fast paced and rough. Thus far in the tournament, the F. O. B. Fraternity has the championship with the final game being played while this paper is at press! The F. O. B.'s are playing the Delta Kappas for the crown.

In convocation last Wednesday, Coach Johnson was called upon to introduce the men of the 1954-55 Bluedevil squad. Of the seventeen men introduced, fourteen were freshmen. Analyzing this fact, we can see only one thing. . . Power in the future Bluedevil seasons. We have all seen that this year, win-loss wise, the Devils did not have too much punch. However, the determination, ability, (academic and athletic), is another matter. With this in mind, we can look forward to three exciting games remaining in this season and a much stronger Bluedevil squad next year.

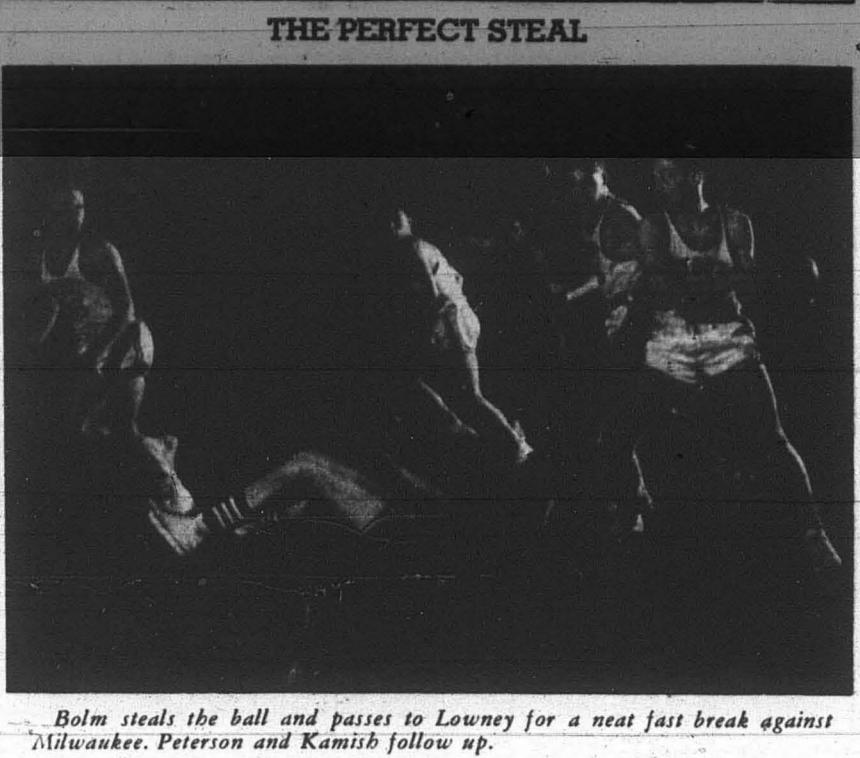

Only weeks remain in the present season and it is certain that the Bluedevils will be giving their all to bolster their cause. Stand behind them. They can come through with another win or two just as easily as they have come through, so to speak, with determination and spirit.

W.R.A. IS SPONSORING BASKETBALL TOURNEY

Ardis is also one of four candidates from the province for the office of secretary of the national college clubs affiliated with A.H.E.A. She was invited, along with the other nominees, to present her qualifications for the office. The election will take place later in the spring.

Miss Ellen Nelson of The Stout Institute faculty was selected as adviser for Ardis.

DELEGATES GO TO WORKSHOP IN CHICAGO

One hundred and thirty members of twenty-eight college clubs from Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin assembled at the Allerton Hotel in Chicago, February 10-12 for a Province Seven workshop. Attending as delegates from The Stout Institute College Club were Ardis Carr, Lois Jessen, and Faye Nelson. They were accompanied by Ellen Nelson, co-advisor to the local club, who served as chairman of the Evaluation Committee for the workshop.

Among the highlights of the workshop was an inspiring and informative talk given by Miss Leone Heuer, Director of the Consumer Education Department of the Household Finance Corporation. Her unique presentation of the imperative need in these days for good management of family finances will be remembered for a long time. The assembled delegates had the honor of being the first group to see a new Household Finance filmstrip entitled "Make Sense With Your Clothes Dollar." They were invited to make comments on the strip and the accompanying script.

Miss Katharine Middleton of the staff of the experimental kitchen of Harvey and Howe, publishers of What's New in Home Economics spoke on the topic "How Can Home Economics Help to Meet Our Challenge Educationally, Vocationally, and Culturally." She urged that home economists highlight their talents for strengthening family life rather than hiding them under the proverbial bushel basket. She revealed many interesting aspects of her own work and

PHI U'S PURCHASE NEW BOOK FOR THE LIBRARY

"I believe that all of us become better citizens, richer and better-directed human beings, through a knowledge of the dreams and deeds of the men and women who went before." This quotation by A. B. Guthrie, Jr. is the foreword to the book, The Story of Isabel Bevier, by Lita Bane. This book has been donated to The Stout Institute library by the Stout chapter of Phi Upsilon Omicron as one of their projects for the year.

The facts about the career and extraordinary personality of this woman were collected by the active chapter, faculty advisors, and alumnae of the University of Illinois chapter of Phi Upsilon Omicron. The book highlights the life and career of one of the founders of home economics education as it is known today in the United States. Isabel Bevier's most active home economics professional life (1900-1921) paralleled the first years of the organized home economics movement. Her life and writings point up the foundations of modern homemaking philosophy.

The members of Phi U hope that the next time you are browsing in the library, looking for an interesting professional book, you will ask the librarians for The Story of Isabel Bevier by Lita Bane. Your belief in home economics as a profession will be strengthened because of it.

In order to conform to the regulations set up by the President's office, we recommend that students use their ingenuity to create campaign spirit. Some suggested campaign methods include: Lapel tags, floor standards, handbills, etc.

NOTED PIANIST RETURNS TO GIVE CONCERT

Philippe Entremont's second tour of the United States, which brings him to The Stout Institute on Friday evening, March 4, is in the nature of a recall by popular demand. Sponsored two seasons ago, as he is now, by the artists' exchange program between the National Music League here and the Jeunesses Musicales de France abroad, he was so cordially greeted then by critics, audiences, and community leaders that return engagements seemed inevitable for Philippe.

Playing along the Eastern Seaboard, as far south as New Orleans, in metropolises like New York and Boston and in smaller cities like Laurel, Miss., or Jackson, Tenn., Entremont won a variety of American concertgoers. One of them, critic Olin Downes of the New York Times, reporting on Entremont's Carnegie Hall debut, first noted how the pianist "brought down the house" and then went on to remark how his playing showed "the spirit and fire of youth, plus a technical and musical mastery of an extremely talented musician."

This pianist, who a few years ago was called the great hope among pianists of his generation, now at the age of 20, is received wherever he plays as a master of his art. In Paris he is hailed as "a very, very great pianist," in Bregenz, as "a talent destined to receive the laurels that the highest standards of art can offer," in Lisbon, as "a complete artist," and in Tunis, as "an elite interpreter."

Young as he is, Philippe Entremont has swept through concert tours like a veteran. When he was 17, and prior to his U. S. visit, he toured Spain, Portugal, Austria and France, performing in solo recital, with orchestra and over the radio in those countries. Since his first American tour he has played throughout North Africa, Germany, Switzerland, Belgium and France. In his native country, besides giving recitals in major cities, he has performed at the Salle Gaveau and the Theatre des Champs Elysees and the National Conservatory in Paris. He also has been soloist under

WATER SHOW THEME IS "OVER THE RAINBOW"

Members of Synchronized Swimming are working hard on their annual spring water show. The theme for the show is "Over the Rainbow" and about ten members will be included. Members of the group have worked out routines for the records and the individual group leaders are working hard at rehearsals.

The program will be presented to Stout audiences on Thursday and Friday, March 24th and 25th.

STOUT TO HOLD AUDIO-VISUAL CONFERENCE

On Tuesday, March 29th, The Stout Institute, in cooperation with the Wisconsin Department of Audio-Visual Instruction, will sponsor the 3rd annual Audio-Visual Conference here in the Stout library. About 450 invitations have been issued to educators within a 100 mile radius of Stout, and a special invitation is extended to Stout students who are interested. The theme of the conference, according to Mr. David P. Barnard, is "Teacher Produced Audio-Visual Materials," in line with the growing awareness of the need for audio-visual materials in education. The general aim of the conference is to show that available materials can be used just as effectively as those which would have to be rented or purchased.

CHARLES R. CRAKES

The day will open with a general session, Dr. Guy Salyer presiding. After a welcome address by President Verne C. Fryklund, the keynote address will be given by Mr. Charles R. Crakes, Educational Consultant for the DeVry Technical Institute, who has eleven years of experience as a guest speaker and discussion leader at similar conventions and conferences. Sectional meetings will be held, with demonstrations by Dr. Richard S. Mitchell, Director of the Audio-Visual Center at the St. Cloud Teachers College, Mr. Harry Webb, Audio-Visual Director at the College of St. Thomas, Mr. Raymond Cornwell, Instructor of Industrial Education at The Stout Institute, and Mr. Ed McMahon, Director of Audio-Visual Services at the Mankato State Teachers College. The chairman of the afternoon's general session will be Mr. David P. Barnard, Director of Audio-Visual Education at The Stout Institute, with Mr. Earl Ellis of Coronet Instructional Films and Mr. C. J. Krumm of Encyclopedia Films also participating.

Audio-Visual materials and equipment will be on exhibit in various rooms in the library.

M.A.P. Production Will Run For Two More Evening Performances

The curtain went up Thursday evening, February 2, for the Manual Art Player's spring production, A Fate Worse Than Death or Adrift on Life's Sea. Mr. John J. Kirby is directing the play which will be presented again this evening and Saturday evening, Curtain time-8:30 P. M. in the Stout Auditorium.

Wealthy Rodney Ramsgate lives at his estate, The Crossroads, with his wife, Felcia, and daughter, Dortha. Felcia has a famous collection of jewels that attracts the villain of villains, Cassius Carstairs. Cassius arrives at the Ramsgate home with a confederate, Cokie Joe, with intentions of stealing the Ramsgate jewels; however, his plans change when he learns that Rodney's dead sister has left a fortune of one hundred thousand dollars to her missing daughter. Cassius immediately sets to work to come into the possession of the one hundred thousand dollars willed to the missing girl. With that goal in mind, he befriends a penniless orphan, Carlotta Flower, and establishes her in the Ramsgate home as Rodney's missing niece.

Complications increase when Carlotta and Dortha both fall in love with Burgess Lendehand, the stable man and hero of the play. Marie, the maid, and Clarice Kingdon, a member of Dortha's social set, add to the complications which are solved later by Slick Carter, the detective; Jennie Lynd, Rodney's secretary, and Ada Cornell, a former Ramsgate employee.

The plot and sequence of incidents are typical of an old-time melodrama of the 1890's.

Members of the cast are: Carlotta Flower, Betty Havlik; Rodney Ramsgate, Don Pritchard; Felcia Ramsgate, Judy Goehring; Dortha Ramsgate, Ellen Steinhoff; Marie, the maid Jan Jenquin; Clarice Kingdon, Audrey Adams; Cassius Carstairs, Don O'Brien; Cokie Joe, Francis Karraker; Slick Carter, Doug Dornier; Burgess Lendehand, Larry Loveland; Jennie Lynd, Rhea Van Vleet; Ada Cornell, and Carol Hatch.

Tickets for this evening's performance and for Saturday evening may be purchased at the door of the auditorium. Admission is $.75. Students will be admitted free upon presentation of their SSA cards.

The clinic in which Dr. Iverson will take part will give particular attention to the teacher education curriculum of multi-purpose universities and state colleges.

Following a presentation describing the institutional programs of Michigan State college and the University of Florida, the clinical participants will discuss the adequacy of those programs and suggest possible means of increasing their effectiveness.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

The problem of cluttered bulletin boards at The Stout Institute has now been solved by the installation of individual mailboxes for each student. The boxes, which are located in a handy place, at the west end of Harvey Hall, have been in use by the students since Christmas vacation.

It was formerly difficult for students to contact one another, but with the convenient mailboxes this task has now become simplified. Teachers, too, have found the boxes very handy, for they realize that a note in a student's mailbox is noticed much sooner than one on a bulletin board.

The administration of our college is to be complimented for selecting and purchasing the boxes. We, the students, want the administration to know that we very much appreciate this new facility.

DORM NEWS

Rumors have it that the gals at Tainter Annex were really cutting the rug Saturday night.

Sadie Hawkin's week may be over, but these Daisy Mae's had a regular ol' dance jamboree AND without Little Abners.

No slow stuff for these gals—three solid hours of jitterbugging, hokey-pokeys, and bunny hops.

Quotes through the evening were: "You're too short for me." "I'm gonna change to my dancing shoes."

"Somebody open a window." "We're not holding hands right."

"Nine times on one side of the record is enough."

"Which of us has gotta lead?" This unplanned get-together proved to be a lot of fun despite a few mishaps and a pair of broken glasses.

Note to the opposite sex—Is this proof enough that the gals would rather dance than sit along the sidelines at school mixers?

ORGANIZATION NEWS

The Rev. Maurice Smith of the Lake Sreet Methodist Church in Eau Claire gave a very inspiring talk at the Universal Day of Prayer for Students, February 20, 1955 at The First Congregational Church. Following the worship service members of Congo, L.S.A., and Wesley participated in recreation and group singing.

February 27th an ice-skating party will be held. Members of the Congo Club are to meet at the church at 4:00 P.M.

Wednesday, March 2, the Congo Club will sponsor its second annual Chinese Supper at the First Congregational Church.

The selection of committees to work at the Arts and Crafts Card Party was completed at their meeting Monday, February 14. Finishing touches were also applied to the many prizes made by Arts and Crafts members. Application forms can still be obtained by individuals interested in membership in the club.

The Hyperian sorority's "Little Peanut" week began Thursday night when each girl found inside of a peanut shuck, the name of a sorority sister, called her "little peanut." During this week, each "shuck" will shower her "little peanut" with bonbons, free movies, polished shoes, tidied rooms, and lockers, surprises, and n'celtis galore. Each little peanut's shuck will be revealed next Thursday night at formal initiation. Confusing, but lots of fun.

The Radio Club members had an unusually enlightening and enjoyable meeting a week ago Thursday as they met at Chuck Thomas' "Ham Shack" and had an opportunity to not only examine his radio equipment, but also to partake in actual amateur radio transmission and receiving.

Two contacts were made during the evening. One, a scheduled communication with Vern Townsend (W9CY), an amateur located in Menomonie, and another with W3QBA in Orangeville, Penn.

The evening was climaxed by an excellent lunch prepared by Mrs. Thomas.

Gamma Pi Chapter of Gamma Delta held its regular bi-monthly meeting Sunday evening, February 20.

The group gathered for a Vesper Service at 5:00 P.M. A cost supper and a business meeting and recreation followed.

Calvary Student Center at Madison is the host for a convention April 29 and 30 and May 1. Several members are now making plans to attend.

A new addition to the meetings is a group discussion on various parts of the church.

The next meeting will be March 6.

Last Thursday evening the members and pledges of the Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority were invited to have their meeting in Mrs. Salyer's apartment in Lynwood Hall. Mrs. Salyer is the advisor of the sorority. "Charm School" and "Harmony Hour" were held in place of the regular meeting. Problems related to social functions were discussed. Community singing followed the discussion and refreshments were served. The girls report that they had a very enjoyable evening.

Sunday, February 27, is National Newman Club Day. On that day the members of the Newman Club at The Stout Institute will join with Catholic students on secular campuses throughout the United States in celebrating the anniversary of the founding of this organization. Today, over 300,000 members comprising 700 club are affiliated with the National Newman Club.

The Stout Snooper

Hi! During my six months of snooping at Stout, I discovered that "just everyone" likes to receive "mail." (Even advertisements for "everyday cards" or "magazines" prove o.k. once in a while when the stamps run short on the return mail.)

The girls who are "going steady" with fellows back home or in the service or the fellows who "left a girl behind" are especially anxious to see the "flat-footed man in blue" carry his mailbag up the sidewalk or to see a few white or pink envelopes lying on the stairways to their rooms. Why, some girls, even run home between afternoon classes to see if they got "their special mail. If they did, they come back with shining faces and if not—"that's the last of him," they say. But then the next day a letter arrives and that night, a reply is written and ---

Perhaps I got too snoopy about what was in those "special" letters, but finally my curious nature got the best of me and I screwed up my telescope eyes and the following is what my eyes read:

"At the moment you're no doubt astonished at the promptness of my reply displayed by a character with the amazingly lackadaisical reputation (bordering on gross negligence) of 'yours truly,' but let's face it kid, ol' Dad is desperate for mail, and the only feasible means by which I can hope to attain the desired end is to write. Hence, I proceed.

Another possible explanation stems from the fact that I rather enjoy writing letters. (I'm tired of having essays stamped disapproved and feeble attempts at poetry termed examples of babbling idiocy, so I take my literary bent out on innocent and unsuspecting associates among whom I include you.) One Dr. Gottschalk (i.e. English Prof., drinking buddy, and self-appointed literary critic in the old days at Minnie Creek) once peered from behind his scotch and water and remarked, "—, rhetorically speaking you can best be described as having a diarrhea of words and simultaneous constipation of thought." All of which pretty well puts the exact bolt in the proper nut, but I hope you'll bear with me and despite forwarding and subsequent knowledge of what is to come.

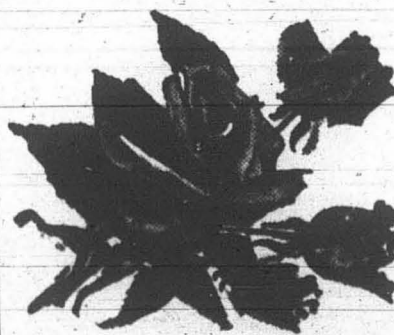

The trip to the Alps was great. Four of us took a week's leave and really had ourselves a ball! I nearly killed myself on skis, but never have

I had a week packed with as much sheer enjoyment. I plan on a trip to Denmark and the Netherlands in June the British Isles in August, and Wisconsin in September at which time I will become a civilian again.

As you no doubt realize Germany in particular, and the Army in general, presents an excellent opportunity to make certain purchases, the failure of which you'll rue the rest of your life, and by the same token the completion of some keeps you in a constant state of economic exhaustion. Most prominent among these so called "money saving in the long run" deals are cameras, musical instruments, sports equipment clothing and the usual miscellaneous junk, ranging from musical beer mugs to 400 day clocks!

Our work is an education in itself. G-2 is army language for the intelligence field. Our jobs require a security clearance, and Mom writes that about half of the people in Minnie Creek think I'm in the "jug" because the FBI has been conducting a check on me!

The city is an ideal place to be stationed. It is probably best known for its association with "the Student Prince" which Romberg wrote in the "Rotten Oxen" (Red Ox), a local beer joint where the university students hang out. You ought to come over this summer; we'd have a ball!

So long for now; see you in 7 months, 23 days, 6 hours, and 7 minutes."

And this has been a preview of parts of a "special letter!"

CAMPUS VISITOR WRITES NOTES ON THAILAND

"At first I would like to thank to President, Dean, Instructors, and all of you for kindness and friend. I felt happy while I am visiting here. And then I am going to tell you some about my country and people who are in need of your help in many ways.

"Thailand" is the name of country. "Thai" is the name of people and language. Thailand is situated in South-Eastern Asia with Indo-China on the East, Malaya on the South, and Burma on the West. Its area is about 200 thousand square miles. Its population is about 20 millions. Bangkok is the capital.

The great majority of the inhabitant are Thai. We have the immigrant population coming from China, India, Cambodia, Burma, and Mon. Therefore we have a most interesting picture with the varied features and picturesque dresses of the many nationalities and tribes. But most of us of today have the same tastes and styles as yours.

The climate in average is healthful. There are three distinct seasons in a year. They are hot season lasting three months during March, April, and May; the rainy season from June to October and the cold season from November to February. The average temperature is about 82.4 degree Fahrenheit. It looks so hot, but I think it is nice place to stay. It has green grass all year round.

The Thai originally peopled the Yangze valley where they had formed the empire of Nan-Chao. In time they were pushed down into the fertile plain of the Chao-Phya river and then in the thirteenth century Thai people founded their first capital, Sukhothai. Bangkok was founded to be the capital in the year 1782.

Thai was ruled by an Absolute Monarchy until 1932, then ruled by Constitution providing for a parliament, one half of its members to be elected and one half to be appointed. We still have king and queen succeeding. At present their names are King Phumiphol Aduldej and Queen Sirikit. This king was born in the United States. The head of the government, the prime-minister of the present time is Field Marshal Phi Bun Songkram.

Thailand has plenty of fruits, chief among which are pineapples, bananas, and mangoes. Main exports are rice, tin, rubber, and teak. Elephants are used for handling teak logs to rivers and let them floating down to the saw mills in the central part of the country. Modern scientific knowledge has been fully applied to agriculture. We have mechanical aid in rice farming and harvesting. About 90% of the cultivated land is used in rice cultivation. Rice is main food as you have wheat as yours.

The Protestant Mission, mainly represented by the American Presbyterian Missionary Society, first entered Thailand in the beginning of the last century. It has to its credit the introduction of the printing press and of vaccination against small pox. The American Presbyterian Missionary Society deserves much praise for its unselfish medical work among the sick and the poor. Fine hospitals have been built.

Lignite-mining is being developed in the south and it is expected that this valuable mineral will gradually replace wood as fuel thus reducing the harmful practice of cutting down valuable trees for firewood.

There are about 3500 kilometers of railways for communication in the country. The Thai railways are given a new lease of life with new rolling stock, workshops and equipments. Of the loan of 25,400,000 dollars granted by the International Bank, 3,000,000 are to be devoted to the rehabilitation of the railways.

To carry out the program for the economic and social welfare of the Thai people, the American government is running works in cooperation with the Thai government since 1950. The sole purpose of this aid and co-operations from the United States is to enable universities, schools, and various departments of the Thai government to do more to increase the learning, opportunity, and security and improve the health and living standard of the Thai people. The Thai government's programs in education, health, agriculture, industry, irrigation, and communications are being assisted by advisors, equipments and supplies provided by the American government. In return for those aids, the United States hopes to see Thailand advance more rapidly on the road of democracy and progresses in fellowship and unity with other peace loving nations. This is a way to happiness and prosperity for the people.

Thanks to all Americans opened up many little-known but fascinating career possibilities for the home economics trained person.

The decorations for the annual banquet on Thursday evening were reminders that the group was assembled in the home state of Abraham Lincoln on the eve of his birthday. The speaker for the evening was Miss Barbara Purvis of London, England. She is an American Home Economics Association scholarship student at Michigan State College where the college Home Economics Club subsidizes her living expenses. As she described the tremendous value she has gained from a year of graduate study in food and nutrition, family life education and home economics education and her hope to become a more effective teacher in her home country, the listeners sensed concrete returns for money contributed to the fund.

Seventy-five delegates were given free tickets to the radio-TV broadcast of Don McNeill's Breakfast Club. Though it meant going out in below zero weather at seven o'clock in what seemed a taxless city, all seventy-five turned out for the event.

Guided tours to Marshall Field and Company, Harvey and Howe Experimental Kitchens, Mary Wright's Kitchen Studio, The American Institute of Baking, The Merchandise Mart, and The Underwriter's Laboratories forced a difficult choice, for only one could be taken. However, there was a generous exchange of experiences gained from each.

such eminent conductors as Charles Munch and Darius Milhaud and has played frequently over the Paris Radio-Diffusion Nationale.

Just as he has made a success of playing before the public, so too, has Philippe been fortunate whenever he has played before juries of the most eminent musicians in the world. First of all, when he was 12 he won first prize in sight-reading at the famed National Conservatory in Paris; at 14, first prize in chamber music; at 15, first prize in piano; at 16, or ten years after his first piano lesson, he became Laureat in the international Long-Thibaud Competition held annually in Paris, and at 17 was named Laureat again, this time in another international piano competition, the Queen Elizabeth of Belgium Contest in Brussels. Last year he became First Laureat and Grand Prize Winner, City of Paris, in the Long-Thibaud Competition.

The tall, thin Frenchman with the turned-up nose and boyish grin was born in Reims in June, 1934, of musical parents. His mother, teacher at the Conservatory, gave him his first piano lessons when he was six, and his father, also professor at the Conservatory and conductor at the Opera of Strasbourg, initiated him into the world of chamber music. When the pianist was eight, he became the student of Mlle. Rose-Qye-Lejour, in Paris, who was sufficiently impressed with his talent to present him to the celebrated Mme. Marguerite Long. Philippe studied with Mme. Long for two years and then entered the National Conservatory.

The high spot of Philippe Entremont's career came for him when he was eighteen and made his first tour of America. It was successful enough to result in having him called back two seasons later and engaged for extensive appearances this winter throughout Canada, the East, South and Mid-West.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

WE LOST

Last weekend, Stout suffered another humiliating defeat at the hands of the River Falls Falcons. The score was 112-84.

During the first half of play, the Bluedevils showed no inhibitions as to when the scoring was done; they simply scored at will. The picture reversed itself in the second big period, however, with River Falls pulling itself together to wind up on top of the lopsided victory margin.

Floor play was tremendous. . . . during the first half. (The first period is all we can boast about from this game: We were ahead then!!!) Stout brought the ball down court following the same basic pattern of the typical basketmaker: the weave. Then too, like the basketmaker, they made plenty of baskets. What happened to the weave in the second period is anyone's guess.

Five Bluedevils scored in the double digits. This is the only time that this has happened to the Devils all season. Dennie Challeen hit 23, Lowney netted 20, and Kamish, Peterson, and Corey added ten apiece. Bolm came close to the dual figures with 9.

WE WON!

After being set back by River Falls, the Bluedevils snapped back to defeat Winona 93-89. On their home court Monday night, the Bluedevils retaliated for a lopsided defeat which took place earlier this season.

Stout worked the ball nicely throughout the contest and scored most of their points on easy lay-ups. Peterson added rebound strength, which, before his era, Stout had not seen to any great extent.

This game also saw five Bluedevils hitting in the twin tallies: Challeen was the pace setter with 21; Kamish had 20; Lowney, 17; Bolm, 13; and Corey, 11. Jann Peterson added nine more in his bid for scoring honors.

Half-time score: Stout 45, Winona 40

Coming up this weekend in the high school gym, Stout plays its final game of the season, which, by all indications, should be a rough one. Coach Ray Johnson will probably start Lowney, Peterson, Bolm, Kamish and Challeen against the tall and lanky Eau Claire invaders. Rog Hanson, beanpole center for the opposition, is expected to control both boards; however, Stout's shooting percentage has gone up of late, so probably there won't be too many rebounds to take from that end of the court. Here's to a hope. . . . We'll see you there — loaded down with pep!

F. O. B. TEAM TAKES INTRAMURAL TITLE

The F.O.B. fraternity won the playoff game with the freshmen varsity, 68-50, to win the championship.

The total offensive points for the season were 561 and they held their opponents to 385 points, while winning 10 games and losing 1. This makes the third straight year that the F.O.B.'s have won the intramural championship.

At the end of each intramural season, there is a basketball tournament. This year the F.O.B.'s took honors by winning all of their games of the single elimination tournament. Congratulations to the F.O.B.'s.

DORM NEWS

Ron Strayer, Bob Broadwell, Jim Kogler, and Frank Burdick had a nice time in Madison last weekend. Burdick's father has a cottage at Madison (convenient), so the boys had all the facilities for a good time. Friday night, Ron entertained at the "pub" with his piano playing while the others sang. What a combination! The fellows report (Broadwell especially) that the co-ed situation at the University is really nice. Looks as if they will be paying Madison another visit before too long.

Dick Leisen had a nice little mishap in sheet metal the other day, he cut his finger on the squaring shears. At least, it must have been square, it almost cut his finger off squared(?). Confusing, isn't it?

Coed: The boy I went riding with last night saw dark spots in front of his eyes.

Roommate: What did he do?
Coed: Parked in one of them.

SPINTI'S TEAM WINS BASKETBALL TITLE

Members of the winning team are Flora Spinti, captain; Della Medin, Nat Wick, Katy Seal, Lyn Bessler, Barb Habstrit, and Jeanne Lemkuil. They will represent the WRA in the all-school tournament. Mae Rammer's team includes Ginny Ehlers, Marie Strodthoff, Jo Babcock, Mary Paciotti, Carol Schilstra, and Irene Novinski.

J. SCHROEDER WINS AWARD IN HOMEMAKING

Named as the "Homemaker of Tomorrow" for this city has been Judith Schroeder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Schroeder.

The eighteen year old girl is a student in the laboratory school operated by the division of home economics at The Stout Institute. She is a member of the home economics class of Miss Margaret Harper, assistant professor of home economics education at the college.

Jessie Schroeder competed with 30 other home economics students to receive the highest ranking in home-making knowledge and attitudes among senior high school girls in the area for her accomplishment, she has presented a golden award pin and book for herself and Menomonie high school.

The Menomonie winner has now entered in competition to determine Wisconsin's candidate for the "All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow." The winner of each title will receive a $1500 scholarship from General Mills and will compete in national competition.

On April 21 in Philadelphia, the "All-American Homemaker of Tomorrow" will be selected from the 48 contestants for that title. The national champion will receive a $5,000 dollar scholarship and both she and her school adviser will receive a tour of the eastern part of our nation.

The search for America's outstanding homemaker of the future is being conducted among 187,000 young women in 8,000 of the nation's public, private and parochial schools. A national testing bureau, Science Research Associates, of Chicago, is judging the 50 minute examination which is designed to aid America's schools in instilling in young women a deeper appreciation and understanding of the American home and the personal qualities necessary to successful homemaking.

ECUMENICAL MEETING TO BE HELD AT STOUT

"Evanston Challenges You" will be the theme of the Fifth Wisconsin Ecumenical Conference which will be held March 11-13 here at The Stout Institute. This conference will be attended by students from colleges throughout the state, as well as some groups from Minnesota. The principle speaker for the conference is Dr. Ruth Wick, a teacher at Garrett Seminary in Chicago. She was the past executive secretary for the United Student Christian Council.

The Wisconsin Ecumenical Conference was organized by the Wisconsin Student Y.M.C.A. - Y.W.C.A. - S.C.A. District in March 1951. Its main objective is to encourage inter-denominational student cooperation on a state-wide basis. The term "Ecumenical" means world wide in extent and influence - representing a united group.

Most meetings of the conference will take place in the library. Registration will take place on the first floor of Harvey Hall and meals will be provided in the cafeteria.

"OFF TO PUERTO RICO" IS THEME OF TEA

A tea with the theme of "Off to Puerto Rico" was given by Dean Kirk on Saturday, February 19, 1955, for the group representing The Stout Institute in Puerto Rico during Easter vacation.

A replica of the Cordado Beach Hotel of Puerto Rico and several other typical homes and buildings were used as decoration. Dean Kirk and Mrs. Vanek, who will be the chaperones for the girls on this tour, were dressed in typical Puerto Rican costumes, including four foot "pavas" (hats).

A "pinning" ceremony took place with each member of the group receiving a miniature "pava" lapel pin as their group emblem.

Useful conversational Spanish was used for a short session to familiarize the girls with terms they may come in contact with during their stay there.

Mr. Louis Hamely was present also and took moving pictures of the group at the tea and during the planning discussion which followed.

Future preparation for the trip will be discussed at a one o'clock luncheon given for the group on March 19, 1955 at the Vanek home. The movie taken at the tea will also be viewed.

1955 SUMMER BULLETINS TO BE RELEASED

The Stout Institute summer session bulletin will be available on or about March 11. A copy may be secured from the administration offices or by writing the Director of Summer Session, The Stout Institute, Menomonie, Wisconsin.

Stout's fiftieth annual summer session will open with registration on Monday, June 20, and classes will end July 29. Specialized courses in Home Economics and Industrial Education will be offered at both the undergraduate and graduate level.

The program of courses will include a broad choice of such General Education areas as English, social science, science, psychology, and speech.

The summer session program in Home Economics will offer a full schedule.

NOTED PIANIST TO PERFORM HERE TONIGHT

Philippe Entremont, the French pianist who plays at The Stout Institute tonight, is already, at the age of twenty, a good example of the debonaire Frenchman. On his first tour of the U. S. two seasons ago he managed to charm a variety of American women. The tall, slight, wide-eyed youth often found that some women were eager to mother him. But, most of all, he won over the young American girls, who were struck by the handsomeness of the pianist as he appeared on stage in white tie and tails, tuxedo or dark business suit, and intrigued by his boyish enthusiasm when they met him in person backstage or at parties.

Two young ladies at a Southern university planned a long journey and risked being expelled from college if they were caught in order to spend time with Philippe. The two co-eds were so charmed when they met him at the after-concert party that they decided to join him the following morning on the ten-hour bus-ride to his next concert engagement.

They waited for Philippe in the bus station the next day, but they did not count on his being driven to the depot by the university's president! Obviously having to abandon their excursion, the girls had to be content simply with writing admiring letters to the pianist as he toured the country and receiving from him the written exclamation that "Thanks to you I know for the first time what they mean by Southern Hospitality, n'est-ce-pas?"

SYMPHONIC SINGERS TO SPONSOR DANCE

The Stout Symphonic Singers are sponsoring a dance on March 11 in the Stout gym. The music is being donated by the Little German Band to raise money for the Spring Tour to Florida.

Entertainment during intermission will be furnished by Basil Holder, Fred Hodges, Reiny Meisner, and Ron Strayer. Don't miss it!

The tour to Florida will be from April 9-25. Three large Greyhound busses will be chartered for the 105 people going. This is 12 per cent of the Stout population. The money for the tour is badly needed so how about going to the dance?

"HELL WEEK" LEADERS

CAMPUS FRATERNITIES ARE PLEDGING MEMBERS

Each Respective Fraternity Will Set Up The Duties For Pledge Week

DIETETICS CLUB PLANS NUTRITION WEEK

Free!! Free for the taking. All you have to do is choose the right foods and you may win a free meal. During Nutrition Week, March 7-11, the Dietetics Club gives away a total of seven free meals, including one breakfast, three lunches, and three dinners.

The standards on which we will judge the meals will follow this general pattern.

Breakfast:

- 1 serv. bread or cereal
- 1 serv. fruit
- 1 glass milk

Lunch or Dinner:

- 1 serv. protein food (meat, fish, poultry, egg, cheese, baked beans, or dried peas.
- 1 serv. green or yellow vegetable
- 1 serv. other veg. or 1 serv. fruit
- 1 slice whole wheat or enriched bread
- 1 glass milk

It's really very simple, so try extra hard this week especially to get a good meal. It might bring you a free one. If you are at the cashier's desk when the alarm rings -- well its yours for the taking, providing of course, that it meets our standards.

Do you remember the survey that was taken last semester on "What are you eating?" There have been so many inquiries about the outcome of this survey that we are putting a big poster in front of Harvey Memorial. The percentages will be filled in on Thursday, but in the meantime, make your own guesses. It will be fun to see how close you can come.

As one of the highlights of this week there will be a tea.

MR. BARNARD RECEIVES RECOGNITION

Receiving national recognition as one of the best motion pictures conceived and created last year by American colleges and universities is an educational short subject which was directed by David Barnard, head of the audio-visual center of The Stout Institute.

The film feature was given national honorable mention at the annual award ceremony of the Screen Producers Guild in Hollywood. Camera man and assistant director of the film was a Stout alumnus, Edward McMahon, now director of audio-visual services at Mankato State Teachers college.

Barnard directed the film for the Indiana University Audio - Visual Center when he was a member of their staff while continuing his work toward a doctorate. The feature describes in vivid detail the work of the Indiana State Police.

It will be used by the State of Indiana for high school driver training and social studies courses, state police training and educational relations programs, and adult film programs.

The four campus fraternities are once again engaged in pledging their new members. Each semester, a number of so called "scum" are required to go through a week of pledging arranged by each respective fraternity. The pledges for the various fraternities can be easily recognized by their costume.

The oldest fraternity on the campus, Phi Omega Beta, was officially organized in 1929. It is the only local fraternity on campus at the present time. This group, better known as the FOBs, carried on its original pledging costumes of black derbies, tee shirts, black bow ties and white gloves. One of the FOB pledges highlights will be next Tuesday evening when the pledges put on a skit in the union.

The next oldest fraternity on campus is Phi Sigma Epsilon. The Phi Sigs organized locally in 1929, took the name of Kappa Phi Sigma and carried it until 1952 when they joined the national fraternity Phi Sigma Epsilon. The Phi Sigs continued the pledging costumes of old KFS, the traditional straw hats, canes and string bow ties. The Phi Sig pledges also sponsor a skit night. Theirs will be held next Wednesday night in the union. These skits are open to the student body.

Another feature of pledging is the annual Grudge Game between the FOBs and the Phi Sigs. This game will be held immediately after the FOB skit on Tuesday night in the new gymnasium. There will be a small admission fee.

Another feature can be easily recognized by its pledging costumes, red fez and sash, and that is Delta Kappa. The DK's were formed in 1945 as the local Sigma fraternity. They joined the national in 1951 and took their present name.

The newest fraternity on campus is Sigma Tau Gamma. Organized as Phalanx in 1947, the fraternity joined the national Sigma Tau Gamma in 1948. The Sig Tau's pledge in blue and white helmets and shields with gold swords.

Each fraternity boasts approximately 35 members who through their pledging and other group activities add color and spice to the campus.

PHI U AND E.P.T. PLAN OPEN MEETING

Everyone is invited to attend the open meeting of Phi U and E.P.T. Monday, March 7 at 7:30 P.M. in the audio-visual room of the library.

Rev. Ralph Reece of the Trinity Methodist Church, Menomonie, will speak on the United Nations. Rev. Reece is President of the Wisconsin organization of the UN. He will present first hand information gained on his trip to the east last December.

To learn more about the workings of our great world organization, come to the meeting next Monday night at 7:30.

ORGANIZATION NEWS

The Radio Club assisted in playing host to the Northern Wisconsin Radio Club a week ago Tuesday.

The NWRC, which consists of amateurs from all the Northwest, met above the Auto Mechanics shop in the Trades Building where they held their meeting, witnessed two films concerning radio electronics, and auctioned used radio equipment. A lunch was prepared and served by the wives, (XYL's), of the Menomonie members.

The NWRC will hold their next meeting in Eau Claire on March 29.

Members of Gamma Delta met on Sunday, February 27, to plan for the workshop which will be held in Menomonie in May. Committee chairmen were selected and a tentative program was made.

The meeting originally planned for March 5 has been changed to the following weekend, March 13th.

A regular breakfast meeting of the Newman Club will be held this Sunday, March 6th following the 9:30 Mass. An election will be held to select a Mr. and Miss Newmanite to represent the local organization at the La Crosse Province Convention in April. The two who are chosen will travel to La Crosse where they will be entered in the contest for Mr. and Miss Newmanite of the entire North Central Province. Selection for this award will be based upon these qualifications: example of Catholic living, contributions to local club, and Catholic influence on the campus.

Posters are placed in Harvey Hall, Bowman Hall, and in the Physical Education building so that all those who wish to attend the breakfast may sign their names. Bob Tennessen, president of the Newman Club, hopes that all Catholic students will make a sincere effort to attend this meeting.

On Wednesday, March 2nd, the Harvey Memorial was the scene of the Hyperian Sorority's annual Old Heidelberg Tea. Members of the sorority wore full skirts and aprons all day to advertise the event. The setting was that of a typical German beergarten, and beer (root) and ale (ginger) were served to the guests by the costumed barmaids. Popcorn, pretzels, and potato chips were munched in time to German music played on the piano and accordion. The atmosphere provided was enjoyed by a large number of students, faculty members, and other guests.

Meals that Satisfy

Sunday evening, February 27, 1955 L.S.A. and Congo Club held a joint meeting.

Everyone had a lot of fun at the skating party which took place at Ed Siefert's on Tainter Lake north of Menomonie. Besides skating there was organized recreation for everyone.

Six girls were formally initiated into Beta Pi Chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma last Sunday, February 27 at 2:00. The ceremony took place in the Harvey Memorial. The girls who were initiated are: Dianne Anderson, Barbara Austin, Shirley Bournoville, Patricia Browe, Andre Jost, and Rita Pauls. Refreshments were served following the initiation ceremony.

On February 20th the Wesley Club was in charge of worship at the Congo Church for Universal Day of Prayer. The Congo Club, L. S. A., and S. C. A., also participated in this service. Fun and fellowship was enjoyed by all.

Doris Hutchinson went to LaCrosse on February 19, as the Wesley State Student Representative to plan for the Spring Conference to be held in La Crosse April 1-3. The Wesley Club is looking forward to a good representation at that time.

Tentative plans are now under way for a Spring Retreat to Whispering Pines Lodge near Fredrich. This retreat is going to be May 13-15. On Saturday, May 14, the old and new officers are going to plan the 1955-56 program. Saturday evening they will be joined by all Wesleyites for a "bang up time".

The members of the Congo Club met at Siefert's on North Tainter Lake for a skating party.

The March 6 meeting will include plans for the coming Fifth Ecumenical Conference which is to be held at Stout on March 11-13. Part of the proceeds from the Chinese Supper will go toward the registration fee of students attending the convention.

A Punch Hour will be held on Wednesday, March 9, from 3:30 to 5:30 in Harvey Memorial. This tea is a part of the annual nutrition week which is sponsored by the Dietetics Club and is held from March 7-12.

Refreshments will consist of a fruit juice plus some other snacks, the purpose being to emphasize the value and yet appetizingness of nutritious snacks instead of sweets.

Seven free meals in the cafeteria—some each of breakfast, lunch, and dinner—will be given to those individuals who are at the checkers desk when the bell goes off and who have a well balanced meal.

This is a new venture of the Dietetics Club. Co-chairmen for the Punch Hour are Jo Ann Brehm and Mary Paciotti.

The members of Sigma Tau Gamma entered two concessions at this year's "S" Club Carnival. Besides the usual water filled balloons, an old car was purchased and every one was given a chance to release their inner emotions. By using a heavy sledge hammer and charging only ten cents a wack; the car was very methodically pounded to the ground. Everyone seemed to enjoy this fender bending bit of fun.

All the members of Sigma Tau Gamma are busying making plans for pledging and Stunt Night.

FRESHMEN GIRLS MAKE PLANS FOR ANNUAL GREEN TEA

The freshmen girls are busy with plans for the Green Tea. Committees have been set up. Pat Christianson is General Chairman. The Green Tea will be Wednesday afternoon, March 16, in the Harvey Memorial between 3:30 and 5:30.

Danny: "We certainly had a wonderful time last night for ten cents."

Jean: "Yeah, I wonder how little brother spent it."

The Stout Snooper

During my career of snooping here at Stout, I've noticed that when some young men and women are "thrown together" they draw a conversational blank. This tongue-tied situation is odd because men can always think of "something" to talk to men, and women to women!

There was a time (I can't even remember) when the human animal was no better sound-equipped than the dog, cat, and cow to achieve communication; instead people just "grunted" at each other. Just picture yourself grunting at your girlfriend. (Wow!)

But now the power of speech is one of your most important assets and one of the most neglected. If you stammer, it may be because you stammer in thought; so clear thinking also affects speech, one of your best qualities.

Unfortunately most of you Stout students never stop to consider what an asset conversation can prove to be if properly applied. YOU are judged immediately by the way you talk, whether you are entering the union, applying for a job, riding on a train, or out on a date, you will be judged to a great extent by what you say and how you say it.

This involves the art of small talk. To go about this correctly, the first thing you can do is to try to size up the person or persons to whom you are talking and apply whatever understanding you have gained of people, their likes and dislikes.

If the Stout classmate sitting next to you or your blind date doesn't know who you are, then of course start off by saying: "I'm Joe Junior." But establishing your identity alone won't break the ice. The most sensible step after determining what "type" he is and after giving your name is to continue by saying, "What did you think of Stout's basketball game Monday night?" or "Did you happen to see the movie, 'The Super-Ego of Mr. Snego'?" (question depending upon the "type"). Don't be embarrassed if your first questions don't touch off the right spark; try again. Ask frankly what your partner's greatest interests are; yes, ask plenty of questions and you'll have plenty to listen to. For it is important to be a good listener too. Oh, I almost forgot to tell you don't neglect the gal or guy on your right for the sake of that cute blonde on your left; make like Janus, the god with two faces.

Of course don't go overboard for the surest way to create a social freeze for yourself is with such glaring gaucheries as these:

1. Making humorous, derogatory and personal remarks about other persons present.
2. Asking very personal questions of your partners, such as how much their suit or dress cost, what grades they get.
3. Telling "questional" jokes.
4. Revealing your entire personal life, which may bore or embarrass them even though it is "absolutely fascinating" to you.
5. Getting on a controversial subject such as religion or politics or family affairs for I once heard a Stout vet's wife say: "I didn't see there weren't two sides to every story I'm just not listening to your side."
6. Going back and forth over a little idea like a stocking darning.

A sound suggestion for making yourself into an interesting, popular conversationalist is to prepare a topics-of-conversation beforehand. Needless to say, you don't make notes and arrive with a brief case full of lecture material. But in your mind cord ideas for conversations stimulated by seeing a movie, game, or reading a book. (Few Greek or Roman banquets were given without a man being chosen as topic selector. It was his duty to suggest subjects for conversation and then the others joined in.)

Remember to wire yourself for sound effects and use speech. If you even tried spending one entire day without uttering a single word and armed solely with pad and pencil, tried to conduct your regular routine, you'd discover for sure how handy talking is. So begin a conversation with the person right next to you, NOW!

P. S. A daft-nition. A proposal--- girl listening faster than a man can talk.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

Eau Claire State's Bugolds won the State College Conference basketball championship for the first time since 1942 by defeating a spirited Stout squad by a score of 114-84.

The height and "in" scoring of Eau Claire was too much for the smaller Bluedevils who held the lead only once, 3-2. After this, the Bugolds forged ahead to a 59-37 halftime lead.

A pressing defense early in the second half shook the Bugolds momentarily as Stout came up with its only real threat of the night by trimming the gap down to 70-57. The Stout five at one point during the comeback outscored the Bugolds by a 13-2 point margin.

JIM BOLM

The Bugolds surged ahead with Jet Johnson pouring in five straight points on two baskets and a charity toss and adding a third goal after Bollinger hit from the field to put the Bugolds ahead sufficiently for mental stamina. The margin stayed the same from there on as both clubs installed their reserves in the season's final game.

Although the game was Stout's eleventh loss of the season in conference play, it was one of the best of the season. Jim Bolm played by far his finest game, rebounding well and scoring profusely. Roger Lowney, Bluedevil pacer, lead his crew in scoring with 20, followed by Bolm with 18 and Dennie Challeen with 16. (Too much) opposition scoring was lead by "Long, Lean, and Lanky" Hanson with 32, Johnson with 23, and Bollinger with 18.

Coach Ray Johnson can look forward to a prize-winning season in '56, barring accident, drop-outs, and ineligibilities. He began this year with a shortage of veterans and a great number of raw recruits and built them into a spirited and, oddly enough, efficiently operating ball club. We had a rather unsuccessful season in the record book, but from the experience angle it was worth the Nobel Prize. Right about now it's time for us drugstore coaches to knock off the beefing about the record and start giving credit where credit is due — hats off to coach Johnson and the Bluedevil crew!

Not exactly sports news, but still in the sports interest is the "athletic symbol raising" which took place at the final game. It seems that Whitey and Woodey had a little ceremony by the Bowman Hall flagpole in commemoration of this final game of the season. What say, fellows??

ASA WINS FIRST TILT IN TOURNAMENT PLAY

The Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority over-powered the Pallas Athene sorority by a score of 14-4 in the first all-school tournament game. High scorers were Schilstra and Ehlers.

The Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority edged the Hyperians 12-10 after an exceedingly close game. The Hysps are to be congratulated for their fine display of sportsmanship. High scorers for the game were Ferguson and Krueger.

It is to be remembered, that the sole purpose of the tournament is to develop true sportsmanship and a respect for student decisions. Any players violating these goals will be suspended from the tournament.

Monday evening the dorms and WRA teams will play their first game. The playoff between the ASA's and SSS's will be held on Tuesday evening, and every student is encouraged to attend the big event.

RIFLE CLUB CHATTER

Keep your eyes peeled on this column each week and be in the know on everything from pea shooters to H-bombs, cause with a new roster of officers and an A-1 advisor, we've got our sights set on a good year.

Our new officers are as follows:

President - Homer Frase
Vice-president - Terry Beaudry
Range Officer - Vern Dahl
Range Officer - Tom Nigbor
Treasurer - Barbara Post

By the way folks, Rifle Club meetings are held each week in the upper gym-Bowman Hall and if any of you are interested, drop up and look around, that means you too gals. It won't be long before we break out the large bore army rifles, and firing one of those babies is quite an experience.

Watch this column next week for some straight dope on our club activities.

Your pal,
Mike "Hammerless"

S CLUB CARNIVAL HAD MANY BOOTHS

A very few Stout students had a good time at the S Club Carnival last Saturday. The entrance and interior of Stout's gymnasium was transformed into an array of booths for the amusement of the student body. But where was the student body?

Those organizations participating and their respective booths were: Alpha Sigma Alpha, penny pitch; WRA, powder puff toss; Delta Kappa, ball toss; Radio Club, sling shot alley; Hyperian, peg a pledge; Phi Omega Beta, dart toss and fortune teller; Tri Sigma, penny a kiss; Alpha Phi Omega, wheel of fortune; Sigma Tau Gamma, dent a car; Phi Sigma Epsilon, break a balloon; Pallas Athene, fish pond; and Rifle Club, dart throw, penny drop, basket ball throw, and decal sale.

It's too bad more students didn't take advantage of the stands set up by these organizations. They would have enjoyed themselves.

GET THAT REBOUND!

Jack Corey of Stout battles for a rebound in last Monday's game against the Blue Devils of Eau Claire State College. It all went for naught as the Blue Devils dropped the last game of the 1954-55 season, 114-84.

70 ENJOY ARTS AND CRAFTS CARD PARTY

The Arts and Crafts Card Party, February 19, was enjoyed by approximately 70 members of the faculty and student body.

Prizes, which were made by the Arts and Crafts Club members, consisted of plastic dresser lamps, knick-knack shelves, book racks, cribbage boards, and a set of salt and pepper shakers neatly wrapped to serve as booby prize.

Joyce Fraedrich was the lucky girl to win the door prize, a beautiful card table.

Three members of our faculty also walked off with prizes. Dean Jarvis and Dr. Salyer each won a dresser lamp and Mr. Rich won a knick-knack shelf.

Refreshments of coffee, sandwiches, ice cream and cake were enjoyed by everyone present.

The Arts and Crafts Club wishes to express its appreciation for the use of faculty member's card tables.

A woman was talking with a friend about the athletic achievements of the latter's son.

"Your boy must be an exceptionally fast runner. The paper says he fairly burned up the track. I suppose you saw him do it?"

"No, I didn't see him do it," replied the boy's mother, "but I saw the track this morning and there was nothing there but cinders."

NEW DORM BIDS ARE EXAMINED

Bids on a new residence hall for girls at The Stout Institute were opened at the recent regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of the college. Examination of the bids took place under the chairmanship of R. L. Pierce, president of the trustees. Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of college, also participated.

Low bidder on general construction of the residence hall, which will provide housing and food service for 134 coeds, was the Johnson Construction Co. of Winona, with a bid of $453,000. Wall Electric of Chippewa Falls entered a low electric bid of $49,320.

L.A. Pettit, Inc. of Eau Claire was low bidder with $63,031 on heating and ventilating. Halvorsen Bros. of Menomonie entered the single low bid of $38,201 for plumbing. However, Pettit also submitted a multiple bid of $106,959 on heating, ventilating, and plumbing. The present bid total of $642,753 does not include architectural fees, cost of a clerk to check the progress of construction, furniture and contingencies. Total cost of the completed and furnished residence hall is expected to approximate $700,000.

Before actual construction can begin, however, the state architect must examine all bids and Governor Kohler must then sign the contracts. It is expected that construction will start as soon as weather permits.

The new residence hall, finished with an interior of Menomonie red brick, will be situated near the edge of Lake Menomine. Four floors will be exposed on the lake side, permitting a glass-walled dining room and 52 by 50 student lounge to overlook the lake. A cafeteria line, laundry facilities, large ironing center, tea room, and heating plant will also be included on the first level.

Upon completion of the residence hall, The Stout Institute will discontinue its present cafeteria location. The college cafeteria is now located in the basement of Harvey Hall.

The upper three floors of the residence hall will each contain 20 to 28 double rooms, one single room, a lounge, an ironing room, and a small kitchen for evening snacks. A single room will be available on each floor in event of illness among the occupants.

The dormitory director will have a private apartment and a guest room will also be available for visitors. Architects for the project are Boyus, Schubert and Sorenson of La Crosse.

SSS SPONSORS MIXER TONIGHT

Tonight, March 11, at 8:00, come to the Stout Gym and dance to the smooth rhythms of the "Blue Notes," Stout's own combo with the split personality and the right kind of music. They feature Ed Clary on trumpet, Danny Wielgus on tenor and alto sax, Ed Griffith on trombone and as vocalist, Bob Olstrom and his accordion, and Don Kalkofen on drums.

Intermission entertainment will be provided by the most-demanded duo on campus, Ron Strayer and Basil Holder. Their talents are great in solo work, and when combined! Wow! The numbers which are in "rehearsal" (!!!?) for this evening are "out of this world" --real gone!

The members of the Stout Symphonic Singers (band and choir) are sponsoring the dance to help defray the expenses of the coming tour to Florida, where the organization has been requested to perform at the National Music Convention held in Miami.

Dr. Hardt and the hard-working chairmen in charge assure everyone that the admission rate of 25¢ per person is extremely reasonable when the amount and quality of the entertainment is as excellent as it is. So see you there!!

NYLA BOCK SELECTED FOR POSITION

Nyla Bock, a senior in the division of home economics education has recently been selected to replace Mrs. Robert Suskow as county home demonstration agent.

After a series of interviews with candidates, Miss Bock was named by the agriculture committee of the county board. She will take over duties effective July 1.

Miss Bock has 12 years experience as a 4-H Club member. For five years she was a junior 4-H leader and for three years an adult 4-H leader. She has been a state winner for her clothing projects and has won a trip to the National 4-H Club Congress. She also has been selected to give demonstrations and participate in style shows at the state fair.

On campus, Nyla is treasurer of the Home Economics Club, the largest campus organization.

The county home agent works with about 850 4-H club members and 1,100 county homemakers. She acts as a funnel for the latest information on homemaking subjects from the University of Wisconsin, setting up home economics programs and answering questions on homemaking problems.

The agent is paid both with county and state funds and is hired by the county only after recommendation by the university.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy."

How very true that statement is. Work, of course, should be more important than play in a student's life. But work alone cannot provide the background which a person needs to go out into the world as a teacher or as any other professional person. A little play, mixed well with lots of work, makes Jack or Jacqueline a well-rounded and interesting boy or girl.

All too often, students here have complained about the social life at Stout. If they had bothered to look past their class notes at the person next to them, or had knocked on the door of the next dormitory room, or had ventured into the Union for a cup of coffee, they would find that college isn't so bad after all. The fellow sitting across the table at the library may seem like a pretty dead duck, but he may be quite a person at a dance or playing bridge. Take the time to get to know him.

Good marks are usually a good indication of an intelligent person. But they are not always the sign of a well-adjusted person. Usually, if a person is socially secure and can feel at home associating with people, he can put more effort and concentration into his work when it is time for him to work. Instead of day-dreaming about the girl or boy in English class during study hours, why not work? Get everything done to satisfy yourself; then call her up or go up to the Union. Maybe he or she will be there. The person you want to see may be a whiz at English, but at the same time the type who is interesting, the type who likes to have fun as well as get good marks. That's why you like him or her. That person will like you too if your English book isn't always attached to your arm and if you're interested in dancing and ping-pong too.

Don't expect much out of college in the line of fun if you don't put anything into it. Join a club, get out and meet people, be an all-around active person, and college will be a much more interesting place. If you have extra-curricular interests, you'll find that you will enjoy your own company more and others will too.

Don't neglect your study, for Stout is a place in which to learn, but don't neglect recreation either. For college is also a place to have fun and to develop a well-rounded personality.

M. F. C.

The Stout Snooper

Busy, busy, busy, that's what the past two weeks have been—for you, the teachers, and even me. During this time was the last Stout basketball game, many tests, several field trips, some reports nearing the due date, and a lyceum during last week end.

Yes, the school days are speeding up their 24 hr. rotations and are whizzing by faster and faster! Everyone is busy. . . .

But, slow down and take notice of the things that are going on around you. To further explain, I, the Snooper, have been taking note of those neglectful sidewise glances cast at the beautiful displays and bulletin boards in Harvey Hall! Why don't you stop and take out a few moments to view these pretty displays and let your busy mind stop spinning, relax and soak up some of the softening rays they give off; in other words, appreciate this form of art illustrated at Stout. Of particular interest are the clothing, art courses, and Phi U bulletin boards.

Men, why don't you wander around school and see these displays. I've heard most of you disgustingly utter: "It's a woman's world! When a man is born, people ask: 'How is the mother?' When he marries, they exclaim, 'What a lovely bride!' When he dies they inquire, 'How much did he leave her?'" Well, here's your chance to prove that this is and can be a man's world. I, the Snooper, think it would be nice if you men would set up a few displays of your work for the entire student body to view. (I suppose it might be difficult to put a whole car or part of a house, or some sheet metal on a bulletin board or in a display case, but it's an idea.)

Then, too, if you (both men and women) go on any more field trips, stop and take notice of the subjects to be viewed. Really stop and watch those printing presses, look at that "modern" painting, and listen to the guides. Then you will be appreciating what you came to look at, the particular form of art.

Of course, the Snooper traveled to the lyceum a week ago tonight and while hanging from a ceiling light, I watched and listened to the young Frenchman. Before the concert began, I heard one of the frat's new pledges say, "I suppose he lived in Paris, but went to school in America." A fellow pledge answered, "Gee, if so, it really must have been tough to get to classes on time."

Now, what I really mean to say is, attend these lyceums and enjoy the programs. Some of you stayed home, said I don't want to hear that long-haired stuff, but really that young Frenchman had a short hair cut!

Last week's Stoutonia mentioned that young American girls were struck by the handsomeness of this pianist and were intrigued by his boyish enthusiasm when they met him in person backstage or at parties. (Perhaps some of the women faculty members or wives or friends would even agree after personally meeting him at a casual party held after the recital.)

Evidently he did win over Stout coeds too for on Friday afternoon as I, the Snooper, wandered around school, I heard piano playing sounding from the auditorium and when I flew in, I noticed several Stout coeds sitting in the balcony, appreciating his playing. Then, too, on Saturday morn as I wandered through school to escape the coldness of the weather, I again peeked in the auditorium and saw several coeds on stage dreamily leaning on the piano while the debutaire pianist practiced!

Well, I've tried to say, take time to appreciate art shown in all forms shown around school, especially displays, field trips, and lyceums. Remember, I'm snooping among you!

DR. FLEMING WRITES STUDY FOR MAGAZINE

Published in the January issue of the "Journal of Educational Research," national professional publication for educators, is "A Study of Mass Media Attitudes Toward Certain Aspects of the Welfare of Teachers in 1931, 1941, 1951," an article written by Dr. Thomas F. Fleming, associate professor of English and journalism at The Stout Institute.

The article is the second in a series of features by Dr. Fleming. Each of the three articles in the group describes the attitude of mass-circulation newspapers and magazines toward certain aspects of teacher welfare over a span of several decades.

The current article in the Journal sets forth the attitude of American publications toward teacher retirement provisions, work load, tenure, added non-classroom duties, vacations or sabbatical leaves, age of retirement, sick leaves, and hospitalization provisions.

Dr. Fleming's research indicates greatest mass-media interest in teacher retirement benefits, work load and tenure. Moderate concern was evidenced in non-classroom duties, vacations, or leaves and retirement age. Little press attention was paid to teacher sick leave and hospitalization in publications of the several decades examined.

However, none of the categories described in Dr. Fleming's second article attracted as much interest as salary matters, which composed the first article in the series, or recognition of the value and contribution of teachers, which will comprise the third publication in the series.

Data in the current article confirm several findings of the first feature. It was again discovered that economic conditions prevalent at a given time affect the actions of teachers, public, and mass-media reporting those actions. The amount of mass-media interest in teachers, and often the tone of that interest, were again found to be influenced by the activity of teachers.

Dr. Fleming notes in conclusion that frequently the paucity of space which mass-media annually devote to some aspects of the welfare of American teachers is far more striking than the sentiment expressed in that meagre content.

Poet: "How I love those clear crisp Autumn days when there's football in the air."

Peasant: "Then why can't I get it on my television set?"

A little boy found himself facing a tough problem. His teacher told him he had to write more legibly. "But if I do," said the boy, "She'll find out that I can't spell!"

DR. FRYKLUND IS NAMED TO AWARD COUNCIL

Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of The Stout Institute, Menomonie, has been named Wisconsin representative on the Ford Motor Company Industrial Arts Awards advisory council.

Dr. Fryklund's appointment as an advisor to the nationwide craft competition for school youths was confirmed in a letter received from Henry Ford II, Ford Motor Company president.

The Ford-sponsored Industrial Arts Awards program annually offers $50,000 in awards for outstanding school-made craftwork. Last year, 20,000 projects were entered in the program which strives to encourage pride of craftsmanship and creative imagination.

The IAA advisory council is composed of a representative from each state, the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii and Puerto Rico. Each member serves for a three-year term.

The council helps form program policy and serves a liaison function between state activities and the IAA national headquarters in Dearborn, Michigan.

FOUR PERSONS ATTEND CONVENTION

Four persons from The Stout Institute had active roles at the recent convention of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education. The gathering was held in Chicago.

Acting as a member of the national nominating committee of the AACTE was Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of Stout. Members of that committee acted upon the nomination of candidates for the presidency of the association and upon nominations for a member of the executive board.

Director of graduate studies at the college, Ray A. Wigen, attended as chairman of the accreditation committee of The Stout Institute and as Stout's AACTE representative. He was active at the convention in studying the status and trends of standards and accreditation procedures in teacher education.

In addition, Mr. Wigen attended a curriculum clinic meeting composed of representatives of various fields of industrial arts. These persons continued work on departmental standards for preparation of industrial arts teachers.

Dr. Ralph G. Iverson, Stout's director of student personnel services, was part of a clinic which gave attention to the teacher education curriculum of multi-purpose universities and state colleges.

Following a presentation describing the institutional programs of Michigan State college and the University of Florida, Dr. Iverson and other clinic participants discussed the adequacy of those programs and suggested possible means of increasing their effectiveness.

As Wisconsin president of the Association for Student Teaching, Dwight D. Chinnock, supervisor of student teaching for the industrial education division of The Stout Institute, attended meetings of both the AST and the AACTE. This year the AST introduced a new procedure by having its state presidents meet with the national executive board of the AST.

In addition to taking part with AST presidents in submitting suggestions to the group's executive board, Mr. Chinnock attended a joint gathering of the AST-AACTE. Later he took part in specialized gatherings of the AST.

NORWEGIAN EDITOR IS CONVOCATION SPEAKER

"What Can We Expect from Norway?" was the title of a lecture given by the president of the Norwegian Press, Mr. Per Monsen.

The standard of living in Norway is much like that of the United States. The people in Norway have the same independence, love for freedom, and the same problems as we do. However, their living conditions vary, as they haven't the rich resources that we do. Three to four per cent of the country is cultivated. Because of this they have had rationing and controlled economy.

Monsen was proud of the fact that 20% of the population is living in new homes. He also stated that Norway has the best paid farmers. Since they have potential hydro-electric power, electricity is cheap. The electricity bill for a 6 room house costs only $100 a year.

"To create new industries we need a lot of money to develop the country further." 40% of the materials they use must be obtained abroad.

Norway couldn't be defended without help from the outside so they obtained help from NATO. However, Norway is able to defend herself now so the people feel much safer today than they did in 1949.

Monsen believes that countries can work together if each country keeps its individuality. The responsibility of leadership is with the big nations. All Norway can do is express its views and follow. "Lack of understanding between Europe and the United States is often caused by ignorance."

In closing, Monsen said he was impressed by the open and friendly attitude of the Americans. "The generous hospitality of the people is truly wonderful."

It is interesting to note that Mrs. Ray Johnson's grandfather and Per Monsen's uncle were at one time co-editors of a leading newspaper in Norway.

MR. OLSEN SPEAKS AT HOME EC MEETING

Monday evening the Home Ec Club presented the second program of "The House Around Us" series. Mr. Olsen spoke to the club on the subject of "Building or Buying A Home."

Mr. Olsen explained and illustrated types of houses by use of slides. He impressed upon the members of the club the importance of an expandable house that is well ventilated. He also gave the girls the formula for computing the cost of building a house.

Mr. Olsen concluded his presentation with the comparison of redecorating a house or building a new one.

Mr. Olsen is one of the Industrial Arts instructors on the campus.

LIFE IN FOUR NATIONS TOPIC OF PREVIEW

A study of life in four nations will be the subject of The Stout Institute film previews, to be held in the audio-visual theatre of the college library at 7 p.m. on Wednesday evening, March 16. All parents, teachers, and other interested persons in the community are urged to attend the free showings.

Describing the existence of 15 million people in the narrow Nile Valley is "Life in the Nile Valley." This film short is a study of an Egyptian farm family and that family's dependence upon the Nile.

"Power Changes Mexico" is a film depiction of changes which electrical power has brought to the Mexican people. Also described are financing methods used to provide necessary generating and distribution equipment.

Three important advances in Thailand and economy are described in "Thailand's Streams of Life." This featurette shows how three Technical Assistance projects encourage exchange of transportation information among Asian nations, improve flood control projects, and stimulate the construction of river dams.

A longer documentary, "The United Nations in Korea" traces events leading to United Nations' entrance into the Korean struggle, describes important events in the Korean War, and pictures the steps which made possible the current truce.

Sponsoring the free film showings is the audio-visual center of The Stout Institute, directed by David Barnard. Films are made available for showing by the Film Council of America.

FASHION CALLS FOR LOTS OF JEWELRY

Our coming season's clothing styles are playing right into the hands of jewelers with blouses and dresses that call for eye catching jewelry to relieve the simplicity of the bodice.

Color is perhaps the biggest news in jewelry, but it hasn't crowded out the popular summer white. Vivid combinations as well as soft pastels appear in semi-precious stones, pearls, glass and plastic beads.

Ropes and necklaces from 30 to 60 inches long are at an all time high. They may be worn separately by looping, knotting and tying or by combining different colored ropes of beads together. Added attraction is also being brought out in earrings. Large button earrings are a favorite with chokers or ropes of beads. Bracelets, too, are emphasized in fashion with trimmings of oversized charms.

For formal wear, classic pearls and rhinestone pieces crowd out the more gaudy daytime jewelry. Simulated moonstones and Montant blue semi-precious stones are just the thing for your white or colorful oncoming spring and summer evening wear.

DAVE BEYL MAKES SOLO

According to a recent news release from Whiting Field, Milton, Florida, a first solo flight has been made at the Whiting Field U. S. Naval Auxiliary Air Station by Naval Aviation Cadet David D. Beyl, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Beyl of Clear Lake, Wisconsin.

He attended The Stout Institute at Menomonie before entering the flight training program through the U.S. Naval Air Station at Minneapolis, Minn.

With this initial phase of Naval Aviation flight training completed he will receive instruction in precision air work along with his regular solo flights as another step toward earning his Navy "Wings of Gold."

H. F. WEHRWEIN WRITES ARTICLE FOR MAGAZINE

Author of a recent article in the "North Central Purchaser," professional news-magazine of the Twin City Association of Purchasing Agents, is H. F. Wehrwein, a Stout Institute graduate who is now standards engineer of Continental Machines Inc. of Savage, Minnesota.

Mr. Wehrwein received his bachelor of science degree from Stout in 1941 and his master of science in 1949.

Basis for Mr. Wehrwein's feature "Development of a Standardization Program," is his discussion of the development of such a program for Continental Machines. As he points out in the discussion, standards play so important a part in everyday life that every business concern has a responsibility to assume an active role in the increased effort to set up a complete set of national standards.

Mr. Wehrwein reveals that America does not yet participate adequately in international standardization nor does our country have adequate national standards. However, it is his observation that we have progressed more toward that goal in the last 10 years than in the previous century.

STOUT'S SCHOOL SPIRIT IS QUESTIONED

School spirit. What's that? We saw it—everyone saw it—at the Stout Milwaukee game February 11. But where is it now?

A few weeks ago we had a pep assembly. The cheerleaders tried to do their best, but when they led a cheer it was like pulling teeth from a beaver. Why? Where is our school spirit?

It's buried under a pile of restrictions: no large posters, no this, no that, and so close to no Homecoming bonfire it scares me. When our parents sent us to Stout they looked upon us as adults. When we got here the school thought we were still children and treated us with the childish rules and regulations our parents ceased to use when we started high school.

We are here for an education. What is an education? Half of it is being able to make our own decisions. How can we do this when we haven't been able to make up our own minds as to when to study and when to get home at night? Education is learning to solve little problems so the next time we can solve the big ones. Let's get out and prove we are adults, and not mope around and complain about school spirit. Let's show the world we are proud of Stout!!!!!!

FACTS AND FIGURES ON ARTS AND CRAFTS

One of the oldest organizations on our campus is the Arts and Crafts Club located in the General Shop classroom in Bowman Hall.

The club offers a wide variety of interesting activities such as: leather craft, metalcraft, woodworking, ceramics, and plastics, and has the facilities necessary to satisfy almost every hobby. For the individual without a hobby at present Arts and Crafts offers the opportunity of broadening interests and utilizing leisure time in a constructive manner.

The members work on projects they choose to make under the guidance of Mr. Kranzsch and his assistant, Mr. Hiller, in the informal atmosphere of the clubroom.

Club meetings are held every Monday night from 6:45 to 9:00 P.M. Potential members are required to have a 1.5 scholastic standing.

Industrial Education graduates are now in great demand as camp counselors during the summer months and training in Arts and Crafts is of invaluable assistance for it is used widely in this type of work.

So come on men, make use of that spare time, construct that jewelry box, camera bag, knick-knack, lamp, or whatever it may be. When opportunity does knock, take advantage of it.

Soderberg, associate professor in the department of woodworking and finishing at The Stout Institute.

In the article, Mr. Soderberg seeks better understanding among all citizens of the need for beautification and protection of wood surfaces. The author also outlines certain factors which are essential to any training program designed to provide understanding of methods for protecting wood surfaces.

Among the finishing areas which Mr. Soderberg discusses are reasons for painting, types of finishes, life span of a paint film, wood character-application of paint and various stages of disintegration. Information is also provided on the techniques for cleaning siding.

The author also expressed his appreciation to technicians and engineers of the Forest Products Laboratory at Madison. They afforded him cooperation in obtaining much of the technical information on which he based his discussion.

Club. Outside of school she belongs to Eastern Star, sings in a church choir and is a Sunday school teacher.

Kozukio Kuboyama, a sophomore here, claims Lahaina, Maui, Hawaii as his hometown. He attended Lahainaluna High School in Hawaii and is a veteran. "Jiggs" has had summer experience as a camping and handicraft director and has been a Scout Master for 3 years.

And having been editor of the Stoutonia, I think that I have had a special privilege of viewing the function and operation of the school itself." Joyce Fraedrich, candidate for president, "During the past year while working with the students and the social activities, I became acquainted with the mechanism of the student body. I feel as though I know what the student's want the S.S.A. to accomplish; I would be willing to devote all of my time to accomplish it for them. I feel as though any organization needs someone who is acquainted with the world to carry over the ideas that the students have given. Andree Jost, candidate for vice-president, "I consider myself eligible for the nomination of vice-president on the basis of my past experiences. I was always active in any social activity in high school that was available. However, I feel that only having this one office, I can devote all of my time to it. Social life on the campus is very important and I think that Joyce Fraedrich has done a terrific job this year of encouraging more social life. If I should get elected vice-president I will do everything in my power to continue the outstanding program which she started and also try to contribute some more. Reinhold Meihnsner, candidate for vice-president, "I feel that I could serve on the governing board for the following reasons. During the last two years I have had enough contact with the student body to realize some of the ideas and wants of the students. As a result of serving on various committees and belonging to a few organizations I have been able to gather many ideas from the students concerning the welfare of our school. I do not expect to handle this office by myself. I feel that it will be only through the close cooperation of the rest of the student body that I or any other candidate for office will be able to make a success of the coming year." Marvin Westrom, candidate for vice-president, "I feel I have the ability to take the responsibilities of this office, and do the jobs that are expected of me." Dorothy Ann Neis, candidate for secretary, "I feel I am qualified to represent the student body on the governing board because I've had two years experience representing, one year when I was a freshman and this year representing the junior class. I've also had experience as secretary for Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority and my high school class for four years." Barbara Ness, candidate for secretary, "I believe that I am qualified to represent the student body on the governing board because I have a sincere desire and concern in the activities of this organization. I know many of the students personally and have held offices in four of their organizations: Secretary of Tainter Annex and secretary of Inter-religious Council were the two secretary offices. Kozukio 'Jiggs' Kuboyama, candidate for treasurer, "I feel that I'm qualified to represent the student body on the governing board. Having been president of Lynwood Hall and vice-president of the sophomore class, I have come in contact with the students and their problems, I feel that I understand their problems and have a sincere interest in helping to solve them. I believe that working on the social committee will be an aid to me on the governing board.

CLASS TAKES FIELD TRIP ON MARCH 4

On Friday, March 4, Miss Amon's Home Furnishings classes journeyed to Minneapolis in a long looked forward to field trip.

High spots on the tour were Daytons, Hudsons' Jewelry Store, The Modern Center and the County Court House in St. Paul.

At Daytons, Mr. James Anderson talked to the group on several phases of Home Furnishings. He stated that the three most important things to be aware of in furnishing a home were color, style, and scale. Shock combinations such as pink, red, white and bitter green were the coming things in use of color. Pink and turquoise would be seen often in furniture. Errors in scale were the errors that could most easily ruin the effect of a room.

After the talk the group split up into groups and looked at crystal, linens, and glassware and china. They saw George Jensen hand wrought silver at Hudsons.

The students were interested in the modern furniture and accessories at the Modern Center, a small shop featuring modern furniture exclusively.

Walker Art Center was the next high point of the trip. A member of the staff guided the girls on a quick tour of some of the exhibits.

At the Court House in St. Paul, the girls saw the famous Indian Peace Memorial by Carl Miller, prominent Swedish sculptor. Its immense size and beauty impressed them.

PHI SIGS UPSET F.O.B. 80-69

GRUDGE GAME OF '55

Members of the FOB and Phi Sig fraternities are pictured above battling in their annual grudge game, which was held in the High School Gym last Tuesday night. The Phi Sigs won in an upset, 80-68.

FOB's Held The Lead Until Halftime When The Phi Sigs Pulled Ahead

It was a delighted, a contented Phi Sig Grudge team that walked off the basketball court last Tuesday evening after the annual Phi Sig - FOB Grudge classic. The score at the final horn was 80 - 68 in their favor for the first win in the last five attempts over the traditional rivals, the FOBs.

The favored FOBs took the lead away from the Phi Sigs early in the first quarter and managed to stay ahead up to halftime. After that the score was nip and tuck 44 - 44 and 46 - 46, after which the Phi Sigs slowly pulled ahead maintaining the lead throughout the rest of the battle.

Some of the standout players for the Phi Sigs were Denny Challeen and Leroy Sharkey, along with the old KFS members, Mike Wingert, Gale Woelffer, and Kenny Arnetveit.

The FOB's Jim Bolm, Steve Butz, and Marv Westrum played their usual good game while Big Bob Foster managed to get in a few good shoe string tackles.

For a little color, the pledges from both fraternities attempted to lead cheers in the typical pledge type manner.

The Grudge Game of '55 is history now but you can be sure that the FOBs will try to avenge their loss next year. In the same token, the Phi Sigs will be playing just as hard to maintain their crown.

DORM NEWS

Tainter Dining Hall was the scene of another birthday party on Tuesday, March 8. Girls with birthdays during March were honored at this time. They are: Nancy Gabert, Carol Hatch, Jeanne Madaus, Audrey Price, Lois Onsrud, Maryann Spangler, Shirley Junge, Kay Seyforth, Vaudys Hove, Helen Russell, Pauline Rosentiel, Marvel Klecker, Genevieve Hayes, Diane Fisher, Roberta Kurth, Mary Rezek, Carmen Krings, and La Yaun Neeb.

Plans are nearing completion for the party at Tainter Annex which is being held Saturday evening, March 12, at 8:00 p.m.

Decorations will be done in a St. Patrick's Day theme according to Helen Froelich, chairman of the committee.

Entertainment will consist of mixers and dancing, with Rhea Van Vleet as committee chairman.

Sheila Morris is chairman of refreshments, which will consist of hot dogs, potato chips, and soda.

Clean-up committee chairman is Julia Knapp.

Most of the girls in the dorm are working with these committee chairmen to make Tainter Annex's party of the year a huge success.

Anyone need some tips on knife-throwing? Especially throwing knives at doors? See Loren Johnson - he's an expert. If you have your doubts, ask Doctor Salyer. By the way, Loren is also expert at putting up the holes and painting them. Seems that Loren could be known as a "Jack of all trades" - or, better yet, a "Jack of all mischiefs."

If you've wondered why Jerry Howard and Bill Daehling walked around on a cloud last week, this will inform you of the reason. Two people visited them the weekend before last. This visit had a pretty strong effect on the fellows, but they will snap out of it pretty soon.

"POCKET PICKER" IS HERE AT CONVOCATION

Better look in your pockets and see if you have your billfold. Bud Jacobson, the man who picks pockets, was here.

Jacobson showed many clever examples of slight of hand tricks. Four freshmen boys volunteered to assist him in showing how easily he could "pick" them. Jacobson's abilities astonished the audience, so that they laughed throughout the half hour program. His jokes and antics delighted everyone.

"What are you going to do when you leave college?"
"I'm going to do newspaper work."
"Don't you think you will be too old to sell papers?"

FRENCH PIANIST GIVES LYCEUM CONCERT

Phillippe Entremont, the 20 year old French pianist, presented an outstanding concert here Friday night. It was a performance done with the spirit and fire of youth plus a technical and musical mastery of an extremely talented musician.

Opening with the well known and much loved Bach "Fantasie and Fugue in G minor", arranged for piano by Lizst, the brilliant young artist elicited from his instrument "singing" tones of unmatched beauty in the listening experience of this reviewer. The crisp brilliance of his technic combined with interpretive capacities altogether unexpected in one so young to make the magnificent Fugue spectacularly rewarding for its audience.

Although several of his selections were quite long, Entremont held his hearers constantly breathless. His playing was dominated by his masterful technique. He put all his soul into the execution of the pieces he interpreted. His extraordinary touch, the poetic musicality, his sensational technic, and the astonishing maturity immediately captivated the audience.

The enthusiastic audience would not let Entremont leave until he gave them three encores.

It is believed that Mr. Entremont will have a fine feeling toward Stout because of the hospitality shown to him while he was on the campus. Several members of the faculty entertained him at their homes and another showed him around the campus Saturday morning.

Seventy-five Per Cent Turn Out For Voting Of 1955-1956 SSA Officers

Yesterday, seventy-five per cent of the Stout students took an active interest in their student government and went to the poles to elect Gordon Maves, president; Reinhold Meihsner, vice-president; Dorothy Ann Neis, secretary; and Kozukio Kuboyama, treasurer.

Reinhold Meihsner, a sophomore from Milwaukee, Wisconsin, won the vice-presidency. At the present time he is a sophomore here at Stout and takes an active interest in Tower, S.S.A., and Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity. He has served as High Priest of Sigma Tau Gamma, Treasurer of Lynwood Hall, and sophomore representative in S.S.A. He was on the freshman bonfire committee and also helped with the Winter Carnival. Off campus, he belongs to L.S.A.

"Reiny," as he is known around campus, was sponsored by Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity.

When attending Concordia college high school, Reinhold was active in music and speech work. He will be an important member on the team working for the betterment of The Stout Institute. Along with the rest of the new officers, Reinhold will need the support of the student body. One of his duties will be to work with the vice-presidents of the various organizations to promote more social activities.

Chosen as secretary was Dorothy Ann Neis from Juneau, Wisconsin.

DOROTHY NEIS

SECRETARY

In high school she served as her class secretary all four years, Home Ec. Club secretary for one year, and Dodge County 4-H Older Youth secretary. Dorothy Ann received the D.A.R. award and attended Badger Girls' State. As a junior here at Stout, she is active in Alpha Sigma Alpha and Home Ec. Club, and has been a freshman dorm S.S.A. representative, and Alpha Sigma Alpha secretary. Other activities include 4-H, W.R.A., and Glee Club.

Dorothy Ann has had much secretarial experience which makes her very qualified for the position. She will be working along with the other officers for promoting better government at Stout.

Kozukio Kuboyama, one of the Hawaiian students, and more commonly known as "Jiggs," was elected treasurer.

"Jiggs" comes from Lahaina, Maui, Hawaii, and is a sophomore at Stout. He was president of Lynwood Hall in his freshman year and also served as Arts and Crafts treasurer and vice-president of the sophomore class. He is an active member of Sigma Tau Gamma and takes part in intramural activities.

"Jiggs" will take over his position fourth quarter along with the rest of the new officers. He will have ample opportunity to use his past experience while working with the students.

This year the campaigning was outstanding, and the enthusiastic interest of the students was tremendous. Due to new regulations set up by President Fryklund, posters and other campaigning ideas could not be glued or taped to hall walls. The sponsoring organizations overcame these regulations by using stands, mobiles, and clamps for campaigning material.

The week of campaigning started Monday. The various organizations backed their candidates with campaign posters. Several banners were strung between the Union and Harvey Hall. Campaign notes were also put in mailboxes in an effort to encourage participation in the election.

Many of the contestants serenaded the dorms and gave short speeches in an effort to become better acquainted with the students.

On Wednesday each contestant was presented to the student body at Assembly and gave a short campaign speech. Cheers, yells, and songs were used as methods of campaigning by the sponsoring organization during the assembly.

On Thursday approximately six hundred students voted between the hours of ten and four for their favorite SSA candidates.

The four new officers will take over their duties starting fourth quarter. The positions will last a year.

Retiring from office are: Roger Hanson, president; Joyce Fraedrich, vice-president; Doris Wandrey, secretary; and Dick Kadotani, treasurer.

PETRIE'S BRASS ENSEMBLE TO BE HERE MARCH 23

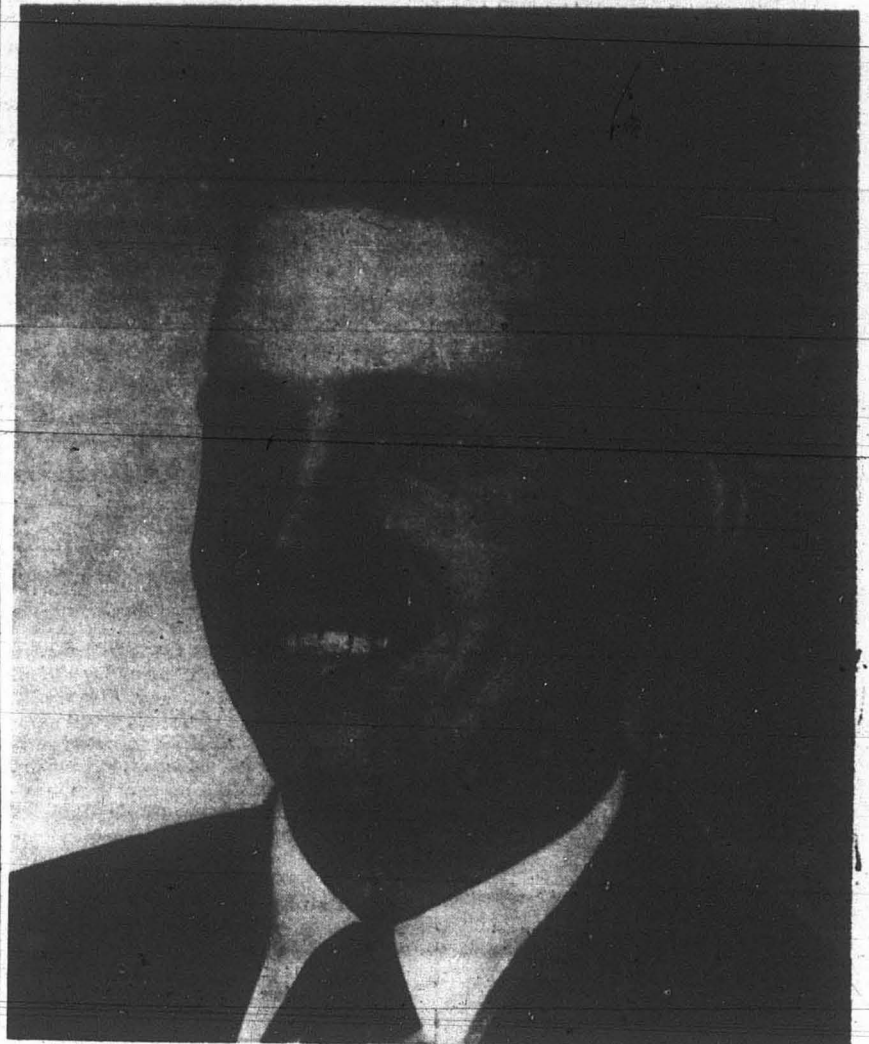

Petrie's Brass Ensemble will present a program at the March 23 convocation. This symphonic quartet has a thrilling repertoire of fine music.

The ensemble consists of two young couples who play a variety of brass instruments. This organization's artistry and musicianship have met the demands of the most exacting critics. The programs are presented with such color, dash, and showmanship as to win the spontaneous and enthusiastic approval of each audience before whom it has performed.

Each member of this colorful group is an outstanding artist in his or her own right and has been selected by Mr. Petrie to fit into this particular instrumentation. Tours throughout the United States, its island possessions, and Canada during the past several seasons under the auspices of leading college, university, club and convention groups testify to the enduring quality of the Petrie-directed companies and to the popularity of unique and versatile programs of this group.

Perfect stage technique, poise, gracefulness, coordination of movement and clock-like precision, all blend into a picture that is as delightful to the eye as the music is pleasing to the ear.

MEET THE NEW PRESIDENT

Gordon Maves was chosen president of the Stout Student Association by a student vote held Thursday. He was sponsored by the Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity.

GORDON MAVES WINS RACE FOR PRESIDENCY

Retiring Stoutonia Editor Takes Over New Position As SSA President

Gordon Maves, best known around school as "Gordie," was elected yesterday by the students as president of the Stout Student Association.

A resident of Menomonie, Wisconsin, and a junior at Stout, Gordon has been active in many campus activities and student affairs. He is active in Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity, Epsilon Pi Tau fraternity, and the Stout Typographical Society. He was the associate editor of the Stoutonia in 1953-54 and at present is serving as editor-in-chief. Intramurals is another activity in which he actively participates.

Gordon also takes part in musical organizations at Stout. He plays his tenor saxophone in band, Symphonies, and with the "German Band."

Outside of school he is a member of the Gamma Delta fraternity and is also president of it. While attending Menomonie High School, Gordon was president of his sophomore class, went to Badger Boys' State and won the Alumni award. He was active in band and speech work throughout his high school career.

These qualifications will prove helpful to Gordon in the ensuing year. As president of S.S.A., he will have ample opportunity to use his experience in working with fellow students and faculty. He will be in charge of all S.S.A. activities throughout the coming year. As president of the governing board, Gordon will preside over all governing board meetings and will work for the good of the student body.

Gordon was sponsored by the Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity.

When Gordon was told of his victory, he became so excited that he dropped a galley of type that he was holding.

Congratulations from the Stoutonia staff!!

1955 SUMMER SCHOOL PLANS ARE ANNOUNCED

Plans are now completed for the 1955 summer school session of The Stout Institute. The bulletins are now available and may be secured from any of the administrative offices. Prospective students for the summer session may enroll in classes by contacting either Miss Alice J. Kirk, Dean of Home Economics or Mr. John A. Jarvis, Dean of Industrial Education.

An interesting feature of this year's bulletin is the cover—it is an original drawing created by Miss Amon. The color work was done by John Posewitz.

Through the cooperative arrangement of the State Board of Vocational and Adult Education, several visiting faculty will appear on Stout's campus this summer. Two members of the state board are on the slate of visiting faculty. They are Mr. Arthur Larson, supervisor of occupational information and guidance, and Mr. Harry Thayer, instructor of trade and industrial education. Mrs. Alta Bethke, instructor of clothing and textiles from the School of Vocational and Adult Education will also be present. A member from the Vocational School of St. Paul, Minnesota, Mr. H. W. Teichroew, trade and industrial education coordinator will be a member of Stout's faculty. Two other visiting faculty members will be Dr. R. W. Bardwell, Director of Madison Vocational and Adult School and Mr. Alexander Bick, Instructor in Milwaukee Public Schools and consultant in Milwaukee.

From the present outlook, the 1955 summer session predictions are favorable.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

The conclusion of a season in any sport is a time of evaluation, a time to assess in proper perspective the accomplishments of the season just past. Recent completion of the Stout Institute basketball schedule is therefore a time for retrospect.

Any fan who regularly followed the Blue Devils this past season was supporting a team endowed with a full measure of spirit, determination, and high morale. Ours was a squad which, though handicapped by lack of height and experience, played as a compact unit, often capitalizing on teamwork and co-operation to perform beyond the natural ability of individual squad members.

Too often, however, the tendency in sports is to judge a season by a single criterion: the record of wins and losses. Certain other factors are worthy of equal—or greater—consideration. Good sportsmanship, the refusal to quit, the personal conduct of squad members are more lasting considerations than a mere comparison of victories and defeats.

Thus it is in the non-athletic as well as the athletic accomplishments of this year's basketball squad that Stout Institute fans can take pride, for this year's squad members showed greater promise of having the scholastic and personal qualities of college men than have any group since our champions of 1940-41-42. Building a winning team requires players willing and competent to master college studies for the four-year curriculum. Barring the demands of military service and personal misfortune, Stout seems to have available a basic group of such men.

Also important in any evaluation of this season's accomplishments is the fact that 14 out of the 17 squad members are freshmen. They dedicated two hours daily to basketball from November 1 to March 1—exclusive of hours for study and part-time work. In view of the inexperience of most squad members, their spirited play and their potential for the future, the season certainly has had its optimistic aspects. Our thanks go to the coaching staff and to the players for a hard-fought, colorful season.

ORGANIZATION NEWS

They are: President, Francis Rauscher; Vice President, Clinton Byrnes; Treasurer, Paul Palmer; Recording Secretary, Bob Duran; Corresponding Secretary, Curt Linden; Alumni Secretary, Jim Jonen; Historian and Stoutonia Reporter, Tom Terwilliger; Secretary at Arms, Pensit Potijinda. ## Rifle Club Chatter

Last week I promised you some dope on club activities, so here we go. Let's look at a typical meeting on a typical night. We meet at 7:00 p. m. in our club room in the upper gym. Last night, our order of business was a discussion of a date for the M1 outing. Afterward, Mr. Klatt gave us a simplified lecture on trajectory (the path a missile travels from the rifle to the target). After the lecture we adjourned to the firing line and shot our targets for the current match. We fire ten shots at each of three targets from three positions. The positions are prone (lying down), kneeling, and off hand (standing). When we finished, the meeting was adjourned.

Respectfully yours,
Mike "Hammerless"

The Hyperian Sorority celebrated its Founder's Day on Thursday, March 17. In keeping with tradition, the girls wore yellow rose corsages on dark dresses. This symbolized the sorority's chosen colors of black and yellow. The Hysps ate dinner smorgasbord fashion at the Tea Room. Dean Antrim and Miss Martha Amon were dinner-time guests.

Nineteen applicants for membership were voted on and accepted by the members of the Arts and Crafts Club at their March 7 meeting. The pledging for the new members began March 14 and will convene March 20 at which time they will be officially accepted by the club.

The names of the new members are as follows: Gerald Bleskacek, Gene Bohek, Gerald Borchardt, Dave Claflein, James Daines, Roy Eckes, Homer Frase, David Grebe, Bob Koeslin, Anton Kotyza, Harry Krysiak, Glenn Matl, Donald Maurer, Paul Paulson, Fred Ponschok, Pensit Potijinda, Francis Rauscher, Marge Strombeck, and Roger Wood.

At a recent meeting of Gamma Delta, committees for the May workshop were announced. Stout's Gamma Pi chapter is host for the event.

The next meeting will be held March 20 at St. Paul's Parish Hall beginning at 4:00 P.M. Roll call will be answered with a Bible passage containing the word "suffer."

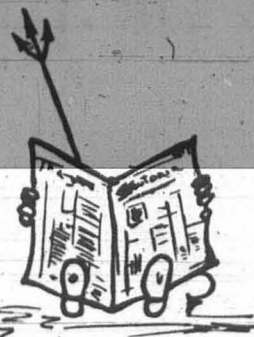

L. S. A. will have a bowling party Sunday afternoon, March 20, 1955, at 3:30 P. M. The bowling party will take place at the bowling alleys in the Union.

After everyone has had a chance to bowl, a supper will be served from the kitchen above the Union.

Let's everyone turn out for L.S.A.'s bowling party and make it a big success.

The Stout Snooper

Hi! For a long time I've wanted to ask you the question, "where will you be 10 years from now?" And since I'm a snooper, now I am asking you, "where will you be?"

The next ten years are going to be the most exciting and decisive in your life. The coming decade will pretty well determine whether you'll end up as a footloose carpenter or settle down to homemaking in the suburbs. During this era, you'll meet more and more new and different people. You'll try out your ideas, try out your skills, have one or a dozen romances, and probably fall in love for good.

At the end of the decade, what then? Yes, where will you be 10 years from now? Well, I've attempted to snoop into your future and foresaw the following conditions about your position in life in 1964. So, here's what you can look forward to in 10 years.

When it comes to marriage... In spite of what you have heard about your Grandma being a child bride, the truth is that young folks today are marrying younger every year. By the time you reach your middle twenties, 70 per cent of the men in your present crowd will be married, and 82 per cent of the women. Since husbands tend to be 3 years older than their wives, chances are you won't have picked a mate from your current circle of friends. But of course you may read in a future letter from your present college roommate: "Sue just married Pete A. Isn't that surprising, why that was the boy she was pinned to while at Stout!"

If you haven't found a husband or a wife within the next ten years, cheer up. At some time in your lives, 9 out of 10 of you will have had a taste of matrimony. Since women outnumber men in this country, most of the unmarried 1 per cent will be feminine, so this preceding phrase of fact isn't always due to the theory that the girls who give up all their time to write a stuffy thesis may have to give up love and joy and be content with nieces.

For men, best bets in careers... Most likely you'll be just entering the "golden age" of your life work. From 25 to 35, the quality of your work will continue to improve until it reaches its peak.

Physically, your prime of life pretty well parallels this intellectual curve. (Professional football players are exceptions; by the middle twenties, they are already on the down grade.)

Economically speaking, your status is likely to be disappointing. The years when you do your best work are not necessarily those when your income is the highest—the median income for all men in the 25-35 age bracket is only $2,500 and will probably be somewhat higher in 10 yrs. High school graduates reach their peak income years before they are 40 and college grads generally earn more money and enjoy their full earning power after their forties.

If you go into business your marks made in college will probably not have any effect on your income; "C" students drive as many Cadillacs as Phi Beta Kappas. However, in the professions, it is the man who makes the Dean's list who makes the most money.

By 1964 an army of "war babies" will have invaded the job market, but since business will be expanding more than ever, jobs will still be abundant. Individual incomes will be higher and probably the 35 hr. a week will be here to stay.

Although the divorce rate is highest in the United States next to Egypt, by 1964 a mere two per cent of you who have married will have kissed your spouses goodbye via the courts. I, the Snooper, think that you and your wife or husband will be happy 10 or even 20 years from now if you both have had happy childhoods, if you are good companions, if you share important common interests and if you have a fairly even disposition.

If you want to know how happy you'll be in 1964, take a good look at yourself today. There'll be lots of changes in 10 years, but basically you'll still be the same person!

FILMSTRIP RECENTLY MADE AT STOUT

"Analysis Technique for Instructors," a filmstrip recently made at the Stout Institute, has been accepted by the National Association of Industrial Teacher Educators.

The photography for the strip was accomplished by D. P. Barnard, and the cells were made by Lloyd Whyloski, assisted by James Castagna, a graduate student.

The project is one of a series of visual aids being sponsored by the N. A. I. T. E. The project committee for the filmstrip included John A. Jarvis, chairman; Verne C. Fryklund; Einar E. Siro; and Alan R. Pawelek.

The total cost of the filmstrip is $3.50, and this sum includes mailing charges. Orders for a print should be addressed to John A. Jarvis, The Stout Institute, Menomonie, Wis. This two part filmstrip includes a total of 61 frames. Woodworking, auto mechanics, machine shop, fly tying, swimming, and television repair are the activities used to demonstrate the analysis technique.

The sequence in making the strip follows. Photographs were taken to illustrate the title of each frame, and eight by ten gloss prints were made. Pictures were mounted on boards to fit the jig used to shoot the film strip. The titles were printed on acetate with foil by using a hot type method similar to the method used by commercial film producers and TV stations. Photographs were retouched with an air brush to emphasize areas and give a background for titles. All charts were drawn with pen and ink by John A. Jarvis. Titles were printed with black foil, and the charts were mounted by dry mounting. Test strips were made on direct positive film to determine correctness of each of the 61 frames. Photographs, cells, and charts were sent to a commercial film strip producer for the final shooting of the master negative. Positive prints will be run from the master negative.

Professor (after the final exam): "Well, what did you think of the course?"
Student: I thought it was all-inclusive. Everything that wasn't covered during the year was covered in the final exam."

DETROIT ALUMNI HOLDS PARTY IN HISTORIC INN

The Detroit Alumni held its annual mid-winter party—Museum Tour (4:30) and Dinner (6:30)—at the Historic Clinton Inn in Ford's Greenfield Village on Saturday, January 29, 1955.

Notices were sent out to 221 Stout Alumni in the area plus wives or husbands.

Some 122 gathered for an evening of fun and entertainment. It was the largest turn-out for a mid-winter meeting thus far, thanks to Walter and Blundie Nylund and their large committee.

Door prizes, card playing, square dancing, color slides of Stout, previous Stout annuals and Dunn County News, and visiting made a memorable evening of entertainment. Door prizes were given for the largest family; couple married longest; most recently married couple; earliest Stout graduate present; most recent graduate, graduate teaching longest in the area; person traveling farthest to get to the meeting; graduate having largest number of grandchildren; and person having the newest baby. Stoutonia's were used as place mats.

Harry Keller acted as master of ceremonies. It was a very pleasant evening renewing acquaintances with the following Stout alumni:

Walter and Enola Billiet, Fred and Wilma Blair, Dean and Margaret Brown, Charles and Josephine Braun, Floyd and Irma Burgess, Richard and Lou Carlson, James and Helen Christopherson, Charles Conzelman, Charles and Mildred Cryderman, Fred and Betty Decker, Gerald and Marjorie Decker, Val and Mildred Elvers, Roland and Marie Fraser, Carl and Lillian Gavic, Harley and Edith Goodwin, Louis and Doris Haessly, Willard and Elizabeth Hanson, Vincent and Helen Hofman, Frank and Edla Houck, Henry and Margaret Hulter, Harry and Moraig Keller, Marlo and Gladys McCullough, Hughitt and Orvetta Moltzau, Walter and Blundie Nylund.

NCA MEETING TO BE AT CHICAGO NEXT WEEK

Participating in deliberations on problems of accreditation in higher education at the 60th annual meeting of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools will be Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of The Stout Institute, and Ray A. Wigen, director of graduate studies at Stout.

The meeting will take place in Chicago next week. The agenda for the gathering is considered particularly significant because many changes have recently taken place in the status of accreditation at the college and university level.

The North Central Association, of which The Stout Institute has been a member for many years, has accepted greatly expanded responsibilities in accreditation of institutions located in states composing the North Central region. In addition the Association has the responsibility of coordinating all accrediting agencies for institutions of higher learning in that region.

Prior to his attendance at the North Central meeting, Mr. Wigen will participate in the 11th annual Midwest Conference on Graduate Study and Research. Stout also holds membership in this important group which is dedicated to advancement in the fields of graduate study and research.

One hundred, of the 1500 alumni contacted, have responded to the appeal for contributions to help send the Symphonic Singers to the Miami convention. We are still looking forward to hearing from the rest of you.

ALUMNUS SHOWS HIS SINCERE THANK YOU

Thank you, sir, whoever and wherever you are!

Yes, those are the sentiments of persons on The Stout campus toward an unknown alumnus who last week presented $10 to the student loan fund of the college.

According to the anonymous donor, he made the gift because:

"I received a loan from the student fund during my senior year in college, many years ago. That assistance made possible my graduation from Stout.

"Students of today must have greater need for such assistance than I did."

In gratitude for the thoughtfulness of this unknown benefactor, The Stout Institute once again expresses a heartfelt "Thank You!"

STOUT ALUMNI BOOK SELECTED FOR BLIND

A widely used textbook written by Emanuel E. Ericson, B. S. 1919, professor of industrial arts at Santa Barbara College, has been selected by Recording for the Blind, Inc., for reproduction on vinylite discs for use solely by the blind.

The book selected, "Teaching Industrial Arts," was published in 1946 and has since been adopted as a text in 139 colleges and universities—about all that offer majors in this field. This volume and Ericson's previous book, "Teaching Problems in Industrial Arts," have been the most widely accepted writings on teaching methods in industrial arts for the last 25 years. "Teaching Industrial Arts" is now undergoing extensive revisions based on a survey of practices in the field and reactions from many of the men using it as a text.

Recording for the Blind is a non-profit organization functioning under a grant from the Fund for Adult Education. It loans the records only for the use of individual blind applicants.

Prof. Ericson, a pioneer in the field of industrial arts, is the author of several other books in this area of learning in addition to being a contributor of over 200 magazine articles of interest to industrial arts teachers. In 1952 he received a national citation for outstanding service and leadership in the field of industrial arts from the American Vocational Association, of which he is a life member. Since joining the Santa Barbara College faculty in 1925, he has received scores of honors and appointments for his efforts in furthering the ideals and purposes of industrial arts education.

NOTICE

The Student Handbook subcommittee of the Student Welfare committee has been given the responsibility of preparing a revised edition of the Student Handbook. Much of the material for the Handbook has been allotted to members of the faculty and to campus organizations for their perusal and revision.

This copy will soon be sent to the print shop. Therefore, any persons or organizations still holding Handbook copy should return that material to the subcommittee member from whom it was obtained or to the mailbox of Dr. Thomas F. Fleming.

ALUMNI AID IS HELPING SYMPHONICS

Contributions from alumni of Stout Institute are arriving daily to help finance the trip of the Stout Symphonic Singers to the biennial convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs of America.

The Singers will leave Menomonie on Saturday, April 9, and will tour ten states before arriving in Miami for their April 22nd concert before the convention assembly of the National Federation. On the tour the group will also make a number of public appearances, each designed to publicize the college.

However, in spite of receipts from scheduled tour concerts and other available funds, the Symphonics are badly in need of additional money to finance their trip. Thus the group recently appealed to alumni members for assistance.

The response to date has been widespread and gratifying. However, additional money is still sought and any alumnus who has contemplated contributing but who has not yet done so is urged to send his donation to the Stout Symphonic Singers, %The Stout Institute.

The college administration, faculty, student body, and all members of the Symphonic Singers express their sincere appreciation to each person who has contributed to a venture which will bring nation-wide publicity to the Symphonic Singers and to The Stout Institute.

TOWER DEADLINE IS SET FOR APRIL 1

The Tower deadlines are almost finished, there is just one more left. April 1st is the last deadline by which time all the pictures and copy must be in. Towers should be ready for distribution by the middle of May.

APPLIED DRESS DESIGN CLASS TOURS "CITIES"

The Applied Dress Design class accompanied by their instructor, Miss Van Ness, were the guests of Mrs. Auerbacker, a buyer for Dayton's "Oval Room", last Saturday morning. Mrs. Auerbacker explained latest trends in high fashion as well as displaying several originals by such acclaimed designers as Hattie Carnegie, Cecil Chapman, Traynor Nowell and others.

The group also witnessed a showing of spring styles while having lunch in Dayton's "Skyroom".

Visiting Amluxsens, a store which specializes in fine fabrics, occupied much of the afternoon. Here several members of the group selected a fabric for their first project, making a garment from a design of their own.

The afternoon was completed with some individual shopping. An enjoyable and interesting day was experienced by the group.

S. S. S. DANCE IS SUCCESS FOR FUN AND FUNDS

Stout's own Blue Notes played for the dance held in the Stout gym Friday evening, March 11. Ed Clary (trumpet), Dan Wielgus (Saxophone), Ed Griffith (trombone), Bob Olstrom (vocalist and accordion), and Don Kalkofen (drums) played all the favorites from slow, dreamy tunes to polkas and the bunny hop.

The Stout Symphonic Singers (band and choir) sponsored the dance and decorated the gym with a blue and white musical theme.

Ron Strayer and Basil Holder, that popular entertaining duo on campus, gave out with some of their "crazy" words and music during intermission. Everyone seemed to have a good time and all for a good cause--proceeds from the dance will help finance the Symphonics tour in April.

HELL WEEK IS OVER

Once again, Hell Week is a thing of the past. The Phi Sig's straw hats, red bows, and canes; the F. O. B.'s black derbys, bow ties, and shoe shine kits; the D. K.'s red fezzes and scarves; and the Sig Tau's swords, shields, and helmets are relegated to the storage closets until next fall. The new initiates breathe more easily in the presence of Frat brothers, although memories of certain pledging requirements bring an odd look into their eyes. They can laugh, now, at what were serious problems a week and a half ago. With parties, paddlings, serenading, and skits heading the list of activities, the week certainly provided both pledges and spectators with some memorable incidents, some of which are being kept as humiliating secrets.

DORM NEWS

Jerry Howard had a little mishap while playing basketball last week—he crashed into the wall and knocked himself out. He has a nice bump on his head, but he managed to get rid of his sore neck in the process.

Jim Hoffman had better stick around more and take care of his roommate, LaVerne Christiansen. According to all reports, LaVerne really lived it up one Friday night. When he woke up the following Saturday morning, he blamed his condition on his term paper. Not a bad excuse, but you'll have to think of a better one next time, LaVerne.

The fellows are beginning to shift their conversation from girls to baseballs now. When you walk past Lynwood, watch out for flying baseballs and flying glass. No doubt there will soon be a notice on the dorm bulletin board reminding the fellows that baseball is an outdoor sport.

The boys who attended the party at Tainter Annex Saturday night wish to thank the girls for a swell time. They had a lot of fun. Dan Polley was supposed to take care of the little bell that rings at 12:30, but he goofed. Too bad, fellows.

Bill Broadwell and Dennis Challen made a big deal last week when they bought a car. It set them back a few dollars... well, a few anyway... One night, as they were driving around, the police tagged them for lack of tail lights and drivers' licenses. Does anybody want to buy a car... cheap? If so, please contact these poor fellows.

Several Stout gentlemen were entertained at a party given by the girls of Tainter Annex on Saturday evening, March 12.

Dancing and card playing took place in an atmosphere of green and white decorations. "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" was the theme. It was carried out by use of a closely woven netted false ceiling of green and white crepe paper with green shamrocks hanging from it. Cut outs of Irish pipes, hats, and shamrocks also decorated the walls.

Refreshments were served and consisted of ice cream, cake, and soft drinks.

FOUR STOUT FILMS ARE PREVIEWED

Wednesday evening parents, teachers, and interested persons in the community attended the free preview of four films shown in the audio-visual theatre of The Stout Institute library.

The program consisted of four features describing life and economic problems in four nations. Sponsoring the preview was the audio-visual center of The Stout Institute, directed by David Barnard. Films were made available by the Film Council of America.

Of great current interest was "The United Nations in Korea," a 30 minute description of the UN's participation in Korean hostilities. The film also showed significant events in the war and explained steps which made possible the current truce.

"Thailand's Streams of Life" was a documentary account of three Technical Assistance projects which the Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East is carrying on in Thailand. Major facets of the film include depictions of intra-Asian cooperation, flood control projects, and construction of the huge Chao Phya River dam.

Benefits which Mexico is receiving through increased availability of electrical power were described in "Power Changes in Mexico." Also explained were the techniques of financing these Mexican power projects.

The significance of the Nile River to Egyptian farm families was pictured in "Life in The Nile Valley." A study was made of the age-long dependence of Egyptian farmers on the Nile and a comparison was made between ancient Egyptian farming techniques and modern agricultural advances along the Nile Valley.

STOUT Y. W. C. A. ELECTS SIX NEW OFFICERS

Tuesday, March 15th, the Y.W.C.A. held election of new officers for the coming year. The following girls were elected to their respective office: President, Barbara Austin; Vice-President, Betty Lein; Secretary, Marjorie Newman; Treasurer, Jermaine Folkman; Inter-Religious Council Representative, Barbara Ray, and District Representative, Katherine Hawkins.

The YWCA was invited Wednesday, March 9th, to hold their monthly business meeting at the home of Mrs. Matthew Reneson, one of the YWCA advisors.

Plans were made, discussed, and voted upon concerning the YWCA annual Mother and Daughter banquet that has been scheduled for Saturday, April 2, at the Peace Lutheran Church from 5:30 to 7:30 P.M. The speaker for this occasion will be Dr. Dwight Agnew, who teaches history and economics here at Stout. The YWCA members will be conducting tours of our campus for the visiting mothers and friends that will be attending this banquet. The tours will be from 2 to 4 P. M. Saturday afternoon.

Miss Lenice Larkin, area representative of our YWCA, was the guest at our meeting. She spoke to us on ways of improving and increasing our membership. Miss Larkin also talked to our officers of ways they could make our YWCA more successful here at Stout. The YWCA gained helpful information from her visit here at Stout.

The YWCA spent an enjoyable evening with Mrs. Reneson serving them a delicious lunch at the close of their meeting.

MAGAZINE RECOGNIZES LIBRARY FACILITIES

The facilities of the new Stout Institute library have been recognized by a national publication. The structure is described in the March issue of the "American Vocational Association Journal," professional publication of industrial and vocational educators.

The article describes the interior and exterior of the building, the facilities and operation of the library, and the work devoted to its planning and construction by R. L. Pierce, president of The Stout Institute Board of Trustees; Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of the college; and Miss Lillian Froggatt, head of the Stout library.

Preparing the material for the AVA Journal was the public relations department of the college, directed by Dr. Thomas F. Fleming. Illustrating the feature is an exterior photo of the library structure, taken by Lloyd Whydowski, chairman of the printing department at Stout.

A.S.A. TO MEET W.R.A. IN TOURNAMENT FINALS

The Alpha Sigma Alpha's overpowered the fighting Tri Sigma team by a score of 33-11 in a recent tournament playoff. High scorers for the game were Ferguson, Rammer, Strodthoff, and Ehlers. Also, the W.R.A. team edged Tainter Hall 28-23 after an extremely close game. Flora Spinti scored 17 points for the winners and Diane Bournoville scored 16 for losers. The W.R.A. and Alpha Sigma Alpha's will clash next Monday evening at 8:00 for the championship title.

A consolation game will also be played at 7:00 on Monday between the Hyps and Ike. Ike recently defeated Tainter Annex 20-5 with Pauline Rosenstiel as high scorer. The Pallas Athene's were outscored by the Hyps in an over-time game 11-9.

LOST

On March 4 a tan Parker 51 pen and a green Parker 51 pencil were lost. Will the finder please leave them in the President's Office.

FRESHMAN GIRLS SPONSOR GREEN TEA

Faculty and students alike had an enjoyable afternoon at the "Green Tea" sponsored by the freshmen girls. By the way, it was called a "Green Tea," because it was decorated for St. Patrick's Day, and was no reflection on the girls.

Coffee and green tea were served along with shamrock cookies in keeping with the St. Patrick's Day theme.

AUDIO-VISUAL CONFERENCE INVITES PUBLIC

Audio-visual specialists and educators from a 100 mile radius of Menomonie will assemble on the Stout Institute campus on Tuesday, March 29, for Stout's third annual audio-visual conference. The all-day session will be devoted to "Teacher-produced Audio-Visual Materials."

Keynote speaker for the occasion will be C. R. Crakes, nationally known audio-visual specialist and educational consultant for the DeVry Technical Institute of Chicago. Mr. Crakes will describe to assembled delegates the importance and techniques of teacher-developed audio-visual aids.

Presiding at the general session will be Dr. Guy Salyer, associate professor of education at Stout. Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of the college, will welcome delegates.

Four sectional discussion groups are planned for the conference. Dr. Richard S. Mitchell, director of the audio-visual center at St. Cloud State Teachers College will demonstrate "Giving Voice to Colored Slides." Harry Webb, audio-visual chairman for the College of St. Thomas, will tell delegates "How to Make Better Tape Recordings."

In the afternoon sectional meetings, Raymond Cornwell, instructor of industrial education at Stout, will describe techniques which will "Vitalize Bulletin Boards." A Stout Institute graduate who is now director of audio-visual services at Mankato State Teachers College, Edward McMahon, will point out techniques of obtaining or developing "Inexpensive Graphic Materials."

Delegates will then assemble for a session devoted to "Previews of New Films." Taking part will be David P. Barnard, director of the audio-visual center at Stout and general chairman of the conference; Earl Ellis, of Cornet Instructional Films; and C. J. Krumm, of Encyclopedia Britannica Films. A coffee hour will conclude the conference.

The Stout Institute is sponsoring this third annual conference in cooperation with the Wisconsin Department of Audio-Visual Instruction in affiliation with the National Education Association. Attending will be school superintendents, principals, supervising teachers, classroom teachers, audio-visual personnel, and faculty members from other colleges.

Also of interest to persons in attendance will be exhibits of audio-visual materials and equipment provided by educational supply firms from Eau Claire and Milwaukee.

LOCKERS REASSIGNED IN BOWMAN HALL

Do you have a locker on the first floor of Bowman Hall? If so this announcement is for you.

All students now occupying these lockers are required to see Dr. Wiehe for reassignment. Those lockers not checked by April 4th will be opened and contents disposed.

STOUT IND. ED. FILM IS UNDER PRODUCTION

A film taking viewers back into the real-life scenes of industrial education has begun. This film is a runner-up of another well-known film produced at Stout, the "Home Economics" film.

Plans for this industrial education film were begun two years ago. James Castagna, a Stout graduate, planned the film and wrote the skeleton of the story for it as an audio-visual class project.

This has been called a "smorgasbord film"—it portrays a cross section of industrial education at The Stout Institute. The story begins in a high school where a shop teacher explains the advantages of an industrial education at Stout to a prospective student. It is a colored film and is narrated in the words of the shop teacher.

This is a class project with directors and rotating crew members writing about various departments and activities. The electrical shop, auto mechanics, and general metals have been filmed recently with Stout students shown throughout the film. The following are working on this project: Kenneth Arnetveit, Ralph Hetzel, James Kichefsky, Allen Nicoli, Edward Prah, William Rahl, George Stolp, Richard Sutton, Charles Thomas, Charles Vicek, Roy Willmarth, and Gale Woelffer, in collaboration with Mr. Barnard, the Audio-Visual instructor.

The audio-visual department has produced two films prior to this one. The "Home Economics" film was completed in 1951, and the "Block Cutting and Printing" film was completed in 1952. Copies of this film were sold to other colleges and high schools for use in the classroom. This is the third sound color film to be produced by this department.

STOUTONIA STAFF TO TAKE FIELD TRIP

Planning is now in progress for the annual spring Stoutonia field trip. On Tuesday, April 4th, members of the Stoutonia staff will travel to Minneapolis, visiting the Minneapolis Star Tribune and station WCCO.

At the Star Tribune they will take a tour of the plant, paying special attention to how news is gathered and processed. At station WCCO the staff will see how news casts are arranged and visit Cedric Adams' program to see how he delivers the news.

CHARLIE SPIVAK WILL PRESENT CONCERT HERE

Charlie Spivak, "the man who plays the sweetest trumpet in the world," will bring his sixteen piece orchestra to The Stout Institute. This was recently announced by Mr. Rich, chairman of the assembly-lyceum committee. Spivak's program has been scheduled as a convocation number which will be given in the evening.

Charlie's music is styled along dance lines, but if you happen to be a musician, Spivak plays plenty of licks for the trained ear. He features his trumpet practically all the time, which means when you pass by the room, you can always tell his tone. He also leans towards ballads, another guarantee that your ears will enjoy a vacation.

Spivak has come a long way since the days when he was known as one of the greatest of the jazz trumpeters. He has admittedly gone commercial and if that's bad, then money in the bank is also bad. He has established enough records at New York's Hotel Statler, the top hotel dance spot and the Paramount Theatre on Broadway, mecca for dance bands, to prove he is in the right groove.

More news on the trumpeter in a later issue.

WRA SPONSORS ANNUAL GYM - JAM SATURDAY

Don't miss the annually sponsored Gym-Jam this Saturday evening, March 26. There'll be fun for everyone and for the wee price of twenty cents. Entertainment lasts from 7:30 to 10:00. Activities include swimming, bowling, volleyball, dancing, pool, and ping pong. The Women's Recreation Association has appointed Gloria McNeight to serve as chairman, and Harriet Wilke is her assistant. See you Saturday night.

The WRA tea has been postponed from March 30 to April 27 due to the many activities on campus at this time. Nat Wick will serve as general chairman.

HOME EC. CLUB WILL HAVE GUEST SPEAKER

The tenth annual spring convention of the Wisconsin Home Economics Association will be held at the University of Wisconsin, March 25 and 26. Again this year the meetings are open to college home economics students.

Executive committee meetings and WHEA Council meetings will be held Friday afternoon. In the evening, a social hour for all attending the convention will be held in the new Home Ec. Dept. at the University of Wisconsin. This includes a reception, a demonstration on "Today's Furnishings," and a glimpse of the new facilities.

Speaking at the convention will be internationally recognized Dr. Lillian Gilbreth. Mrs. Gilbreth holds doctors degrees in psychology and engineering and a masters degree in literature. She specializes in time and motion study, work simplification, and methods of working efficiently. This semester, Dr. Gilbreth is the Knapp Lecturer at the College of Engineering at the University of Wisconsin. She is also the mother of the children of Cheaper By the Dozen. Dr. Gilbreth's address is entitled, "Efficient Use of Human Resources."

Catherine Dennis, president of AHEA, will speak on "Your Influence Is Showing." Miss Dennis is chief supervisor of homemaking for adult and vocational education in North Carolina. This is one of the meetings at which Miss Dennis will speak before she presides at the convention of the National Home Economics Convention in Minneapolis this June.

The third guest speaker is Miss Mercedes Hurst. Miss Hurst is in the public relations department for International Harvester. She is speaking at the convention on "The Lady Gets What She Wants."

The Stout Institute Home Economics Club hopes to have a good representation at this convention. They encouraged the girls to have the advantage of hearing the guest speakers.

PLANNING FOR OPEN HOUSE

"Where did you get that hat?" ask Marjorie Newman (left) and Barbara Ligman (right) of Della Medin as the three coeds choose hats for use in the style revue which will highlight Stout's open houses on April 1. Over 1,200 high school girls and their teachers are expected on campus that day. A special evening performance is designed for adults in the community.

STUDENTS WILL GO TO U.N. CONFERENCE

Nine students will travel to the University of Wisconsin this weekend to act as delegates to the Ninth Student United Nations Conference held there March 25, 26, and 27. These students are sponsored by the Stout Student Association which pays part of their expenses. Dean Price will accompany the group to Madison.

Several of the students will represent Lebanon at the conference while the remaining members will act as delegates from Denmark.

The keynote address will be delivered by William Jordan, a member of the Department of Political and Security Council Affairs at the U. N., on Friday evening. Council meetings will be held on Saturday with a General Assembly that evening. There will also be two General Assembly sessions on Sunday.

Those attending the conference from The Stout Institute are Pat Jenson, Barbara Ness, John Smith, Judy Day, Sally Nash, Carole Tickler, Shirley Lundeen, Mary Buol, and Joyce Fraedrich.

SSS ITINERARY NOW NEARS COMPLETION

Plans for the Stout Symphonic Singers spring tour which will take them to Miami, Florida, where they will present a concert for the National Federation of Musicians are nearing completion. The group of 100 students will leave Menomonie on April 9th at 7:30 A. M. They will travel 360 miles their first day to St. Charles, Illinois, where they will present their commencing concert Saturday evening. After attending Easter Sunday services in St. Charles, the group will travel to Thornton where their second concert is scheduled.

Monday, the 11th, Arlington Heights, and Beecher, Illinois, will be hosts to SSS. On Tuesday and Wednesday, concerts will be presented in Danville and Covington, Indiana, and Georgetown, Ohio.

Friday the group expects to see the Florida sun as they continue concertizing enroute to their destination, Miami. Thursday, April 21, a round trip to Key West has been planned for the group. Friday morning the Symphonic Singers will present their final concert for the National Federation of Musicians in Miami.

A complete itinerary is soon to be posted on the bulletin board and copies will be available for members.

Private homes, hotels, and motels will accommodate the 100 students during their tour this year as they travel many miles hoping to experience a variety of new landscapes, to acquire their early suntan, and to leave their impression with their neighbors southward.

OPEN HOUSE PLANS ARE IN FULL SWING

With over 1200 high school junior and senior girls expected for a full day of style revues, demonstrations, and campus tours, the Division of Home Economics of The Stout Institute will hold its biennial open house on the college campus Friday, April 1.

Invitations have been sent to all high schools within a 125 mile radius which operate departments of home economics. In addition, invitations have been received by home economics teachers, directors of city vocational schools, members of the state department of education, home economics coordinators, F.H.A. presidents, and home agents within the 125 mile radius, and other persons who have expressed interest.

All women in the area, and interested men, too, are invited Friday evening at 7 P. M. to view open house exhibits and at 8 P. M. to attend the final performance of the style revue. Students and faculty members of Menomonie high school will also attend the evening activities.

Theme of this year's open house is "Let's Look Ahead." Visitors will glimpse the breadth of a modern four year college program in home economics. In addition, they will become familiar with the great range of opportunities available to home economics graduates, especially in view of the acute shortage of trained persons now available to that field.

Beginning at 9 A. M. the morning of April 1, the 1200 visitors will begin guided tours of the college buildings and grounds, observe exhibits and demonstrations in Stout's ultra-modern laboratories and kitchens, and enjoy the style revue in which Stout Institute coeds will model a complete college wardrobe which they designed and created in clothing laboratories at the college.

The first 600 visitors making reservations in the college cafeteria will be able to purchase a special open house luncheon. The college union and local restaurants will be available to the remainder of the group.

PHI SIGS PLAN TOURNAMENT

This weekend the Phi Sigs will hold the Phi Sig basketball tournament here at Stout. Phi Sig chapters from Eau Claire, Stevens Point, White-water, Milwaukee, and DeKalb, Ill. are expected.

The games will be played on Saturday morning, with the championship game, Saturday evening in the Bowman Hall gym. Stevens Point is the defending champion, but all of the chapters boast of strong teams.

A party will be held on Saturday night for all of the teams. The weekend will be climaxed with a breakfast at the Anchor Cafe. The presentation of trophies will also be held then.

C.C.U.N. OFFICER MEETS STUDENTS & BACKS U.N.

A number of college students met with Nancy Couture, National Vice Chairman of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations, after the district American Association of the United Nations luncheon held at the Trinity Methodist Church in Menomonie at 12:15 on March 19, 1955, to learn more about the Collegiate Council of United Nations.

The CCUN is a national student organization which was formed to arouse college students to an understanding of their stake in the United Nations and to stimulate them to do something to the UN to succeed.

Miss Couture, who is attending Teacher's College of Connecticut, New Britain, Connecticut, explained how the Collegiate Council is the college affiliation of the American Association for the United Nations. It is the American member of the International Student Movement for the U.N. It is an accredited Non-Governmental organization with an observer at the UN.

How the Collegiate Council is represented in the World Federation of United Nations Associations was also explained by Miss Couture. It is a member of the Young Adult Council, coordinating council for the fifteen major U. S. youth organizations, and a such is a part of the World Assembly of Youth. CCUN representatives help to shape the policy of all these organizations.

Interested college students from Wisconsin State Teachers College at Eau Claire, The Stout Institute, and Luther College, Decorah, Iowa, who heard Miss Couture speak were Lois Morrell, Eau Claire; Patricia Jensen, Barbara Ness, Carole Tickler, Jean Madaus, Sally Nash, Shirley Lundeen, and Betty Fraley, Menomonie; and Alice Peterson, Decorah, Iowa.

The luncheon was also attended by members of the Eau Claire, Chippewa Falls, and Menomonie chapters of the Wisconsin United Nations Associations.

A JUNIOR SPEAKS

Three years ago we came to Stout as freshmen. The very first project that the school gave us to do was build a bonfire for homecoming. We did a good job. We had school spirit and the little German Band to add even more spirit.

At the end of our freshman year some of us joined fraternities, sororities, and some stayed independent. We all went our own ways, but next year at this time we'll be coming together again to graduate. What has our class done? What have we seen pass? Will we be proud to look back at what has been done during our four years here at Stout? If we aren't proud of our record, there is still one year to improve it. Next Wednesday, all the classes will be meeting to elect members to the student governing board. These representatives to the governing board are our voice in school affairs. When you vote for a representative, will that person be a leader and worker in school affairs or just someone that will sit back and watch time pass? Don't you sit back and complain, vote in representatives you will be proud of.

ORGANIZATION NEWS

On March 17, 1955, Jeatran's Supper Club was the scene of Sigma Tau Gamma's biannual initiation banquet. A delicious meal of fried chicken and all the trimmings was promptly served at 7:15. After eating, the thirty-seven men of Sigma Tau Gamma were enlightened by several after dinner speeches. The banquet was brought to a close by a skit put on by the new members.

What is the Christian's attitude towards sickness? Why don't you come to L.S.A. Sunday evening, March 27, 1955, at Peace Lutheran Church beginning at 5:30 P. M. and find out. Manfred Meitzen, intern at Peace Lutheran will lead the group discussion.

TOWER STAFF MEETS FINAL DEADLINE

Typewriters clicking, scissors snipping, and rustling papers have been familiar sounds coming from the Tower office for the last week. Members of the yearbook staff have been busy preparing the last details to meet the final deadline, April 1st. The staff is hoping to have the Tower here for distribution in the middle of May or earlier.

The Stout Snooper

Ah, yes, spring is finally here, arriving early Monday morning about 3:36 A. M. But despite the northward progress of the sun, the new season has been recognized sooner by plants than by man. For even though it's spring, I noticed several men still zipping up that jacket and some girls still wearing those warm storm coats to shield away the cold March winds and snowstorms!

A recent survey of the "blues" shows that March and the coming of spring signifies the beginning of the end of those winter "blues" and the beginning of the climb toward the "on the top of the world" feeling, which reaches its peak in June (the reason why the end of school, of course.)

Montaigne, a French philosopher living four centuries ago, remarked that "The plainest sign of wisdom is a continual cheerfulness." So be wise and be cheerful, forget all of the tests that the Stout teachers are piling on. One Lynwooder is already in practice for he put a sign on his dorm door reading, "If I'm studying when you enter, wake me up!"

Yes, now is the time of year to plan picnics, too. I remember two girls talking over the "situation" at the 1954 freshman picnic at Riverside park. "He seems rather dull and uninteresting until you get to know him. After that he's downright boring!"

Yes, picnics in the spring are better than going to a 3-D movie, for the movie will probably give you a colossal, sensational, stupendous, terrific, breath-taking headache.

Of course spring signifies the time of year for love, and lucky for you, girls, it's the time of year when the fancy of the 420 men at Stout turn to what you 379 girls have been thinking of all year. Last year at this time I heard an Eichelberger girl reply, "But, I can't elope with you tomorrow; I've already got two cuts."

But of course, don't "fall head-over-heels" and be like some Stout students who think that curbing their emotions means parking by the roadside in Wakanda.

Now, too, the days are growing longer and there is less need for the daylight saving idea which comes from an old Indian who cut off one end of his blanket and sewed it on the other to make it longer. But more sunlight means more vitamin D and so soon the girls will be wearing summer clothing (some are attractive in shorts, but that does not go for the bulk of them.)

Spring at Stout also brings elections in most of the organizations, SSA, frats, sororities, the Home Ec. Club, etc., and these new officers take over the leadership of the campus clubs at the nine weeks. Those of you newly elected and the remaining 750 Stouters should remember to be wise is to be cheerful and spring is the best time of the year to be happy.

And in your human relations the year around remember, the five most important words are: I am proud of you; four most important, What is your opinion? three most important, If you please; two most important, Thank you; and the least important, I.

PHI SIGMA EPSILON HOLDS INITIATION

After the meeting the members started plans for Stunt Night and many other spring activities.

RUEHL FAMILY RECEIVES STATE RECOGNITION

A Stout Institute faculty family is receiving state-wide recognition for its contributions to family living and will be one of the features of Governor Kohler's fourth Governor's Conference on Children and Youth April 14-15 in Madison.

Appearing before 1600 delegates to the conference will be Mr. and Mrs. Philip W. Ruehl with their four youngsters, Jerry, Judy, Jimmy, and Billy. They will demonstrate on the evening of April 14, a number of singing games and dancing mixers which any American family can enjoy.

The Ruehls' demonstration at the University Memorial Theatre will fit into the theme of the Governor's Conference, "Building Family Strength in a Changing World." With the ladies of the Ruehl family dressed in colorful cottons and the males in bright shirts and jeans, they will exhibit a type of enjoyable family entertainment which requires minimum expense and effort.

Following a short explanation of the procedure to be followed, the family will present singing games requiring no accompaniment and also games and dances appropriate for use with a phonograph. Stress will be placed upon the fact that no elaborate equipment, costumes, or preparation is needed for family-type entertainment.

The Ruehls will leave Menomonie on Wednesday and will devote Thursday morning to meeting various officials affiliated with the Governor's Conference. Greetings that evening will be extended to the audience by Governor Kohler and Wakelin McNeal, radio's famous Ranger Mac, will also speak. Mrs. Otto L. Falk, Madison, is making the arrangements for conference programs.

Mr. Ruehl is an assistant professor of education at The Stout Institute, specializing in electricity and electronics. Square dancing has long been a hobby of the Ruehl family, including the youngsters who range in age from 11 years to 3 1/2 year old Billy.

Mrs. Ruehl has taught folk and square dancing at the St. Croix Valley Girl Scout camp and to grade school groups in Menomonie. She was a former faculty member at Stout.

The Ruehls have given active assistance to youth groups at a number of Menomonie churches and often teach square dancing or do the "calling" for student organizations at Stout. For the last five years they have led a Menomonie square dance group at the St. Paul winter carnival.

10 SCHOOLS ATTEND ECUMENICAL MEET

"Evanston Challenges You" was the theme for the Fifth Wisconsin Ecumenical Convention which was held March 11, 12, and 13, 1955. The convention was held at The Stout Institute, Menomonie, Wisconsin.

Ecumenical means world-wide in extent and influence, general, representing a united group.

Eighty people registered for the conference. Twenty-eight of these registrants were from Stout. Students attended from Eau Claire, River Falls, Platteville, the University of Wisconsin, La Crosse, Oshkosh, Beloit, Whitewater, and Stout. These people had their meals in the cafeteria.

Friday night there was a coffee hour at the Congo Church. Barbara Ness led the recreation. Cake and coffee were donated by the ladies of the local churches.

Saturday evening there was square dancing at the Methodist church, led by the Phil Ruehl's. This was followed by an inspiring worship service.

DO YOU KNOW OF ANY PROSPECTIVE STUDENTS?

Procedure for Enrollment and Scholarship Selection Explained for Alumni

All alumni are again urged to submit to Stout the names of prospective students and scholarship candidates. Blanks for this purpose will be found on the Alumni page of the Stoutonia each week of the spring quarter.

The names submitted by alumni will be given to the faculty scholarship committee for consideration. They will send the prospective students an introductory letter and an admission blank to obtain the necessary data about the student. The introductory letter will inform the student that he has been recommended as a candidate for college, and will urge them to apply for admission. This must be done before the student can be considered for a scholarship.

Each alumnus is in an excellent position to guide qualified students in their choice of a college. Literature about The Stout Institute will be sent on request to help in the job of orienting students and parents with the kind of educational opportunities available at Stout. Special articles each week in the Stoutonia will aid alumni in their guidance work.

Alumni should also follow up their recommendations, and give the student any help needed to fill out the necessary admission papers.

The final selection of scholarship winners will be handled by the faculty scholarship committee. Alumni funds, however, will be used only for scholarship candidates recommended by The Stout Institute alumni. In this way the Alumni scholarships will be more closely coordinated with the overall scholarship plan of the college.

ZWICK MC'S
FOB STUNT
NIGHT TO A "T"

The F. O. B. fraternity scored a smash hit with their annual stunt night, last Saturday evening, March 19. The Hyperians walked off with the first place (and $15.00) for their unique and clever skit entitled "Open The Book to Wonderland." It was evident that much hard work had gone into the beautiful costumes and presentation of the skit. The Pallas Athenes presented another bell-ringer and took home second place honors. The many and varied hats worn in the "Ship Shape Chapeau Shoppe" reminded us that Easter is just around the corner. Third place honors went to the Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity for their skit, "Herbert A. Philbricklund and the Case of the Missing Spirit," which brought many laughs.

Leroy Zwick very capably handled the M.C. duties and told a few jokes (????) in addition to performing some of his pantomime specialties. Basil Holder and Ron Strayer also performed between skits and the response to their renditions was terrific. Let's have more of this duet!

The show was also livened up by the "slapstick comedy" of the new F.O.B. members. Comments about the annual affair were all favorable and a fun-filled evening was had by all who attended and participated.

Other organizations that participated on the evenings program were: the Delta Kappa fraternity, Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority, Lynwood Hall, Tainter Annex, Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority, Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity, Eichelberger Hall, and Tainter Hall.

DORM NEWS

All three of the girl's dorms were active at Stunt Night last weekend.

The Annex presented a dance routine in 1920 costumes. Dancers were: Julia Munich, Joan McLaughlin, Ellen Paetsch, Marlene Dowdle, Joan Wonski, Barbara Ligman, Fern Mathey, Ann Janda, Kay Ritzman, Gloria Scholz, Rosemary Klaus, and Sheila Morris. Joan Scheevel played the piano and Lois Labus and Mary Brackett worked on scenery. The dance routine was written by Pat Sullivan and Fern Mathey.

Eichelberger presented a modern version of Cinderella portrayed by Beverly Duerkop, Janice Kowalczyk, Marjorie Werner, Carol Becker, Shirley Junge, Teaa Schroeder, Sally Beideman, Mary Smith, and Ruth Hangerter.

Little Red Riding Hood was the presentation by Tainter Hall. Pat Drummond and Diane Fisher were the characters with Mary Rezek, Alice Yamamoto, Diane Bournoville, Audrey Adams, Marvin Nelson, and Lenora Ginsbach playing the trees.

The person who gave one of the counselor's beds the once-over the other night had better sit tight. Finger prints have been taken, and they are now being compared with those of Lynwood residents.

The fellows who didn't participate in the Lynwood skit last weekend wish to thank those who worked on it and did such a swell job of representing the dorm.

High scorers for the losers were Nat Wick, scoring 8 points, and Flora Spinti, with 9.

The consolation award went to Eichelberger Hall as they outscored the Hyperian sorority 12-8. Pauline Rosenstiel and Teaa Schroeder were high scorers for Eich.

The basketball season proved to be very successful. Shirley Bournoville, manager, and her staff are to be complimented on the fine job. Jean Madaus and Jean Lemkuil served as scorekeepers, and Neva Halphide acted as referee.

PRESIDENT FRYKLUND WELCOMES VISITORS

HELLO, VISITORS...

The doors of The Stout Institute are open wide today to welcome the many young ladies and their instructors who are attending our Open House. We want you to feel at home here and to enjoy this day to the very fullest.

Your visit with us will be packed with tours of our campus buildings, visits to laboratories and classrooms, and opportunities to observe demonstrations and exhibits in home economics, physical education, and general education.

But even in the midst of such colorful events as today's style revue, we hope that you will take time to meet members of our excellent faculty and to evaluate carefully the many advantages of a Stout Institute education.

Yes, Open House is a time for new acquaintanceships, new experiences, and new insight into the meaning of college. It is our sincere hope that you will gain useful knowledge during your visit with us and enjoy a most pleasant day.

Verne C. Fryklund
President
The Stout Institute

SENIORS ACCEPTING PLACEMENT POSITIONS

Placement opportunities for The Stout Institute seniors continue to be at an exceptionally high level. A number of home economics and industrial education graduates have already accepted positions for the coming year.

By March 1, the Placement Chairman of the college had received over 200 calls for home economics teachers. Many school officials came to Stout as early as February to interview senior girls for positions.

Again this year the Placement Chairman has discovered that location of a school or city is an important consideration in a woman graduate's decision to accept a particular offer. Because many Stout coeds come from eastern Wisconsin, a high ratio of graduates are interested in jobs situated in eastern and southern Wisconsin.

Other senior girls show a special desire for placement in western Wisconsin, especially in the area adjacent to Menomonie, and in southern Minnesota, or northern Illinois.

Recent placements of home economics seniors who will graduate in June include Nyla Bock, extension agent at Appleton; Joeline Chryst, teaching at Escanaba, Michigan; Florence Dessart, teaching in Suring; Donna Harvey, teaching in Milwaukee; Ann Switzenberg, teaching at Luck; and Carole Tickler, teaching at Kaukauna. Mabel Sorida, home economics graduate in January, is now teaching

SORORITIES SET SOCIAL EVENTS FOR MOTHERS

Many mothers will have another reason, besides the Mother-Daughter banquet, to be in Menomonie on Saturday, April 2, 1955. All of the sororities on campus are putting forth their best social efforts to welcome their mothers into their circle of friends.

The Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority will have a Mother-Patroness ceremony at 11:00 in honor of their mothers and patronesses. A lunch at 12:00 will be provided by the sorority members in the tea room.

Easter egg cakes will bedeck the table at the tea sponsored by the Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority. This tea will be in honor of the mothers of the Sigma sisters at the home of Mrs. Vanek. Rita Pauls is the general chairman of this affair.

Candle-light, decorations, and a genuine "tea" atmosphere will prevail at the Memorial room of the Congregational Church where the Hyperion sorority will entertain their mothers. This tea will be held from 3:00 until 5:00 in the afternoon with Jo Stegeman in charge of arrangements.

"Mothers in P.A. Land" is the theme of the tea sponsored by the Pallas Athene sorority. This tea will be held in Harvey Hall Saturday afternoon with Lyn Bessler as chairman of the tea.

GREETINGS!

A cordial welcome to our 1500 guests who are helping to celebrate our fourth big Open House. During the past few weeks your letters with the news that you were coming have been arriving from far and near, all the way from the northern tip of Wisconsin to communities down state. Our count shows over seventy-five towns and cities are represented today. We hope that you will enjoy the day with us. We want you to meet our faculty, to see our laboratories and buildings, and we would like you to realize too that it is fun to go to college and that there are fascinating activities all along the way. Whether you hope to be a homemaker, a teacher, a home advisor, a dietitian, or a home economist in business, The Stout Institute has a worthwhile program available to prepare you for your chosen profession.

The Stout Institute has a national reputation because of its fine offerings in the field of Home Economics and because of the enviable record of its graduates. It has enjoyed this reputation for more than half a century. Our college specializes in Home Economics Education because we believe it provides professional security and does much to assure happiness from a personal point of view. Home economists are in great demand in hospitals, in teaching, in the field of fashion, and in business. In the homes throughout the country, home economists find their education ready to serve them always.

We are proud and happy to have you as our guests today, and we hope that many of you will join our ranks as freshman at The Stout Institute next year.

Sincerely yours,
Alice J. Kirk, Dean
Division of Home Economics

NEW GIRLS' DORMITORY TO BE ADDED TO CAMPUS

Visitors, you won't see it wherever you go on the Stout campus today! No, you can look everywhere but you won't see it—yet!

What is this wonderful and mysterious thing? Why, it's the new residence hall for 134 freshman girls attending Stout. Bids have been let on the beautiful lakeshore structure and construction will start this very spring.

Upon completion of the new residence hall, Stout's two wooden dorms, Tainter Hall and Tainter Annex, will be removed. Replacing them will be a sparkling new building with food service, tea room, lounges and lovely room accommodations for 134 coeds.

In addition to the modern residence accommodations, food service facilities of the residence hall will provide the very latest in equipment and arrangement to achieve maximum development of the institution management major of which the college is so proud.

From the street side, three floors of the new structure will be visible. Each of these three floors will contain 20 to 28 double rooms, one single room per floor, a lounge, an ironing room, and a small kitchen unit for evening snacks.

However, because the dorm will be situated on the edge of Lake Menomonie, whose level is soon to be raised ten feet, it is that exposure which is particularly unique. Four floors will overlook the lake, permitting extensive uses of panoramic picture windows.

The first level on the lake exposure will contain a 52 by 50 lounge, a cafeteria line, and a dining room capable of seating 250 persons. Also on that level will be a beautiful tea room, to be operated by coeds enrolled in Stout's institutional management curriculum.

Laundry facilities for use by the girls, and a large ironing center will also be included on that level. A new heating plant will serve the residence hall.

Double rooms in the residence hall will be 14 by 11 feet and will contain two beds, two dressers, a table and a large built-in closet. A single room will be available on each floor in event of illness among the occupants. The dormitory director will have a private apartment and a guest room will also be provided.

So, visitors, when you're inspecting the residence facilities of our college, don't forget that the building with the "bestest and the mostest" is as yet invisible. But that new residence hall is ready to go, and construction will start anytime now.

EDITORS ARE CHOSEN FOR 1955-56 STAFF

Jean Schwertel Is Editor;

Betty Lein To Serve As Associate Editor

Two girls have been chosen to head the editorial staff of The Stoutonia for the year 1955-56: Jean Schwertel, a sophomore from Arcadia, Wisconsin

EDITOR

Jean Schwertel

will take over the editor's helm, while Betty Lein, a freshman from Fort Atkinson, will serve as Associate.

Jean is not new in the newspaper field as she served as editor of her high school paper, The Beacon, at Arcadia High School and as Associate Editor of The Stoutonia during the past year.

The new Associate Editor has also had her newspaper initiation as she served as a reporter and feature writer on The Stoutonia this past year and as associate editor of her high school paper, The Cardinal Capers at Fort Atkinson.

A new editorial staff is chosen annually to give interested students a chance to further their journalistic interests. Jean and Betty have already taken over their duties and will edit the paper during the coming year.

ASSOCIATE EDITOR

Betty Lein

Retiring as editor of the Stoutonia is Gordon Maves, junior from Menomonie, Wisconsin. Gordon has served as a reporter during his freshman year, and served as associate editor when he was a sophomore.

The new business manager is Ray Johnson. He will take over the duties of John Posewitz, former business manager.

STYLE SHOW IS FEATURE OF OPEN HOUSE

Today 1500 high school girls and their teachers from a 125 mile radius of Menomonie are arriving on the campus of The Stout Institute to attend the biennial open house of the Division of Home Economics of the college.

This evening, all adults of this area are invited to examine open house exhibits in Harvey Hall at 7 P.M. and to attend the open house style revue at 8 P.M. Girls and faculty members of Menomonie high school are also invited to the free evening activities.

The 1500 visitors are enjoying guided tours of campus buildings and grounds, observing exhibits and demonstrations in both home economics and general education, and attending a style revue—the highlight of the day.

In tune with the open house theme, "Let's Look Ahead," visitors will look into the opportunities offered by a career in home economics. They will see the breadth of a modern four year college program which trains a home economist and become familiar with job opportunities available in the acute shortage area of home economics.

In addition to depicting the training and career of a home economist, the open house will also stress the cultural, academic and general education emphasis of education at The Stout Institute.

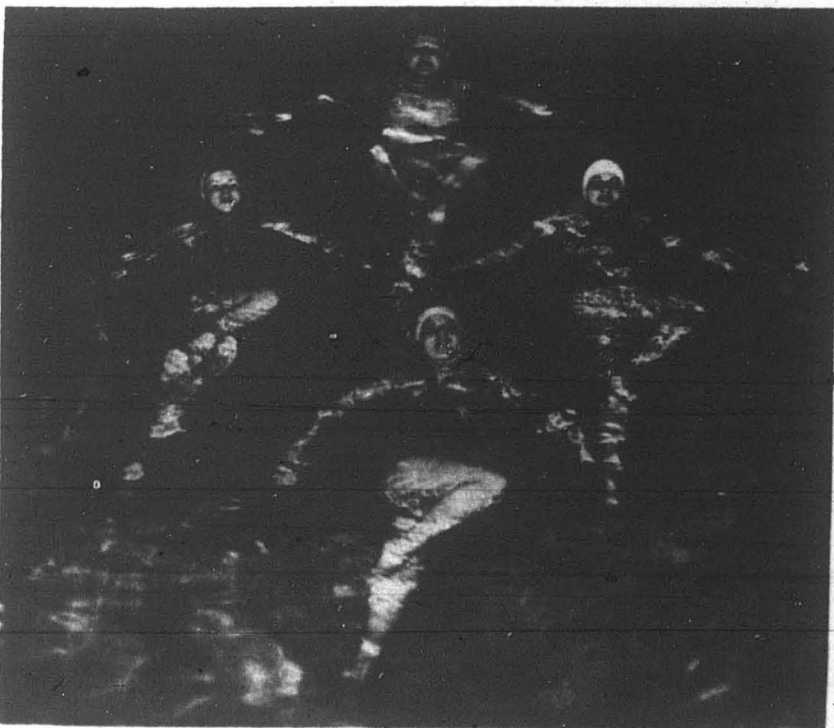

Modeling for the style show will be coeds of the college. All wardrobe styles have been designed and created in the clothing construction laboratories of The Stout Institute.

PLANNING FOR OPEN HOUSE

All ready with decorations for today's open house are three Stout Institute coeds. Mary Gargulak, Rice Lake; Judith Goebing, Menomonie; and Rose Ann Herlick, Green Bay. The girls are examining a modernistic painting which will be seen by many of the 1500 visitors attending today's event.

SYNCHRONIZED SHOW

"Over The Rainbow", presented by Synchronized Swimmers, will feature a complete variety show in sparkling water! Above are four of the performers practicing their routine in preparation for the show on April 4 and 5.

TO PRESENT SYNCHRONIZED WATER SHOW

Rhythm and grace, beauty and design make up the Synchronized Swimmers. This show is great, it's colossal, it's stupendous. Don't miss it!

"Over the Rainbow" is the theme of the Second Annual Synchronized Swimming Show. Numbers will represent different colors of the color wheel, and special lighting effects will carry the theme out.

The first performance will be given Saturday, April 2, and this show is reserved for girls and their mothers who will attend the Mother-Daughter banquet. The show will start after the banquet ends, so there is no worry about time.

Monday, April 4, and Tuesday, April 5, the show will be produced for

ORGANIZATION NEWS

Epsilon Pi Tau will sponsor a program on April 4. The speaker will be John A. Jarvis, whose topic will be "The Numbers Racket."

The program will take place in the audio-visual room, new library, and will begin at 8:00 p. m. Everyone is invited.

The Stout Institute was represented at the tenth annual spring meeting of the Wisconsin Home Economics Association by 14 members of the local Home Economics Club and faculty members.

This meeting was held March 25 and 26 on the University of Wisconsin campus.

Officer Candidate School was held last weekend for all in-coming officers and for the members of Tri Sigma. Mrs. Sessler, a national officer of Sigma Sigma Sigma, was on campus for this training period.

A tea was held on Sunday afternoon for Mrs. Sessler, for the patronesses of the sorority and for the advisors of all the sororities at Stout.

This Saturday, April 2, a tea will be held for the mothers of Tri Sigma members at the home of Mrs. Vanek. The patronesses are also invited to attend.

Gay, perky spring colors will be shown on the enameled earrings to again be sold by the Pallas Athene sorority. These earrings made by the sorority will be on sale Tuesday and Wednesday, April 5th and 6th, at the P. A.'s annual Easter sale. So, if a dash of fresh color and design is needed to complete a new spring outfit, be sure and stop by the enameled earrings to be sold at the Easter sale next week. Stop early. They go fast!

One Was "Borneo," was the title of a very interesting talk that was given to the Conco Club on Sunday, March 27, by Mrs. Nels Iverson. She told of the adjustment problems and of the joys of raising a family of seven children, one who was "borneo" and six who were foster children. Sunday April 3, two movies will be shown.

Gamma Delta, the Lutheran fraternity on campus, is presently working on the workshop which will be held on the Stout Institute campus on May 7 and 8. Students from five colleges are expected at this time.

Chairmen of the various committees are Gordon Maves, general chairman; correspondence and publicity, Julie Knapp; discussion leader, Betty Lehn; food, Joan Wonsoki; vespers, Nancy Gabert; speakers, Dorothy Dieter and Ruth Ziegler; tour of campus, Don W. ; entertainment, Jermaine Folkman; and shelter and transportation, Jim Price.

The tentative program includes group discussion on chapter problems, entertainment, a tour of our campus, speakers, a vesper service, and a picnic.

Meetings of the chapter are held the first and third Sunday of each month. A vesper service, cost supper, business meeting, discussion, and recreation make up the bimonthly program. Two parties held this year were a sleigh ride and a skating party.

The next meeting will be held at St. Paul's Church at 5:00 P. M. on April 3.

The Home Ec. Club finished "The House Around Us" series of programs Monday night with Mr. Ruehl speaking to the club on "Electricity — The Spark of the Home."

Mr. Ruehl acquainted the girls with two most important factors of electricity in the home: 1) Overfusing the circuit of the home, and 2) The importance of grounding. Mr. Ruehl is an electrical instructor on campus.

Reports of Province 7 were given by Lois Jessen, Ardis Carr, and Faye Nelson. Ardis is the new president of Province 7.

Jermaine Folkman and Betty Lein reported on W. H. E. A. Next year, W.H.E.A. will be at Wisconsin Delta. The girls urged more members to attend.

The new Home Ec club stationery is now on sale. This stationery is printed with the national seal.

The meeting closed with the candle light installation of officers. Nyla Bock, retiring treasurer, officiated at the ceremony. Those taking the pledge of office were President Doris Hutchinson, President-elect Lois Jessen, Vice-president Nathalie Wick, Secretary Faye Nelson, and Treasurer, Della Medin.

On Friday, March 25, nine students from Stout traveled to Madison to attend the Ninth Student United Nations Conference. The conference was opened on Friday evening with the keynote address given by Dr. William Jordan, a member of the Department of Political and Security Council Affairs at the UN. A reception for speaker and students followed this address.

On Saturday delegates attended Council meetings and a General Assembly. A costume ball was held that evening as the major social affair of the conference.

The conference was concluded Sunday with two General Assembly meetings.

A regular meeting of the Newman Club will be held Sunday, April 3, following communion in a body at the 9:30 Mass. A committee of fellows, Larry Brunk, Leo Pleva, Harry Krysiak, and Frank Trafford, will prepare and serve the breakfast for this meeting. As there will be important business to discuss, President Bob Tennessen urges all members to attend.

If you haven't gotten your Stout decals, you had better get them today! Today is the last day of our special sale — this week only. The decals are only $.20 each. They are just the thing to put on your luggage, or stick to your notebook. Rifle Club is the only organization which sells them so get yours now!

Next Wednesday our club has its first match. We are shooting 3 standard positions (off hand, kneeling, prone) against California College of Penn.

The past few weeks have found the YWCA busily making plans for the club's annual Mother-Daughter Banquet which will be held at Peace Lutheran Church, Saturday evening, April 2. The banquet begins at 5:30 P.M.

Various meetings have been held at the Annex recently during which "Y" members prepared posters and programs with the theme "Spring Bonnet" in mind. Between two and three hundred guests are expected for this important annual event. Tickets are $1.75 per person or $3.25 per couple.

The program includes: Guest speaker, Dr. Agnew; skit by Phi Upsilon Omicron; prayer, Miss McCalmont; Toast to Mother, Barbara Ray; Toast to Daughter, Mrs. Ray; Toast Mistress, Barbara Austin (new Y.W.C.A. president).

Committee chairmen are as follows: arrangements, Barb Ray; programs, Barb Austin; decorations, Jeanne Crichton and Jo Camp; tours, Joanne Crichton; and tickets, Marge Newman.

Next year's officers have been elected and will be installed in the near future. Next year's programs will be planned at Retreat on April 23. Plans are also being made for an officer's training meeting.

The Stout Snooper

Wow, but that crowd of 1500 high school junior and senior students and their teachers really swooped upon the school this morning. Have you dug yourself out by now? There was so much flurry and excitement that I got myself all smeared and beaded. I got dizzy from trying to be snooping at all points of interest at the same time. While snooping, I let myself get pushed around and commented, "A person needs bumpers to get around in here." I was immediately answered by a visitor near by who said, "Don't worry, Snooper, you sure have got'em!" After this incident, I took to my polished wings and used my telescope eyes to survey the bi-annual Open House!

First, I screwed up my eyes and ears to learn what worried the visitors the most — the hectic pace, tours, finances, or time. The biggest worry turned out to be, "Where can my teacher park her car?" Yes, even the town of Menomonie is aware that an unswarm of visitors from a 125 mile radius is visiting The Stout Institute, today, April 1. The halls are also filled, jam-packed with a steady hum of interested young people inspecting the Harvey Hall which may be their future college home.

The Dean of Home Economics office sent out letters to all home ec. teachers, F. H. A. advisors, principals, etc. in this section of Wisconsin. Being responsible for the general publicity of this great open house, they had pictures taken of Stout girls from various sections and these pictures appeared in respective sectional newspapers. (Did you notice that the doors were remodeled in time for this April 1 occasion?)

The purpose of Stout's Open House with its theme, "Look Ahead to Your Future" is to give high school students an idea of some of the things that they will be doing when and if they attend Stout. (Yes, this day was planned for you; hope you visitors are reading this column.)

Touring throughout the building on my own this morning, I was pleased to see the Stout girls decked in appropriate apparel and with their best personality guiding the visitors who someday may be their fellow classmates, giving demonstrations, or explaining exhibits.

Then I remembered all the things that I snooped upon during the weeks of busy preparation — the cleaning of rooms; choosing exhibits; the Art Dept. becoming a service dept., helping make the signs and posters for explanation, and/or publicity; the "airing" of the traditional dolls which depict something characteristic of each room; the many practices held for the style revue; the committees busy on scenery, props, etc.; all teachers planning their room's display; the students rushing pell-mell to volunteer their services as hostesses; typists sending out correspondence, etc. In fact it was just like a great big housecleaning with everyone on campus dressing up the Harvey Hall in a best dress for a festive occasion.

Well, I certainly hope that you, visitors, present Stout students, faculty, and other college staff members really continue to enjoy April 1. So far, I've noticed that everyone has been impressed the high school visitors by the college and the college by the appearance (from high heels to saddle shoes) conduct and interest of these high schoolers. After it's all over tonight I can just hear some faculty members wanting to make a comment like one bride after her church wedding, "Wow, such excitement; but next time I'm going to have a quiet wedding at home!"

And I'm happy to report that if you visitors choose to attend Stout soon, you will become even a more successful teacher than the one who makes no mistakes that can't either have mushroom soup poured over or slip covered! I, the Snooper, do wish that tomorrow, next fall or in 1956, I will be able to include you in my range of snooping for you impressed me as being a good target for more Stout snooping. So-long until then, visitors; I've enjoyed snooping among you today and remember, I'll be snooping.

PHI U TO PRESENT BON VOYAGE TEA

Are you tired of winter? Why don't you come and enjoy the tropical atmosphere of the Bon Voyage Tea on April 6, between 3:30 and 5:30? The Phi U Fraternity is giving a send off to those students going to sunny lands, and a preview of spring for those spending the Easter vacation at home. Tropical leaves and fruit will serve as gay decorations while you relax with a glass of cool green punch and music from around the world.

Helping Ardis Carr and Vi Wicken as general chairmen are: Irene Novinski, decorations; Pat Jensen, publicity; Doris Hutchinson, food; Barb Ray, music; and Virginia Lathrop, flowers.

DORM NEWS

Mrs. Adams was pleasantly surprised by the Annex girls on her birthday, March 22. Miss Duncan and Mrs. Simms were guests for the occasion.

Refreshments were served, gifts were opened, and songs were sung, making a simple and effective demonstration of the girls' appreciation to their housemother.

The dining room at Tainter Hall was the scene of much activity last Friday night when the girls at the dorm gave a party for the boys from Lynwood Hall.

The decorations cleverly carried out the theme "Hernando's Hide-away." There was a "bar" at one end of the room where pop and brown derby sundaes were served. The middle of the floor was reserved for dancing, while tables covered with red and white checked table cloths were arranged in a semi-circle offering much "chatting" over the candle light.

The party came to an end at 12 P.M. with the boys helping to rearrange the dining hall and wash the dishes. Everyone had a good time.

SORORITIES REPORT ON YEAR OF '54-'55

ALPHA SIGMA ALPHA

Alpha Sigma Alpha has been a national sorority for the past three years. It was a local sorority for several years before. The goals of the sorority are to attain high scholastic standards, to participate in all school activities, and to carry out a well-organized social program.

Alpha Sigma Alpha opened the school year by taking in nine new members. These pledges gave a tea for the pledges of the other three sororities on campus. This was in conjunction with a visit from one of the national officers.

Homecoming was a very busy, but successful event for Alpha Sigma Alpha. One of the pledges submitted the winning theme, the queen and football princess were active members, and their float received the prize for the most beautiful. The girls also held their annual sale of Homecoming mums.

During the all-school Winter Carnival, the group entered the snow-carving contest, the tug-of-war, and other activities. Their entry, an ice-carved castle, won first prize.

Sadie Hawkins Week is a big social event for this sorority. They sponsor a candy sale, entertain at a Valentine Tea for the entire school, and climax this week of fun with an all-school dance.

Recently, as a group, they won the girls' basketball championship in the W.R.A. tournament and, individually, one of the members was elected secretary of the Stout Student Association.

There are still a great many large projects to be completed before the year is finished. All the members agree that it was an enjoyable, educational, and fun-filled year.

HYPERIAN

The Hyperian Sorority, thirty-five active girls and their adviser, Miss Clara Carrison, work together as a group on worthwhile activities throughout the school year.

In the fall, the first college event is the "back-to-school" picnic at which all Hyp members talk over their "enthusiastic plans" for the coming school year.

Climaxing activities in the early fall is our Rushing Party, with its traditional theme of a circus. Clowns, trained animals, and candy men all help make the occasion a memorable one for the rushees.

Then comes Homecoming! The Hyps plan a float for the parade contest and then work cooperatively building their entry. The 1954 float was "Sealing Victory," a huge pink seashell with pretty Hyperian mermaids holding the reins of a picturesque seahorse. Our new members work together with their older sorority sisters on this project. A pretty girl is chosen as the Hyp's candidate for Homecoming Queen.

Soon formal initiation arrives for our new pledges; all are dressed in colorful winter formals as they take part in this impressive ceremony.

Christmas time means a social welfare project for this active campus group. Every member makes two stuffed animals which vary from fuzzy kittens to big horses; these toys are then given to the Chippewa Home For Children with the Hyperian's best wishes for a Merry Christmas. The girls enjoy making these playthings, knowing that the children look forward to these gifts every year.

This winter the thirty-five Hyps held a quilting party, making an attractively tied quilt and then offered it as a prize during the annual Winter Carnival on campus. Proceeds from this project helped the girls finance a "fun-trip" to the Twin Cities. Climax of this trip was attending a performance of the stage show, "South Pacific," appearing in St. Paul on its finale tour. This event will remain as a wonderful memory.

The Hyp sisters chose another cute member with sparkling personality as their candidate for the Winter Carnival Queen. A Hyp team of ten girls also tugged together in the carnival's tug-of-war contest. A beautiful yellow rose, the Hyperian flower in snow and ice, was carved by the girls and entered in the carnival's snow sculpture contest. This group also entered a booth, entitled "Peg A Pledge," in the "S" Club Carnival.

At most of the work meetings held for these projects, Hyps wear their black sweatshirts with accent of yellow Greek letters spelling out Eta Sigma Omega, the Greek name for the Hyperians, and to college classes they wear their pretty sorority pins.

Early March was the date for the traditional Hyp "Heidelberg Tea." Its setting was an old-fashioned cafe with German music making the candles and checkered table cloths look even more appropriate. Our guests (students and teachers) were served root beer and ginger ale by peasant-dressed Hyps during a very congenial tea.

Then came the SSA election in which all thirty-five Hyperians supported their chosen candidate with some very energetic campaigning! Campaign buttons were made by our members, songs were composed for electioneering, and 100% of the Hyps members voted! This year, on election day, Hyps sold their special "Hyp-made" candy in the main corridor. Their fellow students seemed to enjoy partaking of this candy, too.

The Hyperian Sorority also had a basketball team which won consolation honors in the WRA sponsored contest.

To observe their Founder's Day, March 17, all sorority members wear yellow roses to class.

Highlights of this 1954-55 school year occurred when the Master of Ceremonies of the annual F. O. B. Stunt Night awarded first place to the Hyperian Sorority's skit, "Open the Book to Wonderland." The award was a great honor to the sorority and all the members were very much pleased, as indicated by their cheers, for they had worked diligently on the skit, yet had fun as they progressed.

"Open the Book to Wonderland" was written in rhyme, depicting Alice falling asleep and then such fairy-land characters as the Queen of Hearts, a big slow elephant, a mopsy Raggedy Ann, Siamese twins, and the "I'm late" rabbit breaking through Alice's story book for a revue of their kingdom.

The Hyperians have yet to enjoy some of their main activities this year. These girls will be hostesses to their mothers at a special tea before the Mother-Daughter Banquet. Then at the All-School Activity Awards ceremony, this sorority presents an award to an outstanding junior girl. We wonder who'll she'll be this year? Gala event of the year, the Hyp Dinner Dance, is scheduled for May 14 and all of the girls are looking forward to this festive night. It will be a very "romantic" atmosphere for thirty-five girls, dressed in frilly spring formals and squired by their handsome escorts.

Concluding this year will be the Hyperian Senior Dinner, an event at which farewell gifts are presented to Hyps who will graduate in June. It's an occasion to be remembered, even though it will mean another group of girls are about to start a new career apart from The Stout Institute campus.

Yes, every college year is busy and eventful for girls in the Hyperian Sorority! Don't you agree?

PALLAS ATHENE

From start to finish, Pallas Athene members have had a busy year. Our first get-together in the fall was a picnic at Riverside Park. There were hot dogs and watermelons for all. The annual watermelon seed contest was won by Rose Pepper and the bonfire provided a perfect setting for singing.

Soon it was time for rushing parties. Another successful visit was made to P. A.-land by twenty active members and thirty-five rushees, Sunday, October 3, in the Harvey Memorial. "Alice," in the person of President Delores Sauvey, and "Mr. Rabbit," Joyce Fraedrich, led the wonderland tour. Some huge playing card murals of wonder-land characters were made this year for atmosphere.

There was atmosphere galore in a dark eerie lab teeming with wild animals (of the stuffed variety) when thirteen girls were pledged to Pallas Athene. Pledges were guided by the flickering light of a single candle and when light again flooded the room, the pledges found themselves sporting traditional red and white P. A. pledge pins. Two zoo keepers prepared coffee to be served in beakers. Cream and sugar were measured to the milligram and doughnuts provided the chief source of nourishment. (P.S. Our advisor is Dr. Marshall, the physiology teacher at Stout!)

The year moved on with homecoming campaigns and floats, a Thanksgiving dinner, and a trip to the Twin Cities to see Cinerama. Fun! bus trip, singing, learning new songs, seeing scrumptious Cinerama, shopping, tired feet, wonderful meal at Stouffer's, but FUN! A trip such as this is always a thrill on the P.A. calendar.

Another must each year is the annual "Sardine-Party," given by the pledges for the active members of Pallas Athene. This year the theme was "P.A. Pledge Court." The party was held in Miss Marshall's "Court-house" (apartment). Invitations in the form of a come-as-you-are summons were issued by the pledges to each active when she least expected it. Skits, duties, singing, and lunch provided an action-packed evening. The decorations were an especially nice surprise. Around the room hung red and white abstract fish and in the mouth of each fish was a white linen handkerchief with a "PA" monogrammed in red on one corner. An active's name was stenciled on each fish tail.

In a beautiful initiation ceremony later in the year, pledges became P.A.'s in full. Formals also came out of boxes for the "Mistletoe Ball," highlight of the holiday season. The Stout gym was turned into a wonderland of snowflakes, over three thousand in all, hanging from the ceiling. A huge silver bell swung back and forth, mingling with snowflakes and balls of mistletoe. Even the weatherman cooperated with a fresh blanket of snow.

The Christmas spirit, bright wrappings, holly, and gifts combined to start the holiday happily when Santa's helpers undertook a social service project of packing boxes for two needy Menominee families. Then first semester was over.

Second semester is now rivaling the first in activity. F. O. B. Stunt Night provided a chance for fun in working up an original skit. The May Day Tea sponsored by Pallas Athene for the entire college will soon be here. The P.A. Dinner Dance is always a long-awaited event. At this party the girls wear formals and their dates don their best garb. Then it's "country club bound" for a gala evening of dinner and dancing. The Senior Dinner provides an opportunity to look back over years spent at Stout. Perhaps there is a little sadness that those years are over, but the P.A.'s are always enthusiastically conjuring up plans for another year to come.

SIGMA SIGMA SIGMA

Beta Pi Chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma, a sorority of thirty-three members, is one of four sororities located on The Stout Institute campus. Tri-Sigma is a national sorority with fifty-seven chapters located throughout the United States. The local chapter was installed on April 2-3, 1952. Previously the organization was a local sorority known as the Philos.

Many events are sponsored by Tri Sigma throughout the college year. The Sweetheart Dance, co-sponsored with Phi-Sigma Epsilon, is one of the first dances of the year. A Halloween

Tea for the entire school is also an annual Tri Sigma function.

Other social events of this sorority are its Founders Day Banquet, Dinner Dance, and Senior Sendoff. Founders Day is celebrated each year on April 20. The dinner dance, which consists of a formal dinner followed by a dance, closes out the year of social activities for the sorority. Final recognition is given to graduating sorority sisters at Senior Sendoff.

Besides these major social events, sorority meetings are held each week. These meetings always close with group singing, strengthening the bond of sisterhood for all Tri Sigmas.

PHI UPSILON OMICRON

Tau Chapter of Phi Upsilon Omicron, the national professional home economics organization, has completed another successful year. Throughout 1954-55, Phi U girls have participated in a variety of professional projects as well as social functions.

This year's professional projects have included presentation of a panel on "What Is Phi U" before the freshmen Personal Development class, creation of a textile box available for use by all of Stout's home economics graduates, and maintenance of the Phi U bulletin board on the first floor of Harvey Hall.

At Honors Day, Phi U will present a scholarship of twenty-five dollars to a worthy freshmen girl. All first year coeds at Stout are anxiously awaiting the announcement which names the winner of this scholarship.

Socially, Phi U girls have enjoyed the annual caroling party with members of the alumnae chapter, an initiation banquet, and our Founders Day dinner. On Monday, March 21, Phi U gave a Springtime Party for the alumnae chapter. A skit-in which new members modeled various hats found in an Easter parade added a dash of springtime to the party.

Also of a spring motif will be the annual spring tea which Phi U will sponsor on Wednesday, April 6. Phi U's senior farewell party to be held on May 16, will bring to a close a most successful Phi U year.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club is the largest organization on The Stout Institute campus, consisting of 260 members and two advisers. This is the largest Home Economics Club in the state of Wisconsin and the second largest in the United States.

Presiding over the Home Economics Club this year will be Doris Hutchinson, a junior from Poynette, Wisconsin. Assisting her will be president-elect, Lois Jessen, Washington Island; vice-president, Nathalie Wick, Pearl City, Illinois; secretary, Faye Nelson, New Auburn; and treasurer, Della Medin, Mondovi. Mary Buol from West Salem and Edith Shaw from West Bend are program and social chairmen, respectively. These girls together with the organization advisers, Miss Nelson and Miss Noble, make up the executive council.

The Home Economics Club meets the fourth Monday of every month. Theme of this year's organizational program is "The House Around Us." Three instructors of the college Industrial Arts department spoke to the club on "Wood Finishes for the Home," "Buying or Building a Home," and "Electricity-Spark of the Home." Mary Detlor, past president, will speak on her experiences as an IFYE ambassador to Denmark at the joint April meeting of Phi Upsilon Omicron and the Home Economics Club.

The Home Economics Club began its college year with "vacation highlights" as their first program. A few club members shared with the group some of their summer experiences. During the year we enjoy such other meetings as initiation and the senior breakfast. This year 100 girls were initiated in the fall. At the senior breakfast, our graduates become members of the American Home Economics Association.

The Home Economics Club does its part in promoting social activities on campus, sponsoring the dance at Wakanda Park held the first week of school, a style show, "Turn Back the Clock," the Pancake Supper, a Christmas Tea and Scandinavian cookie sale, and a St. Patrick's dance, and the Green Tea organized by freshman members for St. Patrick's Day.

Our club is participating in four state college club meetings this year. These gatherings include the state college club meeting at Stevens Point, the Province VII meeting in Chicago, the W.H.E.A. convention in Madison, and the A.H.E.A. convention this June in Minneapolis. Ardis Carr, a junior from Barron, Wisconsin, and previous state college club secretary, is present president of Province VII. Miss Nelson will act as her adviser. This Province includes four states, Illinois, Michigan, Iowa, and Wisconsin.

The Stout Home Economics Club welcomes you to the campus and hopes to see many of you in the club next year.

DORM ACTIVITIES

Six months, three weeks, and four days ago girls from all over the state and country completed one of the major moves of their lives by coming to The Stout Institute and the girls' dorms on the western shore of Lake Menominee.

In looking back over the past months, many changes have taken place. High school girls have become college women and it was The Stout Institute that made them so.

This past year the girls at Tainter Annex, Tainter Hall, and Eichelberger have taken part in many activities. One of the first was the Homecoming during which the freshmen girls served coffee and doughnuts to the boys while they worked on the bonfire. The girls also decorated each of their dorms with Eichelberger winning a first.

Shortly before Thanksgiving vacation, Dorm Open House was held. Students, teachers, parents, and friends were invited for this event. Doors were decorated and a tea which was attended by two hundred and fifty people was held, making Open House a very successful event.

The Freshmen Formal, which was the first of its kind, proved to be very successful; the Winter Carnival was presided over by Queen Alice Yamamoto; on Stunt Night each of the dorms was represented. These events and the Green Tea on St. Patrick's Day demonstrated the cooperation and school spirit of this up and coming class.

Various mixers, Christmas, Thanksgiving, and birthday parties helped make the year 1954-55 a memorable one in the eyes of the freshmen girls. As it draws to a close we find that many of them have become active members and some have become officers in the eligible school organizations.

HOME NURSING COURSE

By the end of this college year there will be one hundred and forty home nurses among the Home Economics students of The Stout Institute. Family Health and Home Nursing, a required class for all sophomore women, is enriched with the American Red Cross course, Home Care of the Sick. This course helps students to learn how to give simple home nursing care safely, easily, and effectively. Upon satisfactory completion of the course, students receive the American Red Cross certificate for Home Care of the Sick and the privilege of wearing the Red Cross Home Nursing pin.

There are times in every home when family cooperation is the best way to manage and care for illness. If one or more members of the family are able to effectively care for the illness, the patient receives proper nursing care and family living can go on as usual with a minimum of disruption. Because of the increasing needs for such care of illness in the home it is hoped that there will soon be one qualified home nurse in every American family.

A nurse or a teacher who has been properly certified may teach the Red Cross course, Home Care of the Sick. In order to attain authorization the instructor is required to attend and participate in a special training course. Miss Gladys Trullinger, who teaches The Stout Institute course in Family Health and Home Nursing, was a member of such a course introduced at Iowa State College for a group of 18 teachers from six mid-western states.

DIETETICS CLUB

The Dietetics Club is open to all institutional or dietetics majors. Its members enjoy various activities during the school year.

Soon after the fall session of school opened, a picnic was held at Riverside Park. No one can resist those steak fry's.

As Christmas neared, the club was busy preparing for their fruit cake sales. This past year, 300 fruit cakes were baked and sold by the girls. A gala Christmas party was held at the apartment of Miss Meiller, a club advisor.

During the early part of March, the Club sponsored Nutrition Week. A Snack Hour was held in the Harvey Memorial with a "different menu."

The next activity will see them off sometime this spring on a senior trip to some exclusive eating spot.

With Miss Killian and Miss Meiller as advisors, the girls have loads of fun.

If you haven't done so yet, stop in today to see the display in the Nutrition Laboratory. You will find out what Dietetics has to offer as a profession. There are many opportunities opening up everyday to girls who are interested in majoring in Foods and Nutrition. Girls majoring in Dietetics will be on hand to try and answer any questions that you may have about the training necessary for this profession.

March has been a busy month, but a healthful one. Each year, Dietetics Club sponsors Nutrition Week and gives away free meals at the sound of the bell in the cafeteria. Some of the healthful eaters were rewarded this month when they were lucky enough to be at the checkout counter in the cafeteria when the alarm clock went off. Those lucky people were Mary McIlquham, Jo Fritz, Pat Ryan, George Stolp, and Mrs. Smith.

Healthful snacks were featured at the first Punch Hour. The menu, which brought forth such comments as "that's different" and "carrot sandwiches!", consisted of cottage cheese stuffed prunes, carrot sandwiches, fruit juice punch, and assorted crackers.

Election of officers was held at the last meeting and they are Barbara Rushing, President; Janice Eddy, Vice President; Ann Shemick, Secretary; Judy Day, Treasurer; Jane Motyka, Reporter; and Colleen Ellis and Patricia Seibert, Newsletter.

The members voted for the candidate to receive the Medical Dictionary on Honors Day. The candidate must be planning on a Dietetics Internship. Those candidates on the ballot were Nancy Carroll, JoAnn Brehm, and Pat Hoshimoto.

SENIOR COED ACCEPTS DIETETICS POSITION

Throughout the United States, dietetic internship appointments are announced by the American Dietetic Association, through heads of home economics departments in colleges and universities approved by the National Association.

Recently, Dr. Alice J. Kirk, dean of the division of home economics of The Stout Institute in cooperation with the American Dietetics Association, presented an appointment for a one year hospital internship at the University Hospitals in Cleveland to Mary Lois Andersen, Racine, Wisconsin.

Upon completion of her hospital internship, Mary will be eligible to accept a position in any accredited clinic or hospital in the United States or abroad as a full fledged dietitian. In addition, she will have earned nine credits toward her Master's degree.

OFF-CAMPUS PROGRAM SET

A new and expanded program in teacher education has been launched by The Stout Institute's Division of Home Economics. Two years in the making, this new program virtually extends the Home Economics Division to twelve additional locations in the state.

When interviewed about the establishment of these teaching centers, Dr. Alice J. Kirk, Dean of the Division of Home Economics, said, "There are greater opportunities in Home Economics today than ever before. Our student enrollment increases every year, but we are never able to fill half the requests for Home Economics graduates. The program now underway will provide more practical experience for students during their last year of preparation, and it will also aid high schools in obtaining guidance and help in the development of their departments. During the present year more than fifty Home Economics seniors in training will have spent six weeks in Wisconsin high schools working with experienced teachers. These supervising teachers were carefully selected, all are Home Economics graduates working toward advanced degrees, and each attended a special workshop during the past summer to prepare for their responsibilities in this cooperative program with the college. These supervising teachers are one of the most valuable links in our training program, and already we are feeling the strength and reinforcement that comes when many people work together."

The twelve high schools cooperating with The Stout Institute are: Abotsford, Baldwin, Elmwood, Frederic, Glenwood City, Medford, Rice Lake, St. Croix Falls, Schofield (The D. C. Everest High School), Stanley, and West Salem. The twenty-six students who are now engaged in student teaching in these centers are: Jean Baker, Elkhorn, Wisconsin; Shirley Brask, Chippewa Falls, Wisconsin; Dorothy Brownell, Grand Meadow, Minnesota; Pat Casberg, Holmen, Wisconsin; Colleen Ceminisky, Montgomery, Minnesota; Joan Dehn, Unity, Wisconsin; Florence Dessart, Suring, Wisconsin; Shirley Duell, Fond du Lac, Wisconsin; Verna Dunn, Janesville, Wisconsin; Ceila Fritz, Rice Lake, Wisconsin; Ardelle Gossell, La Crosse, Wisconsin; Donna Harvey, Mondovi, Wisconsin; Mary E. Kane, Seneca, Wisconsin; Rosemary Kelley, Menomonie, Wisconsin; Hila Jeffery, Clam Lake, Wisconsin; Eunice Nulton, Hammond, Wisconsin; Margaret Ort, Black Creek, Wisconsin; Evelyn Rosenstiel, Pearl City, Illinois; Delores Sauey, Baraboo, Wisconsin; Ruth Schmitt, Marinette, Wisconsin; Carolyn Solem, Evanston, Illinois; Gloria Voigt, Reedsville, Wisconsin; Pat Wangen, Mondovi, Wisconsin; and Jean Wood, Evansville, Wisconsin.

SYMPHONIC SINGERS TO MAKE TOUR

On April 9 the Stout Symphonic Singers will leave on a two week concert tour that will carry them all the way down to Key West, Florida. Three large Greyhound buses will carry the 100 musicians through ten states and cover about 5,000 miles. Twenty concerts have been scheduled along the way. Included on the itinerary are Chicago, Danville, Muncie, Cincinnati, Knoxville, Jacksonville, Daytona Beach, Miami, and Key West.

Highlight of the tour will be a performance at the Biennial Convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs held in Miami. The Symphonic Singers have been selected to represent Wisconsin at this convention, and will present a concert before the entire convocation assembly on April 22.

The Symphonic Singers are a combined choral and instrumental concert organization, composed of sixty-five singers and thirty-five instrumentalists. During the past fifteen years they have toured through much of the United States including performances in New York City, Baltimore, Washington D. C., and Denver. In addition to their annual concert tours, the Symphonic Singers have also done recording work and have made numerous radio and television appearances.

Ann: "What shall we do tonight?"
Diane: "We'll toss a coin. If it's heads, we'll go to the dance. If it's tails, we'll go to a movie. If it stands on edge, we'll study."

To avoid that run-down feeling, look both ways before crossing the street.

CALLING ALL ALUMNI!

DO YOU KNOW OF ANY PROSPECTIVE STUDENTS?

Procedure for Enrollment and Scholarship Selection Explained for Alumni

All alumni are again urged to submit to Stout the names of prospective students and scholarship candidates. Blanks for this purpose will be found on the Alumni page of the Stoutonia each week of the spring quarter.

The names submitted by alumni will be given to the faculty scholarship committee for consideration. They will send the prospective students an introductory letter and an admission blank to obtain the necessary data about the student. The introductory letter will inform the student that he has been recommended as a candidate for college, and will urge them to apply for admission. This must be done before the student can be considered for a scholarship.

Each alumnus is in an excellent position to guide qualified students in their choice of a college. Literature about The Stout Institute will be sent on request to help in the job of orienting students and parents with the kind of educational opportunities available at Stout. Special articles each week in the Stoutonia will aid alumni in their guidance work.

Alumni should also follow up their recommendations, and give the student any help needed to fill out the necessary admission papers.

The final selection of scholarship winners will be handled by the faculty-scholarship committee. Alumni funds, however, will be used only for scholarship candidates recommended by The Stout Institute alumni. In this way the Alumni scholarships will be more closely coordinated with the overall scholarship plan of the college.

FILM PREVIEW WILL BE ON LEADERSHIP

All persons on the faculty and in the community are invited to a free preview of films on leadership which the audio-visual center of The Stout Institute will show in the audio-visual theatre of the Stout library at 7:30 P. M. on Wednesday evening, April 6.

"The Importance of Selling" describes services which a salesman can provide both to his employer and to his customer. The feature outlines the structure of a typical sales organization, explains the duties of sales executives, and illustrates the value of salesmanship to society.

Illustrating such fundamental commercial procedures as delegation of authority and division of labor will be the film, "Internal Organization." The feature also describes the purposes of business organization and basic organizational principles.

"Working Together" is the story of industrial harmony between the firm manufacturing American Lead Pencils and a participating unit of the CIO Textile workers. This industry-union relationship has been in effect in Hoboken, N. J., since 1937.

Planning for retirement is the theme of "Looking Ahead," a feature narrating the story of an employee who has just retired from his life-long occupation. The film also describes the means by which three generations of his family are protected by old-age and survivors insurance.

All persons interested in leadership or industrial relations are invited to attend. The films also make excellent programs for organizations.

ALUMNAE TELLS OF OPPORTUNITY

All the glamour and opportunity of a home economist in business was personified on the Stout Institute campus during the recent visit of Beverly Hedlund, an Amery girl who is a graduate of Stout and who has recently been appointed by the Fred Harvey hotel and restaurant organization to manage Hotel Crandell at the Wisconsin Dells during the coming tourist season.

Miss Hedlund is a 1952 graduate of the Stout dietetic curriculum. She returned to the campus to seek coeds interested in summer jobs, for she will staff the entire food service of the 110 guest Crandell hotel with Stout Institute persons, Jacqueline Kling, another Stout home economics alumna, has already accepted the post as hostess for the Crandell dining room.

The Crandell estate at the Wisconsin Dells was recently willed to the Research Foundation of the University of Wisconsin. This will mark the second year for which the Harvey enterprises have leased the Crandell and will operate it for the University Foundation. Last summer Miss Hedlund managed all food service and the dining room at the Crandell. This year she will operate the entire hotel.

Miss Hedlund has had varied experiences and has enjoyed rapid advancement in responsibility during less than three years with the Harvey enterprises, which operates seven hotels, 64 restaurants and 200 food shops scattered between Cleveland and Los Angeles. In addition, another branch of the Harvey company provides all food service on dining cars of the Santa Fe railroad.

As a graduate dietitian, Miss Hedlund first interned at Peter Bent Brigham hospital in Boston. After food service experience with Marshall Fields and other organizations, she joined the Harvey enterprises in January, 1954.

Beverly then worked in the food services of the Union Depot and the Continental Insurance Building at Chicago. Later she served as dietitian in charge of the kitchen at the famous Spinning Wheel restaurant of Hinsdale, Illinois.

Because of the excellent training in business home economics which she feels that she received at Stout Institute, Miss Hedlund is keeping in close contact with the college to obtain necessary personnel. She is especially interested in institution management majors and encourages any seniors or graduates in that field to write for an interview to Fred Harvey, General Office, 80 E. Jackson Blvd., Chicago 4 Illinois.

But all is not work and responsibility for graduate dietitian. After conducting her interviews at Stout, Beverly traveled West at Harvey's expense on the Santa Fe Super Chief luxury transcontinental streamliner. She will spend vacation and working time until the Wisconsin tourist seasons opens conferring with managers of Harvey hotels in the Grand Canyon area. Then she will complete her visit with paid side trips to Albuquerque, Santa Fe, and New Mexico.

The swimmers are all trained, and the acts are synchronized to a degree of perfection. Special costumes will be incorporated into many numbers, as will various illuminating tricks.

Numbers on the program include: Malaguena, a duet by Carol Schilstra and Janice Hornickel; Modern Dance duet by Barbara Rushing and Iris Cassel; Over the Rainbow, Maxine Olsen, Carol Schilstra, Marge Ferguson, Carol Hale, Rita Hack, Marg Schuette, Kathryn Seal, Carol Hatch, Jean Baumgartner, and Sally Beidleman; Melody of Love, duet by Barb Johnson and Bill Knabe; Sandpaper Ballet, Carol Hale, Maxine Olsen, Marge Ferguson, Marg Schuette, and Harriet Hendrix; Stouthearted Men, Marvin Belknap and Bill Knabe; Stardust, solo by Elene Sweet; Deep Purple, Janice Hornickel, Carol Schilstra, Rita Hack, and Kathryn Seal; That's All, a finale, including the whole cast; Wish Upon a Star, Joan Manes, Marg Schuette, Marilyn Randall, Carol Hatch, Jean Baumgartner, Sally Beidleman, Jan Jenquin, and Gwen Somers; Moon of Munakoura, Carol Schilstra, Rita Hack, Marg Schuette, Barb home economics in the public schools of Gilman, Wisconsin.

According to Stout's Placement Chairman, the demand for industrial education teachers promises to be as brisk as usual. However, calls for shop teachers usually begin somewhat later in the year than do opportunities for women graduates.

January bachelor of science graduates in industrial education who have already accepted jobs include Glen Tobias, International Harvester Co., Richard Berg, teaching in Wheaton, Ill.; Alfred Ochs, teaching in Milwaukee; and George Ueda, teaching in Lanai City, Hawaii.

Master of science graduates who accepted positions in January are

James Castagna, Milwaukee public schools, and Louis Winek, Comfrey, Minnesota, schools.

Among men who will finish this June, a number have already signed contracts. Steve Hansen, Stout football star, will teach in Escanaba, Michigan. Teaching industrial education in the public schools of Los Angeles will be twin brothers who will have completed their master's work, Wallace and Warren Maurer. The Maurer twins transferred to Stout from Penn State university.

Also of interest is the Placement Chairman's announcement of changes in the positions of alumni. Darrel Radle (B. S. '53) is now at the Oshkosh Vocational school. Carl Stori (B. S. '42) has transferred to the high school at Ironwood, Michigan.

Recently returned to the teaching profession after service in the armed forces are Peter Schellinger (B. S. '51) and Gerald Slind (B. S. '51). Schellinger is now teaching printing at William Horlick high school in Racine.

A lieutenant in the air force, Gerald Slind was discharged at Hamilton Air Force Base and is now teaching in the McKinley junior high school of Racine, Wisconsin.

BOXING AND MAT SHOW IS SUCCESS

Approximately 200 members of the faculty and student body attended the S Club boxing and wrestling show Wednesday night, March 23, to witness a fine showing of muscle and skill.

The meet commenced with 3 boxing matches of 3 rounds each. Del Baumann, 135 - 147 pound class, defeated Bill Mechler by a decision. Bill Davis and Bill Glavan, 148 - 160 pound class, fought 3 rounds to a draw. Both men appeared to be in fine shape.

The quick-on-the-punch, hard-hitting Jerry Baumann overpowered Walter Kratsch, who is in no way a pushover, in a 2 - 1 decision. Jerry's advantage seems to be his ability to throw a fast hard jab in either an on or off balance position. Leroy Sharkey used some quick footwork to dodge the fast-moving contestants, but he did a fine job of refereeing.

The wrestlers then took over the mat with Wallace Maurer from VA. PA. refereeing the wrestling portion of the program and doing an exceedingly fine job. Wally by the way is a referee for the IAA and the AAU. Thanks Wally, for the assist in the program.

The program began with Roger Miller, 145 pound class, defeating Bill Romoser by 11 - 10 point decision after 6 minutes of rough wrestling. In the 155 pound class, Brad Hubing pinned Dick Anderson in the first minute of the 3rd period. Bob Radtke, 165 pound class, was pinned by Warren Maurer in 1:05 minutes of the 3rd quarter and Dick Tepp defeated Bob Rindo by a fall in 1:59 minutes of the second quarter. Dick and Bob both fought in the heavyweight class.

Ron (Strangler) Wilhelm, Dean (Man Mountain) Karraker, Dave (Leg Stomp) Wendt, and Lyle (The Bull) Martins then took over the mat.

Their interpretation of an Australian tag match caused the audience to roar with laughter. Wally Maurer at times appeared to be taking a worse beating than any one of the boys (all 855 pounds of them), and he finally disqualified both teams.

Thanks, fellas, for a swell evening. I understand next years program will be bigger yet. Best of luck with it.

DORM NEWS

The fellows who attended "Hernando's Hideaway" Friday night thank the girls for a very enjoyable evening.

The proctor list has decreased to some extent due to the fact that the fellows have learned how to make their beds. In order to prevent a lack of proctors, a new rule has been enforced. Five fine fellows got two nights of proctor duty apiece for failing to sign a travel permit last weekend. They are Dick Brehm, Marvin Belknap, Dick Haug, Duane Marshall, and "muscles" Walterscheid. Too bad, boys.

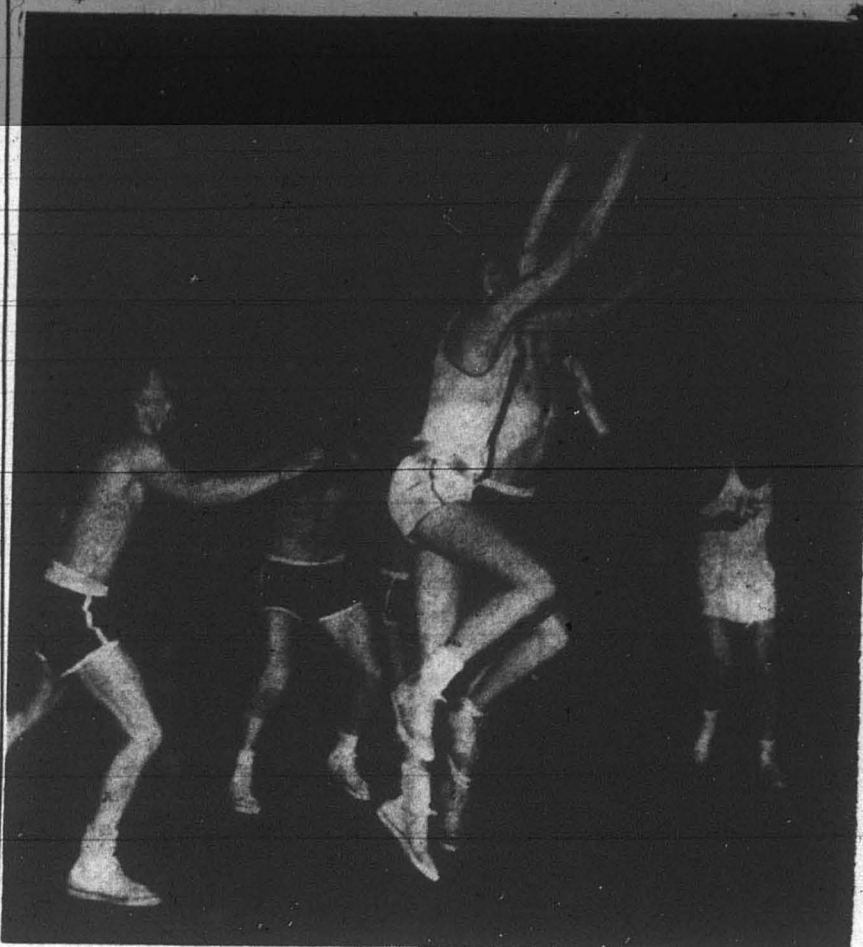

Frank Burdick is looking for a faster method of travel from Beloit to Menomonie. Lyle Kleuver's Ford is fast enough for the trip to Beloit, but coming back it takes forever. (In Frank's estimation, anyway) It can't be that he's in such a hurry to return to his books, so it must be a girl.

LOWNEY IS ON ALL-STAR TEAM

Roger Lowney was selected for the second consecutive year to the Wisconsin State College All-Conference team. Last year Loweney was the first Stout freshman ever to be selected for this honor.

The Cagers who made up this year's All-Star team include: Roger Hanson and Jim Bollinger of Eau Claire, Ernie Vogler and Larry Marshall of Platteville, Bob Williams, Zeke Wells, and Clarence Wild of River Falls, Roger Loweney of Stout, Wayne Krueger of Milwaukee, and Russ Tiedeman of Oshkosh. Superior, Stevens Point, La Crosse, and Whitewater failed to place a man on the ten man squad.

PHI SIG TOURNAMENT ACTION

TOURNAMENT HELD AT STOUT

The 1955 Eau Claire basketball supremacy was demonstrated again this last weekend as the Phi Beta Chapter of Phi Sigma Epsilon at Eau Claire State College won the Regional Fraternity basketball championship. The tournament was played at The Stout Institute in Menomonie which hosted teams from Eau Claire, White-water, Milwaukee, Stevens Point, and De Kalb of Illinois.

Preliminaries all day Saturday narrowed the field down until Eau Claire and De Kalb battled it out for the championship Saturday night. Eau Claire played four straight games without defeat. Standout players for Eau Claire were Jim Leary and the "insurmountable" Rog Hanson.

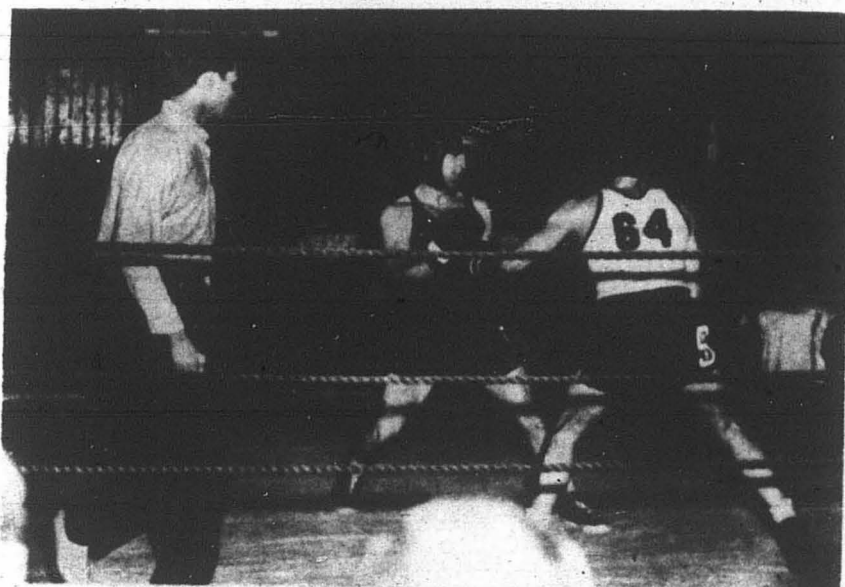

Phi Sigma Epsilon is a national social fraternity designed to promote friendship and brotherhood on college campuses. The recent regional basketball tournament was arranged to help promote this aim. The next regional function is a tentative softball tournament this summer which will probably be held at Whitewater.

EXOTIC WEEK IN PUERTO RICO PLANNED

Enjoying to the fullest the educational and recreational opportunities of exotic Puerto Rico will be 32 persons participating in The Stout Institute's spring vacation tour, to be co-directed from April 8 to 17 by Dr. Alice J. Kirk, dean of the division of home economics at Stout, and Mrs. Alyce Vanek, of the department of clothing and textiles at the college.

Composing part of the tour group will be 16 college coeds from Stout's division of home economics. The other half of the travelers will include alumni and friends of the college. Sponsors of the enterprise are especially pleased that the tour has caught the fancy of such persons as the former president of the college alumni association and the former head of the college dormitories, who are thus maintaining active contact with their college.

AN OPEN LETTER FROM A STUDENT

I see where the S. S. A. is putting together a talent show, the proceeds of which will go into a scholarship fund for upperclassmen. I think this is a wonderful idea. Raising money around this college is quite a problem, but I know where a great wealth of money lies, that no one except the local merchants can get their hands on it, so read along, and I'll tell you about it.

When I was on the governing board in 1950, the students at that time wanted to start a bookstore. It was greatly accepted by everyone, students and faculty. The only trouble was that there was no place to put it; you know how crowded things were in those days. We were told, "Wait until we get the new library, then you can have your bookstore." Well, we have the new library, but where's the bookstore?

"What's a bookstore?" We at Stout are very lucky in the fact that we rent our text books. However, there are many things that we do buy: drafting sets, T-squares, slide rules, foods notebooks, cookbooks, and notebooks, to mention a few things. Then, too, as we go through some of our courses, there are books we wish to buy for our own personal library. This doesn't include the tons of notebook paper we Stout students buy or the tracing vellum the fellows need for drafting, or the pencils, or erasers; the list is long.

As you know the school can purchase merchandise at 20 per cent discount. If the students could purchase all of the items they need for 10 per cent discount, the other 10 per cent going to the S. S. A., or even if we paid the same as we pay in the store, at least our fellow students would receive some of the benefits which only a few of the local merchants are now getting.

I think this would be a wonderful project for our newly elected S. S. A. to carry out. What do you think? Am I all wrong, or does this make sense to you? Let's hear from you, drop a line into the Stoutonia. Come on, fellow students, let's unite. If we want something, we have to get it for ourselves!

I ran across a Darlene dress in the cities last Saturday, but when I asked the Price, I was shocked. I put on a Stern face and left it for some Rich person to buy. I couldn't stand the thought of receiving a Bill each month from that store. Just because it had the Duncan Seal of approval didn't quite Tepp me over. I Mae find another one I like just as well. How about a Kelly Green?

My girlfriend's dad bought a Nash Carr for himself and an Austin for her. A car like that would sure be Handy here at school. I'd even put a Stout Banner on it. Another fellow at school ruined the driveShaft in his car. Maybe before I worry about having a car, I ought to learn how to drive. Right now I can drive a car about as well as I can Rowe a boat! When I am able to be a driver, not a Wisher, I'd sure like to hop into a car and head West. That would be the life!

Last night I heard a girl talking about Proctor duty in Tainter Hall. They sure must have a lot of fun over there.

I Wendt out with a Newman last night. He hails from Virginia and is really Sweet. The Guy I Stepp out with can't be the usual Wolf type. Some boys think all they have to do is Wink at a Rich Dahl and she will come on the Hop. What a Karraker! He wouldn't be Wirth the powder to blow him up. I hope someday a really Ernest and Frank man will come along and Pierce the Wall of my Hardt.

Whether he be Mayer or Baker; Rich or poor; a King or a Grimm man with a Knapp sack on his back, I will Mary him!

Next time weeks I may take Advanced algebra. It would be hard but I know it would be good for me, too.

The Stout Symphonic Singers are going Don to Florida during Easter vacation. I sure hope they don't get lost in any little Berg along the way.

Hal, I just finished yanking out a Strand of hair that was somehow hanging down oi my forehead. That one won't be a Tickler any longer. (It was located near my left Temple.)

Well, I guess it's time I got some sleep so I'll close for now, and be sure and greet everyone for me. By now,

ATHLETES OF STOOT SIGN '55 CONTRACTS

In the sports world this week we have scads of news—this being contract signing week.

Stout athletes really received a working over from the visiting talent scouts, with a large percentage getting contracts and counterfeit money for their future services.

In the football world, Skip Wick has signed a contract for $75.00 (5 year salary) for the "Tennessee Pea Pickers." Dave Wendt and John Oakeson went to the "Pine Point Brewers" for a reported $22.50 (a piece). Both of the above teams are in the National Hockey League.

Basketball star Roger Lowney recently John Hancocked a cage contract with a local team in the industrial league. Rudiger's are paying $2,000,000.00 a month for Lowney's talent. In the same scope, Woody Woodliff has endorsed the Durand "Mitey Mites" offer for the coming year. (Rog Hansen, lanky Eau Claire State spark plug is already signed as his understudy.) Whitey Wingert plans on playing exhibition ball this year for the "House of Methuselah," a traveling team which is sponsored by the Wildroot Cream Oil Hair Tonic Company.

Baseball this year will be miquis Mike Manogian, Jerry Baumann, and LeRoy Zwick. Mike has signed with the Cubs to replace Chico Carresquell (who is out with a fractured finger-nail). Jerry Baumann went to the Lumberjacks for a reported $100.00 per hour as a replacement for Dizzy Dean. (Not the genuine "Dizzy Dean" but Dean Karraker of the D.K.'s) Zwick penned the contract offered by the L. A. Angels. (This team is owned by the Miller Brewing Company - the brewers of "High Life" herice Angels.) Reported salary ranged from $10 - $15 a day depending on how much profit is consumed by the contracted.

Tennis star, Hank Moerschel, has made up his mind to go into the ranks of the "pro" — pro trainer that is. He recently signed the sheepskin to become an active backboard for the world renowned champion of tennis, ping-pong, and ice fishing, —namely, Vic Hardt. Vic is planning on a two week tour to Miami to study the (tennis) form of the beach beauties of Ybor City.

Golfer (??) Bill Stern endorsed a crib-sheet with the Spalding Athletic Company to sit and model for the heads of their new line of golf clubs. Quite a job for simply relying on heredity talent. Wow.

Sports writer, Mickey Schellin, has accepted a position to write sports news for "Pravda" and the "Daily Worker." (With his bag of hot air, the next Olympic games should have a rare twist!!)

Late news releases have it that Jim Bolm was asked to play with the Harlem Globetrotters. He answered the bid by going over to Berg's Chevrolet and getting a paint job - black.

That's about all the news in the contract signing world. Amen for a year—that's all the "bull," brother!

the twenty-tenth victory of the basketball team.

My next try was Dowman Tall. "Ye Olde Printe Shoppe" caught my eye, and I hurried in. All I could find were sheets of pink newsprint which were going to be used for the April Fool issue of the Leantonja.

I went on. When I got to the third floor, I found a light bulb which belonged to one of the members of the ten o'clock physics class. That didn't help my case.

The trades building looked interesting, but all I could see was a plaster head of a gal in the dark room. (Believe me, fellas, I took the opportunity!!!!!!).

I had to take stock of myself. I only had two clues. I couldn't let the case slip out of my fingers. The pitch had to be somewhere.

Wait, there was only one place left!!! I rushed over to the auditorium. The Lmphonic Weepers and Dr. Dart were practicing, but no sound could be heard because the pitch was lost.

I sat down and thought and thought and thought. Where could it be. The pitch had to be somewhere.

Suddenly it hit me!!! I had found the lost pitch. I rushed up on the stage, stood on my tiptoes, and whispered in Dr. Dart's ear. Slowly, ever so slowly, a smile spread across his face, and he remembered then where it was. He reached in his back pocket and pulled out----- the lost pitch.

JC'S REPOIT ON BUSINESS

After impartial investigation on the part of our members, the following report has been submitted.

1. One of the most scenic spots in town is the place of the Everlasting Blaze. People are drawn to it all hours of the day or night, and even the most weary and dejected of them come out happy and gay, reporting that the fire water consumed there leaves a warm glow. These medicinal waters are beneficial mostly to Stout students who are willing to partake of the liquid. It has been reported that the warmth leaves after a few hours, producing an enlarged head and tender stomach in the partaker.

2. The Copper Penny has attraction for those wanting to find a booth to rest weary bones. Due to lack of excitement, the Chamber of Commerce left there soon.

3. Athletes swarm to a place named after ex-soldiers who had served on foreign soil. The building is conveniently located for those who like to swim, canoe, or hike down. The interior is divided into two major portions, one containing a bar just the right height for chinning, and the other boasting of many poles which are often used for climbing. Any athletes are welcome.

4. The Meeting Place is conveniently located between one of the cinemas and the place of the Everlasting Blaze. One of its major selling points is a ledge on which to pile school books. Any evening after 9:00 the book rack is fairly well filled. Besides being a meeting place, this spot also has large cups with long stems which can be filled with foamy liquid. The strange thing about this liquid is that, although it looks like soap suds, it is good only for washing the stomach.

The Alfalfa Cigs were in turn exporting the ingredients to the four frats on campus.

The Federal Inspectors arrived early this morning after a long, hard travel by horse hoofs from Eau Galle, Wisconsin. Thirstberian members were quickly arrested by the Inspectors and have been stowed away on the fourth floor of the county courthouse jail. (By the way, visiting hours are from 11:00 P. M. to 2:30 A. M. Stout men, please take note!)

Each member is being held under $25,000 bond for any indictment the Federal Grand Jury may bring.

The final outrage of the investigation is unpredictable. Because this is a federal offense and because the faculty didn't find the still first, we of the understaff cannot make any prophecies.

Hi Ed,
I just thought I'd type you a letter. Please pardon the ink.

Did you hear about our neighbor's little girl? She was at death's door with pneumonia, and the doctor tried to pull her through.

I finally got around to sending your coat back to you. By the way, the buttons are in the pocket. I clipped them off so that the package would weigh less.

Last week I was going to come and see you. I sat on this sign that said "Menomonie" for eight hours, and the darn thing didn't move.

Bye for now,

STOUT GROUP HAS WEEK IN PUERTO RICO

Suntanned, smiling, and enlightened, the Puerto Rican travelers from Stout arrived home early last Sunday morning. After a week of luxury at the magnificent Condado Beach hotel at San Juan, the group has again settled down to their studies.

Everyone was impressed by the beauty of the country, its weather, and the modernistic and historical buildings. Puerto Rican people were very hospitable and eager to see "the girls from Stout." Though, Mrs. Alyce Vanek, who along with Dean Alice Kirk, guided the tour, is very unimpressed by the manana attitude of the people. It was very difficult to carry through planned appointments.

One highlight of the tour was a tea given for the Stout group by the city manager of San Juan, Mrs. Felisa Rincon de Gautier. San Juan is the first city to have a woman mayor, although we do think of Puerto Rico as a backward country. "Mrs. Rincon de Gautier is a fabulous individual and surely inspirational," stated Mrs. Alyce Vanek. "She projects the thought that city management is a 'woman's job as it is definitely one of housekeeping and organization.'" She comes stateside for all mayoral meetings and is disappointed that the states do not give women "the place in the sun that they deserve."

A Spanish dancer entertained with native dances at the tea and a pianist played native music. A doctor from the University of Puerto Rico spoke on the history and background of the island, too.

Dean Alice Kirk's impression of the home economics department of the University of Puerto Rico was "very beautiful, but limited in its offerings." The labs and general program are in their beginning stages. "Emphasis is on the need for students to know how to supplement their regular diet for adequateness," said Dean Kirk, "they stress the need for all families to grow and maintain their own food supply."

Care of goats, rabbits, and chickens is a regular and necessary part of the curriculum, as teachers often must work in sections where the women include livestock raising as part of their home duties.

Dean Kirk felt that the most interesting phase of university progress was the home management plan. Eight beautiful new buildings are being built with two completed. They are duplex, modern, and outstanding in Puerto Rican colors. Dean Kirk and Mrs. Vanek met the faculty of the home economics department there, too.

Travelling far into the mainland, the group visited the San Juan Girl Scout Camp. They met and conversed with 70 scouts—brownies to mariners. The girls sang for the Stout students and showed them their modern camp which even had a swimming pool. The camp was given to the Girl Scouts by the army, navy, and parents of Puerto Rico. Cost is fifteen dollars per week for each scout.

Dean Kirk stated: "We were all thrilled, especially by the wonderful cooperation given us." When the group left, the manager of the spacious Condado Beach hotel told them that Stout's group was the finest group of all the college students there in moral and conduct. "He invited us back for next year," commented Dean Kirk. "After we had visited the island, we knew that Puerto Rico, commonly called the 'Island of Enchantment' truly lived up to its reputation."

STOUT INSTRUCTOR WAS DEBATE JUDGE

Serving as a judge at the recent Minnesota State Debate Tournament was Malcolm McBride, member of the speech department of The Stout Institute.

Competing in the all-college tournament were 12 colleges from Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Wisconsin. Topic of the competition was this year's national debate question, "Should the United Nations Recognize Red China?"

DR. FLEMING WRITES FOR ED. JOURNAL

Final article in a series of studies of the reaction of mass-readership newspapers and magazines to the welfare of public school teachers is a feature in the March issue of the "Journal of Educational Research" by Dr. Thomas F. Fleming, associate professor of English and Journalism at The Stout Institute.

Titled "A Study of Mass-Media Willingness to Recognize the Contributions and Value of Teachers in 1931, 1941, 1951," the article describes an increasingly critical tone which mass-readership publications are displaying toward the loyalty, competence and professionalism of public school teachers.

According to findings of Dr. Fleming's study, not all such criticisms arise from non-educational sources. Some complaints against the value and success of teachers are engendered by the public pronouncements of educators themselves. These criticisms are then reported by the public press and given wide circulation.

The current article also stressed the fact that the public's interest in teachers is heightened by the actions of teachers. Thus members of the teaching profession are urged to assess carefully any proposed course of action to determine ultimate public reaction to that activity.

Dr. Fleming has previously published two other articles on mass-media treatment of the welfare of teachers in the "Journal of Educational Research." They dealt with the attitude of mass-circulation publications toward such aspects of teacher welfare as salaries, salary schedules, sabbatical leaves, and other factors.

SSA CANDIDATES

CLASSES ANNOUNCE SSA CANDIDATES

Each Class Has Selected Four Members To Run For Student Governing Board

The candidates for Student Governing Board, representing the various classes, have been selected and will be voted on shortly after the spring vacation. Four candidates from each class have submitted their applications to the SSA office, and two representatives from each class will be selected. The Student Governing Board plays an important part in every student's life, although he may not realize it, and careful consideration of each candidate's qualifications to represent you should be made.

The four candidates from the freshman class are two girls and two boys. From Ladysmith, Wisconsin, is Pat Christianson. Pat is a member of WRA, Home Ec. Club, and L.S.A. She is also president of Tainter Annex.

Pat feels that she is qualified for student government because she has had much experience working with students not only in college, but also in high school. She feels that because of her experience, she is a qualified candidate.

Joseph Jajtner, Jr., of Wautoma, Wisconsin, attended Wautoma High School. He is Vice-President of Lynwood Hall, a member of the Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity, and belongs to L.S.A.

"I have had much experience in holding offices. I will be able to use my experience if I get this position. I am very eager and willing to work, and I want to participate in functions of the student body and will try my utmost to do my best."

Fern Mathey is from Medford, Wisconsin. She is a member of the Stout Symphonic Singers, Band, Stoutonia, Home Ec. Club, Y.W.C.A., and Congo Club.

"I feel that I am qualified to represent the student body on the governing board mainly because I like that type of work. I have been very active in high school activities. Since at Stout, I have made many new friends, and I think we have a wonderful student body. I'd be proud to be a representative."

Clintonville, Wisconsin, is Roger Kerstner's home town. Stout Symphonic Singers, and Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity are the organizations to which he belongs.

"I feel that because of past experience as being an alternate for student council and knowing parliamentary procedure, that I would be qualified for such a position. I would like to be a representative because I like working with individuals as well as a large group."

The candidates from the sophomore class are Andree Jost, Sherwin Pearson, Jerald Schoenike, and Kenneth Wittig.

Andree Jost is from Alma, Wisconsin, and is a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma, WRA, and Home Ec. Club.

"I consider myself eligible for representing the sophomore class on the student governing board on the basis of my past experiences. If I am elected a representative of my class, I'll do everything in my power to see that the wishes of my class are fulfilled."

From Chicago, Illinois, Sherwin Pearson is a member of Symphonics, Student Governing Board, Inter-Religious Council, and L. S. A. He has been president of the freshman and sophomore class.

"I feel that I am qualified to represent the student governing board because of the past experience I have had with the governing board this past year. I also feel that I am qualified because I enjoy working with others to help peoples wants and needs."

A member of Sigma Tau Gamma fraternity, and Arts and Crafts Club, Jerald Schoenike comes from Clintonville, Wisconsin.

"I will give all the cooperation that I can so the Student Governing Board can succeed in its goals for which they are striving. My interest in the governing board is strong and through my interest, I feel that I could represent the sophomore class with satisfaction."

Kenneth Wittig is a member of Phi Sigma Epsilon fraternity, intramural sports, and L.S.A. He comes from New Richmond, Wisconsin.

"I am interested in the student activities. I feel that I am qualified to work on the governing board."

Dorothy Belisle, Joyce Fraedrich, Helen Harry, and Doris Wandrey are the candidates from the junior class.

Our organizer, Dorothy Belisle, lives here in Menomonie, and is a member of the Stout Symphonic Singers, Home Ec. Club, Pallas Athene sorority, Phi Upsilon Omicron, Student Governing Board, Wesley, and the American Federation of Musicians. She has been vice president of Home Ec. Club and secretary of the Stout Symphonic Singers.

"I am interested in the welfare of the Stout Student Association, and think that this past year's governing board experience would help me to be a more effective representative next year."

Weyauwega, Wisconsin, is Joyce Fraedrich's home town. A member of Phi Upsilon Omicron, Pallas Athene sorority, Stout Symphonic Singers, and Home Ec. Club, Joyce has been SSA Vice President and WRA treasurer.

"I feel as though I am qualified to represent the student body on the governing board as I have worked with the governing board for one year and also worked with the SSA office as vice president."

Doris Wandrey, of Wisconsin Rapids, belongs to Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority, Home Ec. Club, YWCA, Phi Upsilon Omicron, and Student Governing Board. She is a dormitory counselor, is secretary of SSA, and YWCA historian.

Doris feels that she is qualified to represent the student body on the governing board as she has worked with the governing board for one year and served as secretary for the board. She also has been a counselor

The Stout Snooper

Well, now that vacation is over and college life is a reality again, I found that you are marking off the days 'till the end of school on your daily calendar or just mentally scratching an A on the finished day of your brilliant slate of mind. Yes, there are only 28 1/2 days of the 1955 school year left.

During my snooping I even discovered that there are several students here who have been given names so they can't forget days, such as Day, Dailey, Duhling. How do I know? Well, it is my hobby to snoop and I consulted The Stout Institute Bulletin or the regular session directory issue, volume XLVIII, March 2, Oct. 1, 1954.

It seems that the stork enjoyed giving you last names beginning with S—since 8 Stout students' surnames begin with S— from Schlagenhoff, Spangler, Stahlkopf, to Soria, Stolp, Stuve, and Sutton. The S also has the honor of having the longest surname, that of Sommerhalder with 13 letters to its' credit. And one of the shortest names in the directory is Suk.

Other unusual names in the S's include small particles of rock, Sand; a gunman, Schuette; a checker, Schweinler; an Alaskan animal and home, Seal and Seaberg; a barber, Shaver; a cape over shoulders, Shaw; a season, Sommer; a gait, Stepp; a hunting dog, Sutter; a passageway, Street, and some candy, Sweet. Oh, I must not forget to mention one of America's most common names, Smith, which here at Stout ranks second to Anderson. Yes, Anderson leads in popularity with 13 owning that name and Smith and Johnson being tied with 9. (There is only 1 Jones.)

Now on to the second most popular alphabet letter, B, having 72 in it's category ranging again from several 11 letter names, Baumgartner, Bournville, Bettisworth, to others such as Battist, Berg, Bilse, Bleskacek, Bratner, Burton, and Butz. Some of the others include an occupation, Baker; a flag, Banner; a ding-dong, Bell; a chunk of ice, Berg; a game ball, Billiard; creeks, Brooks; and Thura and Brown, and Brown and Blue.

Next in the popularity rank comes

H with 60—Hamann, Hangartner, Hashimoto, Haug, Hearden, Hetzel, and Huebner. Four handsome (Hansen or Hanson) men were listed; a taxi, Hack; an essential for a cold, Handke; a composer, Hayden; a kind of cracker familiar to most of you, Hetzel. Of special interest to me and I hope to you is the fact that we have two Handy men here, but one hails from Seattle, Washington, and the other from Hollister, Massachusetts (alike in names, but not in home addresses).

M is next in line with 59 from Magnusson, Manogian, Marquart, Matschnig, to Meulmans, Moerscheit, and Motyka. The M category includes the 7 M's which are always troublemakers in alphabetizing large lists of humans. But then M includes a famous name, Marshall; a city, Madison; bins, Martens; six grinders, Madsen; a criminal's girlfriend, Moll.

Kaczmariski, Kalfonen, Kawleski, Klabunde, Kjell to Kay, Kitta, Kort, Kowalczyk, Kufahl, and Kussor are some of the "more different" names in the fifth most popular letter category. I counted K as having 55. In the K's are two royal people, Kings; a cousin of Santa, Klaus; a place where justice is administered, Kort; a crazy bird, Kukar; and a square, a Kube.

Sixth in the parade of the alphabet is the letter, W, with 46. Warnock, to a direction, West; a season, Winter; a measure of electricity, Watts; a spider's net, Webb; something serving to divide, a Wege; a burning strip of cloth, Wick; a flirtatious animal, Wolf; a dreamer, Wisher; a popular kind of water pistol, Wood, a kind of soap, Woodbury, and Wills told me what you rich students are planning to do with your left over money.

R follows with 45 and P with 43. Rauscher, Rezek, Roggedorck, Ruparich, and Rynder, a spooky bird warning of death, Raven; hokus, pokus, Rokus; a character from an old Swiss story book, Robinson; and a tall marsh plant, Reed.

P has Paremski; Pengilly; 4 sons of Peter, Peterson; a strong seasoning, Pepper; the torporous species of tailless (froglike) amphibians of the genus Bufo and the allied genera, a Poad; and cost, Price to it's credit.

Then comes C and G in 9th place with 33. A famous ballplayer, Casey; a means of transportation, Carr; a color, Green; a Braves manager, Grimm; and the two pronunciation mixer-upers for teachers, Grote, and Grotte.

In 10th place are C and L with 30; A and N, 28; J, 27; F, 22; E, 17; V, 16; O, 16; Z, 8; and Y, 6; and from here on come the letters that the stork neglected to use, U, 2; Q, 1; I, 1; and poor X, zero.

The two lonely U's are Uehling and Urbanz while Quilling keeps Q company and Iwen, letter I.

Other interesting names are those that take on regular "first" names, such as Harry, Russell, Ray, Adams, Carroll, Dale, Danis, Duuren, Eddy, Fraedrich, Fritz, Janis, Jeffery, Jay, Lee, Richards, Ray, Rogers, St. Jacques, Sullivan, Sylvester, Thomas, Tobias, Todd, Van, and Wallace.

Never before in any of my Stoutonia snooping reports have I mentioned anyone's name, but this week I just couldn't resist. I'll admit I only mentioned 125 different student names, but I do hope that the rest of you will still be proud of your name during the rest of this school year and the rest of your life!

It's been real much fun although time consuming snooping this week, but I like it and always remember, I'll be watching you!

Members of Gamma Delta will meet at 5:00 P.M. on Sunday, April 24, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Workshop plans will be continued along with the regular Sunday evening's program.

MY BUNSEN FOR A COOKIE —

A distinguished American journal lamented recently that a national flour and baking company gives annual awards for the best recipes entered in its national contest.

Further comment ran that it is deplorable indeed that such frivolous endeavor as baking a cookie should be so amply rewarded when so many more deserving projects die for want of funds.

We wouldn't for a minute argue that a cancer cure is more important than a cookie, or a polio vaccine, or a means of curing a common cold.

But lots of far less vital matters rank as "suitable" and "worthwhile" projects, whereas the simple things that make life smooth and somewhat sweet are taken for granted.

Undoubtedly there are people who are so absorbed in the study of art, science, nature, and the unknown that cakes, pies, steaks and cookies are of little concern. These individuals could be as easily satisfied with a little wild rice or bird seed.

But we wonder if men are wise to underate the cookie. A woman interested in improving her recipes and pleased by the result of her culinary labors is probably a happy woman. Her family is probably well-nourished, and her husband is undoubtedly pampered.

We think that the modern woman in her triple role as caterer, dietitian and entrepreneur of the world's only perpetual motion machine — the kitchen — out-science science.

Her ancestor who dreamed up the apple pie merits a place in our Hall of Fame. And if she makes a better cookie — it is all right with us to have the flour and baking company send an award to her door. In fact, it is fine!

Each year the members of the Dietetic Club and their advisors, Miss Killian and Miss Meiller, go to a well known eating restaurant or an inn for the senior dinner. Last year the group went to the Anderson Hotel in Wabasha, Minnesota, where they were served delicious food prepared according to Grandma Anderson's original recipes.

This year the trip will include a Saturday luncheon at Charlie's Cafe. Exceptional followed by shopping.

ALUMNI OFFICE CALLS FOR RETURN OF INFO.

Dear Fellow Member:

Your Alumni office is asking you once again for news items concerning yourself, your family, and your friends. We need more news if we are to keep the alumni page filled each week, plus the biennial newsletter.

Returns on the information blank that was attached to your newsletter have been very slow. To date, out of 1500 information blanks mailed, only 190 have been returned. To keep this alumni page filled each week for a school year, we will need more than 700 returns.

If you enjoy this page each week, then you must do your part by sending in some news. We don't expect you to spend hours in writing; just jot down a line or two telling something about your job, your family, and anything else that you feel your former classmates might like to know. It isn't only a big promotion or birth of triplets that makes news. Your friends are also vitally interested in where you are, what you are doing, recent trips, additions to your family, and so forth.

Won't you just take a couple of minutes of your time to help us and your former classmates? Fill out the information blank that was attached to your newsletter, and return it to the Alumni office as soon as possible. If you no longer have the blank just use a sheet of regular paper and supply us with some facts. Don't worry about correct form or punctuation; we will take care of those details.

Come on, gang, let's keep this page filled each week.

Your Alumni Secretary,
Bob Rudiger

STOUT ALUMNI IFYE'S FEATURED IN ARTICLE

Featured in a recent issue of the "Wisconsin REA News" have been the activities of two Stout Institute home economics graduates who played important roles in the International Farm Youth Exchange program.

The girls are Mary Detlor, Plainfield, who represented the United States in Denmark, and Dorothy Hilton, IFYE representative to England. The Stout graduates were among four outstanding 4-H members from Wisconsin whose excellent scholastic, personal, and 4-H accomplishments led to their appointments abroad.

Each of the IFYE "grass root ambassadors" spent six weeks actually living and working with farm families in European countries. In return, American farm families "adopted" a number of rural young people from other nations.

Miss Detlor and Miss Hilton wrote of their experiences under the direction of Miss June Kysilko, associate editor of the "Wisconsin REA News." Also working on the project were the home economics division and the public relations office of The Stout Institute.

EDUCATION COSTS AT STOUT ARE REASONABLE

Unusual Benefits at Surprising

Low Costs Are Advantages Of Attending College At Stout

Money invested in a college education buys a priceless possession which pays for itself many times. College not only prepares for a better position vocationally, but it also provides many personal benefits which can not be measured in dollars and cents. The Stout Institute is a college which gives its students unusual benefits at a surprisingly low cost.

Alumni of Stout are in an excellent position to convey this idea to the coming group of high school graduates who have the ability, initiative, and interest in higher education, particularly in the fields of home economics and industrial education.

The costs of attending Stout for each semester are listed in this article to help alumni in their work of counseling students interested in Stout.

Some of the costs are fixed while others depend on the wants and needs of the individual. For example all freshmen girls live in dormitories and must pay set costs for room and board. Others save some by renting rooms in private homes and making their own arrangements for eating. All students pay the same fees, $61.00 per semester includes all the fixed charges for textbooks, laboratory and shop materials, use of the library, health services, and student activities such as athletic events, assemblies, concerts, dances, newspaper, and yearbook.

REISMAN TRIO

Pictured above are the Reisman Trio which will present a lyceum program here on April 29.

NEW YORK TRIO TO PRESENT LYCEUM

The Reisman Trio will present the last lyceum program of the year Friday evening, April 29, at 8:00. The attractive, talented sisters making up the trio are Shirley Reisman, pianist, Mona Reisman, violinist, and Barbara Reisman, cellist.

Making music together has been as much a part of the Reismans' family life as the evening meal. Selecting their instruments in early childhood, the sisters have been playing together professionally for four years. During that period, the Reismans have concertized in the East. They have been featured on radio and television, and at some of New York's leading hotels, including the Park Sheraton and the Hotel New Yorker.

Each sister brings to the family trio a skill and a temperament which makes the Reismans unique. Their concerts possess a charm and a grace of expression which is only possible among artists who are closely associated.

Shirley, the pianist, has studied with some of the leading piano pedagogues both in this country and in France, and has concertized extensively in the East as a piano soloist with symphony orchestras and in recital.

One of New York's busiest musicians is Mona Reisman, violinist. When not playing concerts with her sisters, she performs with various ensembles on radio and television and is a member of the Bach Aria Group orchestra.

Barbara, the youngest, has followed the pattern set by her sisters, winning scholarships and studying with the renowned cellist, Leonard Rose. A gifted singer as well, she has recently been appearing in the Broadway revival of "Oklahoma."

"Is your daddy home, sonny?"

"No, sir. He hasn't been home since mother caught Santa Claus kissing the maid."

A.P.O. MEMBERS TO STAGE KITE DAY

Cub Scouts in Menomonie have circled April 23 on their calendars. That date is "Kite Day" under guidance of A.P.O. Members of the Alpha Phi Omega Fraternity attended den mothers meetings recently. At these meetings demonstrations on the making of kites were given. The "Kite Day" was undertaken by A.P.O. as a service project for younger scouts. It was first tried two years ago and was a tremendous success.

Site of the "Kite Day" is the Fair Grounds on April 23 at 1:30 in the afternoon. Building of the kites was left up to each individual cub. Members of A.P.O. made and distributed the sticks and also demonstrated how the kites were to be made. The cubs were required to furnish paper, string, paste, and the extra time to complete the kite.

Prizes will be awarded to owners of the best kites.

Helen Harry, of Elkhorn, Wisconsin, has been dormitory counselor for the past two years in addition to her membership on the Stoutonia staff, Home Ec. Club, Phi Upsilon Omicron, and Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority.

"I have been a dorm counselor and assistant to the director of dormitories for the past two years which has given me a chance to work with the freshmen girls in all three dormitories. I think this has given me experience to recognize, understand, and handle many student problems and activities. ## FRANK RARIG WILL ADDRESS STUDENTS

Addressing speech students of Stout Institute, their guests and the general public on Monday evening, May 9, will be Frank M. Rarig, professor emeritus of speech and theatre arts at the University of Minnesota.

Professor Rarig is nationally known in the field of speech, both as a teacher and an author. He has spent 50 years in the teaching profession, assisting students of speech, and also older persons enrolled in adult education programs, to become better communicators.

Introducing Professor Rarig will be Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of Stout Institute, Malcolm R. McBride, a member of Stout's department of speech, is general chairman of the event.

Prior to Dr. Rarig's address, a dinner will be held in the college tea room honoring both Professor and Mrs. Rarig.

STOUT ALUMNA HAS ARTICLE PUBLISHED

A professional educational article in the May issue of "Forecast for Home Economists," entitled "Coping with Boys in Homemaking Classes" has as its author Mrs. Ellen Russell Gore, homemaking teacher of Galesville high school and a Stout alumna, and Miss Margaret Harper, supervisor in the home economics education department of The Stout Institute, Menomonie.

The magazine is a national professional journal for specialists in the field of home economics. The article stresses the increased interest being shown in providing home economics training for high school boys and techniques by which such a project may be successfully carried out.

School administrators, the article points out, are becoming increasingly aware of the fact that boys now in high school will soon be sharing the responsibilities of planning and operating a home. Such administrators are therefore turning to boys' classes in home economics to provide appropriate preparation.

According to Mrs. Gore and Miss Harper, such classes need not be uninteresting to boys or discipline problems to teachers if the projects undertaken hold a boy's interest, if physical facilities are available to permit efficient class operation without congestion, and if male participants in this new endeavor receive praise and encouragement, instead of criticism and misdirected humor.

"I CROWN THEE QUEEN"

Edward Griffith, 1955 junior class prom king, is shown crowning Robert Haskins queen of the junior prom. Nancy Anderson and David Agnew are the two alternate queens. The theme of the event was "Enchanted Evening," and The Johnny Roberts Orchestra furnished the dancing music.

DR. JARVIS ATTENDS S. I. A. A. CONFERENCE

Describing progress made by the Wisconsin State Industrial Arts Curriculum Committee to delegates to the annual conference of the Southeast Industrial Arts association, held recently in Racine, was Dr. John A. Jarvis, dean of the division of industrial education at The Stout Institute.

Other Stout alumni who participated were Roy Radtke, director of industrial arts in the Milwaukee public schools, and Kenneth L. Schank, instructor of industrial arts at Washington junior high school, Racine, the school at which the conference was held.

Mr. Radtke furnished a "Report on the American Industrial Arts Association." Kenneth Schank was program chairman of the conference.

DAVID BARNARD NAMED PRESIDENT OF GROUP

Named as president of the Wisconsin Department of Audio-visual Instruction has been David Barnard, director of Stout Institute's audio-visual center.

Schuller, director of the Michigan State college audio-visual center; Joseph Dickman, director of Encyclopaedia Britannica Films; and Dr. Walter A. Wittich, director of the audio-visual instruction bureau of the University of Wisconsin.

INDONESIA TEACHERS VISIT STOUT CAMPUS

CHEST X-RAY UNIT TO VISIT STOUT CAMPUS

Have you had a chest x-ray lately? Yes, even though you may look healthy and feel fine, still your lungs may be harboring the germs of tuberculosis. And a chest x-ray is one of the easiest and quickest ways of checking.

The mobile Chest X-Ray in Dunn County will be at The Stout Institute on Tuesday, May 31, between the hours of 9:30 A.M.-11:30 A.M. and 1:00-4:00 P.M. on Wednesday, June 1, between the hours of 8:30 A.M.-1:30 P.M. All students and faculty members are urged to visit the Chest X-Ray unit which will be located outside the Harvey Hall. The unit will be able to accommodate 300 daily. Registration will be held in the gym. When registering know the name and address of your family physician and also something about your medical history including when you had your last Chest X-Ray.

Since tuberculosis often attacks without any noticeable symptoms, persons may have the disease in its curable, early stages without being aware of it. Other tests and examinations before he can say for sure: "This is T.B." but the x-ray picture points the way.

If your doctor says your x-ray shows healthy lungs, you have no cause for worry. Of course you will need another x-ray occasionally to make sure everything stays O.K. If he says your x-ray makes him suspect trouble in your lungs, you will have taken the first step towards arresting the disease and regaining good health.

NOTICE

All Freshman speech students are required to attend Professor Rarig's speech on Monday evening May 9, at 7:30 in the auditorium. There will be no class for all freshman speech students on May 10.

WHAT IS IT?

STUDENTS WILL SERVE ON TV MARATHON

Students of The Stout Institute have been asked to serve as telephone operators during WEAU-TV's television marathon on Sunday, May 8, in an attempt to raise $30,000 for cerebral palsy treatment programs. The program will run from 9 P.M. Saturday to 2 P.M. Sunday.

The Stout students, working through Dr. E. G. Iverson, director of student personnel services at Stout and a representative of the executive board of United Cerebral Palsy of the Chippewa Valley, Inc., have been asked to handle telephone calls between 10 A.M. and 2 P.M. Sunday.

At all times 20 telephone operators will be located on the stage of the auditorium at Eau Claire senior high school. They will be in view of the TV cameras as they record information and contributions called in as a result of the appeal for funds.

Several nationally-known entertainers will appear on the marathon. These will include Tommy Bartlett of "Welcome Travelers"; Toni Gilman, well-known actress; and Roberta Quinlan, network singing stars. Many local acts from this area will also appear.

DEAN JARVIS SPEAKS AT IOWA CONFERENCE

One of the headline speakers on the recent Iowa State College eighth annual spring conference was Dr. John A. Jarvis, dean of the division of industrial education at The Stout Institute.

Dean Jarvis spoke twice before assembled delegates to the conference. In the morning he discussed "Project Design and Development." At the afternoon meeting, Dr. Jarvis described "Responsibilities of an Industrial Arts Teacher."

Sponsored by the vocational education department of Iowa State College at Ames, Iowa, the conference attracted top teachers, school administrators, directors, and supervisors from throughout Iowa.

REISMAN TRIO GIVES CLASSICAL PROGRAM

Three charming young ladies presented a concert, as the last lyceum Friday night. The Reisman trio, which is made up of sisters, came from Minnesota.

The first portion of their program contained classical selections. In the first number, "Trio in E flat Major" by Haydn, the musicians displayed much of their talent. They told short stories about the pieces or composers. This made the numbers more interesting to the audience.

After intermission each young lady gave a solo. Their selections were semi-classical. Barbara, the cellist beautifully played Beethoven's "Trio Swan." The Trio played "Tea Party" superbly. Johann Strauss' "Vienna Waltz" was well chosen for their final number. As an encore they played "Danny Boy."

Although the audience was small the trio did not seem to mind as they gave a wonderful concert. Their stage manners were fine.

STS RETURNS FROM ANNUAL FIELD TRIP

The Stout Typographical Society began its spring field trip early Wednesday morning. The six o'clock hour was obviously too early for one member, but soon the group was on its merry way to the land of paper mill and printing departments.

The first stop was at the Nekosia Bond mill at Port Edwards, Wisconsin, where the men were given a thorough tour through the paper mill and printing department. Different tests were being made to insure superlative quality of every sheet of Nekosia Bond. The highlight of this stop was the zoography.

After lunch the tour continued to the Consolidated Mill in Wisconsin Rapids. This is the only plant in the United States where the paper is enamel coated on the paper machine.

The remainder of the day was spent traveling to Hotel Conway in Appleton. The evening passed-as they always do, but not before a few of the members of the group went to Lawrence College and watched the dress rehearsal of the coming play. (The girls were dressed in shorts and leotards, much to the dismay (?) of the Stout ladies.)

After a frustrating evening, the group resumed its business (professional attitudes and all). At the Vocational School in Menasha the group was told of the principles of this school and the instructor explained to the group the course of study.

The next stop was at Gilbert's paper mill in Menasha where paper is made from rags. This company provided the group with a complete chicken dinner, trimmings and all.

STOUT WILL ACQUIRE A NEW NAME SOON

STOUT STATE COLLEGE

Yes, that will be the official name of The Stout Institute beginning July 1, the date on which Stout will be incorporated with the other Wisconsin State Colleges. The Wisconsin Institute of Technology at Platteville will also be included in the integration.

A bill abolishing the Stout Institute Board of Trustees and including Stout under the Board of Regents of the Wisconsin State Colleges has been passed by the both houses of the Wisconsin Legislature and has also been signed into law by Governor Kohler.

On July 1 the transfer of all records and facilities of Stout to the regents of the state college will take place. However, both The Stout Institute and the Wisconsin Institute of Technology will have representatives on the board of regents, which has been expanded in size.

In accordance with the regents' policy of designating all colleges under their jurisdiction by a uniform title, The Stout Institute will on July 1 become officially Stout State College.

DELTA KAPPAS ATTEND NATIONAL CONVENTION

On Friday, April 22, several members of Sigma Chapter, Delta Kappa fraternity, traveled to the campus of the State Teachers College at Milwaukee to attend a National Delta Kappa Convention. Six chapters were represented namely, Clarion, Penn., Frostberg, Md., Stout, Milton, Milwaukee, and Whitewater.

The main topic dealt with the relocation of the fraternity's National Headquarters and the breaking up of the old Delta Kappa organization. This was necessary due to an order issued by the head of the state colleges in the State of New York which banned fraternities and sororities in that state. In as much as the most active chapters are located in Wisconsin, the organization was legally reformed with headquarters at Milwaukee. The new organization's name is Delta Kappa Fraternity Inc. New officers were elected and will be headed by Mr. Frank Alfino of the Milwaukee chapter. Delta Kappa plans to enlarge its membership by installing chapters in many of our state colleges to build the organization into what it once was.

The Stout Snooper

Hi! Well, today marks three weeks till the end, three weeks before IT'S over until next September, three weeks before the 80 seniors depart to whereabouts widely scattered through out Wisconsin, the nearby states, and to other parts of the world.

As you've probably noticed too, these 1955 seniors are busy comparing positions, asking where their friends will be and I, too, began to wonder just where these 80 young people will be when their life begins, when they are forty years of age, instead of 20 or so.

(Now you've probably guessed what I'm going to say this week.) Yes, and so I snooped on a 1934 Stout grad who now is about 40, living in — which is situated about 80 miles from Menomonie. As I drove slowly along the suburban street in my jet-mobile, I saw an immense 1890 styled house surrounded by about 2 1/2 acres of beautiful, glowing green grass and many tall walnut, cedar, spruce, basswood, elm, and ash trees. "Just like a park," I thought, "why there even is a smooth-running creek joining a small river within 50 feet of the back yard; it even looks inviting for wading!"

Looking around, my telescope eyes spied the former Stout student's workshop; the building had been a city-farmer's barn, but had been remodeled to accommodate hobby-occupation, carpentry. Inside I peeked and took inventory: power saws, piles of multi-sized lumber, models of things previously manufactured, many tools, etc., everything a sign of busy and interesting work. I would have liked to have spent a while hiding in the tiny pile of fresh smelling sawdust watching this man work, but at present his project is remodeling the large, large house into three family-sized apartments; plus his own family's home, 1 1/2 floors.

And so I wandered into the house and watched his work, discovering that he had moved a stairway, found a hidden room, had efficiently designed fully equipped living units in a minimum of space, and had and was putting his ingenious ideas into effect.

Afterwards, I wandered into the library and snooped around until I found some records of just what this inventive Stout grad had manufactured or invented. I discovered that the most spectacular object of his experimenting was discovering the now widely used pressure cooker saucepan seal! Such a valuable idea!

He has also designed and built commercial displays for various companies' home and floor shows. Sometimes these displays were built in an exact large-scaled model of the company's product. (I know, I saw the proof.)

Perhaps you are wondering just what his carpentry shop has manufactured and sold to the world. One project was making art stands, one of which was sold to a famous artist, Mr. —. Other products were clothes basket racks, hampers, "nesting stools" coming in sets of four, looking like large wastepaper baskets upside down—they serve their purpose conveniently being easily transformed into TV luncheon tables, picnic seats, and extra footstools, etc. This Stout grad with a million and one ideas manufactured insulated picnic coolers, similar to a Scotch bucket, tool chests, and also cutout many jigsaw puzzles.

Idea after idea has entered and matured in this mind during many years since he was a young boy and before his dreams of attending Stout. His first business was named Lightning Photo Service, the proprietor was fourteen years old.

Never too rushed to stop and give a kind or joking word, never exhausting his wordrobe, always thinking of "new ideas" and new ways to make things; I hope this is typical of every Stout grad even though this partial biography is not typical of the thousands of Stout grads. Yet it was written as a compliment to you, the four hundred Industrial Arts Education students and the many, many Stout graduates. You of modern day show originality and inventiveness too for it was especially illustrated by the fine display of contemporary furniture in the main corridor of Harvey Hall.

NEWS OF OUR ALUMNI

Donald Ewart (B.S. 1948), teacher of Industrial Education at Joliet Township High School and Junior College, Joliet, Illinois, has been teaching two classes, The Family Car and School Bus Driver Training, in the adult education program in Joliet.

He recently completed requirements for the M.S. degree at the University of Wisconsin.

"Creative Handicraft" a book that is a complete course in elementary craftwork developed especially for boys and girls in grade school and junior high classes, is the latest achievement of Ira Madden, B.S. 1927, 15806 Oakfield, Detroit 27, Michigan.

Madden has taught for 26 years in the Detroit public schools and at the present is teaching industrial arts at the Cray Elementary School, 16164 Asbury Park, Detroit. He is also advisor and critic teacher at Wayne University. He is the chief inspector for cars entered in the Detroit Soapbox Derby.

In 1947 Madden was honored with the Master Teacher Award of the Michigan Industrial Education Association. He was appointed in 1952 by Henry Ford II to the advisory committee which acts as consultant for the Industrial Arts Awards program originated by Scholastic Magazines and sponsored by the Ford Motor Company.

Ira C. Madden has a deep faith in the ability of youth to meet challenges. The example of this faith he has put into a Goodheart-Wilcox publication. The 224 page book contains more than 250 illustrations, detailed drawings and photos, designed to encourage the development of leisure-time hobbies and home work-shop activities. According to Madden, its aim is to help develop happy, well-adjusted individuals.

Madden's book, "Creative Handicraft," will be available at the Stout library.

A prominent figure in industrial education and the holder of a Stout Institute honorary doctor of science degree, John C. Wright died recently. He was buried on April 14 in Rock Creek cemetery near Bethesda-Chevy Chase, Maryland.

Born in Elkhart county, Indiana, Dr. Wright graduated from Kansas State Normal school. He later earned both bachelor of science and master of arts degrees from the University of Missouri.

In 1926 Mr. Wright was honored as a nationally-famous industrial educator when an honorary doctorate of science was bestowed upon him by The Stout Institute. He was a visitor to the Stout campus and was well-known to many of the college administrators and faculty members.

During his long and active career, Dr. Wright was superintendent of schools at Leavenworth, Kansas; director of Vocational Instruction at Kansas City, Missouri; and Director of the National Board of Vocational Education from 1922-1933.

In 1933 Mr. Wright was named assistant commissioner for vocational education in the U. S. Office of Education. He held this post until his retirement in 1946.

In addition to his educational contributions and accomplishments, Mr. Wright was active in related endeavors. For a number of years he was an architect and builder in Kansas City. He served his country in both the Spanish American War and World War I, serving as a special agent for war training in World War I.

Dr. Wright was also honored by appointment to numerous Inter-American conference groups devoted to advancement in Pan-American education and human welfare. From 1947 to 1950 he was a member of the U. S. Commission on Life Adjustment Education for Youth.

Mr. Wright is equally well-known as an author of professional texts in the field of industrial education. In addition, he served as co-author with a number of other leading industrial educators.

John C. Wright is survived by his widow, Cordelia B. Wright, and two children, Nadia W. Zimmerman and Dale J. Wright. Also surviving are his sister, Miss Chloe Wright, and a brother, Jacob Wright.

FINANCIAL AID AT STOUT AVAILABLE TO NEEDY

Scholarships Aid Students.

Stout Pays $35,000

To Student Workers

Financial aids are available at The Stout Institute to assist students who might otherwise find college attendance difficult or impossible. These aids include scholarships, grants-in-aid, loans, and part-time employment. The type and amount of aid varies according to the student's need and ability. The financial aid program is designed to provide a modest amount of assistance to many rather than to give larger amounts to a few.

Applications Required

To obtain financial aid, students must submit an application for financial aid. New students must also submit an application for admission. These forms are available from the Director of Student Personnel Services, The Stout Institute, Menomonie, Wisconsin. Appropriate forms are sent to all prospective students whose names are submitted on the nomination blank now found each week on the alumni page of the Stoutiana.

Scholarships

There are several types of scholarships available at The Stout Institute. During the current semester 62 students at Stout are aided by various scholarships.

About 100 graduates of public or private high schools may qualify for scholarships worth as much as $84.00 or $94.00 in the form of fee exemptions during the freshman year. Some of these scholarships are based primarily upon rank in the high school graduating class. This is true of the awards authorized by Wisconsin statutes. Other scholarships are primarily for those with great need who have sufficient scholastic promise to insure college success.

Out-of-state tuition exemptions in the amount of $50.00 per year are granted in accordance with the provisions of Wisconsin statutes to 8 or 9 students each year.

Twenty to thirty scholarships of varying value are awarded to upperclassmen who establish outstanding scholastic records and who exhibit superior leadership ability.

Grants-in-Aid

Grants-in-aid are made to students who are deserving of assistance and cannot attend college without such aid. Foreign students, applicants with health problems, those who have special talents, and others for whom other types of assistance are inappropriate may be considered for grants-in-aid.

Loans

The State of Wisconsin makes loans to assist needy resident students to attend Stout. The loans are never made to students before the fourth week of attendance and usually not until the end of the first semester. Application is made directly to Stout, but the State Department of Public

STOUT WINS ONE AND LOSES FOUR

Stevens Point, behind the fine pitching of Boldig and Olson defeated the Bluedevils at Wakanda Park in a doubleheader.

In the first game, Point squeaked out a 3-2 decision. Louie Kort allowed the Pointers only five hits and one walk but the Bluedevils could only bring two runs across the plate. Kort struck out seven men while Fred Ponschok provided the stick power getting three hits in three times at bat.

The second game proved less interesting as the Bluedevils failed to function efficiently and took a 14-2 loss. Jim Hoffman and Woody Bile were impressive at times and will definitely give their opponents trouble in the future with more experience. They struck out 11 men between them. Harry Miller collected two hits in four attempts to pace Stout.

The Stout Bluedevils, recovering from two losses to Stevens Point, took their revenge on the Bluegolds of Eau Claire by a 9-8 margin.

It was the batting power of Harry Miller, Bill Romero, Jim Sands, and Bill Bachmeyer who paced the Bluedevils in their first league encounter. Lefty Jim Hoffman did a very commendable job in relief as he only encountered trouble in one inning. Hoffman, a freshman from Gresham, chalked up his first victory of his college career.

A strong Huskie team from Minnesota managed to get some timely hitting along with some fine pitching to sweep both ends of a doubleheader. Finelli of St. Cloud was very impressive as he limited the Bluedevils to three hits. Hoffman gave up six hits but allowed four costly walks, three of them resulting in runs. St. Cloud won 4-0.

In the second game St. Cloud emerged victorious by a 9-4 score. Louie Kort, the veteran chucker from Clintonville, troubled by a sore arm, gave way to Bill Bachmeyer in the sixth. Bachmeyer, a first baseman, showed possibilities of being a fine relief hurler as he put out the fire in the seventh. Harry Miller, freshman slugger from Neenah, continued his exceptional hitting, getting two hits in four times at bat.

Tomorrow is the day. Jump in your jalopy and head down to Wakanda Park. The Stout line is determined to garner both ends of a double header from a fair Mankato State team. Don't forget tomorrow at 12:30 sharp, Fireball Louie Kort is expected to throw one game with Jim "Lefty" Hoffman chucking the other. Both pitchers have done terrific. Control seems to be the biggest factor, but with warm weather in store for Saturday it might be a long ride home for the boys from across the river.

In the hitting department Stout has several fine hitters. Leading the pack is Harry Miller from Neenah with a hefty .478 for six games. The Neenah pitcher should shake the Mankato lurkers up from time to time.

If Harry doesn't, Fred Ponschok, clean-up batter for Stout, will take up some of the slack.

With some of the fellows starting to get their eye Mankato should be in for a rough time. So don't forget to support your Bluedevils. The odds in winning are much greater when you know you've got someone pulling for you. If you don't enjoy baseball come on down and help the umpire's call the plays. You know they're wrong quite often. Anyway they're wrong if your side has something to gain. So remember at 12:30 tomorrow Mankato invades Wakanda Park.

DR. FRYKLUND PUBLISHES ARTICLE

"The Ongoing Objective," a professional educational article by Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of The Stout Institute, is the lead feature in the May issue of "Industrial Arts and Vocational Education," a national publication in the field of industrial and vocational education.

In his article, Dr. Fryklund first traces a number of industrial, economic, and educational advances of the past 50 years, pointing out that achievement of the last century in relation to the quality and quantity of material goods was greater than in any similar period of history.

The feature describes the advance of industrial-arts education from its primitive forms to its present system and reality, especially as much to the representative materials and methods of the industrial world.

Dr. Fryklund then points out the importance of the analysis technique for putting system and organization into course development in industrial arts. He indicates that outcomes should be in terms of ideals, attitudes, appreciations and skills.

The author next claims that industrial arts education has done much to close the gap between education and creative achievement. It is quite probable, Dr. Fryklund claims, that an important means of transition from school achievement to achievement in life exists in activities that provide opportunities for experiencing industrial materials and practices in an orderly way.

With system, organization, purposeful, planning and organizing within the school, the article concludes, each individual can achieve maximum accomplishment and education can contribute in the fullest measure to the education of our youth, so that those who possess the necessary abilities can some day help to organize and direct creative world achievement.

Monday morning, May 9, a demonstration entitled "It's a Lemon" will be presented by Ann Switzenberg. The demonstration will begin at 10:00 A.M. in Room 301 of Harvey Hall. Everyone is welcome.

probably the best since they were home last.

With everyone stuffed and contented the tour proceeded to the Banta Publishing Company also in Menasha. This stop centered around the complete publication of books and other pamphlets.

To complete the afternoon, the group went through the Neenah Senior High School in Neenah. (They found it to be a beautiful building.) The instructor explained the basic course of study and his responsibilities to the school. The student body served the group cookies and pop.

Another enjoyable evening was spent by the group, but no Lawrence tour this evening.

With the morning at hand and everyone still in gay spirit, the tour continued to the Appleton Coated Paper Company. The main point of interest was the different methods of coating paper and the different colors of coating.

From the coating plant the group went to Kimberly Clark in Appleton. Here the group was shown the method of making wall paper and plates for wall paper.

In the afternoon they visited the Appleton Senior High and toured through the printing class. Here they also gained valuable information for teaching.

The final stop was the tour through the Appleton Post-Crescent. The highlight of this stop was the wirephoto and the plate making department of this newspaper company.

The tour was completed as a tired crew sang gayly throughout the return trip. Everyone greatly enjoyed the tour with hopes to return again to this wonderful land of printing.

DIETER IS NAMED NEW TOWER EDITOR

Editor of the 1956 Tower, yearbook of The Stout Institute, will be Dorothy Dieter, a sophomore from Brewster, Minnesota. This announcement was made by Norma Schlottman, retiring editor of the yearbook staff. Members are chosen for their ability and interest in yearbook work.

Helping Miss Dieter with her duties will be the assistant editor, Nathalie Wick, a sophomore from Pearl City, Illinois. Production manager is Carl Smith, a junior from LaFarge, Wisconsin. Kathleen Ritzman, a freshman from Port Washington, Wisconsin, has assumed the duties of the literary editor. Completing the staff, Bob Triese, a sophomore from Oshkosh, Wisconsin, takes over as the new business manager. Advisors will remain the same, with David Barnard serving as production advisor and Norman Adams as literary advisor.

Miss Schlottman also announced that the 1955 Tower should be ready for distribution by May 20.

PROF. RARIG IS SPEAKER HERE

A large crowd in the Stout auditorium on Monday heard Frank M. Rarig, professor emeritus of speech and theatre arts of the University of Minnesota discuss "Speech Education for College Students." Professor Rarig was introduced to the audience of faculty members, students, and guests by Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of The Stout Institute.

In his talk, Professor Rarig traced the growth of speech education in the United States, pointing out the importance of good speech training and the need for special speech preparation in such activities as radio speaking.

Previous to his address, Dr. and Mrs. Rarig were honored at a dinner attended by faculty and students of the college, together with a number of guests. After an introduction by Malcolm McBride, Stout faculty member who was in charge of arrangements for Mr. Rarig's visit, Professor Rarig spoke briefly and read "Mending Wall" by Robert Frost.

Mr. and Mrs. Rarig were also entertained by speech students of The Stout Institute at a coffee hour following Professor Rarig's address.

AV FILM PREVIEW TO BE AT STOUT LIBRARY

Various creative art forms will provide the theme of a free film preview to be presented in the audio-visual theatre of the Stout library on Wednesday, May 18, at 7:30 p. m. All persons in the community interested in artistic endeavor, or persons seeking interesting club or organizational programs, will find the previews entertaining and worthwhile.

"Trio," a film combining the talents of three great musical artists, offers Rubenstein, Heifetz, and Piatigorsky in the First Movement of Schubert's "Trio in B Flat," and in the First, Second and Third Movements of Mendelssohn's "Trio in D Minor."

Two of Norman McLaren's widely discussed film experimentations in combining sound and visual media are "Penpoint Percussion" and "Loops." In these featurettes the audience will learn of the principles and production of hand-drawn synthetic sound on film as animated visual designs perform strange convolutions to fantastic sound effects.

In "Brush Tips in Water Color: A Landscape Developed," artist Robert Lockord depicts the technique of water color painting as he creates beautiful watercolor of the mountains of Colorado. As the painting develops from rough sketch to completed landscape, the viewer becomes aware of the artist's individuality in his interpretation of nature.

Lovers of literature and history will delight in "American Literature: Revolutionary Times." In this featurette are recreated both the stirring careers and inspirational writings of such colonial leaders as Benjamin Franklin and Thomas Jefferson.

David Barnard, director of The Stout Institute audio-visual center, is in charge of the preview. The features are furnished by the Film Council of America.

DISPLAY HOBBY

Demonstrating a recent "best selling" apron which she designed and constructed for the Easter season just past is Marion Pecha, versatile and individualistic sewing machine artist from Bloomer, Miss Pecha, a freshman in home economics at The Stout Institute, creates frilly aprons appropriate for every season of the year.

STOUT COED HAS HOBBY OF DESIGNING APRONS

Marion Pecha, A Freshman From Bloomer, Sews Aprons For Relaxation

To the average American woman, an apron is the symbol of household drudgery, merely a drab necessity in the routine of housekeeping.

However, the lucky housewife who wears an apron created by Marion Pecha, one of the "sewingest" young ladies on The Stout Institute campus, immediately discovers that such usually-dull garments can scintillate with imagination and color.

The pert and pretty Miss Pecha, now enrolled for her first year of home economics at Stout, designs and fashions party aprons which have attracted wide notice, both in her home town of Bloomer and on the Stout campus.

Just name some occasion or holiday season, and quicker than the average person can thread a needle, Marion has sketched out an appropriate motif and has her sewing machine humming. Frilly aprons making the Christmas season merrier, frothy aprons encouraging Valentine romance—they're just a bright idea and a moment's work to Marion Pecha.

Right now she's utilizing spare moments from her studies to fill a demand for aprons in the Mother's Day and Fourth of July theme. Her entire output for these two celebrations has already been contracted for by the students and faculty at Stout.

According to Miss Pecha any light weight material such as organdy or voile serves her purpose. A yard of such material per apron is more than sufficient. As for trimming, Miss Pecha says, "I just use my imagination and my sewing machine plus such original touches as beads, sequins, appliques, and ruffles." Some Three graduating Stout Institute senior coeds who majored in dietetics at the college have accepted hospital dietetics appointments and will soon begin their internships.

Seniors accepting appointments include Jo Anne Brehm, Knapp, who will begin her internship July 1 at Colorado General Hospital in Denver; Pat Hashimoto, Hagoyz, Japan, who will intern at St. Luke's Hospital, Cleveland, beginning July 1; and Nancy Carroll, Milwaukee, whose internship at Indiana University Medical Center in Indianapolis starts September 1.

Announcement of the appointments was made by Dr. Alice J. Kirk, dean of the home economics division of The Stout Institute. On April 15 Dean Kirk was notified of the appointments, the traditional date on which the American Dietetic Association releases news of internships to deans of home economics throughout the United States.

TWO STOUT PERSONNEL HONORED AT BANQUET

In honor of their many contributions and years of service to The Stout Institute, faculty members and other personnel of the college gathered recently at the Peace Lutheran church dining hall for a banquet honoring Miss Lillian M. Froggatt, director of the library at Stout, and Miss Gertrude M. O'Brien, college registrar.

Both women will conclude their careers at the college when they retire on July 1.

Master of ceremonies for the banquet was Dr. Dwight Agnew, chairman of the social science department at Stout. Paying tribute to the two guests of honor was Miss Lillian Jetter, professor of home economics and head of the department of clothing and textiles. Music was furnished by the girls' octet of the Stout Symphonic Singers.

As a token of the occasion, Miss Froggatt and Miss O'Brien each received a lovely traveling bag, gift of colleagues at the college.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

With summer vacation almost here, most of you Stout students and faculty will be driving home or will be driving to summer jobs or vacation areas. Some of this driving will be done at night. Public officials have found that public education regarding night driving hazards has paid big dividends. The National Street and Traffic Safety Lighting Bureau has set up rules that have helped reduce night driving accidents:

1. Be alert. Keep a constant watch for pedestrians and for vehicles with dim lights or no lights at all.
2. Don't wear tinted glasses at night. The advantage they offer in reducing glare is more than offset by the disadvantage in reduced vision.
3. Slow down. Don't regulate your speed by posted limits alone. Remember, speed must be governed by conditions, and darkness is a condition that calls for caution.
4. Have your car checked frequently. In darkness, immediate response of the vehicle is a must. Double-check all lights.
5. Use headlights properly. Use upper beam only on rural highways when no approaching car is within 1,000 feet. Use lower beam when driving in cities and residential areas.
6. Dim your lights, even though an oncoming driver fails to dim his. Trying to get even by blinding him is risking your neck. Maintain control of your car by looking at the right shoulder of the highway.
7. Be sure your lights are on before you pull onto a thoroughfare at night.
8. Never stop on the travelled portion of a roadway at night. If you must stop, pull completely off the roadway, leaving parking and dim lights on. Carry flares for use in emergencies.

Sunday evening the Congo Club was entertained by movies which Ed Clary took on the Symphonies Singers' tour to Florida.

Plans were made for a picnic to be held on May 15th at Boy Scout Island. Installation of officers will take place at this time.

Joann Manes and Walter Kratsch were elected as representatives for Congo Club on the Inter-Religious Council for next year.

"Stairway to the Stars" was the theme of the Tri Sigma dinner dance held last Friday evening at the country club. The decorations of silver stars and a large white star for the ceiling, stairway table centerpieces, and place cards and programs in the shape of stars were in keeping with the theme. Music was furnished by Guy Woodford and his orchestra.

The guests for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Salyer and Mr. and Mrs. Vanek.

Ash trays painted with the insignia of the sorority were given to the girls' escorts as favors. Tri Sigma members report that they spent a very enjoyable evening.

The annual Newman Club picnic will be held this Sunday, May 15, for all Newman Club members and their guests. The picnic will be held at Mr. Liech's cottage and will begin at 12:30.

All those who wish to attend will please sign their name on the announcement of the picnic in Harvey Hall. Transportation from the circle out to the cottage will be provided. A picnic lunch will be served and everyone is assured of a wonderful afternoon.

The Y.W.C.A.'s annual Senior Picnic will be held on May 18. Regular members and senior girls who have been members are invited. The girls will meet at the circle at 5:00 P.M. and hike out to Wakanda.

Former "Y" members who are seniors and who are interested in attending contact Ruth Ziegler, chairman of the event.

Since June and graduation are drawing near, the Home Economics Club members feel that the senior girls should be honored. In winding up the social events on the calendar, the underclassmen are sponsoring the traditional farewell Senior breakfast. This hearty spring breakfast is to be held on Saturday morning, May 21, at 8:00 in the Methodist Church on 6th Street.

All girls of Stout, women faculty, and staff members are cordially invited to attend this annual event. Tickets for the breakfast go on sale Monday in the main corridor of Harvey Hall.

The Stout Snooper

Hi! During the past eight months, I've been snooping about Stout, curving my curious nature by snooping among the activities, and conversations, etc. around the college.

Perhaps you have wondered how this column is written, or rather what happens to it before you read it on Friday morning. And so today, I will give you a review of this week's happenings (what happens to all of the Stoutonia articles) on the Stoutonia staff. In other words, just how the paper gets to be a newspaper.

First of all, on Monday, May 2, at 5 o'clock, all reporters met with the Assistant Editor and discussed and chose or were assigned "stories" which were due this last Monday, one week in which to gather the information and write it up. If all the articles were not assigned on Monday, then some reporters found the blue-green assignment slips in their mailboxes on Tuesday.

The articles appearing in this week's paper were put in the copy-reader's basket (located in the Stoutonia office) by Monday, May 9. Then the copyreaders read them over, made corrections, and typed or retyped the articles. As soon as the copyreaders finished the first checking, these stories were taken to the print shop over in Bowman Hall where in the linotype section, the linotypists set up the lines of each article.

These lines, or letters on a single bar of metal, were set into a galley, which is like a narrow cookie sheet. Then came the first galley proof. Ink was poured over the galley, then the paper and then a roll was pressed over—the first time that this column appeared in print. Then the galley was hung on a hook while the proofreaders proof-read the printed article. If a mistake appeared anywhere in the article, the incorrect slug was taken out and the whole line was reset. Then another proofreading session and the galley was hung on another hook.

All was okay now and so the editor took the printed articles and set up a dummy paper. It is important here always to remember to put the number of one galley on the dummy so the production manager can find the right galley. (It's a confusing mess trying to read print backwards; I know, I tried too and it took me about 1/2 hr. to read one word. Well, perhaps it didn't take quite that long.)

Thursday eve arrived, last night, and the production manager put the corrected galleys in the "form" which is the size of the Stoutonia page. Of course, he followed the "dummy" in his "makeup." Then he put in the advertisements and pictures (They are made up separately.)

Next everything is "locked up!" (So all the printers hope for I've seen one of them drop a galley or worse yet, drop a page late Thursday and what a mess of scrambled slugs, etc.) Then a page proof was run by hand and the proofreaders read it over. A second one is made to recheck; the forms were put in the press, another recheck and the proofreaders hoped they didn't find any mistakes. None were found and the press was started and up and away it goes—clang, clang, clang in a rhythmic thum.

The story was being printed; the one that started out almost-two weeks before as an assignment and now you are reading it in this paper. The papers were run off last night or finished up this morning. If you happened to be in the print shop this morning or any Friday morning, you would see the printer's smeared with ink, but wearing happy grins on their faces as another paper was "out."

A total of 1,800 papers were and are "run off!" — 800 are mailed by the circulation staff to alumni or servicemen, high schools etc. in practically all states, Hawaii, Free China, Formosa, Puerto Rico, Guam, Canada, and Alaska.

Yes, an article appearing in the Stoutonia goes a long way—from an idea at the assignment meeting or in the reporter's brain to a printed "story" being read in Korea!

of the aprons are made entirely on a swing needle sewing machine.

Making these aprons, Miss Pecha claims, is a fascinating, satisfying hobby. "After a hard day at college I find relaxation and diversion in sewing, especially such novel items as aprons which require unusual mechanical techniques and personal creativeness. It's the easiest way I know of forgetting my studies and other responsibilities for awhile."

After graduation from Stout, Miss Pecha plans to become a home economics teacher, with sewing, of course, as her main specialty.

Yes, aprons created by Marion Pecha offer conclusive proof that these household necessities can be enjoyed instead of merely endured. A little imagination, mixed with a goodly portion of talent and a sewing machine, can make household aprons as gay as any party gowns.

MISSED — AND SAFE

STOUT SPLITS TWO GAMES WITH MANKATO

The Stout Bluedevils, behind the five-hit pitching of Jim Hoffman and power hitting of Fred Ponschok, Bill Bachmeyer, and Bill Romoser edged a determined Mankato team by a 4-3 score. Stout outhit the visitors 9 to 5.

In the second game Mankato edged the Bluedevils by a 5-4 margin. As in most athletic games, the final score does not tell the whole story. Stout outhit the visitors 12 hits to 6. Louie Kort, seeking his first win of the season, tried hard, not only in the pitching department but also in hitting, as he collected 2 for 2 at the plate. One might think the Bluedevils tired in the second game, but they kept getting stronger. They played all seven innings without an error. Dick Cheke, usually an outfielder, converted to an infielder, doing a wonderful job as he played short stop for the first time.

Perhaps the most interesting, although saddening part of the 2nd game occurred in the seventh inning. Jimmy Sands, first man up for the Stout nine, reached first base when he was hit by a pitched ball. Harry Miller followed with a double. Vern "slug um" Willis hit a triple scoring Sands and Miller. Fred Ponschok scored Willis from third base on a single. Stout at this point trailed 5-4. Bill Bachmeyer singled and Ponschok ended up on third base. Dick Cheke then hit a bounder to the plate as Ponschok attempted to score. The catcher, in everybody but the umpire's opinion, did not tag Ponschok. "Your out." Whether the umpire made a hasty decision is still questionable as the bases were not loaded when Cheke hit to third. The next two men failed to hit as Mankato won the game 5-4.

Here's a brain twister that occurred in Saturday's game. A Mankato batter hit a short foul ball with a man on second. The runner streaked for home but was called back as the ball was foul. The umpire threw in a new ball to Louie Kort, the pitcher. With the batter standing in the batter's box and the pitcher in his stretch, Kort came out of his stretch and threw to Jim Sands at second forcing the base-runner out. The runner had not yet returned to 2nd base after the foul ball. Is the runner safe or out? The umpire ruled him out. Question —

STOUT DROPS FIRST TENNIS MATCH

The Stout tennis team playing their first game of the season dropped their only match to a strong Mankato team. Mankato had previously played eight games.

Captain Bill Stern, Hank Moerschel, Dave Samdahl, Dick Johnson, and Duane Bings fought hard but their inexperience proved the difference.

BLUEGOLDS TO PLAY RETURN BASEBALL TILT

STOUT CITED BY NATIONAL ASSOCIATION

The Stout Institute was cited here today by the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education (AACTE) for its share in a unique quality of teachers for the nation's nation-wide study to improve the schools.

In a letter to Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of Stout Institute and AACTE representative of the college, the association announced completion of an intensive four-year project aimed at better teaching and commended the college for the participation of its faculty members in the program.

More than 400 educational authorities have served on a nation-wide visitation task force to strengthen the service programs of the 285 colleges in AACTE, according to an announcement issued at AACTE headquarters by Dr. Edward C. Pomeroy, executive secretary of the association.

AACTE is a national voluntary association of colleges and universities with members in 48 states.

In his letter to Dr. Fryklund, Dr. L. D. Hawley, dean of the college of education of the University of Texas and president of AACTE, said, "As a result of the Intervisitation Project, college programs for educating teachers are already being improved in dramatic fashion."

"College organization, faculty preparation, student personnel services and teacher education curriculum were among the problems which came under the microscope during the study which was started in 1951."

"Each participating institution now has available for its guidance a written report based upon study by local faculty committees as well as recommendations prepared by visiting authorities from other institutions."

The results, according to Dr. Hawley, are unparalleled in American higher education.

"These improvements," he added, "will provide even better teachers for the boys and girls of the nation. Such dividends more than justify the tremendous investments made in the project."

DAVID BARNARD AIDS ADVANCEMENT PLANS

As president of the Wisconsin Department of Audio-Visual Instruction, David Barnard, director of Stout Institute's audio-visual center, is working on plans for audio-visual advancement in the State of Wisconsin in line with general recommendations to be made by the Wisconsin Committee reporting to the White House Conference on Education in Washington, D. C., this fall.

To develop these audio-visual proposals, Mr. Barnard and officers of the Wisconsin Department of Audio-Visual Instruction have met with the Bureau of Audio-Visual Instruction of the University of Wisconsin.

From the plans formulated by these two coordinating groups, the Wisconsin Committee which will participate in the White House Conference on Education on November 28 to December 1, will offer suggestions for improvements in the area of audio-visual instruction.

ELLA MEILLER NAMED CONSULTING DIETITIAN

Appointed as a consulting dietitian at world-famous Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota, has been Miss Ella Jane Meiller, chairman of the department of food and nutrition at The Stout Institute. Her appointment will run from June through August.

At the Mayo Clinic, Miss Meiller will have the responsibility of instructing those patients who are in need of a modified diet. She will personally diet such diets for patients in need of diet modification and instruct them in the importance and techniques of their special food requirements.

Miss Meiller had similar experience before assuming her chairmanship at Stout. She was formerly a research associate in the department of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Chicago Clinic. At the beginning of the college year in September, Miss Meiller will rejoin the Stout Institute faculty.

NEW AUDIO-VIS TOOLS SEEN BY STUDENTS

Dick Kadotani, Jim Kichefski, Roy Willard and John Youngner, with David P. Barnard, their instructor in Programs of Audio-Visual Education traveled to the twin cities Thursday, May 19, to visit Audio-Visual Departments of the St. Paul public schools and also to visit St. Louis Park public schools, a suburb of Minneapolis. The purpose of the trip was to see Audio-Visual education in operation and to learn any problems keeping it from functioning properly.

Gale Woelfer, Roy Willard, Charles Vleck, Charles Thomas, Richard Sutton, George Stolp, Bill Rahl, Edward Prah, Allen Nicoli, Jim Kichefski, Ralph Wetzel, and Kenneth Arnetweit will travel with David P. Barnard, their instructor in "Production of Audio-Visual Materials," to the twin cities Tuesday, May 24, to visit establishments producing audio-visual materials. In the morning they plan to see the processes of motion picture production at RKO H. Ray, Film Industries. They will visit the University of Minnesota in the afternoon for the purpose of seeing their methods of producing audio-visual materials. In the evening they will visit the Century Theatre to witness the projecting of "Cinemascope." They will be awaiting the return there. The group will return to Menomonie after their visit at the Century Theatre.

These people are searching for what Mr. C. R. Craker, Education Consultant, the Very Technical Institute, Chicago, spoke of, in his keynote address during the third annual audio-visual conference at The Stout Institute, Tuesday, March 29, 1955. Mr. Craker said: "You can't do today's job with yesterday's tools and be in business tomorrow." These traveling students are hoping to see some of these new audio-visual tools.

WATCH THAT WOOD, MARGE

"Keep your eye on that buzz saw" might be the typical male reaction to seeing a college girl operate a power saw, but in this case there's no need to worry. Marge Strombeck, house designer and one-time contractor's assistant, knows all the answers. The Stout Institute coed is now preparing herself to invade another male domain - becoming a shop teacher of industrial work and even machine shop.

STOUT COED INVADES INDUSTRIAL ED FIELD

Marjorie Strombeck believes man's field can be invaded

"It's a Woman's World" has been the contention of women for many centuries and that philosophy is even expressed in the title of a current popular song. And though men may be tempted to argue the matter, the career of Marjorie Strombeck, petite junior coed at The Stout Institute, is proof that women may be actually usurping the rights of men.

Already the designer of two homes, one which has been built and one which is under construction, the pretty blonde also helped her father do the manual labor of constructing one of them. Tired of living in a city, the Strombeck family in 1947 decided to build a home on their four acre plot of land located outside the city limits of Racine.

Marge, who had been interested in architecture since childhood decided that she would draw the house plans in her architectural drawing class in high school. The Strombeck family felt that having Marge plan the family residence would enable them to choose a design which they liked.

After the plan was drawn, Marge and her father sat back and viewed the finished product with pride. As Marge points out: "Doing the actual building of a home gives a person the satisfaction of knowing the construction is well done. It also makes anyone proud to see his or her plans turn out well in actual construction."

After the Strombeck home was completed, an aunt had Marge draw up another house plan. This home will also be constructed in the near future.

With that much practical experience to fortify her, Marge next enrolled in Stout Institute's program which usually trains only male industrial education teachers. It is not unusual to see Marge, all "alone" with fifteen "gentlemen," intently listening to a teacher give a lecture on finishing or struggling with a tricky sheet metal project.

The courses which Marge takes are the subjects required of all industrial education students at Stout. Her favorite courses thus far have been her architectural drawing courses, and the reason is obvious—during the courses she has drawn plans for another home. The pretty coed has also made a scale model of this home and hopes to see it in actual construction. Other courses in which she competes with male teachers-to-be include painting and decorating, machine shop, as well as the full range of academic subjects in the college curriculum.

Marge claims that she has no difficulties in adjusting to the new experiences, techniques, and environment of the male academic world.

"Why should I have problems?" Marge asks. "I had already gained plenty of experience with a saw and with wood machines. The only advantage which the fellows had was experience with a metal working machine, they have a little more muscle than I do and they know a few more colorful words when things go wrong."

During her senior year at Stout Marge will have two academic quarters of practice teaching. She will teach wood finishing under George Soderberg and frechhand drawing under Dr. J. E. Ray, both faculty members in Stout's division of industrial education.

After college Marge wants to try her hand at women's work-interior decoration. She feels that her college degree and education, together with her background in woodworking, drawing, and wood finishing, will help her in her chosen career.

"Man's work is certainly not difficult if a woman really tries," Marge claims. "I have found that my unusual college training has been very enlightening, proving that women can do anything they set out to accomplish and that these so-called man-sized jobs are really lady-sized after all."

FOUR FACULTY MEMBERS REPRESENT STOUT AT THE ANNUAL WISCONSIN WAVA CONVENTION

Four representatives of The Stout Institute were active participants in the nineteenth annual convention of the Wisconsin Association for Vocational and Adult Education, held in Milwaukee.

Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of the college, took part in a number of general meetings, the local board luncheon, and other conference offerings. Dr. John A. Jarvis, dean of the division of industrial education, was in charge of Stout's exhibit booth.

In attendance at the largest State Homemakers' luncheon in the history of the organization was Dr. Alice J. Kirk, dean of the division of home economics at Stout. At the luncheon were 660 persons. Miss Kirk also attended the general meeting of the Wisconsin Association for Vocational and Adult Education and the Home Economics luncheon.

Serving as chairman of the Drivers Training Portion of the WAVE convention was R. Krausz, director of the driver education program at Stout. His group heard from Ben Precourt, safety director of the Wisconsin Division of AAA, and Ira Catlin, representative of the Safety Division of the Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Department.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

It was rather inspiring to see a fairly large number of students turn out for the athletic-award assembly on Wednesday morning. A large attendance always gives the assembly sponsoring group and the students who participate in the project a feeling of doing a good job.

Because athletics is not over emphasized here at Stout, most of the letter men felt honored at the applause which they received from the student body. It's too bad that more students weren't present at the assembly to show their appreciation for the fine showings the Stout athletic teams have made throughout the year.

Just a note, not too many faculty members were at the assembly. Your presence is appreciated by the students.

And a thought for discussion — next year, perhaps more clubs and social groups could sponsor assemblies. The student sponsored assemblies this year were very well received.

Hats off to the S-Club for a very fine assembly on Wednesday morning.

ORGANIZATION NEWS

Just a reminder that the Home Ec. Club Senior Breakfast will be held at the Methodist Church on May 21 at 8:00 A. M. Tickets are on sale in Harvey Hall. The breakfast is for all home economics club members.

"Candyland" was the theme of the Hyperian dinner dance held last Saturday evening, May 14, at the Country Club.

The decorations very beautifully carried out the theme. Kobles of succers, peppermint sticks, and cotton candy hung from the ceiling and large red and green lollipops were placed around the room. The fireplace was decorated like a peppermint stick house.

The members and their escorts danced to the music of Jimmy Knight and his orchestra.

Miss Antrim, Miss Carlson, Dr. and Mrs. Agnew, and Dr. and Mrs. Nitz were the guests for the evening.

The final Newman Club breakfast meeting of this school year will be held this Sunday, May 22, following Communion in a body at the 9:30 Mass. The breakfast will be served by the ladies of the parish and will be free of cost to everyone attending.

It is hoped that all Catholic students will make a genuine effort to attend this last meeting. Many important matters will be discussed and, therefore, it is imperative that the attendance be good.

The Sigma Chapter of Delta Kappa fraternity congregated en-masse at the Country Club for an evening of dining and dancing at the annual dinner dance last Friday evening.

Guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Ruchel, Mr. and Mrs. George Soderberg, and Dr. and Mrs. Otting. George Soderberg's Royal Blackhawk's Orchestra furnished the music for dancing which lasted from eight until eleven. There were twenty-nine D. K. brothers and their guests attending.

The Stout Snooper

Hello, I'm just one of the 100 vets attending school here at Stout. Ever since I came here I wanted to tell you my story and so I finally asked permission of the Snooper and it said I could borrow it's column for this week. Perhaps my experience in a little unusual, yet it happened to many young American GI's and I have written it as a tribute to those hundreds and hundreds that died and to let the rest of you, my fellow classmates, in on some of the happenings of the Korean War.

On the morning of July 23, 1950, I had just gone out by jeep to cover the rear-guard action when we came under sniper fire. We jumped out and crawled to a farmhouse about 50 yds. away. We lay there, with our faces pressed to the mud floor while bullets, like angry, humming wasps, skimmed over us missing our heads by inches. A bullet hit my right hand and I looked unbelievably at the blood spurting out.

Then two North Korean Tommy gunners jumped into our refuge and ordered us to our feet. We were ordered to march out into the road; our hands tied behind our back with telephone wire!

Then we were marched to a command post. Six other prisoners were there, two severely wounded. At dusk we were ordered to stand up. The two badly wounded were finished off with a pistol. In single file, the march began on Sunday, July 23 and ended on Friday in a small valley near the communist Army headquarters.

At last I was driven to where a flat-faced Korean tried to persuade me to broadcast over the North Korean radio condemning the Americans. I refused. I refused! The next day, I was driven to a ramshackle group of huts where I was allowed to lie down, for the first time. But the brain-washing went on constantly. Always the captors wanted to know the names of our relatives.

The French started the fashion of inventing relatives: One gave a voluminous dossier on a mythical schizophrenic aunt who painted pictures while riding a bicycle. Humor was rare and we cherished it.

When the Chinese commies entered the war, our treatment changed. One morning we were lined up by a group of prison guards headed by a major whom we later called "The Tiger." "I am a major of the People's Army," he said; "I have authority to make you obey. You will march to another place now. No one, yes, no one must drop out. Even the dead must be carried! If you do not obey, I will punish you extremely."

The march was begun, but before noon many men had dropped out of every platoon. The Tiger stopped and he gave the command to shoot us. An American lieutenant stepped forward to protest. "Why did you let those drop out?" the Tiger asked. "Because air, they were dying of dead."

"You did not obey orders and in wartime the penalty for disobedience is death. You disobeyed; you will be killed. That is what would happen in the American Army, is it not?"

"In the American Army, sir," the lieutenant's voice never faltered, "there would be a trial." The Tiger turned to his army and asked, "What must I do?" "Kill him!" screamed the commie soldiers. "You see, you have had your trial; turn about!"

The American soldier, his shoulders squared, head up, arms firmly at his sides, did a precise about-face. Then, there was a shot—and we marched on.

We arrived at our destination, — on November 8 having left behind, buried "without mounds." For three months we were kept ten in a room measuring nine-by-nine feet. Food consisted of three cups of grain and one stringy Chinese cabbage per day for the ten persons! Sugar and rice were given to the sick.

There we stayed awaiting release or death.

At last on April 8, we were told that we were to be released, and we were at last we boarded a plane home to the free world we had left so long ago.

Yes, here I am, back in the "good old U. S. A.!" Oh, what a wonderful place it is, a place that all of us attending Stout and all the other people in the world should appreciate.

Soon on the calendar of "holidays" is Memorial Day. And so wherever you are, no matter in what kind of a mood, stop and offer a silent tribute to the thousands and thousands of American (and those loyal soldiers of other countries) GI's who have given their lives for their country: yes "our" country!

ANNUAL SUMMER SESSION OPENS HERE JUNE 20

The fiftieth annual summer session of The Stout Institute opens June 20, 1955. Through a cooperative arrangement with the Wisconsin State Board of Vocational and Adult Education, a representative group of leaders will be on the Stout campus during the 1955 summer session and a number of new courses not offered during the regular session will be presented.

Project Development, a workshop on the design and development of projects for industrial arts courses will be added to the industrial arts summer program. Another addition in this division is Tool and Die Making, a course based on layout work, methods of fabrication, and related technical information and operations.

"Enrollment this year in the post session advanced course in Driver Education looks very satisfactory," stated Dean Jarvis. This course is offered for a two week period after the regular summer school session to those students who have fulfilled the necessary prerequisites.

An announcement pertaining to the home economics department was made by Dean Kirk, stating that, "Next year there will be seven new cadet counselors out in the state." In line with this, a new course will be offered this summer which will be required in the future for those teachers who plan to be supervisors. This course is titled, Supervision in Home Economics Teaching. Dean Kirk added, "In line with the growing necessity for home economics to talk on the radio and TV, we are offering a three week workshop course entitled Home Economics on Radio and T.V." Other short term courses offered this summer are, Costume Millinery, Workshop in Clothing and Textiles, and a Workshop in Foods.

Before the regular six week summer session, the Wisconsin State Board of Vocational and Adult Education will sponsor a professional work conference. During the week immediately prior to the summer session, June 13 to 17, there will be a work conference (Group X) for trade and industrial teachers. Individuals attending these conferences will be identified in advance through state and local selection.

The following visiting lectures, conference leaders and teachers are to be on the campus, in addition to regular members of the faculty: Dr. R. W. Bardwell, Director of Madison Vocational and Adult School; Mr. Alexander Bick, Instructor in Milwaukee Public Schools, Consultant in Design; Mrs. Alta Bethune, School of Vocational and Adult Education, Appleton, Wisconsin; Mr. Arthur Larsen, Supervisor of Occupational Information and Guidance, State Board of Vocational and Adult Education, Madison; Mr. Harry Thayer, Chief, Trade and Industrial Education, State Board of Vocational and Adult Education, Madison; and Mr. H. ## SCHOLARSHIPS ARE GIVEN TO SENIORS

As the time is at hand for the final selection of scholarship winners, you may wonder just how the committee decides what students should receive certain scholarships. A number of criteria are used in this selection. Minimum standards may be established for each criterion, otherwise the criteria may be considered of equal significance.

Among the criteria which will be used for the selection process are:

1. Scholarship promise - rank in high school graduating class and scores on scholastic aptitude tests are used as evidences of this criterion.
2. Financial need - is determined by the itemized yearly budget submitted by the applicant and by statements of references.
3. Vocational goal - only those who expect to major in home economics or industrial education shall be considered.
4. Character and personality - is determined by ratings contained in Application for Admission and by interviews with the applicant whenever possible.

5. Special talent - is determined by personal interview or by statements of reference.

6. Health - is determined from Health Examination form.

Scholarships are considered as a part of the total financial aid program. Therefore, the type of aid granted shall be one which will contribute maximally to the development of the particular students under consideration. The two alumni scholarship winners shall be selected from those applicants who were recommended by The Stout Institute alumni members.

STOUT TO BE INVADED BY EAU CLAIRE

The Eau Claire Bluegolds invade Wakanda Park and the Bluedevils today at 2:30. This is the final game of the season for the Bluedevils and they're out to repeat their earlier performance when they out slugged Eau Claire 9-8. Stout collected 16 hits in the last meeting compared to 9 for the losers. Jim Hoffman was the winning pitcher with Anderson of Eau Claire taking the loss.

Coach Jack Wink will probably field a line-up of the following: Jimmy Sands, second base; Harry Miller, right field; Vern Wills, center field; Fred Ponschok, left field; Bill Bachmeyer, first base; Dick Cheke, shortstop; Bill Romoser, catcher; and Lyle Kluever at third base.

Who will pitch is still concealed, so come on down to Wakanda this afternoon and give the fellows that added boost. All support is appreciated and the game should prove highly entertaining as are all Eau Claire vs. Stout tilts. Remember 2:30 at Wakanda Park - today is the game. If your wondering who will win take the Bluedevils. They're becoming pretty hard to beat.

WINONA TIPS STOUT IN DOUBLE HEADER

The Winona Reds dropped the Bluedevils in their tracks as they copped a 5-1 decision and a 9-3 verdict. The Reds piled up 3 runs in the third and one apiece in the fifth and sixth inning to take the first game.

Jim Hoffman, freshman pitcher, homered in the third-inning to help his own cause along giving the Bluedevils a short lived lead.

In the second game Louie Kort and Jerry Bauman were racked for eleven hits with "Hard Luck Louie" taking the loss.

Harry Miller high-lighted the game with a two run homer giving Stout a small lead of 2-1.

BLUEDEVILS TAKE SET FROM LA CROSSE NINE

The Stout Bluedevils combined just enough hitting and pitching to take both ends of a double header over a stubborn La Crosse nine.

Jim Hoffman garnered his third win of the season by a 6-4 score in the first game. Hoffman had his handsful in the first inning as he gave up four runs, but he found the range and held La Crosse scoreless from that point. Hoffman gave up seven hits while his teammates jumped on losing pitcher Mc Comb for eight hits.

The top sluggers for the Stout attack included the following: Harry Miller, with a single and a double, Vern Wills, with a double and two walks, and Bill Bachmeyer collected a single and a two run homer in three trips to the plate.

The Stout aggression again played errorless ball which so often provides the margin of victory or defeat.

Second Game

In the second Gerry Bauman hurled a nifty four hitter to shut La Crosse out 1-0. Bauman walked only one man while fanning six as he had almost perfect control. Winerski of La Crosse struck twelve Bluedevils out, but he allowed the Stout charges five hits.

The Bluedevils produced the winning run in the fourth inning when Dick Cheke doubled home. Fred Ponschok, also had previously singled. Bauman had the bases loaded in the fifth with one out and men on second and third with no outs, but he survived the storm to garner the win.

WHYDOTSKI SPEAKS TO HOME FURNISHINGS

Techniques used in making wallpaper were discussed this week in Miss Amon's Home Furnishing classes by Mr. Lloyd Whydotski, head of the Stout printing department.

In his talk Mr. Whydotski displayed three actual rolls used in printing wall papers as he told the students of the three main printing processes: the use of the raised surface; an incised area; and the offset or lithographic process.

Several samples of actual wall paper obtained from the Katsinbach-Warren division of the Kimberley Clark Corp. were shown the students as well as the artist's original design. The steel rolls, original design, and the finished samples of wall papers will be on display in the art room on the second floor of Harvey Hall.

Said the scientist to the druggist: "Give me some prepared acetylsalicylic acid."
"Do you mean aspirin?" asked the druggist.
"That's right! I can never think of that name."

All bowlers are asked to report promptly at the given hour. The schedule is listed below:

May 9 — 7:00: Team 1 vs. Team 4; 8:00: Team 3 vs. Team 5;

HOME EQUIPMENT CLASS TAKES TRIP

A most interesting field trip was taken to the Cities by the girls of the household equipment class under the direction of Miss Ellen Nelson, on May 3.

The Northern States Power Company was the first place visited. There the girls heard a very interesting talk on major household appliances, by one of the women of the Home Personnel Service. This was held in a demonstration kitchen where the girls could actually observe the appliance while she talked.

The Pella Company was the girls' next stop, where they saw the most modern St. Charles kitchens.

After dining in the Sky Room at Dayton's, several demonstrators discussed home-equipment with the girls and pointed out certain advantages and disadvantages of small equipment. This proved to be very interesting.

All in all, the girls felt that the trip was most worthwhile.

CLASS MAKES TRIP TO CITIES SEES "CARMEN"

Miss Martha Amon, of the Stout Institute faculty, accompanied her art appreciation class on a field trip to Minneapolis, Saturday, May 14. Miss Mary Williams, Lynda Bessler, and Jan Jenquin also went with the class.

Much pre-planning was done in preparing for the trip. As a result, the following galleries and places of interest were viewed by the group. In the morning the group visited two art galleries. First was the Walker Art Center where the group viewed a beautiful exhibit of ceramics, jade, and sculpture. Here also, they saw a permanent collection of paintings and modern furniture. The other art gallery visited was the Minneapolis Institute of Art. Period furniture was an interesting exhibit shown. The morning ended with a visit to the beautiful Christ Lutheran Church in Minneapolis, designed by the Finnish architect, Eliel Saarinen.

After the interesting and educational morning tours, the group had lunch in a park across the avenue from the Minneapolis Institute of Art.

After eating their lunch, the group of sight-seeing coeds and faculty members, as if touched by a fairies wand, changed into society, opera goers, high heels, hats and all. The purpose of their transformation was for witnessing the famous New York Metropolitan Opera Company presentation of "Carmen" at the University of Minnesota. The music, stage settings, and performances were really enjoyed and appreciated. After the final curtain of the performance, the ladies returned to Menomonie by bus, possibly a bit weary, but with the assurance that the trip was a credit to their "Appreciation of Art."

And for trips home or during summer vacation

Every year The Stoutonia staff loses some members due to graduation. On June 3, nine members of The Stoutonia staff will receive their degrees from The Stout Institute.

Jean Baker has worked on The Stoutonia for three years, as a proofreader and in the circulation department. Jean has been active on The Tower, secretary of Home Economics club, historian of W.R.A., vice president of the Hyperian sorority, historian of Phi Upsilon Omicron, and vice president of the senior class.

Nyla Bock was also a member of the circulation staff. She was a member of Home Economics club, Hyperian sorority, vice president and secretary of W.R.A., and a member of The Tower.

When interviewed, Nyla said, "I will have a greater appreciation for The Stoutonia next year when I am an alumna because I will realize the work involved in producing the paper before it reaches my doorstep."

Carol Bredlow was circulation manager of The Stoutonia last year. She has been a member of Home Economics club, historian and chaplain of Phi Upsilon Omicron, president of Hyperians, treasurer of W.R.A. and a member of The Tower.

Donna Harvey Kneisler worked on circulation and as a proofreader. Besides her Stoutonia work, Donna has been active in Home Economics club, vice president of W.R.A. and a member of the Hyperian sorority.

DeAnne Krueger has been a proofreader on The Stoutonia for two years. DeAnne has been an active member of Home Economics club, president of W.R.A., and a member of Hyperians and L.S.A.

Margaret Ort has been a reporter and a headwriter. "I was interested in writing, so I became a reporter for The Stoutonia. My job as headwriter has helped me express my thoughts in writing easier."

Margaret has been active in Home Economics club, archery head of W.R.A., secretary of SCE, and a member of YWCA.

Ed Prahl, the only male member of The Stoutonia staff to graduate this year, started as a proofreader, became associate editor, business manager, and linotype operator.

Ed is a printing major, has been president of S.T.S., a member of E.P.T., and a Phi Sigma Epsilon member. "I've had an enjoyable time working on The Stoutonia. I'm sorry my four years are over, but I'll be back!" Ed will be taking graduate work at Stout next year.

Gloria Voigt has been a reporter for The Stoutonia. While at Stout Gloria has been treasurer and president of Home Economics club, historian of M.A.P., librarian and editor of Phi Upsilon Omicron, and a member of the Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority.

Kay Wedin stated that her work as proofreader on the paper gave her a deeper appreciation of the paper itself. Kay has been active in Home Economics club, social chairman of W.R.A., president of Phi Upsilon Omicron and L.S.A., secretary of Hyperians, member of Tower, on the Intersorority Council, vice president of the junior class, and was selected for Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

We would like to thank these seniors for their work on The Stoutonia and wish them happiness in the years to come.

THREE DORMS HOLD ANNUAL DORM PICNIC

Sunday afternoon, May 22, at five o'clock, the girls from the three dorms gathered in front of Tainter Hall for their last social function as a group. This last event was a picnic supper under the direction of Miss Killian who was assisted by the residence heads.

The meal consisted of potato salad, meat sandwiches, escalloped corn, cake and ice cream. The meal was served cafeteria style with a social gathering following the supper.

ASSEMBLY-LYCEUM SCHEDULES PROGRAMS

The assembly-lyceum committee has completed scheduling the programs for next year. The early completion is due to the fact that all state teachers colleges are now cooperating in obtaining numbers through the auspices of the University of Wisconsin. These are acquired at a much more reasonable cost.

September 21 is the date set for the first convocation next year. At this time Reverend Lee will tell what has happened in China during the last 35 years. Another speaker, Dr. Graubard will follow. October 26 Dr. Barry from the University of Minnesota will show slides on a selected topic. The Royal Scotts Quartette will perform for the November 9 program.

Humphrey and Curran will show "6000 Miles Through Russia". Next Dr. Kirschenberger will speak and December 7 Don Shirley, pianist, will give her program. This will be followed by another musical program by Inor Holstrum, tenor. January 25, Dragos Kostich will present Russia's Statelites.

Movies are scheduled for the next number. Dr. Smith will speak in affiliation with the Inter-Religious Council. Carl Holty, lecturer-painter will be here March 21. Mary Waterstreet, an impersonator will provide a very interesting and unusual program. At the last convocation, April 28, Richard Corson will present "Platform Portraits", which is a series of original character sketches.

A male dancer, Jeanne Leon Destine, who comes from the University of Wisconsin will appear for the first lyceum which will be held Wednesday night, October 5. "Actors Holiday", a Broadway play will be given in January. A group of singers, "The Chanticleers", are booked for a Monday night, February 6th lyceum.

Bar Illan, pianist, is returning to the Stout campus on April 23. His program will conclude the lyceums.

It looks as though the committee has a well planned schedule for next year. Six of the numbers are from the University of Wisconsin and four are from the University of Minnesota. The remainder of the programs are contracted from independent bureaus.

LILLIAN FROGGATT TO RETIRE JUNE 30

After nearly thirty-one years as head librarian at The Stout Institute, Miss Lillian Froggatt will retire June thirtieth. Miss Froggatt earned her Bachelor of Arts degree at the University of Wisconsin. She received a diploma from the Wisconsin Library School and now holds the degree of Master of Arts in Library Science from the University of Michigan. After receiving her Bachelor's degree she taught German in Wisconsin high schools. Following World War I, she entered library work, serving as teacher-librarian at Burlington, Wisconsin, visiting instructor in library methods at the Wisconsin State College at Oshkosh during the summer of 1922, and supervisor of school, branch, and children's work in the Racine Public Library. She came to The Stout Institute in September, 1924.

During Miss Froggatt's period of service she has often seen two generations pass through Stout, as, in the case of Virginia Lathrope, whose mother is a graduate. She estimates that she has seen approximately 5,000 students graduate from the college. A hope of many years was fulfilled in 1954, when the new library building was completed.

On May 5th Miss O'Brien and Miss Froggatt were honored by the faculty and administration of The Stout Institute at a banquet.

Miss Froggatt is a member of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society, the Bibliographical Society of America, the American Library Association, the National Education Association, the Wisconsin Education Association, and the State Historical Society of Wisconsin.

Miss Froggatt states that she plans to take an occasional trip, but will make her home in Menomonie.

COMMUNITY INVITED TO GRADUATION

All persons in the community wishing to attend commencement exercises of The Stout Institute at 10:30 on Friday morning, June 3, have been invited to the event by the administration of the college. Speaker for the occasion is to be the Honorable Walter J. Kohler, governor of Wisconsin.

In previous years, a policy of issuing a limited number of commencement tickets was necessary. However, the large seating capacity of the Menomonie high school gymnasium has made it possible for college officials to eliminate completely all tickets to the event.

Therefore, all people in the area are welcome to attend and will need no tickets of admission. In addition to Governor Kohler's address, the program will include music by The Stout Institute concert band and colorful ceremonies at which both undergraduate and master's degrees will be conferred.

The academic procession into the gymnasium will begin at 10:15 A.M. Immediately at 10:30 the commencement program will get underway.

SENIOR CLASS GIFT IS BULLETIN BOARD

The 1955 senior class made their presentation of a gift to The Stout Institute on May 25, at convocation. Jean Baker, vice president of the senior class, made the presentation of the gift which is an outside bulletin board to be placed in the square between Harvey Hall and the Physical Education building. This bulletin board will be made out of bricks and will be encased in glass. On this bulletin-board will appear notices, announcements of dances, teas, demonstrations etc. Carol Bredlow and Al Loew were co-chairmen of this project.

STOUT REGISTRAR WILL RETIRE IN JULY

On July 1, after 26 years as registrar of The Stout Institute, Miss Gertrude M. O'Brien will for the last time close the door of her office and conclude a career as teacher and college administrative official.

In her years as registrar, Miss O'Brien has been an important factor in the placement of approximately 4,000 Stout Institute seniors and several thousand alumni. Superintendents and principals throughout Wisconsin and the surrounding area have long recognized the ability of the Stout Placement Office to recommend "the right teacher for the right position."

But Gertrude M. O'Brien's professional achievements have not been confined to the college campus. She has been active in state and national associations of registrars and placement officers. Miss O'Brien has been both president and secretary of the Registrars of Wisconsin Colleges and also chairman of the Wisconsin Placement Officers.

For a number of years Miss O'Brien has served as chairman of the Legislative committee and of the International Relations committee of the Menomonie branch of the American Association of University Women. She has always taken an active part in the Newman club.

Miss O'Brien has been guest of honor at a number of organizational and tirement. On the evening of May 5, the college faculty held a banquet for Miss O'Brien and Miss Lillian Froggatt, retiring director of the library at the college.

After more than a quarter of a century of service to The Stout Institute, its students and alumni, and the school of Wisconsin, Miss O'Brien sums up her efforts in these words:

"My years on the Stout campus have been truly enjoyable. It is my sincere hope that I can keep alive the many friendships and professional contacts of these past years."

With a whirl of parties, picnics, dinners, senior sendoffs, senior dance, senior picnic, senior recognition day, senior dinner, senior pictures, and finally the long awaited day—Commencement—you are finishing your last days on campus. You have successfully finished what you came for, your college education. With the sheepskin tucked under your arm, you are about to step over the threshold into a new world—life. You will be busy and successful with your new life, and lingering with you will be a college book of memories consisting of four years spent here on campus. Do your work well. And when you have a moment to reminisce, don't forget the "tower on the campus near the banks of Lake Menomonie."

ORGANIZATION NEWS

Saturday morning, May 21st, at 8:00 A.M., the Senior Farewell Breakfast was held at the Methodist Church. This is an annual affair given in honor of the seniors and sponsored by the Home Economics Club.

The tables were decorated with blue crepe paper and scrolls. The candle bearers were Dorothy Dieter and Lynda Bessler, sophomores, and Barbara Johnson and Jermaine Folkman, freshman. The candle bearers were chosen due to scholastic achievement. Pauline Rosenstiel sang "When You Come To The End of A Perfect Day", with Marjorie Werner, accompanist. Home Economics Club president Doris Hutchinson gave the Welcome. President-elect Lois Jessen gave the Senior Greeting and past-president Gloria Voigt gave the Response. President Verne C. Fryklund gave the Greetings. Joan Scheevel played a clarinet solo accompanied by Dorothy Belisle. The graduating seniors then received their membership into the Wisconsin American Home Economics Association and the American Home Economics Association. Doris Curtiss and Dorothy Belisle did a fine job as song leader and accompanist respectively.

One noted item which was brought up by the speakers revealed the fact that this is the last class to be graduating from The Stout Institute. Come July our college receives the name Stout State College.

Last Tuesday evening, May 24, was the picnic and last meeting of Gamma Delta. Members and their guests enjoyed the weiners and marshmallow roast which was held at Point Comfort. A committee has been organized and will begin work soon on Church Night for next year.

In honor of its graduating members, Tau chapter of Phi Upsilon Omicron recently held its annual senior banquet at Our Savior's Lutheran church. Phi Upsilon Omicron is a national honorary fraternity in the field of home economics.

Speakers of the evening included Dr. Alice J. Kirk, dean of home economics at The Stout Institute; Miss Winona Cruise, emeritus faculty member of the college; Govun Schukla, visiting student from India; and Kay Wedin, former Phi U president. Miss Joyce Fraedrich, present president of the organization, presided.

In addition to Miss Cruise, honorary Phi U member, Miss Ellen Nelson of the Stout division of home economics, also an honorary member, was present. Following the banquet, all senior member of the organization were initiated into the Alumni Chapter of Phi U in ceremonies held at Dean Kirk's apartment.

Graduating seniors of Phi Upsilon Omicron include Jean Baker, Elkhorn; Carol Bredlow, Watertown; Joeline Chryst, Menomonie; Barbara Clemens, Lake Geneva; Jo Fritz, Belleville; Mary Gehler, Waterloo; Pat Jensen, Elmwood; Virginia Lathrope, Reedsburg; Delores Sauey, Baraboo; and Kay Wedin, Grantsburg.

The very successful Wesley Retreat was held from May 13 to 15. A grand turnout included twenty-four members although the girls outnumbered the fellows two to one.

Outside of planning the program for the coming year, the group enjoyed picnics, swimming, folk dancing, and on Sunday they attended church in Fraedrich where the children had a lilac service.

Mr. Dick Yeagley, the State Representative for Methodist Youth, was their advisor.

A picnic was held at Wakanda Park on May 22. Everyone had a very nice time playing Ski-Pie and eating a delicious picnic lunch. After lunch a worship service was held on the bank of the lake.

Big plans are underway for a swimming party this Sunday, May 30. If you want to go you should meet at the church at 3:30 P.M. It sounds like a lot of fun so try to be there.

Sixty-six Alpha Sigma Alpha members and their guests attended their annual dinner dance Friday, May 20 at the Country Club. A full moon shone through a garden of "Cherry Pink and Apple Blossom White" trees as the couples danced to the Music-Airs. Ginny Ehlers, president, crowned Mary (Chickie) Gehler and her escort, 1955 Alpha Sigma Alpha Sweetheart Couple. Special guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Rudiger, Mr. and Mrs. Dale, Miss Joan Mithy, and Mr. Carleton Mills. All guests received souvenir paddles.

"Senior Sendoff," a program honoring the graduating members of Tri Sigma sorority, was held last Sunday, May 22. The members and their advisors ate dinner in the Tea Room and then gathered at Miss Van Ness's apartment for the program. Each graduate was given a gold case in which to keep her sorority pin. Rosemary Kelley was awarded the honor of Outstanding Senior of Beta Pi Chapter and Celia Fritz was named Assistant Chapter Alumni Chairman.

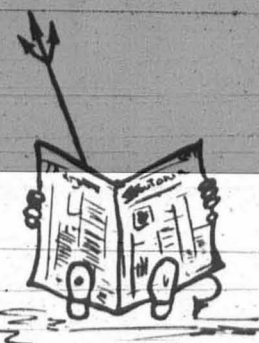

Harmony Hour and Charm School followed the Senior Sendoff program. Refreshments consisting of cookies and lemonade were served at the close of the program.

The Newman Club closed the school year program with a regular breakfast meeting last Sunday, May 22. The committee in charge of preparing the meal was comprised of Dorothy Ann Neis, Shirley Bournoville, Rita Pauls, Leona Novy, and Betty Conrad. This breakfast was free of charge.

Reports of the La Crosse Convention were given by the members who attended. President Bob Tennessen spoke briefly of the program scheduled for next year and reminded the students of their religious duties during the summer.

The annual Senior Dinner of the Pallas Athene sorority will be held at Jean's Supper Club tonight, May 26. This dinner is given in honor of the graduating members of the sorority. The dinner will be their last activity as active members of the sorority.

Pallas Athene members, their escorts and guests had a memorable evening last Saturday night, May 21 at the sorority's annual Dinner Dance held at the Country Club. "May Basket" was the theme of the dinner dance for which George Soderberg and his Royal Blackhawks provided the music.

The Stout Snooper

Well, here it is the 27th of May—already and "the end" has come for some of you and for the rest, it is in sight. Yes, no more school for three months, no more parties, cramming for exams, school mixers, taking notes in classes, basketball games, visiting in the halls, field trips to the "cities", looking for your mailboxes, etc. Yes, it's the end of the 1954-55 school year.

For some, I've noticed it's the time for a "big" celebration, but most feel a little sad. Why, well one reason is that next fall, The Stout State College will be minus 118 friendly young adults, the 1955 seniors.

Next week is your graduation! As time draws nearer to the date, June 3, I snoop on more and more seniors and more of them seem happy. Yet beneath your grins of relief and joy signifying that you are glad to have finally reached your goal of the top rung on the ladder, you seem somewhat sad for never again will you be a part of a college and a part of so many friends of your own age. (Oh, sure, some come back to grad school or even in teaching, but during my years of snooping, I've noticed that school never seems quite the same after one graduates.)

To the seniors of Stout and other colleges, graduation marks an end and a beginning. First the end. Little did you know of the experiences you were to have as a green freshman progressing to a full-fledged senior. Remember that very first day of registering back in '51. "Where do I go now?" "Who is she?" "Is that snob my roommate?" "I'm lost." These thoughts sound somewhat familiar even if they were first uttered four years ago, don't they seniors?

Then the first round of classes: "Gee, but he's going to be tough—he scares me." "Ugh, I'm for high school again." "This will be fun, but lots of work!" "How will I ever get to know all of those kids?" But soon you, the class of '55 felt a part of Stout and you adopted it as your school, your alma mater.

At the beginning of your sophomore year, you especially missed all those "good times" that you had had staying in the dorms, signing in at 10:29 and 1/2, parties after hours, staying up all night on the eve before vacations, peeking out of the windows at the couples, practically knocking doors down, having the frats and sororities serenade, calling up your girl and monopolizing the line from Lynwood to the girl's dorms, and on and on.

Then also as sophomores many of you, even the boys, experimented at light-housekeeping, cooking your own meals. And brother, I do mean meals! Hamburger is still good, isn't it?

Then when you were juniors, some of you were elected to various club, SSA, or sorority or frat offices; others remained as faithful followers. Also if I remember correctly, some of you had trouble sneaking into your rooming house by 12:30 or rather a little later in the morning, you still crammed for exams, wished that you didn't have eight two credit courses during the same semester, went to the late Sat. night show for $5.00, finished those class projects about 5 min. before the deadline date, worked on the Junior Prom, "Castle in the Clouds," stayed up half of the night to complete that shop booklet, etc.

And now your final year at Stout is almost over. This year the main event was going off campus for six weeks to practice teach or teaching here as assistants. I heard the comment of many of the students who were planning on disliking teaching say, "Gee, but that was real nice and more exciting and worthwhile than I thought; I can't wait to get out and teach in my own school next year!"

I don't mean to make you seniors feel sad, but instead, please realize that all of these experiences during the past four years will be worthwhile in the next 40 years plus! You'll never forget the "good old days" back in '55 when you were just a green-horn graduating from Stout. And besides, you're all welcome for visiting; grad work, Homecoming and other "welcome back" events. Yes, Stout will remain "your school" for the rest of your life.

But the "end" next Friday is really a door opening the beginning of a new life. In the world of opportunities, you will have chances to make or break success in whatever profession you choose, teaching, homemaking, carpentry, designing, machine repairing, figuring out special diets, or printing the home town newspaper.

The world is "full of all sorts of people" just as you found in college; only it's life on a much larger scale and there will be no one to guide you by setting deadline dates or giving exams. Yes, your beginning in the world is what you and you alone make it. Good luck from me, The Stout Snooper.

Remember, I'll be snooping!

P. S. To the other seven-hundred of you, I wish a pleasant summer; come back next fall, so I can continue snooping!

CHURPS OFF THE FUNNY BLOCK—OR BONE

The country school board was visiting a school and the teacher was putting her pupils through their paces. Teacher: "John, who signed the Magna Carta?" John: "It wasn't me."

The teacher, in disgust, told him to take his seat, but an old countryman on the board was not satisfied, so he said:

"Call that boy back. I don't like his manner. I believe he did do it."

Freshman girl: "What are you doing tonight?"

Roommate: "I'm real busy - studying, writing letters, hanging drapes, washing my hair, and I have some ironing to do."

Freshman girl: "Two seniors with a convertible want us to go to the movies."

Roommate: "I'll be ready in ten minutes."

An agitated young man ran frantically down the ferry dock, leaped across the strip of water, and landed with a crash on the deck of the boat.

"Well," he said, as he picked himself up, "I made it."

"What's your hurry?" asked a deckhand. "This boat's coming in."

College yell for a coed receiving a marriage proposal:

Siss! Boom! Rah!

Wheel! Wheel! Wheel!

Ma! Ma! Ma!

A man proposed to me!

Diner: Is this tea or coffee?

Waiter: Well, sir, what does it taste like?

Diner: It tastes like acetone.

Waiter: Then it's coffee, sir. Our tea tastes like turpentine.

"Going with girls keeps you young."

"How's that?"

"I started going with them when I was a freshman, and I'm still a freshman."

"Why is the Statue of Liberty's finger eleven inches long?"

"Because, if it were twelve inches long it would be a foot."

"Whoever told that guy he was a prof? He just doesn't know how to teach the stuff. Everybody hates him. Everytime he tries to explain something he digresses so much that no one can understand what he's talking about. I think he ought to quit and go back to the farm."

"Yeah, I flunked too."

It was many and many a day ago In a college by the lake That a theme was assigned which we all know.

As a term paper - 'las alack' - And the paper existed with no other thought Than to take time, and more time in fact.

It was a paper and I was a student In this college by the lake But it was a must and so much fuss. It was for my own sake.

So I handed it in with a sigh and a prayer Knowing myself that it wasn't a fake.

A teacher who was an advocate of "Safety First" asked her class each morning: "Children, what would you do if fire were to break out in this building?"

The children would always reply in chorus: "We would rise in our places, step into the aisle, and march quietly out of the building."

One morning the teacher had the great privilege of bringing the famous Dr. Henry Van Schmo to the class room. She stepped before the class and instead of the usual fire drill question, said, "Children, what would you say if I were to tell you that Dr. Van Schmo is to speak to you this morning?"

Instantly from the class came the resounding chorus: "We would rise in our places, step into the aisle, and march quietly out of the building."

Coed: "I told Bob I never wanted to see him again."

Mother: "Why?"

Coed: "I just found out he doesn't play get married-he's studying for a bachelor's degree."

"What time do you get up in the summer?"

"As soon as the first rays of the sun come in my window."

"Splendid! Then you, too, like to go out while the dew is still fresh on the grass."

"Not exactly. My room faces west."

"Porter, get me another glass of ice water."

"Sorry suh, but if I takes any mo' ice, dat co'pse in de baggage car ain't goin' to keep."

Fire chief: I had to fire that new efficiency expert.

Assistant: Why?

Fire chief: He put unbreakable glass in the alarm boxes.

STUDENTS ARE CHOSEN FOR BOARD

A large percentage of Stout students went to the polls to vote for their class representatives to the governing board. The representatives from the classes are as follows: Junior class, Dorothy Belisle and Joyce Fraedrich; sophomore class, Andree Jost and Ray Pearson; freshman class, Pat Christianson and Fern Mathey.

Dorothy Belisle is well known at Stout for her many piano performances. She feels right at home in Menomonie, since this is her home town. She has served as the vice-president of the Home Ec. club and as secretary of Symphonics. She belongs to the Stout Symphonic Singers, the Home Ec. club, Phi Upsilon Omicron and the Pallas Athene sorority. She is also a member of the Wesley organization and the American Federation of Musicians. She is fulfilling another year of serving on the governing board.

Joyce Fraedrich is well qualified for serving on the board since she has also worked with the board for one year and has been vice-president of the Stout Student Association. Weyawega, Wisconsin is Joyce's hometown. She belongs to various Stout organizations, those include Phi Upsilon Omicron, the Pallas Athene sorority, Stout Symphonic Singers and the Home Ec. club. Besides being S.S.A. vice president, she has served as the treasurer of W.R.A.

The sophomore class has two very qualified and competent representatives also. Andree Jost will work with Ray Pearson for the good of the class. Andree comes from Alma, Wisconsin. On the Stout campus she is a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority, W.R.A., and Home Ec. club. She has held many offices in high school, some of those being the vice-president of her class, editor of the year book, home ec. club president, and many others. She belongs to the Eastern Star and sings in the church choir, and is also a Sunday School teacher. She is experienced in her new work because she represented her sophomore class in high school.

Ray Pearson has been president of his class at Stout for two years and certainly has a wide knowledge of the students wants. He has served on the governing board this year. He is a member of the Stout Symphonic Singers and of the Inter-Religious Council and also of the L.S.A. He has served with the U.S. Air Force in Europe and now calls Chicago his home town.

The freshman class has two very ambitious and responsible representatives—Pat Christianson and Fern Mathey. Pat has been an active member in W.R.A. and the Home Ec. club here at Stout. She was general chairman of the freshman Green Tea held earlier this year. She is a member of L.S.A. and president of Tainter Annex. Pat is from Ladysmith, Wisconsin.

Fern Mathey has been active in many activities this year, which will all help her in her new work. She is a member of the Stoutonia staff, Home Ec. club, Stout Symphonic Singers, Y.W.C.A. and the Congo Club. She has held many offices during her high school days, some of them included co-editor of the school paper, a representative on the student governing board, and also held offices in F.H.A., Girls' Athletic Association and Dance Club. She has been a member of 4-H for nine years. While at Stout, she has worked on the freshman skit and on the decoration committees.

The entire student body is to be complimented on their fine choice of representatives. The governing board makes up a very important part of the life at The Stout Institute and with these capable representatives on the board, the coming school year should be a great success.

ORGANIZATION NEWS

The Sectional Workshop of Gamma Delta which was held at Stout recently was very successful. Twenty-two students from four colleges were present.

One of the highlights of the workshop was the very inspiring speech by Dr. Hahn, executive secretary of Gamma Delta from Chicago. He gave many pointers on running a chapter keeping in mind the high ideals on which Gamma Delta is founded.

The picnic, Saturday evening, was a success despite the fact that the weather made it necessary to hold it in St. Paul's School basement. The Vesper Service which was also held there was well received. The evening of square dancing proved to be a good way to end a perfect day.

Gamma Delta members attended both the regular service in which Dr. Hahn was the preacher and the concert presented by the New Elm choir. The Ladies Aid of St. Paul's served a delicious dinner which concluded the workshop.

The last meeting of Gamma Delta was a picnic for the members and their guests at Point Comfort last Tuesday.

The Y. W. C. A. held its Senior Picnic at Riverside Park on Wednesday, May 18. Y members and their senior guests had a picnic lunch which was followed by community singing. A hike to the respective members' homes completed the evening.

The Hyperian officers for 1955-56 have been installed and the girls have now assumed their duties. They are: President, Mary Buol; Vice-president, Dickie Nelson; Secretary, Edith Shaw; and Treasurer, Joan Marquart. After installation of officers, the sorority girls were invited to Miss Amon's home for refreshments.

NOVEL ART FILMS WERE PREVIEWED

All persons in the community interested in novel films dealing with various art forms, or program chairmen of local organizations seeking material for programs, were invited to a free preview of five films shown in the audio-visual theatre of The Stout Institute at 7:30 P.M. on Wednesday evening, May 18.

Describing the writings of such famous Revolutionary figures as Patrick Henry and Thomas Paine was "American Literature: Revolutionary Times." A special full-color featurette portrayed "Brush Tips in Water Color: A Landscape Developed." The theme of this film was the creation, in watercolor, of a mountain scene in Colorado. The artist was Robert Lockord.

Norman McLaren's famous experiments with hand drawn sounds on film were featured in "Penpoint Percussion." The feature explained the principles and production of synthetic sound. Another of McLaren's unusual film creations was "Loops," which merged loops of red and white to the rhythm of unusual background music.

Lovers of classical music performed by true artists thrilled to "Trio," a musical gem in which Rubenstein, Heifetz and Piatigorsky combine their talents in the First Movement of Schubert's "Trio in B Flat" and in the First, Second and Third Movements of Mendelssohn's "Trio in D Minor."

Sponsoring the Film Council of American previews was the audio-visual center of The Stout Institute. In charge of the presentation was David Barnard, director of the audio-visual center.

MARY DETLOR SPEAKS ON DENMARK

Mary Detlor, a 1954 graduate of Stout, spoke at the April 28th meeting of the Home Economics club. Mary took the club on a trip to Denmark where she lived for six months as an IFYE exchange student. One hundred fifty such students left for forty-four different countries last summer. Denmark is one-fourth the size of the state of Wisconsin.

While in Denmark, Mary had three homes over the six month period. She stayed on a small sized farm, an average sized farm of 25 acres, and a large farm of about 125 acres. Denmark is an agricultural country with no industries except the making of some china and silver.

The Danish people eat 7 times a day and the Danes consider that the "larger your waistline, the better the cook." Too bad the U.S. isn't that way, many more people would feel at home!

A characteristic of the farms are that they are always built in a square. The economy of Denmark depends on four exports; butter, cheese, eggs, and bacon. 1300 creameries are operating in this small land.

Mary related to us their school system in Denmark. The children attend school 6 days a week for 7 years. Then they attend a school similar to our high school for 3 years. There is no room for Home Economics in the public schools, consequently 85% of the girls go to college. A girl's occupation consists of home ec., nursing, or work in someone's home. If a girl is married, she must have a government permit to work.

Another interesting part of Denmark are its churches. The steep gabled roof is common of the churches. Denmark has 1700 state churches and they were all built about the time 1100 - 1150.

Here's an item which may be of interest to all of us. Mary told the club that engagements in Denmark are usually 5 years. When a boy calls on a girl he visits the evening with her parents.

Mary also spent 3 weeks in a home ec. and agricultural school while in Denmark. She attended the 4-H meetings and went on a 4-H trip to Finland.

These are but a few of the interesting experiences which Mary told the club. Mary is now on her job as a Home Agent.

After the meeting Miss Amon entertained Mary, the Home Ec. club council, and advisors.

DORM CONSTRUCTION HAS BEEN STARTED

Construction began April 18 on Stout Institute's new residence hall for girls. The residence hall will house 134 coeds, as well as provide living quarters for the dormitory director, facilities for a tea room, and accommodations for a cafeteria line and dining room.

The new structure will be situated near the edge of Lake Menomonie. Four floors will be exposed on the lake side, permitting the glass-walled dining room and 52 by 50 foot student lounge to overlook the lake.

Also included in the new building, which will be finished in Menomonie red brick, will be laundry facilities, a large ironing center, several small snack kitchens and similar conveniences.

MAY DAY OBSERVANCES HAVE CHANGED

May Day observances have lost all of the ritualistic and symbolic character of their Old World originals. They have become merely springtime sports participated in by girls in the schools and colleges. One of the beautiful customs observed by little girls in some parts of the East is the making of May baskets to be hung on the doors of their playmates. The baskets are filled with flowers. They must be hung on the door without the knowledge of the little girl living there.

This custom probably has its origin in the May-dolls which used to be dressed and carried about in a small chair by girls in various parts of England. Sometimes the doll had a smaller doll in its lap and both were decorated with ribbons and flowers. The May-doll in England was a survival of the images of Flora which were carried about in the Roman festival of Floralia in the spring, which in Christian times became images of the Virgin and Child.

The older girls in the schools and colleges select a May Queen and crown her with appropriate ceremonies. Frequently, someone, recites Tennyson's "The May Queen."

The May Day celebration can be traced back to the Floralia of Rome, the festival in honor of Flora, the goddess of the flowers. The festival was instituted in Rome in 238 B. C. and was celebrated from April 28 to May 3. Tradition, however, gives Romulus credit for instituting it. Definite information dated from 173 B. C. when the edile Servilius, following the orders of the Senate, arranged for its celebration as the cold-weather had seriously delayed the blossoming of the flowers. Undoubtedly the Romans, during their occupation of great Britain for four or five centuries, introduced the festival. There is also a theory that the May Day festivals find their origin in the phallic festivals of India and Egypt when the renewal of the fertility of nature in the spring was celebrated. The May pole is said to be a phallic symbol.

The druids had a custom of celebrating the feast of Bel on May 1. Bel is identified with Apollo and with Baal of the Old Testament. Among the Irish and Scotch Highlanders, the festival was known as Beltane, or the day of Bel's fire. Great fires were lighted in honor of Bel and various ancient rites were performed about them.

The festival of Floralia in Rome was accompanied by many acts of licentiousness, which also characterized the May Day celebrations in England for many years. In the course of time, the morris or Moorish dance, was introduced with the dancers dressed in fantastic costumes as they danced about the May pole. The May Day customs offended the Puritans and the Parliament of 1644 forbade the erection of May poles. The prohibition was repealed after the Restoration. In 1661, in celebration of the revival of the old customs, a May pole 134 feet high was set up in London. It remained until 1717 when it was bought by Sir Isaac Newton and removed to Essex as a support for a great telescope.

The Puritans in New England objected to the May pole festivities, but before they made the objection effective, Governor Endicott of Massachusetts in 1661 led a company of men to Merrymount where a pole had been erected after the idol of the Philistines that fell before the ark. The observance of May Day was gradually abandoned in England but in recent years, it was revived.

A modern May Day observance has a re-echo from Europe of our own Labor Day celebration. When Labor Day was established here, the workmen of Europe thought they ought to have a similar celebration and they fixed May 1 as the date. But in Europe, Labor was engaged in politics and the day became a time for political demonstration, and in the course of years it was utilized by the extreme radicals for demonstration against the government. There were riots and the police and sometimes the army had to be called out to restore order. It was not uncommon for bombs to be thrown and for buildings to be burned. In some cities, New York for instance, the demonstrations take the form of a parade of radical, labor, and other organizations followed by mass meetings.

DORM NEWS

Fishing has been the main topic of conversation around the dorm lately. Jon Walterscheidt, Jim Hoffman, and Dick Werbelow have been doing quite well. Of course, they're old veterans at the sport. Then there are a few fellows who haven't done so well. Take Bill Erpebach and LaVerne Christianson for instance. They did everything but what they were supposed to do. "Erp" got a sunburn, LaVerne got himself all wet, and neither of them caught a fish worth keeping. Well, that goes to show what happens when two amateurs get together.

Speaking of amateurs, Lynwood has luckless water-skiers as well as luckless fishermen - namely Bob Naber, Ron Strayer, and Frank Burdick. Fern Mathey could tell you about them. Pretty tough to be out-skied by a girl, isn't it? By the way, Naber, how was the water?

ARTS AND CRAFTS CLUB MEMBERS SPEND MONDAY EVENINGS WORKING ON PROJECTS

Monday nights are busy for members of the Arts and Crafts Club as they strive to complete their many and varied projects before the end of the school year.

Tom Kitto, for example, is working on a set of "knock-down" living room chairs. They will be an attractive addition to Tom's future furnishings.

Jerry Schoenike, Jim Daines, Chuck Bruemmer, Clinton Byrnes, Jiggs Kuboyama, and Dick Kadotoni are all working on beautifully figured leather handbags which would flutter the heart of any girl. Clinton Byrnes seems to get along with his mother-in-law. His handbag will be a gift to her.

Dave Rokus and Bill Anderson are working on two wood duck decoys and they are having a little trouble with the decoy's buoyancy and balance.

John Posewitz is carving a set of pistol grips for his revolver while Fred Ponchok is busy finishing his butcher knife.

Don Miller, Roger Wood, and Gerald Borchardt are the club's tin bend-

ers. Don is putting the finishing touches on a beautifully designed, very attractive home address sign. Roger is working on a desk lamp (he must plan on doing some studying). Gerald is also making a handsomely designed home address sign.

Jim Rawson is completing a leather quiver and Paul Palmer is working like the dickens to finish a tea wagon.

Fred Hodges has just finished a smart looking set of mahogany book ends and is now working on four picture frames. Joe Kock is trying hard to finish a high chair (I don't remember if Joe has the occupant of the chair or not).

Robert Koeslin is also working on a picture frame. David Pedro is our plastic's man and he is now working on a plastic radio cabinet which should be quite the thing.

Tony Kotyza has quite a project on his hands. He's striving to build a cactus wood lamp, having a fan oak base. The cactus wood used in Tony's lamp is found in the south western states and it is used in the building of knick knacks. It is very figurative and picturesque. Good luck on the lamp, Tony and the best of luck to the rest of the Arts and Crafts members in their projects.

GUIDE STUDENTS FOR THE RIGHT COLLEGE

During the past four years your graduating seniors have been preparing themselves to enter our society in the capacity for which each is best suited. For some, this means higher education. What is your role, as a teacher, in guiding college-caliber students in selecting the school at which they will study?

It is likely that you are doing a good job of teaching if your students come to you with questions concerning careers and colleges. If you speak encouragingly about your work and are enthusiastic about your subject matter, some of that spirit is going to "rub off" on your students. We know that a goodly number of young people are being led into the field of education, and to Stout, by such teachers.

Make every effort — once the student has a particular area of study in view, to help him in analyzing 1) his own abilities, 2) his financial condition, and 3) his personal tastes regarding the informality of a small college versus the complexities of university life. It is not fair to project your opinions upon him. Instead, help him gain an accurate picture of the demands and facilities of each school. If he asks questions be truthful, but let him make the final decision.

Such counselling will greatly assist college bound students and be a satisfying experience for you.

NOTICE

The second annual Chicago area Stout alumni picnic will be held at the Deer Grove Forest Preserve, Sunday, June 5th. It will be a family picnic, each family bringing their own food. Plan now to attend.

SCHOLARSHIPS ARE GIVEN TO SENIORS

As the time is at hand for the final selection of scholarship winners, you may wonder just how the committee decides what students should receive certain scholarships. A number of criteria are used in this selection. Minimum standards may be established, for each criterion, otherwise the criteria may be considered of equal significance.

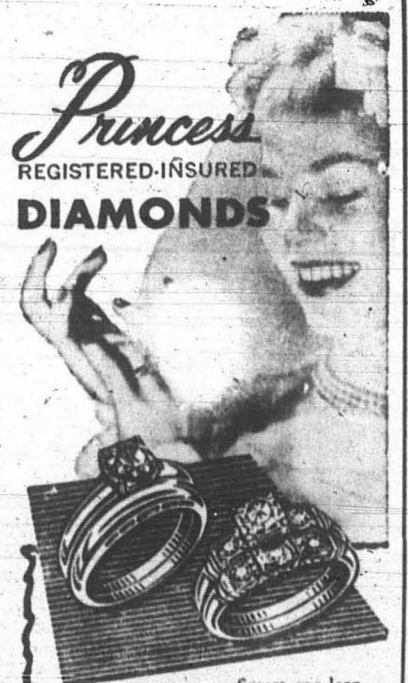

Among the criteria which will be used for the selection process are:

1. Scholastic promise - rank in high school graduating class and scores on scholastic aptitude tests are used as evidences of this criterion.
2. Financial need - is determined by the itemized yearly budget submitted by the applicant and by statements of references.
3. Vocational goal - only those who expect to major in home economics or industrial education shall be considered.
4. Character and personality - is determined by ratings contained in Application for Admission and by interviews with the applicant whenever possible.
5. Special talent - is determined by personal interview or by statements of reference.
6. Health - is determined from Health Examination form.

Scholarships are considered as a part of the total financial aids program. Therefore, the type of aid granted shall be one which will contribute maximally to the development of the particular students under consideration. The two alumni scholarship winners shall be selected from those applicants who were recommended by The Stout Institute alumni members.

He has also served as educational editor for Row, Peterson and Co.,

S. S. S. RECEIVES MANY REVIEWS FROM TOUR

The excellent "reviews" which the Symphonic Singers of Stout Institute earned during their recent ten-state concert tour and appearance before the biennial convention of the National Federated Music Clubs of America have been forwarded to Dr. Verne C. Fryklund, president of Stout.

Mrs. A. A. Mellentine, president of the Wisconsin Federation, wrote of her pride in the appearance of the Symphonic Singers and of the splendid performance which they gave before the assembled delegates at Miami. Mrs. Ronald A. Dougan, Beloit, was elected national federation president at the convention.

As assistant principal of Central high school in Cincinnati, Ruth S. Lape said:

"We would like you to know that not only did the Symphonics give one of the finest programs this year but the enthusiasm on the part of the student body for the program has not been equalled at our other assemblies. In fact, there has been the expressed desire to have the group return to us another year.

"Everyone who had contact with the students remarked what a fine group of young people they were and what a well-organized and well-managed group."

E. D. Milhon, principal of Danville, Illinois, high school, described the Symphonics program as one of the high lights of the school year:

"Not only did the Symphonics give us a nice variety of music, but they were ladies and gentlemen at all times. The program was one of which any school should be proud."

In a letter signed by Myron Clark, principal, and William Fread, music instructor of Hartford City, Indiana, high school, Stout's musical travelers received warm congratulations:

"Our students and faculty still are remarking on the fine program. The fact that your school does not have music majors and can still produce such a fine musical organization is certain evidence of the quality of work the staff and students are doing."

John H. French, superintendent of the Beecher, Illinois, community unit district, stated frankly, "We have never had a finer group of people in our building. They performed well both as musicians and representatives of your college."

At Winchester, Indiana, high school, Principal Merritt H. Beck commented that "It was one of the best programs ever presented in our school and we want to thank you for the privilege of hearing such a fine group."

"Their behavior was of the best and we certainly marveled at the fine quality of their music."

That the Symphonics scored a hit in Ohio is evident from the letter of Paul Rainey, principal of Georgetown high school:

"Our students, teachers, and a number of our patrons were delighted with the splendid concert given by your group. They made a truly fine

LETTER TO DEANS

May 7, 1955

Dear Deans,

When walking down the hall engaged in "extra curricular activities", I came upon the mail boxes that were just littered with activity control instructions. Being a student who looks in my box frequently and trying to do the right thing, I immediately read your instruction sheet. I was wide eyed and a bit shook. This must be the modern trend.

These instructions are presenting quite a problem in my case. You may ask why. Well, you see it's this way. Me and Anabell has been cortin for ni-on three years. About the only recreation me and the old gal gets is catch in a beer and neckin at the cinema. Bein like most of the gals at the Institute, my Anabell ain't too sharp and has to have me lead her around by the hand. But now that we have your "instruction sheet", I can see that "WE NEED GUIDENCE". Since Guidance is a senior course and me and the old lady won't come in contact with it for several years, I suggest more "instruction sheets" based on social and campus behavior.

Yours socially,
Me and Anabell

Evanston, Illinois, and has accepted invitations to join summer session faculties at the University of Wisconsin, Cornell University, and Colorado A and M College.

Dr. Bardwell holds the following earned degrees: A. B., University of Illinois, 1910; M. A., University of Chicago, 1922; and Ph. D., University of Wisconsin, 1939.

Special lecturers and conference leaders are included in the summer session schedule. It has been the policy of the college to secure speakers and conference leaders particularly well qualified to handle the larger problems in the special summer session courses. Special emphasis is placed upon the relationships and responsibilities which Home Economics and Industrial Education teachers must meet in the solution of these problems.

appearance and their program was just right in every respect.

"May I congratulate you, also, on the excellent deportment displayed by the members of the group during every moment they spent with us. They were most cordial and we enjoyed meeting every one of them."

The Symphonic Singers presented 20 concerts in ten states on their 4500 miles tour from April 9 until April 26. They concluded their musical performances on April 22 in Miami, Florida, as a featured attraction at the biennial convention of National Federated Music Clubs of America.

Appreciation is also deserved by all faculty members who made special arrangements to assist students in course work and especially to alumni of the college who donated so generously toward expenses of the journey.

Because of the Symphonics' trip and Miami appearance, The Stout Institute has received favorable recognition on a nation-wide basis. The contributions of the alumni were a very important factor in making possible those accomplishments.

STOUT RECEIVES MANY ART OBJECTS

The Stout Institute has recently become the recipient of a number of objects of art.

Many of the gifts are artistic reproductions from the personal library of the late Senator and Mrs. James H. Stout, for whom the college is named. Included in five volumes is the famous Vanderbilt Collection, composed of duplicate impressions, on satin, of great works of art. Several other groups of etchings, in cases, are also included.

Another portion of the Stout home library is represented in a two-volume collection of "Meisterwerke of German Art", containing exquisite etchings and engravings.

Connoisseurs of American art work of the past century will find much of interest in an "1874 Illustrated Fountain Catalog", once the property of William W. Wilson, pioneer Menomonic leader. The catalog depicts various lawn ornamentations popular on estates of that day.

Also among the gifts is a large illuminated globe of the world. This large globe, contained in an appropriate stand, has been the property of Mrs. George W. LaPointe and the late Mr. LaPointe.

STUDENTS ARE RECOGNIZED AT ASSEMBLY

Recognized at an annual Honors Day convocation at The Stout Institute were fourteen outstanding students of the college. Various Stout Institute organizations and societies presented awards to students of the college. Students were selected for leadership, character, and scholastic achievement.

The students receiving an award, together with the group presenting it, include Jermaine Folkman, Bonduel; Sigma Sigma Sigma; Richard Kado-tani, Hawaii; Delta Kappa; Charlotte Pengilly, Dodgeville, Pallas Athene; William Romoser, Fort Atkinson, Phi Omega Beta;

Barbara Ray, Poplar, Hyperian; Ann Janda, Abbotsford, Phi Upsilon Omicron; Charles Vleck, Menomonie, Epsilon Pi Tau; Gloria Voigt, Reeds-ville, Alpha Psi Omega; Judy Day, Ashland and Jo Brehm, Knapp, Diet-etic club;

Edward Prah, Madison, and Judy Day, Stout Typographical Society; Joan Marquart, Knowles, and Gordon Maves, Menomonie, Stoutonia; and Robert Triese, Oshkosh, Tower.

Gordon Maves represented the Stout Student Association at the event. The senior gift of an outside bulletin board was presented to the college by Jean Baker, Elkhorn. Marlon Scharf, Lomira, read the student tribute.

Traditional passing of the torch of learning took place between Melvin Podalski, Rochester, Minn., senior class president, and Edward Griffith, Columbus, president of the junior class.

CATS!

X-RAY UNIT WILL BE HERE FOR STUDENTS

X-rays are free to all adults. The State Board of Health x-ray unit will be on the Stout campus on Tuesday, May 31, 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. and 1:00 to 4:00 p. m., for students, and on Wednesday, June 1, 8:30 to 11:30 a. m. for employees.

Register in the lobby of the gymnasium. The unit will be located on Wilson Avenue, in front of Harvey Hall.

Tuberculosis is a contagious disease. It is contracted from someone who has had it in active form.

Early tuberculosis gives no warning. An x-ray will show it before symptoms appear.

Reports of the x-ray will be sent to the individual about four to six weeks after the x-ray is taken.

Chest x-rays show not only lung conditions, but also the size and shape of the heart.

The x-ray will take only a few minutes of your time. Only outside garments must be removed.

Promote good health in your community by having a free chest x-ray.

Remind your neighbor to have a chest x-ray. That, too, is your protection against the disease.

This is your community health program.

Because the State Board of Health is aware that there are many people with undiscovered tuberculosis, they are offering these x-rays free. Join in the campaign to fight and eradicate this disease.

Stop tuberculosis before it stops you!

"CATTY" CATS ARE STUDIED

Things are really getting "catty" these days in Miss Marshall's and Mr. Arneson's physiology classes.

The girls enrolled in physiology are being given the opportunity to practice their skill as surgeons and nurses. Their patients are cats that have been embalmed and shipped to Stout for examination and study purposes. Every two girls must work together on a cat. These cats, by the way come in various sizes and colors.

The "Kitties" must first be brushed and "stripped" of their fur coats. The coats are, however, put back on the cats after every class to prevent them from drying out. The muscles are then dissected, examined, and learned. Out of six hundred muscles, the girls consider themselves fortunate in having to know only forty-four of these muscles. Real surgery begins when the cats are opened and the organs are revealed to the glaring eyed, anxious girls. The circulation, digestion, and respiratory systems are also examined, while the audience outside the physiology door looks on observantly.

Every girl who has attended Stout will long remember her physiology course and the cats she was required to work on.
